4 Newcomers Nominated

Raymondi, Ayers Top School, Ward 6 Races

By ROBERT BOSWORTH
Political veteran Daniel Raymondi and newcomer Bruce Ayers piled up votes in Tuesday's preliminary election to easily win the top spots in the School Committee and Ward 6 City Council races respectively.

Ayers, 29, making his political debut, led incumbent Thomas Nutley, 64, who was also nominated, by a margin of 501 votes. Ayers, who carried five of the six Ward 6 precincts, polled an impressive 1,227 votes to Nutley's 726. The only precinct Nutley won was Ward 6 Precinct 1, his home precinct, by nine votes.

Former Ward 6 Councillor Joanne Condon Walsh was eliminated with a vote of 425.

As expected, turnout was heaviest in Ward 6 where 34.5 percent or 2,469 of 7,147 registered voters went to the polls. City-wide, turnout was 21.7 percent.

Raymondi, 43, in a smashing political comeback after losing the Norfolk County treasurer's office in an upset in last year's state elections, rolled up a convincing vote of 4,133 or 17 percent to lead of a field of 11 School Committee candidates.

Newcomer Linda Stice, making her first run for office, finished a strong second with 3,219 votes or 13 percent--914 behind Raymondi.

Raymondi won 18 of the city's 30 precincts while Stice took six precincts.

Incumbent Stephen Durkin, running for a third four-year term, nailed down the third of the six nominations with a vote of 2,957 or 12 percent.

Two more newcomers, Margaret "Peggy" King and JoAnn Bragg, won the fourth and fifth spots. King amassed 2,583 votes or 10 percent and Bragg polled 2,530 or 10 percent.

Incumbent Mary "Jane" Powers took the sixth and final nomination spot with a vote of 1,679 or seven percent, barely edging out newcomer Sean Barry. Barry, 26, the youngest candidate in this year's election, finished with 1,651 votes or six percent, just 28 behind Powers.

Colorful Frank Anselmo's comeback bid fell short as he polled 1,634 votes. Anselmo, who will turn 93 years old Sunday, had served 29 years on the School Committee before resigning earlier this year because of illness. He recovered and decided to attempt a comeback.

Anselmo, who began his political career at 62, was one of the oldest elective officer holders in the nation. Only one other person in Quincy's history served longer in elective office. That was Nathaniel Hunting who was a member of the School Committee for 36 years. The Nathaniel Hunting School in Houghs Neck was named after him.

The other three candidates who failed to win nominations for School Committee Tuesday were: Edward Lee, 1,456 or six percent; Toni Kabilian, 1,222 or five percent; and Michael Jovanovic, 460 votes or one percent.

Tuesday's preliminary winners will face each other in the final election Tuesday, Nov. 5. In the final election, the top three vote getters for School Committee will win a four-year term. The top vote getter in the Ward 6 council race will win a two-year term.

VOTERS IN WARD 6 Precinct 1 cast their ballots in the city's preliminary election Tuesday. Turnout in Ward 6 was 34.5 percent, or 2,469 voters out of 7,147 registered voters. City-wide, turnout was 21.7 percent.

Council Supports Red Line Noise Barrier On Newport Ave.

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The City Council voiced their support Monday night of an acoustical barrier on the MBTA's Red Line that runs along Newport Ave.

Councillor Patricia Toland, who introduced a resolution on the issue, was particularly concerned about the noise level caused by the trains that run through the area.

"It is an assault on the senses," said Toland, "and very disturbing to older people."

Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson also supported the resolution, calling it "important to the residents of the area."

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley agreed, but he added that "I will only support this if it pertains to the present line. I will make no concession of any kind to the Old Colony Rail."

Nutley is an opponent of the MBTA's proposal to restore service on the Old Colony Rail.

The three lines of the Old Colony Rail System would merge in Braintree and continue through Quincy into South Station.

Cahill Lone Dissenter Council OKs $360,000 For Fire, Police, Schools

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The City Council voted 8-1 Monday night to approve Mayor James Sheets' decision to allocate $360,000 to the city's police, fire, and school departments.

According to Executive Secretary Thomas Koch, the funding was appropriated from the city's general revenue fund for FY 92. The fund recently received a $1 million delinquent tax payment from Jordan Marsh.

Three separate votes were taken on the allocations, with each department receiving $120,000. Councillor Timothy Cahill was the only councillor who voted against each of the three allocations.

Speaking on behalf of the school department, Supt. Robert Ricci said that he would use the money to hire five "lower-scale" teachers that the department needs.

Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson praised Sheets as being "very courageous in his actions" for granting the allocations, adding "education is a primary concern." However, Cahill was adamant in his opposition.

"I'm not looking to pick a fight with the mayor," Cahill said, "but I have some problems with this. It (the mayor's decision) may seem courageous, but if a real emergency comes (in the near future), will we have the money? The economy is not getting better, and I think we're jumping the boat a little fast."

But Councillor Michael Cheney disagreed. "We're not spending wildly here. We have a $1 million buffer (in reserve) in case something goes wrong."

Koch agreed with Cahill on the economy, noting "the budget is still very tight," but he added, "It is not the mayor's intention to build up deficits; he just feels that education and public safety are the real issues here."

The money allocated to the police department will be used "on an overtime basis and for training purposes," according to Police Capt. Fred Laracy, who said that there was only $144,000 left in the department's overtime account.

Cheney supported the police allocation by saying "Society can't survive without its police department," and Kolson added "I wish it was more (money for the police), but half a loaf of bread is better than none."

When Deputy Fire Chief Thomas Gorman spoke in behalf of his department, saying that the overtime account for the fire fighters is down to $19,000 until next June, Councillor Patricia Toland said that the council "should support this (allocation) immediately."

Gorman said he runs his department most of the time "with a bare minimum" of men and equipment, except in special instances such as Hurricane Bob or holidays like the Fourth of July.

Cheney agreed, saying of all the departments in Quincy, "the fire department has really been devastated."

Council Approves $54,135 For Crane Public Library

The Finance Committee of the Quincy City Council voted unanimously Monday night to support an appropriation of $54,135 to the Thomas Crane Public Library.

City Library Director Warren Watson said there are two reasons he went to Mayor James Sheets to negotiate for the money.

"One, to help us earn direct grants of approximately $75,000 from the state; and two, to keep us eligible to apply for competitive grants," Watson said.

Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson supported the decision, saying the mayor has "made an extreme effort" to improve all areas of education. Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien also gave his approval, noting the state's policy in regards to giving out local aid is somewhat "ironic."

Watson agreed with Chretien's assessment.

"It is ironic," said Watson, "that the state entity denies local aid money, and then denies money if you can't come up with more."

Anselmo Donates $500 To City's Bicentennial Fund

The City Council accepted Monday night a donation of $500 to the city's Bicentennial Committee in the name of Frank Anselmo.

The City of Quincy will celebrate the 200th anniversary of its incorporation as a town on Feb. 22, 1992.

NET To Install Digital Call Processing Switch Sept. 28

New England Telephone will install a digital call-processing switch in Quincy during the early morning hours of Saturday, Sept. 28 that will enable the company to offer customers the latest telecommunications features available.

The digital switch will also provide faster, clearer and more reliable transmission quality.

The new switch will serve 56,000 telephone lines beginning with 328, 471, 472, 479, 770, 773, 786, 842, 847, 984 and 985. A new number, 376, will be added to accommodate growth.

With the installation of digital switches, NET is building increasing sophistication into its network, paving the way for even more advanced services in the future.

Following the installation, Quincy residential and small business customers will have the option of selecting Ringmate ring identification service, which will allow them to add up to two numbers to their existing telephone lines and distinguish the new numbers by different ring patterns.

NET will place a temporary moratorium on service order activities from Sept. 20 to Oct. 2.

NEW ENGLAND Telephone Central Office Equipment Installation Technician Barry Pond tests work being done on customers phone lines. The lines will be connected to new call-switching equipment being installed in Quincy Sept. 28.

Customers who anticipate changes during this period should call their business office (business accounts 617-380-2000, residence accounts 617-380-2600) prior to Sept. 20 in order to minimize any inconvenience and/or to discuss alternate service arrangements.

The conversion to the new switch will take place at approximately 1:30 a.m.

and will cause a momentary interruption of telephone service as the new system comes on-line.

"This temporary moratorium will allow us to concentrate on installing the new switch, a massive undertaking, and verifying that each of the 56,000 lines served is working as it should," said Carolyn McKeon, regional director of Public Affairs for NET.

Blood Drive For Shipyard Burn Victim

The MWRA and Local 5 of the Shipbuilders Union will co-sponsor a blood drive Monday, Sept. 23 from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. to help a Quincy electrician who was burned in an explosion last month at the Fore River Staging area, formerly the General Dynamics shipyard in Quincy Point.

Massachusetts General Hospital will set up a blood mobile van inside the main entrance of the Fore River Staging Area.

Blood is needed for Robert Pelletier, 27, of Sea St., who suffered burns of more than 90 percent of his body when he accidentally hit a high voltage switch gear while working on electrical equipment in the former shipyard Aug. 5.

The accident occurred when Pelletier, an electrician with MacArthur Electric, was testing switch breakers in an underground vault which open and close a dry dock.

The equipment was tested in preparation for repair work which was recently completed on the SS Wright.

Since the accident,

Pelletier has been a patient at Massachusetts General Hospital. As of Tuesday, he remained in critical condition, said Martin Bander, director of news and public affairs at MGH.

According to Bander, Pelletier has used 241 units of plasma and 55 units of whole blood since he became a patient six weeks ago. He needs more units to continue medical treatment, which include transfusions and skin grafts, "until he has a protective covering all over his body," Bander said.

"Plasma is used as a replacement because the fluid is lost because he essentially has no skin," Bander said. He said whole blood is needed because red blood cells are lost during surgery.

Bander said the hospital is appealing to all donor types. He said blood which cannot directly help Pelletier will be used on other patients.

Those who wish to donate blood must make an appointment. To make an appointment, call the Yard Rock Cafe at 472-9382, Paul Hajjar at 479-4921 or Debbie Sullivan 335-0220.

Quincy At A Crossroad

(The following was written by Quincy Sun Publisher Henry Bosworth for a recent special supplement on Quincy that appeared in Banker and Tradesman and is reprinted here)

Quincy once again finds itself at a crossroad as it moves into the 1990s and heads toward a new century. It is a city that has seen and undergone many changes in its past and, no doubt, will see many more in its future.

In the 19th century, Quincy was world-famed as the Granite City for its beautiful and plentiful dark gray granite.

It was, in fact, the city's granite industry that fathered the nation's first commercial railway here in 1826 to haul the stone three miles to the Neponset River from where it was barged to Charlestown for construction of the Bunker Hill Monument.

Quincy, in the 20th century, became known as "The Muscle in Uncle Sam's Navy Arm" for the great fighting ships — battleships, carriers, cruisers, destroyers — built at the Fore River Shipyard before and during World War II.

The shipyard, incidentally, was founded by Thomas Watson, who received that famous first telephone call from Alexander Graham Bell: "Mr. Watson, come here, I want you."

Quincy also became the retail shopping capital of the South Shore and nicknamed "Shopperstown, USA." But then came the suburban malls, which changed all that.

Gone is the granite industry. The shipbuilding industry as we once knew it is gone too, although the Fore River Shipyard is making a comeback on a much smaller scale. It has its first ship in the yard in five years on a repairs contract.

Gone, too, are the big stores that drew shoppers from far and wide and made going to Quincy both a shopping must and a social event.

And what now, as the 21st century looms just down the road a few years?

Quincy, like every other community in Massachusetts, has been caught in a tight economic squeeze and, like everyone else, is trying to ride out the financial storm.

But what better place to ride out a storm than in Quincy? The city isn't dragging anchor or sitting on its oars. People are rowing together and making headway.

City officials, business groups, and individuals have been working — separately and together — to keep Quincy healthy and to position it to take full advantage of new opportunities when the current recession is behind us.

Groups involved include the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and the Quincy Partnership with assistance from the South Shore Chamber of Commerce and others.

There are, at times differences of opinion between city officials and the business community. But the main thing is that both are working at making Quincy viable. Compromise isn't an obscene word.

Mayor James Sheets is readying a downtown Quincy plan. If it involves a lot of demolition, there's bound to be lots of opposition. But out of it could come something both sides can work and live with.

Some envision a mall on the east side of Hancock Street connecting it with the Hancock parking lot. But if a mall is to go up, something has to come down.

Some see the Quincy of tomorrow with a downtown retail area comprising specialty shops ringed with nearby office and apartment buildings providing built-in shoppers. There are such buildings now.

Mayor Sheets in his first term has beautified the downtown area with his "Cleaner, Greener Quincy" program.

Hancock Street from Granite Street north is the crown jewel with its grass-topped traffic islands, flower beds, shrubs, trees, the open space at McIntyre Mall and handsome, historical poles and street lights.

Business and private individuals so far have donated some $105,000-$2,500 for each of the 42 new lights and poles. And others are ready to donate for more of the lights that are earmarked for the retail district and other Quincy Center areas.

Granite quarrying and shipbuilding were Quincy's two biggest industries in the past. Now Mayor Sheets sees a future new biggie: tourism.

The city is rich in history but has never really fully promoted it to attract tourists.

John and John Quincy Adams, the only father-and-son presidents in the nation's history, were born and buried here. Their birthplaces stand just a few feet apart. They and their wives are entombed in historic First Parish Church.

There is also the Adams Mansion, which served as a summer White House and home to four generations of the illustrious Adams family.

John Hancock, first signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born in Quincy. The first successful iron works, granddaddy of the great steel industry and as previously noted, the first commercial railway, were also Quincy-born.

Mayor Sheets hopes to intercept the thousands of tourists who visit Boston and then head to Plymouth and/or the Cape, passing through Quincy but not stopping. He wants to get them to stop off in Quincy and visit the historic sites and he believes, leave millions of dollars at Quincy businesses.

As an extra added attraction — and lure — he is now trying to bring home the carrier USS Lexington, which was built here during World War II, and convert it into a maritime museum.

There definitely is movement here. The city has much to offer. Quincy has many things going for it including — most importantly — its reputation.

It's a clean city where the word scandal is very seldom heard.

It's a good city to live in, work in, own a business in, and visit.

And it's going to be the place to be when good times return. It is a city ready to take off again.

Opportunity will be knocking here. And the door will swing wide open.

QCBPA Networking Social Sept. 25

The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association will sponsor an "After Five Networking Social" Wednesday, Sept. 25 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at Presidents Place, 1250 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The social will be hosted by Stephen Leigh Jewellers. Admission is $5. All members and prospective members are welcome.

SARCOIDOSIS

Although sarcoidosis can involve virtually any organ of the body, it is most commonly identified in the lung. It is a unique disease, characterized by the formation of granulomas, a type of scar tissue. In sarcoidosis, the granulomas tend to replace the normal tissue of the organs in question. The cause of the disease is unknown, although it is widely believed to be due to an immune reaction to some foreign substance in a genetically predisposed patient. It affects one person in 10,000 annually, and in the U.S., nine of ten patients are black. Most cases involve either the lungs or the lymph node tissue within the chest cavity. The commonest symptoms of the disease are respiratory, namely shortness of breath on exertion with or without a cough. Many patients may have no symptoms at all, and the disease is sometimes discovered accidentally during a chest X-ray for some other reason.

P.S. Spontaneous remission occurs in the majority of patients with sarcoidosis, and especially in milder cases.

'Caps For Kids' Drive For Needy Children

Margaret Campbell of Quincy is starting a "Caps for Kids" drive for the needy children of the city.

Campbell says she got the idea while she was going to therapy on a regular basis at Brigham and Women's Hospital.

"I had nothing to do every day except look at four walls, pet the cat and crochet," she said.

At the hospital, Campbell learned that Brigham and Women's was involved in a nationwide program to make caps for underprivileged children such as those of battered women. She also found out that over 70,000 caps were made last year for the children of Boston alone.

"I thought, 'Let's start it in Quincy. There must be plenty of children in Quincy who need caps.'"

Campbell says that she has "at least 12" people who are helping her at present, and that 52 caps were made last month. Still, she hopes to get a lot more done by the first week in December, when she plans to distribute them.

"It seems to have gone over pretty good," she said, "but I want to get more people involved."

Those wishing to donate their time or materials to the "Caps for Kids" drive may call Campbell at 773-1797.

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce is the sponsor of the Business EXPO but it's a small, hard working group within the Chamber that actually plans and runs the popular event. The EXPO will be held Thursday, Oct. 10, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Lantana, Randolph. This will be the Eleventh Annual Business to Business trade show sponsored by the South Shore Chamber of Commerce's Committee For Small Business.

Quincy Community Action To Receive $20,000 Grant

Quincy Community Action Programs, Emergency Food Center will receive a $20,000 grant from Project Bread Sept. 25 to help with the center's hunger relief program.

The grant is part of a record-breaking $3.1 million being donated to more than 350 soup kitchens, food pantries and emergency feeding programs throughout the state. The grants will be awarded during a ceremony at the Boston Marriott Long Wharf Hotel.

Funds were raised through the efforts of more than 43,000 individuals who participated in the 20-mile Walk for Hunger held in May.

Mary Brelsford, director of Quincy Community

Action Programs, thanked Project Bread and the thousands of walkers who made the $20,000 grant possible.

"There are critical times for us. More and more working families come through our doors everyday who cannot make ends meet," Brelsford said.

"Thanks to all the wonderful people who supported the Walk for Hunger this year, we will receive a $20,000 grant from Project Bread which will enable us to help hundreds of individuals by providing food during their difficult times," she said.

According to Project Bread, more than a half million people in Massachusetts live at or below the poverty line with an average income of $13,400 per year for a family of four. Last year, nearly 13 million meals were served by more than 300 emergency feeding programs in the state.

IF YOU'RE TIRED OF ROLLERCOASTER HEATING PRICES, PIPE UP

The cost of natural gas remains stable without fast up, down and around price fluctuations associated with heating oil. One of the main reasons for this is the fact that almost all of our supplies come from North America, making natural gas an energy resource that we control. So if you want steady energy costs as well as a steady supply, pipe up. And switch to natural gas heat.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Many years ago a poet once wrote, "Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these, 'It might have been.'"

H.L. Mencken wrote, "I seldom if ever regret doing anything, even although I may be convinced that it was wrong. Once it is accomplished, I dismise it from my mind." He perhaps - and probably did exaggerate his thought. No one goes through life without regretting some things we said or did ... To regret is human. But a sensible momentary regret is one thing. A continuous regret is another thing. The past is gone. The future lies ahead. A ceaseless, incessant regret will cloud the future for anyone.

Regret is a vain thing. We cannot bring back lost opportunities, loved ones who have departed, fortunes which have slipped through our fingers ... Let us not waste time trying.

Yes, the future lies ahead. There is opportunity there if we will grasp it!

Historical Society, City Schools Team Up In Educational Program

For the eighth year consecutive year, the Quincy Historical Society and Quincy public schools have engaged in a cooperative educational program.

Under the program, each fourth grade class in Quincy participates in a four-day long educational experience. Students spend two days studying aspects of Quincy's history in-class; a third day touring important Quincy historical sites; and a fourth day investigating artifacts of the Quincy Historical Society.

Program funding has been reduced since its inception. At first, state funds paid for the entire program, including the salaries of a full-time museum teacher and a part-time assistant.

This year, both positions are part-time and funded by Quincy public schools and Quincy Arts Council. However, arts council funding has been cut in half for 1992 and is uncertain in the future.

Janet Meade, beginning her third year with the society, is director of education. She has extensive knowledge of colonial craft techniques and more than 25 years of teaching experience in public and private schools.

Carol Foley is the society's museum teacher. A teacher for 23 years, she is beginning her second year with the society by reintroducing the society's second grade program in Quincy's history. Although cancelled in 1989, the program is re-established on a limited basis.

Focusing on Quincy

more than 100 years ago and using genuine artifacts and costumes from this period, youngsters will compare and contrast the the past and present in a meaningful way.

Until 1984, Quincy school children were introduced to history in the fourth grade by classroom teachers. Some children received a deeper experience than others.

The school department believed a more thorough and uniform approach was needed. Officials formed a partnership with the Quincy Historical Society to provide a solution to the problem.

The fourth grade program is designed to generate interest in Quincy history and emphasizes people and events rather than the memorization of dry facts and specific dates. It allows children to view history as an ongoing story in which everyone has a part.

The experience begins in the classroom with industries such as shipbuilding, iron and glass works and granite industries. Discussion is supplemented with slides and photos of the industries and the people who worked in them.

Many children and teachers have relatives who immigrated to Quincy from other countries to work in the granite quarries, for example. Handling tools and talking about these workers helps to make history very personnel for the children.

On the second day, children visit the historical society located at the Adams Academy. The session concentrates on the city's best known citizens in a human and three dimensional way. Artifacts and photos help the children understand how people lived in Quincy's earlier days.

Time is also devoted to the Native American population that lived in Quincy.

Day three is a tour of various historic sites in Quincy. Students visit part of the Granite Railway, see remains of the irons and view or tour other sites such as Adams Mansion, Adams birthplaces, Quincy Homestead and First Parish Church.

All students are admitted free and given a guided tour at each site.

The week ends in the classroom with the children divided into three groups. Jeopardy-type game tests their memory and understanding of Quincy's history.

At the end of the last class, each child receives a certificate of participation from the historical society, complete with a gold seal.

The fourth grade program culminates with a history fair in June. All classes are invited to participate and most do. A different theme is selected each year. In 1991, the emphasis was on sharing what the children had learned with younger children and others in the community.

Some classes wrote books which were donated to their school library. Others made trivia type games or notice boards to help others gain some knowledge of Quincy's history.

IF YOU'RE CONCERNED ABOUT A CLEANER ENVIRONMENT, PIPE UP

When you heat with natural gas, we can all breathe a little easier. Because it's the cleanest fossil fuel there is, it's better for the environment. In fact, natural gas produces virtually none of the chemicals that cause smog and acid rain. So if you want to keep your home and our air cleaner, pipe up. And heat with natural gas.

Business as usual on Beacon Hill short changes senior citizens.

Anticipated Medicaid cuts will eliminate "optional services" to 100,000 senior citizens in Massachusetts. These so-called "optional services" are cost-savers and life-savers. They include wheelchairs, hearing aids, and home care nurses as well as prescription drugs.

Pass Defense Test

Quincy Hosts Marshfield Friday In Opener

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy's football team, fresh from its best season in 20 years, opens the season against Marshfield Friday at 7 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium and Quincy coach Jack Raymer expects his pass defense to be tested.

The Rams, members of the Atlantic Coast League, are led by quarterback Steve Ruisi and his twin brother, Jim, his favorite receiver.

"Ruisi is a fine quarterback," said Raymer. "Last year we managed to sack him several times but I expect he will have better protection this year. I expect them to come out throwing and we have been working hard on pass defense."

Marshfield has a game already under its belt, the Rams defeating Plymouth, 28-14, last week. The twins teamed up for one touchdown.

Last season Quincy, which finished 8-1-1 and was a close second to Weymouth in the Old Colony League, defeated Marshfield, 22-14.

"We have come along well and our number one problem at quarterback is rapidly being solved," said Raymer. "Pat Gallagher and Joe Crespi are doing a good job and improving in each scrimmage. They lack varsity experience but, with an excellent group of wide receivers, I feel they are ready to do the job."

The Presidents will open offensively with tight end Mike Kavanaugh (215), wide receivers Chris Walker (175) and Robbie Kane (160), tackles Duane Holmes (245) and Keith Norris (225), guards Steve Fernald (220) and Ally Sleiman (175), center Gary Collins (195), either Gallagher (175) or Crespi (170) at quarterback, Jason Anderson (205) at fullback and Noel DiBona (165) and Calvin White (175) tailbacks.

Dave Bogan, Mike Malvesti, Dave Cedrone, Scott MacPherson and Claircent Demesier will also see service on offense.

On defense Quincy will have Collins and Anderson ends, Norris and Cedrone tackles, Jason Eleuteri (200) and sophomore Rich Howard (175) nose guards, Kavanaugh, Bogan (185) and Sleiman linebackers and Walker, Kane, and Mark Zaborowski defensive backs.

MacPherson, DiBona, Dan Morrell and Sean McArdle will also see action on defense.

"We have looked good in all our scrimmages (Milton, Don Bosco, Newton North, Brookline and Stoughton) and I am happy with the way things have progressed," said Raymer. "Walker, Kane and MacPherson have played well as wide receivers and Kavanaugh made three nice receptions against Brookline."

"Anderson has run well as have Bogan and DiBona. I feel we are ready to go both on offense and defense. I expect trouble from Marshfield, which has a number of veterans, and it should be a good test for us."

Quincy's first Old Colony League game at Bridgewater-Raynham on Saturday, Sept. 28 also should be a good test. The teams played to a 14-14 tie last year and B-R is also loaded with returnees.

Soccer

For Quincy The Famine Is Over

The Quincy boys' soccer team ended a 44-game winless streak when it edged Don Bosco, 4-3.

The victory followed losses to Falmouth, 3-1, Barnstable, 4-1, and North Quincy, 3-2, in an intensely-fought game under the lights at Kincaide Park before a large crowd.

"It has been a long time coming and this win should give our boys added confidence the rest of the way," coach Ged Phelan said.

"They had played fine soccer in the previous three games, especially against North Quincy and it was just great to see them finally win."

Manuel Juarez scored two goals for the Presidents and Roberto Bagu and Rich Soroa once each. Eddy Pineda had two assists and Dean Morris one.

Goalkeeper Andy Smith had another fine game with 15 saves and Chris Lloyd and Morris played outstanding games.

In the North Quincy game the Presidents overcame a 2-0 deficit to tie the game at 2-2 but North scored the winning goal with 13 minutes left.

Morris scored Quincy's first goal on a penalty kick and Juarez tied it up on a 25-yard blast.

"Calvert had a fine game in goal and all the boys played inspired ball," Phelan said.

The Presidents will host Silver Lake today (Thursday) at 3:30 and will be home to Weymouth next Wednesday at 3:30.

North Edges Quincy

The North Quincy boys' soccer team, after dropping close decisions to Plymouth and Falmouth, edged Quincy, 3-2, before a large crowd under the lights at Kincaide Park.

The Quincy game lived up to the usual expectations fueled by the intense rivalry when the two schools play each other.

North took a 2-0 lead on goals by Aidan O'Donoghue and Bo Smith with assists for Paul Kearns and Kevin Murphy. Quincy came back to tie the score and North pressed the attack until, with 13 minutes left, junior defender Brian Fitzgerald rocketed home a goal from a corner kick.

Goalkeeper Adam Calvert had a strong game.

"Our corps of senior midfield players, including co-captains Mike Giese at sweeper, stoppers Chris Olsen and Kevin Murphy and center midfielder Tom Johnson were the backbone of our effort tonight," said coach Bob Dano. "Quincy played a very strong game and their defense just wouldn't break. It was a great effort on their part."

North dropped a 2-1 squeaker to Plymouth in its opener. The North goal was scored by former Plymouth resident Dan Danaise unassisted.

"Both Plymouth goals resulted from two defensive letdowns," said Dano. "In a close match like this, a single mistake can make the difference between winning and losing."

North Quincy had a goal disallowed on a disputed offside call.

Olsen, Mark Cahill and Calvert in goal had excellent games.

North lost to Falmouth, 4-2, after coming back from a 2-0 deficit to tie the score at 2-2.

Johnson scored on a penalty kick and O'Donoghue scored assisted by Murphy.

The Raiders play at Taunton today (Thursday), will be home to Silver Lake Monday at 3:30 and will be home to Bridgewater-Raynham next Wednesday at 3:30.

The tournament is co-sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department and the Granite Bank. Admission is free and bleacher seating is available.

Results of matches played to date are:

Rendle Shines

At Colgate

Holly Rendle, former North Quincy volleyball standout and a junior co-captain at Colgate University, returned to action for the Red Raiders in excellent fashion as she averaged three kills and 3.3 digs in Colgate's wins over Temple and Rutgers.

Colgate, defending Patriot League champion, avenged 1990 defeats by defeating Temple, 3-2 (7-15, 12-15, 15-10, 15-10, 15-5) and Rutgers, 3-0 (15-8, 15-5, 15-13).

Rendle, who missed most of last year with a shoulder injury, recorded 26 digs in 1990 and ranks among the conference leaders in dig average.

The flying fish, when pursued by enemies, can soar above the water from two to 15 seconds and cover distances of 45 to 200 yards.

Raiders Big And Experienced

North Faces Tough Newcomer At Acton

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy football team, hoping to improve upon last year's 4-6 record, opened its season against a tough newcomer, Acton-Boxboro, Friday at 7:15 p.m. at Acton.

A-B is coached by former Quincy High all-scholastic and head coach Bill Maver and opened its season last week with a last-second 8-6 victory over Canton. The team plays in the Dual County League.

Offensive coaches Peter Chrisom and Tom Carter are pleased with the way the offense has operated and will start with Kelleher (195), Bellott (185) and Shea (160) at end, Mark Zych (255) and scrimmages," said McPhee.

Defensively Taylor, Dave Raftery and Dave Reinhart (190) will be the ends, Zych, Kohler and Brian Raftery (245) the tackles and Prouty nose guard.

Scott Kohler (215) at tackle, Chris McCallum (195) and Dave Raftery (220) at guard and Chris Campbell (195) and Scott Prouty (200) sharing the center duties.

Kelleher, McCallum and Sinclair will be the linebackers, Bellott, Shea and Tony Licciardi (170) the cornerbacks and Willie O'Donnell (170), Brendan O'Connell (170) and Peck

"This will be a tough opener for us as Acton-Boxboro always features a strong defense and it showed against Canton," North coach Ken McPhee said. "Bill is an excellent coach and has done a fine job at Acton-Boxboro."

Most coaches feel North Quincy will be a strong contender in the Old Colony League with a big, veteran team.

"We have done well in scrimmages against Xaverian, Newton North, Milton, Marshfield and Medford," said McPhee. "Our first and second defensive teams have not been scored upon and I feel we will be very strong defensively."

"The offense has been coming along well and we will have a balanced attack doing an equal share of running and passing. Desmond Bellott is as fine a wide receiver as you will find and if the opposing teams double team him, we have other excellent receivers in Mark Kelleher and Pat Shea."

Mark Taylor (205) will start at quarterback backed up by Liam Higgins (170), who will do the team's punting and place kicking. Mark Sinclair (180) and Chris Murray (180) will be the fullbacks and Mark Cocuzzo (180) and Brendan O'Connell (170) will be the tailbacks.

Also seeing service offensively will be Chris Peck, John O'Donnell, Willie O'Donnell, Matt Walsh, and Mike Sweeney.

"Cocuzzo was one of our leading runners last year and he, Murray and Sinclair have run well in safeties.

Sean Skehan, Campbell, Peter Licciardi, Mike Linnane and Sean Moran will also see action on defense.

"I don't think we have quite reached our potential and we will get better as the season progresses, but the way we have looked in scrimmages makes me cautiously optimistic. I think we will be ready for Acton-Boxboro," McPhee concluded.

North will open its Old Colony League season Friday night, Sept. 27 against Falmouth at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Volleyball

Quincy Girls Lose First Two

Coach Tom Henderson said his Quincy girls' volleyball team would probably get off to a shaky start but improve as the season progresses.

His words proved true last week when the team lost its first two matches to Abp. Williams and Dracut.

Henderson lost several key players from last year's outstanding squad which finished 20-0 and went to the state finals before losing a hard-fought five-game match to Case for the second year in a row.

In their opener the Quincy girls lost to Williams, 2-1 (16-14, 13-15, 15-11). The lead changed hands several times in all three games.

Trailing, 13-4, in the first game, Quincy moved to within two points.

Chrissie Richmond and Elizabeth Noble sparked Quincy.

In their second match the Quincy girls bowed to Dracut, 2-0 (15-5, 15-11).

Quincy faced Brookline Tuesday, hosted Falmouth yesterday (Wednesday), will play at Weymouth Friday and at Duffee Monday and will be home to Dennis-Yarmouth Tuesday.

Parsley To Enter Bridgewater Hall Of Fame

Carolyn Parsley, a teacher at Atlantic Middle School and assistant girls' volleyball coach at North Quincy High, will be inducted into the Bridgewater State College Athletic Hall of Fame in ceremonies Oct. 4.

A graduate of Braintree High, she is the first to be named to the Hall of Fame in her first year of eligibility.

She is the all-time leading scorer for the BSC women's basketball program with 1262 points. She competed in four NCAA Div. 3 Northeast Regional championships and was named to the MASCAC All-Conference team in 1985 and 1986 and to the ECAC All-Star team in 1986.

She also made her mark in track and field, being a two-time NCAA All-American in the heptathlon (seven events). She holds the school mark in that event with 4576 points.

Youth Football Panthers Roll By Elks

Sean Joyce scored two touchdowns and added two rushing two-point conversions and teammate Chris McArdle scored a touchdown and Joe Donahue a conversion powering the Quincy Point Panthers to a 24-14 victory over the West Quincy Elks in the Quincy Youth Football opener at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Panthers scored twice in the second quarter for a 16-0 halftime advantage.

Joyce and McArdle also led the Panthers on defense in solid two-way performances as they helped hold the Elks scoreless until midway through the fourth quarter.

The Panthers extended their lead to 24-0 and, under league rules, played their junior varsity team. A few plays later Elks quarterback Mike Sheffer scored on a 60-yard run. Late in the game Sheffer scored his second touchdown as time ran out.

The Panthers will play the North Quincy Apaches Sunday night and, in the opening game, the Elks will face the Houghs Neck Manets.

Football Games On Ch. 3

Quincy Community Television Channel 3 will kick-off its coverage of Quincy High and North Quincy High School's football season Friday as the Presidents host Marshfield at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The game will be taped and aired Monday, Sept. 23 at 7 p.m. on Channel 3. The game will be replayed Tuesday, Sept. 24 at 9 a.m. and Wednesday, Sept. 25 at 1 p.m.

"The season culminates with our coverage of the big Thanksgiving Day football game between Quincy and North Quincy High School."

Mariano Says State Local Aid Cuts Must Be Stopped

Ron Mariano of Quincy, a Democratic candidate for state representative in the Third Norfolk District, says local aid disbursements to cities and towns must not be allowed to follow federal revenue sharing into extinction.

"The failed economic policies of the 1980s that emanated from Washington, fueled by the greed and high-powered self-serving lobbyists, special interest lawyers, take-over artists and the like, prevailed upon government to set a course that eliminated federal revenue sharing," Mariano said.

"This must not be repeated at the state level."

"However," Mariano continued, "a new GOP gubernatorial administration on Beacon Hill is cutting local aid to cities and towns throughout the commonwealth, despite campaign promises that stated otherwise."

"Weymouth planned on a $1.5 million cut in local aid when they established their fiscal 1992 budget in May, following guidelines set by the Weld administration. However, $2.5 million is the actual decrease in local aid to Weymouth, and this is on top of a 40 percent increase in MWRA fees."

"When will it stop? Enough is enough," Mariano said.

Eaton Explains Stand On Quality Health Care

Francis "Sandy" Eaton of Quincy, an Independent candidate for state representative for the Third Norfolk District, recently explained what he means by "access to quality, affordable health care."

"Our country does not have a health care system but a health care industry, the third largest industry in the country, dominated by the trillion dollar assets of the insurance companies," Eaton said.

"The cost of health care and health insurance to the consumer is skyrocketing, while less coverage is given in vain attempts to cut costs. Our retirees pay as much out of pocket for health care now as they did when Medicare was first passed. We can't keep going on the way we have."

"Virtually everyone is now clamoring for change," said Eaton who is a nurse at Quincy Hospital. "A number of professionals have been put forth," he said, noting one proposal submitted by Cong. Marty Russo of Illinois. "While far from perfect, it adapts the major features of the Canadian experience to U.S. reality."

"There would be no out-of-pocket payment by the consumer for services rendered. We could choose our own health care providers. Hospitals and nursing homes would be paid an annual amount, based on their performance record."

"This federal insurance would be administered on a state-by-state basis. Actual care given would be according to the professional judgement of the health care provider, not according to insurance company regulations. The consumer would cease dealing with endless forms and added expenses."

Eaton noted a report issued by the General Accounting Office which stated all American people would save $67 billion per year if "we switched now to a single-payer health insurance system such as is currently in place in Canada. This study further pointed out that the savings affected by this switch would more than pay for the extension of full coverage to all those currently uninsured and underinsured."

Eaton also pointed out that Cong. Bernie Sanders of Vermont has recently filed legislation which would enable states to develop their own single-payer models, plugging into existing federal health funding, until such time as a national system can be worked out.

"In a special town meeting this week, Weymouth must deal with these very painful realities. Is local aid going the way of federal revenue sharing?"

"The Third Norfolk District needs a representative who is sensitive to the district's needs and has a proven record of community involvement and accomplishment. One who will not give into the special interests lurking on Beacon Hill."

"I have that proven record and will serve the interests of citizens of the Third Norfolk District, and not special interest groups," Mariano said.

Rep. John McDonough of Jamaica Plain has filed the Commonwealth Family Health Plan on Beacon Hill which would establish a single-payer health system for Massachusetts. "But to date," Eaton said, "the House leadership has not allowed it out of committee."

"Whether the economy is going up, down, or sideways we cannot afford not to have such a system," Eaton said. "As a health-care provider, I will play a key role in making possible in Massachusetts access to quality, affordable health care."

McGlone Opposes State Cuts In Medicaid, Medicare

Jack McGlone of Weymouth, a Democratic candidate for state representative in the Third Norfolk District, has called upon the legislature to address several critical areas affecting senior citizens.

Anticipated cuts in the state Medicaid and Medicare budgets effective Oct. 1 will eliminate "optional services" for the Home Health Care program. The slated cut of $420 million, the state's matching fund figure, could result in a funding loss of approximately $1 billion for Massachusetts recipients.

Optional services include nursing services, physical occupational and speech services, durable medical equipment (eyeglasses, wheelchairs, prostheses and hearing aids) nursing home services and prescription drugs.

"These services are proven cost savers," McGlone said. "They directly decrease hospitalization stays, thus significantly reducing medical expenses. They allow for greater independence and address dignity issues that institutions fail to achieve."

Over two-thirds of the dollars spent on these services are paid to long-term facilities for the elderly and retarded. Elimination of their benefits will result in a substantial increase in the number of retarded individuals who will be forced to stay in state schools, at 100 percent taxpayer cost. Elderly citizens will have to rely on more expensive levels of nursing home care, which will have to be financed with tax dollars.

"This callous and short-sighted decision on Beacon Hill must be turned around. I will oppose this type of cut, a cut that will cost taxpayers millions of dollars in the next two to five years," McGlone said.

Another example of legislative neglect, he noted, is the thousands of Massachusetts residents who have lost their life savings to fast talking con-artists. According to the North American Securities Administrators Association, senior citizens are the largest target audience for these swindlers.

They pray on unsuspecting investors, stealing their life savings through insurance fraud, securities fraud, second mortgage scams and high-pressure telemarketing sales practices.

If elected, McGlone said he would propose "tough, mandatory criminal sanctions against those who purposely target senior citizens. This sort of white collar crime is an ever-growing threat, affecting tens of thousands of people in Massachusetts."

"We need someone on Beacon Hill to tackle this problem," he said, adding he would bring a "common sense approach to streamlining our health care services and an aggressive hands-on style to fight white collar financial crime."

Could Save City $250,000

City-Wide Leaf Collection Program Begins Oct. 28

The second city-wide leaf collection program will be conducted Oct. 28 through November and officials hope the recycling effort saves the city $250,000 in disposal costs.

Beginning Monday, Oct. 28, leaves will be picked up at curbside weekly for five weeks and brought to the DPW yard where they will be composed on 2.5 acres. With some watering and proper amount of heat and stirring, the leaves should turn into a rich loam that will be available next spring for the highway, parks, forestry departments and residents.

The leaf collection will be made by BFI as part of the city's recycling contract. Pickups will be at the same time the company picks up trash and recyclables in city neighborhoods each week, DPW Commissioner David Colton said.

Last year, the collection period was extended because many of the leaves did not fall until the end of November. If that occurs this year, Colton said collection would be extended again.

Colton is encouraging residents to place the leaves in barrels or paper bags so that leaves can be dumped directly into the BFI trucks and hauled to the yard. A package of five bags can be purchased at local supermarkets for $1.85.

Paper bags are taller than trash bags, can fit more leaves, have flat bottoms which makes filling easy and are fully recyclable. Unlike plastic bags, paper bags can be dumped right in with the leaves and will biodegrade along with them, Colton said.

The third, but least favored method, is bagging in plastic trash bags. Plastic bags must be shredded and removed from the leaf pile to composting.

"Paper bags really help. We will take plastic bags but paper is much better for the environment," Colton said.

The commissioner emphasized BFI will not pick up any leaves that are simply piled up on the roadside. "(Leaves) have to be put in a container of some kind in order to be picked up," Colton said.

Once the leaves have been dumped at the DPW yard, they are arranged in long, high rows 20 feet apart from each other. DPW personnel then will water the leaves, pack them

Recheck Friday School Recount In Ward 4 For Anselmo

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

A partial recount of last week's school committee preliminary election results will be held Friday at 9:30 a.m. in the second floor conference room of City Hall annex.

Results from Ward 4 will be recounted by hand by regular election workers under the direction of the Board of Registrars. The registrars are John Papile, Louise Randall, Denis Tardo and City Clerk John Gillis who is the board chairman. The recount is expected to be completed in three to four hours, Asst. City Clerk Joseph Shea said.

Frank Anselmo, who finished eighth in last week's preliminary election, filed papers for the recount just minutes before the 5 p.m. deadline Monday.

Anselmo had sought a total recount of the city's six wards. However, Gillis ruled that only a recount in Ward 4 would be held after inspecting the papers.

He informed Anselmo that the notarization certificate in only the Ward 4 papers was signed. The certificate for the papers in the other five wards were not signed.

In order to file for a recount in Quincy, a petitioner must collect at least 10 signatures for each ward that a recount is requested. In addition, one of the signers from each ward of which a recount is requested "must swear to this petition before a notary public or justice of the peace" by signing the paper.

The Ward 4 notarization certificate was signed by Charles Sweeney.

Anselmo collected 15 signatures in Ward 4, of which 13 were certified by Shea. Signatures on the other papers were not certified because the notarization certificates were unsigned.

Anselmo, who celebrated his 93rd birthday Sunday,

North Quincy Bar License Revoked

By STEVE KAVANAGH
The Sagamore Inn's license has been revoked by a unanimous vote (5-0) of the City License Board.

The troubled North Quincy bar located at 78 Sagamore St., across from Welcome Young playground, had its license rescinded because of alleged drug dealing on the premises.

License Board Chairman John Gillis said it was the first time in about 15 years a bar's license has been revoked in Quincy.

Michael Dormady, co-owner of the bar, and his attorney Neal Brown indicated they will appeal the board's decision to the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission. If the ABCC upholds Quincy's ruling the bar owners could appeal in court.

Because of the appeal process the bar will be able to continue to operate despite the license revocation.

"On behalf of the people of the neighborhood I'm very happy the board had the courage to look at these issues and vote to close it.

"I think the neighbors will be ecstatic that the first step has been taken to remove an undesirable element from the area," said Ward 6 City Councilor Thomas Nutley.

Quincy Police arrested a Quincy man July 19 in the bar and charged him with possession of cocaine. Another incident occurred July 24 when a fight at the bar escalated into a shooting outside the Sagamore Inn.

A patron of the bar, Thomas Dillon, was shot in an alleged dispute over $40 owed for drugs. Two men have been arrested in connection with the incident while the gunman remains at large.

Quincy Police Det. Richard Savard told the board that one of the men arrested, Tony McDermott, told police the three men went to the Sagamore Inn to collect between $1,200 and $1,500 owed to them for drugs by bartender

$1.1 Million Quincy Point Water Main Project Starts

A $1.1 million water main construction project in Quincy Point began Monday at the intersection of Washington and Elm St.

Work will proceed southerly to South St. The project will also include construction on Quincy Ave from Southern Artery to East Howard St., and from the vicinity of No. 324 Quincy Ave. to Faxon Rd.

Working hours will be from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The project is expected to be completed next January.

According to Council President Ted DeCristofaro who represents Ward 2, the purpose of the project is to increase the capacity of the current water system, by replacing the existing eight-inch water mains with new 12-inch water mains.

Traffic on both Quincy Ave. and Washington St. will be maintained under an approved plan which would reduce the number of functional traffic lanes without totally closing the roads to vehicular traffic.

Approximately 6,200 feet of water mains will be installed along Washington St. from Elm St. to South St.

Another 3,000 feet of mains will be installed along Quincy Ave. from Faxon Park Rd. and Howard St.

The project is jointly funded by the city of Quincy and the state Department of Environmental Protection, Bureau of Municipal Facilities.

The project was advertised and MPF Corporation based in Wrentham submitted the lowest bid at $1,111,360. The next lowest bids were submitted by Silva Construction Co. Inc. at $1,148,733 and Fiore Construction Co., Inc. at $1,170,683.

MPF Corp. has set up a field office and staging area on East Howard St.

Mariano Urges Voters To Take Active Interest In Special Primary Oct. 15

Ron Mariano of Quincy, a Democratic candidate for state representative in the Third Norfolk District, urges voters to take an active interest in the upcoming Oct. 15 special primary election and says attempts to label him as a "political insider" are absurd and an affront to the voters.

"If being a political insider means being involved in my community, volunteering my time to work with children and senior citizens, and speaking out on the important issues which affect working men and women and our environment, then I plead guilty," Mariano said.

"I'm encouraging the voters to take a hard look at the candidates and look beyond the rhetoric. Check out our backgrounds, look at our records of public service and ask hard questions. Don't be satisfied with empty answers.

"The Third Norfolk District deserves to know where we stand and what we have done for this area, as well as what we plan to do it elected as your state representative."

If elected, Mariano said, "I will devote the same energy and commitment as I have to serving the citizens of this area in the past. My candidacy should be judged on what I have accomplished, not just what I promise to do when elected.

"I started a youth basketball league at no cost to the taxpayers when it was eliminated from our middle schools because of budget cuts; I have been active in our community and have been an outspoken critic of Clean Harbors and the sludge treatment plant.

"I have expressed concerns regarding Weymouth's water situation which were recently affirmed by the state. I have taken a position on issues which impact the entire district and I have stood firm on matters of importance to the Third Norfolk District," Mariano said.

Noting he is past president and current director of the Ward II Civic Association and former chairman of the Ward II Democratic Committee, Mariano said, "I have not stood on the sidelines. I am active, I am involved and I have a proven record on which I stand.

"Ask yourself who has been involved and who has been working in the trenches for years, and not just at election time. Who has a record on which they can be judged.

"And then, after you've decided, be sure to exercise your right to vote on Oct. 15. Together we can take back state government from the special interests," he added.

License Board Briefs

The Quincy License Board took the following action at its meeting Tuesday:

• Postponed, for one week, a hearing regarding the Chantey, 333 Victory Road, (Frank Glynn), for permission to change the occupancy capacity.

• Granted a request from The Old Railroad Cafe, 273 Willard St., (Antonios Katsakis) for permission for a change of managers.

• Granted a request from St. Mary's Church for a One-day All Alcoholic license for the St. Mary's Parish Social Oct. 5.

• Reprimanded, with a written warning, Brannigan's, 226 Water St., (Mark DiBona and Edward Maloney) for violation of liquor serving laws.

Michael Dormady, brother of the owner.

Brown asked the board to disregard any statements by McDermott since he lied to police regarding the incident.

A letter from the License Board, dated Aug. 9, was delivered to the Sagamore Inn notifying the owners that a hearing would be held Sept. 3 to show cause why the license should not be suspended or revoked for allowing illegal drug activity on the premises.

Det. Sgt. Richard Laracy, the city's liquor inspector, told the board that on Aug. 23, 31 and Sept. 11 an undercover informant made controlled drug buys at the Sagamore Inn. Laracy said that on Aug. 23 and 31 the informant was directed to a drug dealer by the bartender, James Kinealley.

Brown told the board that Michael Dormady had no knowledge of drug dealing at the bar and that he fired Kinealley and barred patrons associated with drug dealing upon learning of the allegations.

Laracy told the board that he has seen the man arrested July 19 back in the bar since and Savard told the board he seen the same man at the Sagamore Inn "many nights" since.

Savard also said that between July 12 and 17 Thomas Dormady directed an undercover informant, asking for drugs, to the man arrested July 19 at the bar.

"I don't believe they (police) made the drug buys," Brown said following the hearing. "Why were no arrests made."

Brown said he was not surprised by the vote of the License Board and said the decision will be appealed as soon as possible to the ABCC.

Nutley, who has been sued by the bar owners, read excerpts of letters from neighbors in favor of revoking the license. He also reprimanded the bar owners.

"The owner has a strong obligation to know what's going on in the establishment," Nutley said.

Councillor-at-Large Michael Cheney submitted a letter to the board supporting Nutley's position and confirming what Nutley also told the board, that residents expressed fear in coming before the board to testify against the bar.

Bleachers To Be Installed Next Month

$9,000 Raised For New Aluminum Seats At Veterans Stadium

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

If you're interested in buying an aluminum seat or an entire row at Veterans' Memorial Stadium, there are still plenty of good ones available.

A group of city officials, community leaders and active citizens have formed a group called the Veterans Memorial Stadium Seating Committee which is raising money from private donations to cover the cost of new seats for both the home and visitors' side.

The city recently appropriated $88,500 to pay for installing the new aluminum bleachers. The seating committee will repay the city with the money it raises.

As of Tuesday, nearly $9,000 had been raised, according to Thomas Koch, executive secretary for Mayor James Sheets. To date, 24 rows have been sold and another 15 rows have been committed, meaning funding for about 12 percent of the new seats has been raised.

In all, there are 323 rows of bleachers totaling 6,000 seats, Koch said.

The new seats are expected to be installed by mid-October, Sheets said.

Anyone who would like to purchase a single seat for $25 or a row of 18 seats for $300 can contact School Committeeman Frank Santoro, 80 Haviland St., Quincy, MA 02170, or Recreation Director Barry Welch at the Quincy Recreation Department, 100 Southern Artery, Quincy, MA 02169.

The Quincy Schools Athletic Contribution Committee, a non-profit organization, is the vehicle being used to raise the funds. Contributions, which are tax-deductible, should be made out to this committee.

Nameplates will be affixed to the ends of the rows designating the donors. Koch said the first phase of plaques will be installed in time for the traditional Thanksgiving Game between North Quincy and Quincy High Schools.

With the holiday season just around the corner, Koch noted the seats and rows make appropriate gifts for North Quincy and Quincy High alumni. He said the fundraising effort will continue until all of the seats are purchased.

Groups and individuals which have already purchased rows are:

Don P. Uvanitte, the Leone family in memory of Carl Leone; Arthur F. Good (Boston Advisory Group); El Barrett Co., Joseph P. Barrett, Bryant Carter, Audrey Jerick in memory of J. Gerald Welch, South Quincy Social Club in memory of deceased members; Wollaston Credit Union (two rows); Councillor Ted DeCristofaro; Rosario Santoro, Sinclair family (in support of Yakoo); Quincy United Club.

Also, Elizabeth J. Curtis in memory of David L. Curtis, Quincy High School Class of 1935 (two rows); Mary C. Sullivan in memory of John J. Sullivan; Kathleen Kiley, Quincy Youth Football, North Quincy High Class of 1981 and Mayor Sheets.

Those purchasing seats are:

The wooden benches at the stadium, which was built in 1936-37, were removed earlier this year. Until the new aluminum seats are installed next month, spectators at the schoolboy football games can bring their own chairs.

Starting Our 24th Year

The Quincy Sun begins its 24th year with this week's issue.

That moves us close to the quarter-century mark. A little unbelievable -- the time has sped by so fast. We have had some fun. And some hard work to go with it. It isn't easy when you're the little guy in town.

We've gotten to know a lot of nice people. Our faithful readers and advertisers. We've watched our young newscasters grow up, go to college, get married, become parents. And we've seen them go off to war.

Where did those years go? Whoosh! Suddenly it isn't 1968 anymore, but 1991.

The Sun was established in September, 1968 as Quincy's own weekly community newspaper. Focusing on Quincy news, features, sports, church, social and civic events.

We have spoken out editorially when needed. We have tried to fairly present both sides of issues affecting the community. We have tried to keep our news reporting accurate because "Today's Quincy Sun, Is Tomorrow's Quincy History." And keeping it straight is very important -- to you and to us.

The Sun's sister publication is The Hingham Journal, purchased in 1980. The Journal, dating back to 1827 when John Quincy Adams was president, is one of the oldest newspapers in the country.

Both The Sun and The Journal have won a number of awards for editorials, photos, special articles and supplements in New England Press Association and Massachusetts Press Association.

tion Competition.

In addition, The Sun has been designated a National Blue Ribbon Newspaper by the National Newspaper Foundation in Washington, D.C.

We at The Sun look forward to our 24th year and then, to our Silver Anniversary soon coming up.

Times are rather tough these days for newspapers as they are for many businesses and many people.

But we are optimistic as we begin this 24th year that the economy will turn around and things will be a lot better for everyone.

We have had to tighten our belt because advertising is off as it is at all newspapers.

One of the casualties of our forced tight space situation was our comic page and horoscope features. Readers have let us know that they miss it. But it came down to a choice of using that page for comics or for news of the community. The latter won out because our role is that of a community newspaper. Community news has the space priority. We hope to soon restore the comic page when space opens up. And we appreciate the patience of those readers who have called or written to ask about the comics and some of the other features.

As we look ahead, we want to again thank our loyal readers -- many of whom started with us with the very first issue 23 years ago -- our advertisers who make it all possible and our young newscasters who play a major role in seeing that The Sun gets to your home.

Thank you all, most sincerely.

Nutley, Powers Must Work

Ward 6 Councillor Tom Nutley and School Committeewoman Mary Jane Powers have their work cut out for them to turn things around between now and the Nov. 5 final city election.

And School Committeeman Steve Durkin has little room for relaxation with Dan Raymondi and Linda Stice in front of him and Margaret "Peggy" King and Jo Ann Bragg fairly close behind him.

Those are jump-out-at-you conclusions looking over the results of last week's preliminary election.

Nutley, it would appear, has the toughest task in a one-on-one fight. "Mission Impossible," some observers think. Not really, say others. In politics, nothing is ever positively impossible. The preliminary is one ball game. The final is the World Series.

But there's no denying that Bruce Ayers, making his first run for public office at age 29, rolled to a stunning victory in Ward 6, topping incumbent Nutley and former incumbent Joanne Condon Walsh by wide margins.

AYERS

Nutley was hurt by the candidacy of Condon Walsh, a one-time political ally. She pulled votes away from him. (And, he from her).

But even if she wasn't in the race and everyone who voted for her voted for Nutley instead, Ayers would have still topped Nutley by 76 votes.

Now that Condon Walsh is out of it, where will her votes go in the final election?

"I know where mine is going," she says. "It's going to Bruce Ayers and so is my support. I ran against the incumbent. I'm not now going to vote for the incumbent."

Condon Walsh says she believes most of her votes will follow her into the Ayers camp.

She also confides that if she had been sure Ayers was going to run for the Ward 6 seat, she might not have.

"I just thought it was time for a change and for the incumbent to be challenged," she says. "I wasn't sure anyone else would challenge, so I did."

RAYMONDI

STICE

Raymondi, the political veteran, and Stice, a political novice, were the big winners in an 11-candidate field School Committee race for the six nominations.

Raymondi, bouncing back from defeat, when he lost the Norfolk County treasurer's office in last year's state election, was the top vote-getter with a whopping 4,133.

Stice was the big surprise, nailing down the second spot with an impressive 3,219 votes -- 914 behind Raymondi but 262 votes in front of incumbent Durkin who polled 2,957.

NUTLEY

Newcomers King (2,583) and Bragg (2530) finished fourth and fifth, trailing Durkin by 374 and 427 votes respectively.

KING

With Raymondi and Stice in front of him and King and Bragg fairly close behind him, Durkin can't afford to relax between now and Nov. 5.

But Durkin is in a far better position than fellow incumbent Powers who barely finished in the money.

DURKIN

Powers won the sixth nomination, edging 26-year old newcomer Sean Barry by only 28 votes. With a vote of 1,679, she trailed Raymondi by 2,454; Stice by 1,540; Durkin by 1,278; King by 904 and Bragg by 851.

If figures don't lie, Powers has a road full of potholes ahead of her as she heads for November. Right now, a little political miracle would help.

WAS THE PRAYER issue a factor in last week's School Committee results? Hard to say.

Steve Durkin and Mary Jane Powers, who both voted against prayers at the high school graduations this year because of a Rhode Island court case, finished third and sixth in the 11-candidate field.

If they had voted for the prayers, would they have finished higher. Again, hard to say.

Especially when Frank Anselmo, who made prayer his major campaign issue, failed to win a nomination, placing eighth. It was a respectable eighth, though, only 45 votes behind Powers.

The prayer issue -- if it is really there -- may be easier to get a handle on in the final election with only six candidates in the field.

Anselmo, who had served 29 years on the School Committee had hoped for a nomination for his 93rd birthday in his comeback bid. But it wasn't to be.

He's going to be missed whether you voted for him or didn't down through the years. He was colorful, to say the least. And, there isn't much color these days in Quincy's political picture.

WHEN FORMER MAYOR-Councillor Joseph LaRaia got into this year's City Council at-large race, observers wondered whether he would actively campaign or rest on his name recognition.

Well, he apparently is making a serious comeback bid. At least it appeared so at last week's preliminary election.

Even though his name wasn't on that ballot because there was no preliminary council at-large race, LaRaia workers were out in front of the polling places carrying LaRaia signs.

LaRaia, incidentally, has a campaign fundraiser set for Thursday, Oct. 10, 5 to 7 p.m. at Walsh's Restaurant, Billings Rd., North Quincy. Tickets $25.

BARRY

Barry came that close to taking the sixth nomination away from incumbent Mary Jane Powers.

We think you'll be hearing from him again.

Registry To Issue 5-Year Licenses Beginning Nov. 1

The Massachusetts Registry of Motor Vehicles will begin issuing five-year new and renewal licenses Nov. 1.

According to Registrar of Motor Vehicles Jerold A. Gnazzo, the new policy of extending driver's licenses from four to five years will dramatically reduce the number of people going to the Registry to renew their licenses. "With the extension of licenses from four years to five years we anticipate 200,000 or more fewer people going to Registry offices which should result in shorter lines at the Registry counters."

Massachusetts is not alone in extending new and renewal licenses for five years. At the present, seven states have begun to issue five-year licenses. It is expected more states will also switch from four to five years.

The annual fees will remain unchanged. For example, the automobile driver's license fee for four years is $35.00 or $8.75 per year. The addition of one year will be $8.75.

Leaf Collection Starts Oct. 28

down, and turn them when the temperature of the leaves has stayed high enough and long enough for them to biodegrade.

Last year, about 2,000 tons of leaves were collected in Quincy, saving the city approximately $170,000 in disposal costs. This fall, Colton said he hopes 3,000 leaves are collected. If that mark is reached, the city would save $250,000.

"This year, we're going to do a little more advertising and try to get participation up. We think and hope we can do 3,000 tons," Colton said.

Last year's leaf collection yielded 5,000 cubic yards of compost. Colton said the "stockpiled" compost will help cap the closed West Quincy landfill, which will save the city more money.

Material dredged from the Town River flood control project is being used to cover the landfill. The compost will cover the dredge material at the landfill which was ordered closed several years ago.

Depending on how much compost is used for the landfill, Colton said he hopes residents will be able to use some of the material made this year next spring. "I'm not sure if we'll need all of it or just a portion of it (for the landfill)."

Some residents have inquired about getting loam this fall. Noting the compost is more useful during the spring, the commissioner added, "I think it would be more helpful if we held it until the spring."

Members of the Recycling Committee Task Force will distribute flyers highlighting recycling and leaf composting information prior to the start of the leaf collection Monday, Oct. 28.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Post-Donahue Era Opens In N.Q. Football

A new era of North Quincy High School football opened with a 6-0 victory over Stoughton as Carl Leone took over the coaching reins from Jack Donahue, the only coach the Raiders ever had.

Donahue had held the coaching post through 29 seasons, starting with North's first softball team in 1932.

Sept. 25-Oct. 1

End Bill Curran caught an 11-yard pass from Paul Gearin for the long touchdown that made Leone's debut a winning one in the game at Stoughton.

ANDERSON TO SUE

City Councillor Carl W. Anderson said he plans to bring a libel suit against George A. Yarrington, executive director of the Quincy Taxpayers Association, "in the amount of 30 cents, which is his net worth."

"If Councillor Carl W. Anderson goes to court with me, he'll be sorry," said Yarrington. "It will be the end of his political career."

Anderson did not explain how Yarrington libeled him.

School Recount In Ward 4

finished eighth in last week's preliminary election. The top six winners are running for three seats which voters will fill in the final election Tuesday, Nov. 5.

Anselmo finished with 1,634 votes. Ahead of him were Mary Jane Powers with 1679 and Sean Barry with 1651. Powers received the sixth and final spot.

To claim the sixth spot in the final election, Anselmo would have to leap frog over Powers and Barry. That occurrence appears unlikely since only one ward will be recounted. Moreover, turnout was extremely low in Ward 4. Only 954 ballots were cast in Ward 4 or 13 percent, the lowest of the city's six wards.

In Ward 4, Anselmo did fairly well, finishing in sixth place with 179 votes. Ahead of him were Daniel Raymondi with 453; Toni Kabilian, 286; Linda Stice, 268; Margaret "Peggy" King, 240; and Stephen Durkin, 232.

Behind Anselmo were

Sean Barry with 174; JoAnn Bragg, 170; Powers, 136; Edward Lee, 126; and Michael Jovanovic, 64.

Raymondi, Stice, Durkin, King, Bragg and Powers all advanced to the final election. Barry, Anselmo, Lee, Kabilian and Jovanovic failed to make the cut.

The recount will cost the city approximately $1,000, including set-up costs and personnel.

Anselmo said he filed for the recount because "a lot of people" requested he do so. Whatever the outcome Friday, he said he "wins."

"I pray to God that in the one ward that I may come up with the votes that I made. Win or lose, I win.

"If I win to get into the final, then I will fight. If I don't make it, I win my time, my liberty, my piece of mind and I can spend the thousands of dollars that I would be spending for the final to enjoy myself.

"I've spent a few thousand dollars for the primary, I would spend as much for the final but regardless of the outcome, they'll have to go some to beat the record of 29 years and all the things that I have done plus the scholarship that I have established."

Higher Order Thinking Skills Training At Point Webster School

This week Point Webster School is the site for training of teachers in the greater Boston area in a unique program which encourages students to increase their use of Higher Order Thinking Skills (H.O.T.S.).

Six teachers are being trained by Bon Tucker of the Chapter I Computer Center, in the techniques of combining computers and sophisticated conversation to produce gains in basic skills, and thinking and social interaction skills.

Point Webster and Sterling Middle School initiated the H.O.T.S. program last year with Chapter I students who later showed significant gains in both reading and mathematics. This year, H.O.T.S. instruction will continue at Point Webster and Sterling and a first year program will begin at Lincoln Hancock School.

H.O.T.S. was selected as an exemplary Chapter I project by the U.S.

Department of Education because students' basic skills gains exceeded the national average after exposure to the training.

Phillip Connolly, principal of Point Webster School, said, "We are pleased to host the H.O.T.S. training at Point Webster School because we know that the program teaches students to develop their thinking skills while it increases their confidence in their ability to perform in school."

McGlone Supports Extending Unemployment Benefits

At a recent coffee hour, Jack McGlone of Weymouth, a Democratic candidate for state representative in the Third Norfolk District, expressed his support for extending unemployment benefits.

Speaking at the home of Janet and Flavio Durante, McGlone said, "I support efforts to extend unemployment benefits.

Americans need more money spent domestically to revitalize our economy, instead of spending money on the rest of world's problems.

"We must put Americans back to work if we are going to compete in the world market," he said.

McGlone also criticized the state's recent actions on local aid and the water tax.

"We must return the current state surplus to the cities and towns, for our schools, police and firefighters.

"We must also reverse the hidden state water tax recently passed on a voice vote on Beacon Hill."

He pointed out this is the first time he has run for office. "I am not a politician. I will fight to bring change up on Beacon Hill."

The Stonecutter

A Work by Nikki Hu and Guy Van Duser

A Tale Retold Through Music And Dance

by Diana Weiner

Combine 110 eager and talented second and fifth graders, six dedicated, hard-working teachers, many supportive and artistic Bernazzani parents, one cooperative principal, one extremely gifted artist-in-residence, and one award-winning musician to produce a new and creative dance version of the folktale, "The Stonecutter."

Through these collaborative efforts, the production of "The Stonecutter" was created and performed by the second and fifth grade students of the Charles A. Bernazzani school under the direction of artist-in-residence, Nikki Hu with an original score by Guy Van Duser.

This project was part of the school's on-going Theatre Arts Program begun in 1986 by teachers Susan Farrell and Nancy Hebert. It was funded by grants obtained from the Quincy Public Schools Arts Council, the Cultural Education Collaborative, the Bernazzani P. T. C. and private donations. A unique feature of this program was the collaborative interaction that took place between the fifth and second grade classes throughout this project. This year children from the classes of Hebert and Susan Farrell, Jane Farrell-Smith, Diana Weiner, and Sharon Salloway/Caroline Thom performed.

The children read several versions of the folktale as it's told around the world. Many wrote and illustrated their own books retelling the tale, while others collaboratively created paintings, murals, scrolls, and poetry. The 110 students then performed this new work choreographed by Nikki Hu with an original score by Guy Van Duser for three performances held at North Quincy High School in May.

Nikki Hu is noted for the dances she creates with children. This year she has worked on "The Stonecutter" in many different schools, each group of children adding to the choreography and influencing its development. Guy Van Duser's music was responsive to this process and evolved along with it. This production was a culmination which incorporated the ideas and insights of the many children who have worked with the artists on this story.

SECOND AND FIFTH grade students appeared together as "The Weather" and "The Mountain" in a rehearsal of "The Stonecutter."

An Interview With Nikki Hu

by Erin Barry - Grade 6

Q. Did you perform or take dancing lessons as a child?
A. Yes, I did. Dancing was the first thing I ever did. I even took ballet lessons before I went to preschool. I performed a great deal as a child.

Q. What made you go into the performing arts?
A. I didn't think consciously that I was going to go into performing arts and I didn't make a choice right away. When I grew up, I studied hard and I played the piano. When I went to college, I had to fulfill physical education credits and so I took dance credits. It was at this time that I realized how much I loved doing this.

Q. Have you ever choreographed any professional dances, films, or movies?
A. No, not specifically. However, some of the pieces that I have choreographed have resulted in being filmed.

Q. Do you prefer working with adults or children?
A. That's a very good question. Well, I would say I prefer working with children. I think that children learn very quickly and they are always very consistent. You can count on them while you can't always get that consistency from adults.

Q. How do you choose your topics to work with?

An Interview With Guy Van Dusen

by Jill O'Connell - Grade 6

Q. What is your primary role - composing, performing, or a combination of both?

A. My primary job is composing, but I like to perform in shows like "The Stonecutter."

Q. How did you get your job from Channel 2?

A. I filled out a resume and waited a couple of months. Then, they called me to do the music for Nova. They liked what I did, so they kept on calling me.

Q. What kind of music do you think is the most popular - jazz, rock, classical, etc. ...?

A. The most popular music that sells is probably rock and roll, but classical music is very popular to listen to because it has been around the longest.

Q. What is your favorite instrument to play and/or listen to?

A. I enjoy playing the guitar the most and to listen to someone singing.

Q. What is your specialty instrument?

A. My specialty instrument is the guitar. Although I play twelve different instruments, the guitar is the one I'm best at and the one I started out with.

Q. What inspires you to write your music?

A. Commercial music is inspired by whatever the picture is, and Nikki's music sometimes comes from the movements she does, but it is mostly by the idea.

Q. Do you teach children instruments?

A. Yes, I have. I don't have any children as students now, but I have in the past.

Q. Have you won any

A. Yes, I have. I have won two awards from the state of Vermont for public service and I received special recognition from the Governor of Vermont. A documentary film I did about Hiroshima was nominated for an Academy Award in 1988 in Hollywood. I received a Silver and Blue ribbon award for National Science shows. Both were given in New York City. I also have permanent pieces in the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C.

Q. What do you like best about your job?

A. I like playing music and seeing people's reactions to my music. That is my reward!

An Interview with Nikki Hu

A. Sometimes the schools tell me what they'd like me to do and other times I make suggestions for pieces to be performed.

Q. Why did you decide to do "The Stonecutter"?

A. One reason is that several of the scenes have to have many dancers in them. The folktale lent itself to having many performers in it and offered a lot of variety.

Q. Was dancing your major in college?

A. No it wasn't. I have a degree in business.

Q. Is it difficult to choose who will be in the leading role as the stonecutter?

A. Yes. It's very difficult to select someone because there were so many good students from which to choose.

Retelling A Tale

4 Student versions of "The Stonecutter"

"The Stonecutter #1"
by Keith Austin
Grade 2

There once was a stonecutter who climbed a mountain. He wished to be an eagle soaring over all the land. The next day he woke up and he looked at his arms. They had feathers. He flapped his wings and rose high off the ground. He started to soar through the air until the wind smashed him into an oak tree. Then, he wished to be the wind. Again his wish was granted. He blew everywhere. He blew trees and houses up in the air. He became a tornado.

Then, the next day he woke up and felt dizzy because his body was going around in circles. Soon, he came to a mountain. He tried to suck up the mountain, but it stood there. Then, he wished to be the powerful mountain because it was too powerful to move. His wish was granted. He became the mighty tall mountain. Day after day, he stood and stood. He was bored. Three days past. The sun was shining over him. The sun's rays were very hot. He decided that he wanted to be the sun. The next day he made it a hot, hot summer. He thought he was so great because he was burning so brightly. Soon he was bored changing into different things. He wished to be the stonecutter again. He wished to the mountain spirit. To his surprise, his wish was granted. In the morning he cut stones again. Then, he thought, "There's nothing better than being yourself!"

by Maryland Rugg
Grade 5

Once there was a Stonecutter. He lived in a small hut off the riverbank. Every morning he trudged up the worn dirt path on the side of the Mountain. The Stonecutter did so through rain, snow, sleet, and sun. He sold the stone to many wealthy people.

Many people boasted of becoming rich from the Spirit who owned the Mountain, but the Stonecutter never believed it. One day, he was chipping away at a block and he heard a voice. It said, "I am the Spirit who owns the Mountain. I could give you great wealth."

The Stonecutter still did not believe it was the Spirit of the Mountain so he replied, "No, I'm happy with what I have. All I wish to do is live in my hut and cut stone."

It was true. The Stonecutter was happy.

Well, until he ended up taking his stone to the market. In the market, he saw rich merchants with glorious pet parrots.

After he sold the stone, he ran to the Mountain. Even though he disbelieved, he yelled, "Great Spirit, please, I would be very thankful if I was a rich merchant."

The Spirit replied, "Your wish is granted."

The Stonecutter still did not believe until he glanced down at his clothes. He was dressed in fine silk from head to toe. With a smile, he took a few steps down the Mountain and then he heard a noise. He turned around. To his surprise, it was his horse. The Stonecutter had never ridden before, but he did not hesitate. He mounted the horse and rode down. When he arrived at his hut, it was not a hut. It was a rather large house! It was furnished very well. The Stonecutter had a pet parrot too. His old life was soon forgotten in the splendor of his new life.

Every morning, he rode off to the market and sold his merchandise. The Stonecutter was happy. He did not know anyone richer than he.

One day, he was off to the market and he heard drums roll. People bowed at the sight of the Prince. The Prince was in a carriage pulled by fine horses led by servants. The Stonecutter did not bow because he was very jealous. He noticed that the Prince had on finer silk than he.

As soon as the parade passed by, the Stonecutter ran to the Mountain in a rage! Now, he believed. He yelled, "Spirit! Spirit! Are you there?"

The Spirit replied in a mellow voice, "Yes, I'm here."

"Good!" said the Stonecutter. "I would only be happy if I could become a Prince."

granted," the Spirit answered.

Now the Stonecutter was a Prince. He had many servants. The Stonecutter went on picnics daily. He ate as much as an army could. He loved to order his servants. He thought it was fun. After eating and ordering, he soon fell asleep. He woke up with a very bad sunburn. The Stonecutter ordered the Sun to stop, but it wouldn't. He told the servants to take him to the Mountain. They did so.

He yelled, "Spirit, the Sun is stronger than I!" The Spirit answered, "I know you want to be the Sun. Okay, you can."

Now, the Stonecutter spent his days burning everything and anything. He burned crops, grass, flowers, and the faces and backs of people. He had fun! Water evaporated and trees died. The Stonecutter had the most power, until a big cloud floated in front of him. The cloud blocked his strong rays. He was angry! "Oh no!" he yelled, "Something is stronger than I." The Stonecutter slowly floated over the Mountain. "Please, Great Spirit, turn me into a cloud."

"Your wish is granted," the Spirit replied. Before he knew it, he was drifting around with the wind and blocking the Sun's rays. Rain poured, and he flooded villages. He was happy and satisfied. He moved from place to place.

The Stonecutter thought he had the most power until, W-H-O-O-S-H, he was blown to pieces by the wind! He quickly yelled to the Spirit, "Please turn me into the strongest thing of all, the Wind!" Without a word, the Spirit turned him into the Wind.

The Stonecutter was happy. He destroyed everything around him. He especially loved tearing apart clouds. He noticed everything would move easily until he came across the Mountain. The Stonecutter blew and blew. The Mountain wouldn't move. It wouldn't even budge! He was dismayed.

The Stonecutter angrily demanded the Spirit transform him into the Mountain. The Spirit did so. Then, the Stonecutter thanked the Spirit. Now, he was sure he was the strongest thing in the world. He thought so until he felt a sharp, dreadful pain on his side. It was just a simple Stonecutter cutting a piece of stone. The Stonecutter cried, "Spirit, please change me back into a Stonecutter. Please!"

The Spirit replied, "I was once a greedy man like you. I always wanted to be bigger, better, and stronger! The same thing happened to me. I was a Stonecutter, but I wasn't happy with what I was so I had the punishment of being a Mountain and having a sharp pain at my side all my life and so shall you!"

ten to me and respect me. When we extend the 'Mudra' to each other it means that we will honor this dance world that we do together." Nikki also told us that the "Mudra" seemed to have a magical effect, allowing her to help the children reach into their hearts to find their good feelings and become a self-creating group with respect for one another.

Has sweet dreams.
Every morning she goes to bed.
Moves so beautifully, so gracefully.
Oh, what a beautiful moon!!
Only is out at night.
Never stops dreaming.

The Fair Weather Clouds

The cloud is very strong.
He saves the day.
Everyday the clouds move.
Fights the bad weather.
Always flies high.
It never goes to sleep.
Rides over the sky gently.
Waits for the bad weather team.
Everyday he saves the sun.
Always cleans after himself.
Tries to stay puffy and white
Helps to keep fair weather.
Everybody likes to see him.
Rain clouds are his enemy.
Clouds know what the fair weather team means.
Lays in the sky.
Only likes to cover bad weather.
Uses his braveness to fight storms.
Delays the rain and storm.

by Susan Lee
Grade 2

There was once a Stonecutter who worked very hard. One day, he worked so hard that he wished to rest. The Spirit in the mountain listened to him. Soon the Spirit made it nighttime, because he knew that everyone needs to rest. The Stonecutter lived far away from his work. One day, while cutting stones on the mountain, he wished out loud that his house was not so far away.

The Spirit heard his wish, and the next day, to his surprise, his house was moved closer to the mountain. He was so happy that he wanted to do something nice for the Spirit. Then he thought, I will bring him water everyday. The Spirit was so pleased that he thanked the Stonecutter. The Stonecutter worked hard on the mountain as the clouds passed over his head.

He thought to himself, how nice it would be to be a cloud. The grateful mountain Spirit granted his wish. He turned the Stonecutter into a beautiful, puffy cloud. The Stonecutter was happy. He said, "I will be blue for now." The next day, he thought it over, and said, "It is hard being a cloud because I have to rain, cover the sun, swallow the rain and float over the sky." He floated over to the mountain and called to the Spirit, "I want to be myself." The Spirit smiled and soon the Stonecutter was back on the mountain cutting stone. The next day, he planted beautiful flowers around the mountain to show the Spirit how grateful he was to be himself.

by Pat Coughlin, Ryan Graeber, Dan Kennedy, and Marshal Doughty
Grades 2 and 5

Once upon a time, there lived a Stonecutter. One day, he was on the mountain cutting stones with his three partners. Suddenly, a King rode by. The Stonecutter said, "Oh how I wish I could be a King!" Poof! Suddenly his wish was granted. He was a King.

He sat on a huge throne and for a while, he was happy. He felt the hot Sun beating on his face and thought the Sun is hot and powerful. He wished to be the Sun. Poof! He became the Sun.

When he was the Sun, he burned the flowers and weeds until a giant black Cloud blocked his light. Now, he didn't want to be the Sun. He wanted to be the black Cloud. Poof! He became the black Cloud.

He was happy as a Cloud until the mighty Wind blew him away. Now, he didn't want to be a Cloud anymore. He wanted to be the Wind. Poof! He became the Wind.

He had fun being the Wind until he could not move the great Mountain. He wanted to be the Mountain, so he was.

All went great until he felt a Stonecutter hammering at his side. It was painful. Now, he wanted to be a Stonecutter again. Poof! He became a Stonecutter again and stayed that way for the rest of his life.

Memories of "The Stonecutter"

"Ugly Duds"

by Christopher Wilkie
Grade 5

"Ugly Duds" is the nickname that my mother gave to the black turtleneck and sweatpants that I had to wear for almost three weeks. These "Duds" were part of my Mountain Costume. You see, the fifth and second graders in my school were involved in a very special dance project with an artist-in-residence named Nikki Hu. It was a wonderful experience. As I said, I was part of the mountain scene.

We did three major performances. The third performance, for which tickets were sold, was completely sold out, packed, filled to the brim! This experience was something that I will never forget. Even though I can't dance, (but I sure can move), all of my friends from the other schools who saw this production call me the, "Mountain Man." I enjoyed being part of this project, except for the "Ugly Duds!" I wish to thank my teachers and especially, Nikki Hu.

"Feeling Like a Star"

by Leigh Ann Mahoney

I loved my part in "The Stonecutter" because I felt like a star when I was on stage. Being part of the mountain was fun. I was so happy just to be in this production. The two stonecutters were really great. They did an excellent job. I was really happy to be working with Nikki Hu. I couldn't wait for each performance.

"Memory of the Stonecutter"

by Mark Kelly
Grade 5

I really enjoyed performing in "The Stonecutter." I will always remember my part as the stonecutter. After being in this performance, I realized what responsibility is. I learned to listen, try my best, and to work hard at my part. I'll never forget Nikki Hu and all of the help and support she gave me. I hope that she never forgets me.

"Dancing, Sweating, and Bowling"

by Kelley Linnane
Grade 2

I like the dancing. The music matched the dancing. We were all hot and sweaty. The bowling Mudra was a little embarrassing. I loved not having schoolwork to do for three weeks. I loved the show.

"The Rehearsals, the Hot Costumes, the Waiting ..."

by Shannon Whalen
Grade 5

I'll never forget anything about "The Stonecutter." I'll always remember the dances, the rehearsals, the hot costumes, the waiting, and the nervousness ... everything.

Most of all, I'll remember my feeling during the whole project. The rehearsals were often tiring, the mountain costumes were very hot, and the waiting was especially boring. However, I never once wished that we hadn't started the program. Even when I was waiting in my hot, black outfit, I loved every minute of "The Stonecutter." One thing I really enjoyed was getting to know the second graders. I had a lot of fun working with them.

Guy and Nikki were really something else. Guy's powerful music always blended beautifully with Nikki's creative dances. Nikki knew how to bring out the best in all of us without being the least bit mean.

Many times I got tired of rehearsing the same part over and over, but when the entire company was together, singing the "Mudra Song" before a huge audience, I knew what all that hard work was for.

"Favorite Parts"

by Andrea Leahy
Grade 2

I wasn't nervous for the play. I don't know why, I just wasn't nervous! My part was to be part of the mountain. The costume that I wore was weird. The costume that the moon wore was much prettier. My favorite part was the garden, not counting my part. I thought that the music was out of this world! Being the mountain was spectacular! The whole play was fun!!

"Going to Nikki's House"

by Michael Petrucci
Grade 2

I think that Nikki Hu and Guy Van Duser were very nice to us. We were invited to their house on the beach in Hull to make a rap tape. We made the "Bernazzani Rap" which we sang at the end of "The Stonecutter" performance. We had fun!

"Pizza and Japanese Beds"

by Lorraine M. Gustafson
Grade 2

Going to Nikki's house to tape was fun. Guy's studio was awesome. Nikki sent out for pizza. They had Japanese beds and funny lamps too. We had ice cream. The trip was exciting.

"On Being a Mountain"

by Jackie Boc
Grade 2

I was part of the big mountain. It was very exciting. I could not wait to wear the paper bags. We also had to wear turtle-necks. I hate turtle-necks! I liked to do the "rumble." It was awesome.

Marshfield 20, Quincy 19

Presidents Face Tough

By TOM SULLIVAN
Quincy football coach Jack Raymer expected Marshfield to come out throwing in last Friday night's game at Veterans Memorial Stadium and the Rams did just that as their outstanding quarterback, Steve Ruisi, passed Marshfield to a 20-19 victory in the Presidents' opener.

It was the second straight win for the Rams, members of the Atlantic Coast League, over an Old Colony League team following a 28-14 decision over Plymouth.

Quincy faces a tougher in its first league game Saturday against Bridgewater-Raynham at Bridgewater at 1:30. The Trojans belted Whitman-Hanson, 35-7, then played Canton to a scoreless tie.

"We made a lot of opening game mistakes, but give Marshfield a lot of credit," said Raymer. "Ruisi is a fine passer and he caught our defense napping a few times. I think the boys may have been a bit overconfident and I hope they learned a lesson."

Ruisi threw two touchdown passes and completed four as the Rams drove to their winning touchdown late in the game.

Both Quincy quarterbacks did well, Joe Crespi completing seven of 11 passes for 105 yards and a touchdown and Pat Gallagher hitting on four of seven for 152 yards and a score.

Junior Noel DiBona had a fine night rushing with 84 yards on 20 carries and another junior, Robbie Kane, have five receptions for 154 yards including an 85-yard scoring bomb.

"I was pleased with the way we bounced back and I honestly feel we could have won if the game was a few seconds longer," Raymer said.

"I would have tried a field goal if we were a few yards closer. DiBona has been kicking them from 40 yards out in practice. We are young and will come along. Kane did a fine job after Marshfield double-teamed Chris Walker."

Raymer praised the play of Mike Kavanaugh, Duane Holmes, Steve Fernald, Gary Collins, Ally Sleiman and Chris McLaughlin in the line.

Several Crespi bombs were well-thrown and just missed connections as the Rams' secondary played well.

After the teams had scored once apiece for a 7-7 halftime tie, they put on a fine offensive show in the second half as they combined for 25 points.

Collins set up Quincy's first score in the opening quarter when he intercepted a Ruisi pass and returned it to the Rams' 21. Two plays later Crespi hit Walker with a 19-yard scoring pass and DiBona kicked the extra point.

In the second quarter Marshfield drove 65 yards for the tying touchdown as Mike Holte raced 25 yards and Holte kicked his fifth straight extra point of the year.

Early in the fourth quarter Crespi scored from the five but the kick for extra point was blocked.

On the first play following the kickoff, Ruisi hit Dan Cahill with a 75-yard bomb for a touchdown and Holte's kick put the Rams up 14-13.

Quincy came right back and on the fourth play after the kickoff, Gallagher passed to Kane, who broke away from three defenders and galloped 70 yards, completing an 85-yard play.

Quincy went for two points but it failed when Gallagher faked a kick and was stopped on the three-yard line.

"That was a designed play and I called it," said Raymer. "We just didn't execute and I'll take the heat for it."

Penalties hurt Quincy and one on the conversion try gave Marshfield great field position on the kickoff on the Presidents' 47.

With time running out Ruisi hit Matt Griffith for 28 yards, then passed to Cahill for five and twin brother Jim for 17. With 1:10 left on the clock, Ruisi found Cahill in the end zone and completed a 10-yard pass for the winning score.

Quincy reached the Marshfield 37 but time ran out.

X-Country

North Girls Win Pair

The North Quincy girls' cross-country team got off to a fast start last week with wins over Plymouth and Falmouth.

North's leading runner, Suzanne Lewis, took second place against Plymouth, but it was sophomores Sonia Olmedo and Kristy Kabilian, who finished ninth and tenth, who clinched the 25-30 victory.

Plymouth, which lost every meet a year ago, appears to be much stronger and much more talented and could be a spoiler this fall.

North had problems with Falmouth with the 90-degree heat, but it did little to slow down Lewis as she ran away with the meet in a course record time of 20:52. North's depth made the difference as Erin Duggan, Olmedo, Melanie Gaziano, Laurie Connolly, Jenny Marks and Kabilian all cracked the top ten.

The North Quincy boys, however, are off to a slow start, losing to Plymouth and Falmouth.

Plymouth placed four runners in front of North's first finisher, sophomore Eric Torvi. Greg Buck took seventh, while Matt Groom, Dave Chan, Jim Chen and Alan Morse all turned in good showings, placing in the top 15 for the young Raiders. Buck is the only senior and all others are sophomores.

It was the same story against Falmouth as the Clippers, running over the new Merrymount Woods 3.1-mile course, placed six runners in front of Torvi, who led most of the way only to turn his ankle and come up limping in for 17th place. Josh O'Donnell and Chen also turned in fine performances.

The North boys and girls will host Taunton Friday and will be at Silver Lake next Thursday. The meets with Quincy, scheduled for last Friday, were postponed to Oct. 7.

Swimming

North Girls In Two Wins

The North Quincy girls' swim team improved its record to 4-0 last week with a 108-77 victory over Stoughton and a 113-69 decision over Weymouth.

North received balanced scoring from all its swimmers and state qualifying performances from divers Zoe Bohl (177.65 points) and Liz Gormley (176.95).

North's winners were Justine Fagerlund, Lorie Ramos, Joanna Dyer, Carol Blaikie, Claire McCarthy, Jennifer Walker, Bohl, Suzanne Sidahmed, Becky McCosh, Alyssa Cobban, Nancy Walker, Gormley and Leslie Mahoney.

Placing second were Sarah Radell, Katie Keating, Kelly Meade, Maria Passalacqua, Michelle Hamilton, Julie McDonald, Laura Christopherson and Jean Chennette.

Taking third places were Tricia Bertucci, Heather Bergonzi, Lori Golden and Amey Riley.

North Quincy will be at New Bedford Friday for a 3:30 meet, will host Brockton Tuesday at 3:30 and Sandwich next Thursday at 3:30 at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool.

Bogan Makes Impressive Debut At Curry

Mark Bogan, who completed an outstanding career at Quincy High last fall and was named to the College, running for 76 yards on 17 carries, although the Colonels lost their opener to Framingham State, 27-7.

Old Colony League all-star team and every all-scholastic team, made an auspicious debut at Curry Framingham quarterback Scott Raynes through four touchdown passes.

Quincy Players On Don Bosco Team

With a young team comprised mainly of juniors, Russ Hennebury of Quincy, soccer coach at Don Bosco High, is looking to improve upon last year's 6-10-2 record.

Hennebury, who is in his third year at Don Bosco, previously coached at North Quincy and Braintree High Schools.

Quincy players on the team are Chris Zaniboni, Mark Connolly and Paul Tangney.

Raiders Start Off On Right Foot

North Quincy has had some outstanding place kickers in the past such as Jackie Leone and Ed McAleney, who kicked the Raiders to several victories.

In 1975 McAleney kicked North into the Super Bowl.

Last Friday night's game against Acton-Boxboro at Acton was reminiscent of those games as junior backup quarterback Liam Higgins kicked the Raiders to a 13-12 decision.

Higgins, called into action in the third quarter when starter Mark Taylor suffered a shoulder separation, kicked two field goals and, late in the game, kicked the extra point which gave North the win.

"Liam did a great job and was our offense tonight," said coach Ken McPhee. "This started us off on the right foot. It gave our kids some confidence. This was a tough team, not one to roll over for us."

North will host Falmouth Friday night at 7 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium in its Old Colony League opener. Falmouth opened with a 21-12 win over Boston English but lost to Dennis-Yarmouth, 21-6, last week.

Taylor was knocked out of action with 2:20 left in the third quarter and will miss the next few games.

North's defense was outstanding but the offense still needs work. The Raiders did virtually nothing on the ground.

The passing game was good as Taylor completed 6 of 9 before being hurt and Higgins hit on 5 of 8. They combined for 134 yards.

"Scott Kohler was our defensive player of the game and was just outstanding," said McPhee. "He had four sacks, was in on several other tackles and recovered a fumble."

McPhee also praised linebackers Mark Kelleher, Chris McCallum, Mark Zych and Scott Prouty for their work in the line.

Desmond Bellott and Kelleher had five receptions each and Pat Shea had a key 22-yard reception. A-B, coached by former Quincy all-scholastic and coach Bill Maver, double-teamed over Acton-Boxboro.

Bellott a lot, giving Kelleher a chance.

The first half was scoreless, with North on the A-B one-foot line in the final seconds. But a mixup resulted in a five-yard penalty and the Raiders failed to score.

Early in the third quarter a fumbled punt gave Acton-Boxboro the ball and its fine passer, Ryan Kane, hit Troy Gulleddge with a 40-yard scoring pass. A pass for the two points was no good.

North cut the lead to three on its next drive as Higgins kicked a 26-yard field goal.

On A-B's next play from scrimmage Kane hit John Lucas with a 49-yard scoring pass but the kick for the extra point failed.

Higgins kicked his second field goal, a 27-yarder, and when A-B fumbled the kickoff, North was in business as Bellott made a great diving catch of a Higgins pass for 24 yards and Marc Cocuzzo scored from the one to tie the game. Higgins then kicked the game-winning extra point.

Youth Football

Panthers, Manets Win Second

The Quincy Point Panthers and Houghs Neck Manets won their second straight games Sunday in the Quincy Youth Football League.

The Panthers topped the North Quincy Apaches, 14-6, and the Manets rolled over the West Quincy Elks, 24-0.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Panthers' Sean Joyce scored late in the half for a 6-0 halftime lead.

Both defenses sparked and the Panthers again threatened but the Apaches came up big behind the play of Greg Craig and Brian Walsh (fumble recovery).

The Apaches put together an impressive drive to open the second half guided by quarterback Jason Healy. Corey Chaggaris and Walsh led the drive deep into Panther territory and Chaggaris scored around right end.

The Panthers threatened on their next possession, driving to the Apache 10 but fumbled and Walsh recovered for North Quincy.

The Panthers marched downfield and with 12 seconds to play, Jeff Russell passed to Kurt Palluccio for the winning touchdown. Chris McArdle rushed for the two-point conversion.

Shawn Johnson, Dan Bosse, Craig, Cedric Douglas, Healy, Chaggaris and Walsh played well on defense for the Apaches, while Ken Lippens, Steve Stentiford and Chris Halpin stood out on offense.

The Manets, who had defeated the Apaches on opening day, had little trouble with the Elks, taking a 16-0 halftime lead.

Bill Dunn carried 10 times for 135 yards, including a 63-yard touchdown run. Quarterback Terry Bowman scored on a 32-yard run and passed to Matt Miller for the two-point conversion. Greg Santoro scored on a 15-yard run and Tom Clark ran well and added a two-point conversion.

Defensively for the Manets, defending city champions, Peter Kolson, Kevin Ryan, Rob Rose and Jeff Saucier stood out. The Manets have not been scored upon.

Brian Dunn and Mark Glynn, who had two touchdowns each, Scott Shepherd, who ran back an interception for a TD, Richie Rose, who recovered a fumble in the end zone, Mike Pringle and Kevin Norton, who added . . . two-point conversions, Lee Shaw, Mark Froehlick, Ben Rocha and John Froehlick have been playing excellent ball for the Manet junior varsity.

Sunday night at 7:30 at Veterans Memorial Stadium the Panthers and Manets will meet in a battle of the unbeaten. In the 6 o'clock opener the Elks and Apaches will clash, both seeking their first win.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

We all have regrets. We regret things we said or did. But realization can and should overpower any regret. An old Arab's saying illustrates how things that are done -- are done -- and can not now be undone.

"Remember, three things come not back; the arrow sent upon its track; it will not evert, it will not stay its speed; it flies to wound or slay ... The spoken word so soon forgot by thee; but it has perished not in other hearts - 'tis living still and doing work for good or ill ... And the lost opportunity that cometh back no more to thee; in vain thou weepst, in vain dost yearn, those three will never more return."

H.L. Mencken wrote, "I seldom if ever regret doing anything, even although I may be convinced that it was wrong. Once it is accomplished, I dismise it from my mind" ... He perhaps -- and probably did, exaggerate his thought. To regret is human. But a sensible momentary regret is one thing. A continuous regret is another thing. The past is gone. The future lies ahead. A ceaseless, incessant regret will cloud the future for anyone.

A Few Words on FUNERAL SERVICE

Why A Full-Service Funeral?

Since the beginning of time, man has publicly viewed and buried his dead — with dignity, even pomp and ceremony.

The service meets the needs of those remaining. It declares as a fact that death has happened and the actual viewing helps in the grieving process. Sometimes people "hold it in" only to delay the fact of death and to cause hurt to close ones later on in life.

Sorrow-shared is sorrow-diminished and the funeral is but the first step in that direction.

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Quincy that the Revised Ordinances of the City of Quincy, 1976, as amended, be further amended as follows:

Chapter 24, Article I, Section 12, add a new Section (2A) to read as follows:

2A. SUSPENSION OF PERMITS FOR CONSTRUCTION OF BUILDINGS
1. INTENT

The purpose of this Amendment is to promote the health, safety and welfare of the inhabitants of the City of Quincy; to lessen congestion in the streets; to facilitate the adequate provision of transportation and other public requirements; to conserve the value of land and buildings; to provide for orderly growth and development and to assess the needs of the community in the form of a comprehensive study of city resources in relation to this growth and development.

Therefore, in order to provide a hiatus in which the City may properly make its findings and recommendation to the Mayor and City Council, Chapter 24, the Zoning Ordinance is amended so as to preclude the issuance of certain building permits for a limited time period so as to complete the comprehensive study.

2. ESTABLISHMENT

(A) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Ordinance to the contrary, no building permit shall be issued for new construction, additions or a change in use which requires additional required parking of the following District uses, except for routine maintenance or repairs to existing structures, as they appear in the following sections of the Zoning Ordinance:

- (1) Any use permitted in the business B. District as shown in Article IV, Use Regulations, Section 42, Table of Use Regulations
- (2) Any use requiring a Special Permit in the Business B District, subject to the provisions of the Amendment.

Said suspension of permits for construction shall be for a period of six (6) months from the date of passage of this Amendment or until the city acts upon the recommendations contained in the comprehensive study, whichever occurs sooner.

(B) The land shown on the City of Quincy's Assessor's Plan 4050, 4065, 4066, 4068, 4073, 4074, 4078, 4079, 4080, 4081, 4082, 4083, 4084 and 4111, which is currently zoned Business B, is subject to the provisions of the Suspension of Permits for Construction of Buildings amendment of Chapter 24, the City of Quincy Zoning Ordinance. Said land is located on the easterly and westerly sides of Willard Street between Copeland Street on the south and the Milton Town line on the north.

Barge With 'Tunnel Muck' Sinks Off Nut Island

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

An old, rusty barge containing bedrock material from the MWRA's cross harbor tunnel project partially sank off a pier at Nut Island Monday evening, causing some of the material to seep into Quincy Bay.

MWRA officials said the accident did not pose any harmful threat to the environment. However, Mayor James Sheets said the accident renewed his concerns about barging sludge to and from the interim sludge treatment facility at the Fore River staging area in Quincy Point.

According to MWRA Spokesman Paul DiNatale, the 60-foot by 25-foot barge began "taking on water" Monday night after developing a horizontal crack "several feet long" in its hull. At the time, the barge was carrying about 315 cubic tons of "tunnel muck" excavated from the tunnel project.

"The subcontractor attached pumps but they could not prevent the barge from partially submerging," DiNatale said, noting about 50 percent of the barge was underwater.

On Tuesday, skin divers waited for high tide before inspecting the barge. The divers discovered the crack on the bottom on the steel barge.

As of press time Tuesday, DiNatale said the divers were still working on patching the crack. "Once it's patched, we'll keep pumping until we're able to refloat the barge." He did not give a firm estimate as to when the repair job would be complete.

DiNatale, who was at the scene Tuesday, said he did not know what caused the crack but added the barge's rusty condition may have contributed to the sinking.

"The barge was definitely old. It was certainly rusted. I can't state it was faulty. It certainly may have contributed to the crack," he said.

DiNatale said only a small amount of "tunnel muck" leached into the bay. "The material is bedrock and a lot of it is very compacted soil. Most of it is still on the barge."

"There was a small leaching from it. There was not a large plume but rather a small plume," he said, adding floating booms were put in place to contain the leaching.

"To our knowledge, there is nothing harmful to it. Nothing was contaminated."

The barge is owned by Rev-Lyn, a company located in East Boston. Rev-Lyn was subcontracted by Modern Continental which was subcontracted by the MWRA.

In light of the accident, DiNatale said the decision to replace Rev-Lyn rests with Modern Continental, not the MWRA.

"(Modern Continental) is the prime contractor. They have the right to replace the subcontractors," he said.

After the accident, the MWRA notified the Coast Guard, the EPA, the mayor's office and the Quincy Conservation Commission.

Joseph "Jay" MacRitchie, Quincy's representative on the MWRA Board of Directors, explained the barge was being used as part of the cross harbor tunnel project. The tunnel, which will be located approximately 350 feet below the surface, will connect the Deer Island and Nut Island treatment plants, he said.

MacRitchie said the contract specifications require that excavate that is removed be taken off island by barge instead of by trucks which would have to travel through Houghs Neck.

"The barge is being loaded with material that's come out of the hole for the drop shaft. The tunnel is going to go down at Nut Island, the sewerage is going to go across the underground tunnel and then up into Deer Island."

Mayor James Sheets said he is concerned that Monday's barge accident could happen again, particularly barges carrying sludge.

"First of all, I am most anxious to find out what caused the problem and secondly whether that problem is likely to occur in terms of the continual hauling of this material which is benign material and will not hurt the environment."

"But more specifically, when we have to barge sludge in and have to have sludge taken off of barges at the Fore River shipyard at the interim site, we certainly don't want those kinds of problems occurring with barges of sludge and perhaps we will look even deeper at the barging of sludge," the mayor said.

EAR TUBES

Young children are susceptible to developing collections of fluid behind the eardrum due to infection, injury, allergy, bleeding, tumors or hormonal diseases. Initial treatment is conservative. Antibiotics, antihistamines, decongestants, allergy therapy and/or eustachian tube exercises may be employed over a six to eight week period. If non-surgical therapy is unsuccessful, however, the insertion of tubes through the eardrum (tympanostomy) to drain the fluid and prevent it from reoccurring may be indicated. The tubes themselves resemble tiny (1/4 inch) donuts of silicone, rubber, plastic or metal. They are placed into the incision in the eardrum with the use of tiny forceps. There should be little pain or bleeding and no stitches. The tubes stay in place for three to nine months, after which they are spontaneously extruded by the eardrum. The hold usually seals itself.

P.S. While the tube is in place, patients must avoid getting water in the ears while bathing or washing hair. Swimming is forbidden.

Sheets Cites Experience Gorman New Fire Chief

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Thomas Gorman, a 28-year veteran of the Quincy Fire Department, who spent the last year as acting chief, was sworn in as the city's new fire chief Wednesday morning in the office of Mayor James Sheets.

"I'm very pleased the mayor considered me. It was a tough choice for him," Gorman said, adding he looks forward to the new challenges he will face.

In making the appointment, Sheets said he "agonized" over the decision between Gorman and Deputy Chief Joseph Walsh. "It was a very difficult choice. I agonized over it, certainly over the last week.

"We had two good candidates, two men who are committed to the firefighting service of this city but obviously, I could only appoint one person and that person is Tommy Gorman," Sheets said.

Gorman, who is 54 and lives in Quincy, joined the department in October, 1963. He was promoted to lieutenant in June, 1973, captain in July, 1979 and deputy chief in September, 1983.

In addition, Gorman served as acting chief for 19 months during two separate stints before his promotion to chief Wednesday.

After former Chief Carl Valenti retired in June, 1988, Gorman served as acting chief under former Mayor Francis McCauley for nine months until former Chief Paul O'Connell was appointed chief in March, 1989.

THOMAS GORMAN

Gorman resumed his duties as a deputy chief until O'Connell stepped down last September. Gorman was reappointed acting chief Oct. 1, 1990 by Sheets, serving in that capacity the past year.

As chief, Gorman will earn $66,793 annually.

Although Walsh scored higher on the Civil Service test, Sheets said Gorman's experience on the department, particularly as acting chief, was a significant plus for him.

"I think the fact that (Gorman) was acting chief for two different mayors has given him experience and certainly that's beneficial."

On a Civil Service exam administered in July, Gorman scored an 82. Walsh, 41, a Quincy resident and 16-year veteran of the department, scored a 94.

After the exam results were certified by Civil Service and delivered to the

In North Quincy:

Police To Meet Tonight With Residents On Attacks, Breaks

A representative from the Quincy Police Department will discuss neighborhood concerns following a recent rash of house breaks and attacks in the area tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. at the Montclair School, Belmont St. and Holbrook Rd.

The meeting was scheduled by recently formed Montclair-Wollaston Neighborhood Association.

Since July 1990, there have been six reported incidents where women in the North Quincy area have been attacked by a male wearing a mask and brandishing a knife, according to Police Chief Francis Mullen.

The first in the series of attacks took place in July, 1990, when a North Quincy woman was raped.

Since January of this year, there have been five reported incidents where five women have been assaulted at knifepoint, Mullen said. On two of the assaults, the women fought off the assailant but not before he committed armed robbery by stealing their pocketbooks.

The latest incident occurred Sept. 24, when a 35-year-old woman was attacked while carrying groceries into her Hobart St. residence at 8:30 p.m. According to police, a man grabbed her from behind and told her not to scream and then tried to force her into the house.

The woman screamed, thus attracting the attention of her daughter who was inside the house. The daughter then confronted the man and she also screamed, frightening off the attacker.

He ran down Hobart St. toward Newport Ave. Although no knife was shown, the method of operation and the suspect's description was similar in all six incidents.

He is described as being a white male, approximately six feet tall and weighing 180 pounds. He was wearing a mask, gloves and dark clothing at the time of the incidents.

Mullen advises all citizens to be alert and exercise caution, particularly after dark when entering or exiting their vehicles and residences.

Also at the meeting, the neighborhood association will formulate plans for a Montclair School Candidates Night to be held Wednesday, Oct. 30.

SS Cape Mohican Returns Home

Shipyard Workers Land Second Repair Contract

The recently reactivated Fore River Shipyard continues to flourish with a new project on its hands.

The 876-foot SS Cape Mohican docked at the shipyard Saturday for sandblasting and repainting.

Built in Quincy in 1972, the Cape Mohican transported cargo during the Gulf War. The ship, which can carry 38 loaded barges for deliveries into shallow overseas ports, is undergoing a $1 million, 14-day overhaul.

The vessel entered the shipyard via a 900-foot-long, 150-foot-wide basin. As water is pumped out of the basin, the ship will gradually drop down to rest upon cement blocks centered on the basin floor.

Once the basin is completely dry, sandblasting can begin on the bottom of the ship. About 100 workers, including 70 from Massachusetts Shipbuilders Inc., will be employed on the project.

The overhaul of the Cape Mohican, once known as the Tillie Lykes, is the second repair contract won by the newly reopened Fore River shipyard. The partnership of Chelsea-based AK Engineering and Massachusetts Shipbuilders Inc. reopened the yard last month after five idle months.

Shipbuilders hope eventually to resume construction of new ships at Fore River, but are only seeking repair contracts for now.

hearing that Thomas Dillon was shot during an incident in July outside the Sagamore Inn. Another man was shot while coming to Dillon's aid.

Anselmo Calls Off Recount

Figuring one ward would not have made a difference in the final outcome, Frank Anselmo dropped his bid for a recount last week, bringing his 29 years of public service to an end.

Last Monday, Anselmo filed for a recount in the Sept. 17th preliminary election. He finished in eighth place, two behind Incumbent Mary 'Jane' Powers who won the sixth and final spot in the Nov. 5 final election.

After filing the papers, City Clerk John Gillis ruled that signature mixups invalidated all but one ward's list. A recount of Ward 4 was then scheduled for Friday.

However, on Wednesday, Anselmo realized that recounting only one ward would not have made a difference.

He served 29 years of the school committee, but resigned in December because of his ill health. He ran for re-election after he was given a clean bill of health by his doctor.

Now that he's quit the race, Anselmo said he will save money, donate more funds to Quincy College and relax.

Instead of spending money on political advertisements, he said he will contribute about $10,000 to Quincy College's scholarship fund. He has already donated $40,000 to the city-run college.

Sagamore Inn Appeals License Revocation

The Sagamore Inn has appealed its license revocation to the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission.

The North Quincy

barroom will remain open pending the outcome of the ABCC appeal.

An ABCC spokesman said a hearing date should be set by the end of October.

Last week the Quincy License Board revoked the bar's license because of alleged drug dealing on the premises.

It was incorrectly stated at the License Board

State Rep. Fight Heats Up

Mariano: 'McGlone Turf Fight Remark Insult To Voters'

Ron Mariano of Quincy, a Democratic candidate for state representative in the Third Norfolk District, says attempts by his opponent to trivialize the election by referring to it as a turf fight is an insult to the voters of the district.

At a recent meeting of the Weymouth Democratic Town Committee, McGlone said that Quincy versus Weymouth defined the election, thereby reducing the serious problems confronting the district to parochialism and further insulting the voters.

"The problems of the economy, providing decent jobs, adequate funding for education, the environment, health care, etc., affect all of us regardless of which side of the Fore River Bridge we live. This is not a sporting event, but real life," Mariano said.

"My opponents attempts to malign supporters of former Rep. Robert Cerasoli show a total lack of understanding of the Third Norfolk District. For 16 years, former Rep. Cerasoli served the district with integrity, leadership and an uncompromising commitment to the people, all of which are well documented facts.

"Cerasoli's willingness to resign his Post Audit

Committee chairmanship rather than cave in to special interests and his recent appointment as inspector general attest to the good judgement of the voters in the Third Norfolk District.

"The fact that many Weymouth and Quincy voters who support good government and formerly supported Cerasoli are now backing me is an honor I readily accept," Mariano said.

"The only interests are compassionate, honest and caring government that will stand up to the special interest lobbyists and attorneys and their agendas."

Marshfield St. Subdivision Plan Public Hearing Oct. 16

The Quincy Planning Board will hold a public hearing regarding a subdivision plan Wednesday, Oct. 16 at 7 p.m. in the second floor conference room, City Hall annex, 1305 Hancock St.

Filed by Mary Crowley Gregoire, the proposed plan calls for a subdivision and construction of a portion of land on Marshfield St.

The proposed subdivision plan may be examined at the Department of Planning and Community Development, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy, during regular business hours, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Blood Pressure Screening Friday

The Stop & Shop Supermarket Company is offering free blood pressure screenings tomorrow (Friday) from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Super Stop & Shop, 141 Newport Ave.

Medical Personnel Pool will conduct a free blood pressure screening test.

No appointment is necessary.

McGlone: 'Mariano Failed To Act On State Budget'

Jack McGlone of Weymouth, a Democratic candidate for state representative, has accused his opponent Ron Mariano of Quincy of failing to act on the state's budget problems while earning $40,000 a year as the assistant director of the House Post Audit Committee.

The House Post Audit Committee is the legislative watchdog for state government spending and abuse. "Ron sat idly by as the Dukakis Administration inflated the state's budget from 1985 to 1988, adding thousands of people to the state payrolls and allowing the state budget to grow out of control," McGlone charged. While serving as the committee's assistant director, the state budget grew from $9.7 billion to $14.3 billion, according to the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report of the State Comptroller.

During this period, McGlone claimed the Post Audit staff failed to initiate any regulatory review of the numerous programs or projects begun by the Dukakis administration and approved by the legislature.

"We need to bring common sense and a fresh approach to Beacon Hill," he said.

Mariano served on the committee until the chairman of the committee, former State Rep. Robert Cerasoli of Quincy, resigned his post instead of backing a tax increase proposal led by former Speaker George Keverian. After a new chairman was appointed in January, 1990, Mariano was dismissed.

While Mariano was on the Post Audit committee, McGlone charged that the committee was a "haven of political patronage." He accused his opponent of not having the "political courage to regulate his own staff."

"The people of Quincy and Weymouth deserve more than a 'go along to get along' attitude on Beacon Hill," McGlone said.

In Ward 6:

Nutley, Ayers Debates Set For Oct. 9, 29

Voters in Ward 6 will get another chance to hear from the two contenders for Ward 6 council seat when candidates Bruce Ayers and Tom Nutley address the issues at two scheduled debates this month.

The Atlantic Neighborhood Association will sponsor the first debate Wednesday, Oct. 9 at 7:30 p.m. at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 12 Hunt St., North Quincy.

The second debate, sponsored by the Squantum Community Association, will be held Tuesday, Oct. 29 at 7:30 p.m. in the Marina Bay cafeteria on Victory Rd.

In a recent letter, Nutley, an incumbent, challenged Ayers to a series of debates for the Ward 6 council seat.

"I know you will agree with me that the current economic climate and resultant budget problems make it essential that the voters of Ward 6 have full opportunity to learn the views of the candidates seeking to represent them," Nutley wrote.

On Tuesday, Ayers said he will gladly debate Nutley at any forum. "I've debated him in the past and I'll be debating him in the future. I'm looking forward to the debates coming up," he said.

Before the Sept. 17

preliminary election, Ayers, Nutley and then candidate Joanne Condon Walsh spoke on the issues at two forums. One forum was sponsored by the Squantum Community Association and the other by Quincy Community Television Channel 3.

Ayers topped the Ward 6 preliminary election with 1,227 votes. Nutley finished second with 726 votes and Condon Walsh was third with 425.

Neighborhood and civic associations throughout Quincy have traditionally sponsored candidates' nights.

The final election is Tuesday, Nov. 5.

License Board Gives Restaurant Ultimatum

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Roman Gardens, a popular restaurant and bar, may serve its last pizza next week.

The restaurant, located at 653 Southern Artery, has until Tuesday to straighten out problems with the ownership and name a manager.

"Have a manager next week (Tuesday) or we'll close the place," said Quincy License Board chairman John Gillis.

"If you don't have a manager on record then there is nobody responsible to this board or the ABC (state Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission)," Gillis said.

Roman Gardens has operated without a manager on record since June 19, 1991. The License Board continued the hearing to Tuesday, Oct. 8.

The problem stems from the inability of the owners, D.F.G., Inc., to agree to a manager or to sell the business. In January an oral agreement was reached to sell Roman Gardens to WarDan, Inc., of Brockton. However, members of D.F.G. were unable to agree amongst themselves on the proposed sale.

In the meantime, WarDan partners Ward Reed and Dan Norwood began supervising day-to-day operations of Roman Gardens in January pending the sale.

WarDan named Ronald Hanson, an experienced employee of Roman Gardens, as manager in the spring. However, Hanson withdrew as manager on June 19.

WarDan then recommended another manager to D.F.G. but the owners would not agree.

"Individually, the owners each approved our choice of manager but when we asked them collectively they could not agree," Reed told the License Board.

"If the two groups can't get together and name a manager by next week we should revoke the license," said Fire Chief Thomas Gorman.

Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue said that currently there is no problem with conditions at the restaurant pertaining to food. But she added she is concerned because if problems arise there is no one who is accountable.

50th Anniversary Of Massachusetts Launching Saturday

The 50th anniversary of the launching of the Battleship Massachusetts at Quincy's Fore River Shipyard will be celebrated Saturday at 1 p.m. at Battleship Cove in Fall River.

The Massachusetts served with distinction in both the Atlantic and Pacific Theaters during World War II and was in large measure the product of Bat State industry and the skilled labor of the state's shipbuilding force. The contribution of the American worker to the quality of American life in both war and peace will be a centerpiece of the ceremony.

Included in the ceremony will be the unveiling of a bronze plaque aboard the battleship. The plaque lists the service members from Massachusetts who gave their lives during Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm and will constitute the official Gulf War Memorial of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. A Patriot Missile Exhibit, adjacent to the Gulf War Memorial, will also be opened.

Vice Admiral George Davis, former Commander of Naval Surface Force United States Pacific Fleet, will be the principle speaker. Guest speakers will include Congressman Barney Frank and Fall River Mayor John Mitchell. Representatives of Massachusetts industries which have contributed to our national defense will be present to honor the American worker.

Highlighting the afternoon's events will be the Air Force Band and the 75-voice Newport Navy Chorists.

The public is invited to attend. For information call (508) 678-1100.

AIDS AWARENESS

AIDS (acquired immunodeficiency syndrome) is a major public health problem. With over 40,000 persons in the U.S. having contracted this disease since 1981, and the number of new cases in the U.S. doubling every 12 to 15 months, some would call it an epidemic. The death toll stands at over 20,000. Although drug therapy can prolong survival in some cases, there is no cure. Caused by the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV), AIDS is transmitted by intimate sexual contact or exposure to body secretions such as blood, semen or vaginal fluid. The virus can also be acquired via blood transfusion, contaminated needle use, artificial insemination or organ transplant. Pregnant women with the virus may pass it on to their unborn children. Estimates are that up to a third or more of the one to two million Americans who already have the virus will develop AIDS in the next two to five years, the usual incubation period.

P.S. Infants infected at birth account for approximately four out of five pediatric cases of AIDS.

AIDS is in the headlines virtually every day and is a subject on everyone's minds. If you have questions about this disease, call your family physician, or call our office at 472-2550. We are COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE, providing medical treatment in the specialties of cardiology, hypertension and cholesterol. Office hours are by appointment at 101 Adams St., Suite 24, in Quincy. We are affiliated with Quincy Hospital and South Shore Hospital.

LaRaia: 'Very Serious'

How serious is Joe LaRaia in his comeback bid as a City Councillor at-large challenger?

"How serious?" He ponders the question. "Very." LaRaia, whose political elevator has been up and down many times in a career that spans three decades, says: "I've been in too many elections to know not to work at it, so I'm working at it."

One election in which he didn't seem to work too hard, was his last outing in 1989 when he finished an also-ran fourth in a four-man mayoral preliminary runoff in which James Sheets, Peter O'Connell and Steve McGrath were one, two and three.

Some observers think he coasted in that campaign on the strength of his showing two years before when he came within just 474 votes of unseating Mayor Francis McCauley which would have been one of Quincy's big political upsets.

And that may be why LaRaia this year says "So, I'm working at it."

When LaRaia announced he was getting into this year's at-large race some observers, remembering his 1989 style and performance, thought he might sit back and try to cash in on his name recognition.

This time, they thought, he might figure he had a much better shot at one out of three votes for councillor at-large than he had for one-out-of-one in the Mayor's race and wouldn't have to work up a sweat. But LaRaia says it is not going to be that way.

"I'm not just tossing my name in," he says. "I've got five weeks to work at it (campaign) and that's what I'm going to do."

For LaRaia to win, one of the three incumbents — Tim Cahill, Mike Cheney, Patricia Toland — would have to go.

Does LaRaia still have the old vote-getting magic he used to have? And if he does, which of the three incumbents will feel it most?

TOM NUTLEY says he's optimistic about turning things around in his showdown battle with Bruce Ayers for the Ward 6 City Council seat.

"I'm going to win it," he predicts.

Ayers, a newcomer, topped the incumbent by 501 votes in the preliminary election last month with former incumbent Joanne Condon Walsh finishing third and out of the money.

HOMEOWNER TAX REFORM WINNER

QUESTION: How did the homeowner make out under the latest Tax Reform Act?

ANSWER: In the midst of drastic cutbacks in investment preferences everywhere else in the tax code, owners of first and second homes are the big winners.

Deductibility of mortgage interest and property taxes for primary and second homes remains completely intact. This is often the largest tax deduction for most homeowners and will continue to be so. Also intact are the rules that allow you to defer tax on the profit when you sell if you roll it over into another home and the $125,000 tax exclusion from profit if you are over age 55.

HOMEOWNERS were the big winners under the Tax Reform Act. Your home remains a great tax shelter.

Nutley says he is confident he will get a good chunk of the 425 votes that went to Condon Walsh.

He is also counting on voters who didn't come out for the preliminary election but he expects will for the final election Nov. 5.

The Ward 6 turnout for the preliminary was 34.5 percent, compared to 21.7 percent for the city-wide School Committee preliminary.

"There will be many more voters out in November," says Nutley. "There will be a City Council at-large race this time, plus the School Committee race. There should be some hot issues raised that will bring out a good vote."

He says he will knock on every door in the ward to help bring out a big vote.

"I really think," he says, "that Ayers peaked in the preliminary election."

FORMER MAYOR Frank McCauley will participate in the third annual Jimmy Fund Marathon Walk Saturday on the same gruelling 26.2 mile route of the Boston Marathon.

Proceeds from the walk go to the Jimmy Fund to help the fight against cancer in children and for patient care.

Last year, McCauley, who is now Executive Director of the State Board of Retirement, finished the walk in 6 hours, 25 minutes and raised $4,200 through sponsors.

He's looking for sponsors who will pledge donations on a per-mile basis or by a flat sum. Anyone who would like to help can reach him at 479-6230.

THE BATTLE BETWEEN Quincy's Ron Mariano and Weymouth's Jack McGlone for the Democratic nomination for state representative in the Oct. 15 special election isn't completely a Quincy vs. Weymouth fight.

Quincy Atty. Anthony Falco, who had considered running for the seat himself has thrown his support to McGlone. And is sending out "Dear Friends" letters.

YOU MIGHT SAY Quincy Atty. George Burke is building a family tennis dynasty. Burke is the reigning champion of the Men's over 50 division in the Quincy Tennis Tourney.

Now his wife, Sandy, and daughter, Susan Lee, have annexed the Women's Doubles championship.

Incidentally, George and Sandy are expecting their first grandchild next April, compliments of daughter, Jean Marie and son-in-law Bill Hanlon of Quincy.

LINDA STICE, who finished a strong second in the School Committee preliminary election last month isn't sitting on her laurels.

She's out campaigning and has a fundraiser on tap for Wednesday, Oct. 9, 5 to 8 p.m. at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center, Quarry St. Donations $15 per person, $25 a couple.

PEGGY KING, who finished an impressive fourth in the School Committee preliminary runoff, also has a fundraiser coming up. This one is set for Thursday, Oct. 10 from 7:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. at the Hollow Restaurant, Adams St. Tickets will be available at the door.

Christmas Festival Parade Committee Meeting

The Quincy Christmas Festival Parade Committee was scheduled to meet Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the Patriot Ledger, third floor conference room, 400 Crown Colony Dr., South Quincy.

Members were to discuss the 40-year history of the parade and a documentary to mark this year's parade to be held Dec. 1. The documentary is being produced by Libby Payne and Marie Diaz.

Jack McDonough In Cancer Walk In Memory Of Sister

Quincy resident Jack McDonough will walk 26.2 miles in the annual Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk to benefit the Dana Farber Cancer Institute this Saturday.

McDonough, who is walking the route for the second year, is walking in memory of his sister, who was a patient of Dana Farber.

"I feel that everyone should do something to help others and this is what I do," said McDonough. "It's a great way for me to remember my sister."

Last year he was one of the two top fundraisers for the walk, collecting $5,011 to support research and treatment at Dana Farber. He hopes to top that total this year.

The walk, sanctioned by the Boston Athletic Association (BAA), traces the Boston Marathon route from Hopkinton to Boston and is the only event, other than the BAA Marathon itself, to take place along the marathon course.

No Soundbites Please, In Ward 6

Editor, The Quincy Sun: The results of the preliminary election in Ward 6 for City Council showcased one of the biggest upsets in recent Quincy political history. The landslide handed newcomer Bruce Ayers (51 percent) over three-term incumbent Tom Nutley (32 percent) shows that the age question that had haunted Ayers campaigning over the summer has now been apparently put to rest.

Hopefully, both candidates will conduct a positive campaign between now and Nov. 5. Momentum has surely moved to Ayers with his victory on Sept. 17 but Nutley is still very much in the race. The people of Ward 6 have a real choice this year between the two candidates and now is the time for the candidate to talk about the issues affecting folks across the ward. No soundbites please.

Some might continue to say experience is the difference and Ayers has never run for office before and is only 29. Fifty-one percent said that was not a factor on Sept. 17 but for those who think 29 is still too young consider this:

When Jack Kennedy ran for Congress in 1946, he was 29, when Larry DiCara ran for Boston City Council in 1971, he was only 22 and when Dan Raymond ran for Quincy School Committee back in 1971, he was 23. And they all won.

Personally, I hit the campaign trail for Boston School Committee in 1977 when I, too, was 29 years old and while I was unsuccessful, it had nothing to do with age.

The other day I observed Bruce Ayers wearing out his shoe leather going door-to-door on my street. It was the first time we met face to face and I was impressed with his drive and community activism. I wish him well. He came across as a very mature community leader who should serve North Quincy and Squantum well on the City Council, if elected.

But the bottom line is:

We the people of Ward 6 must take the time to vote on Nov. 5 for the candidate who can best represent us in this the last few years of the 20th century. The choice is ours to take, so please vote for whomever you think can best represent the diverse population that makes up Ward Six.

Quincy Patrolman Alfred Hollis Slain By Burglar

Patrolman Alfred N. Hollis of 49 Smith St., West Quincy, was shot and killed by a burglar that he and his partner, Patrolman John Fitzgerald, surprised while attempting to crack a safe in Pill Brothers hardware store, 1620 Hancock St.

Hollis was watching the rear entrance to the store while Fitzgerald entered the front door when the burglar came storming out the back way with his gun blazing and vanished in the darkness down Mechanic St. at 4:45 a.m.

He was the first Quincy policeman to be gunned down in the line of duty.

Mayor Thomas J. McGrath immediately offered a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of the popular patrolman who had been a reserve officer on the Quincy Police Department since the spring of 1926.

In three days, a relief fund reached $3,217.11 for Hollis' widow, Mary, and their three children, Dorothy 10, Geraldine 4., and Marjorie 3, and a benefit show featuring 15 acts of vaudeville and the 40-piece Boston Police Band was set for the Quincy Theater.

WOMAN COUNCILLOR DUE

City Council President Thomas S. Burgin, filling in for ailing Mayor Thomas J. McGrath in a speech to the Quincy City Federation of Women's Clubs, predicted that the time had come for Quincy to have a woman on the City Council.

"She is fitted to occupy a place in state and city affairs," he said, "owing to the fact that she has a broad outlook on things pertaining to government and her viewpoint is altogether different from that of the businessman."

Two Quincy Teachers Honored For Human, Civil Rights Programs

Two Quincy public school teachers were recently honored for their efforts toward implementing human rights education in state schools by the Massachusetts Teachers Association.

Broad Meadows Middle School teachers Ronald Adams and Eileen Sadof received the MTA's 1991 Human Rights and Civil Rights Award for their work on developing and implementing a human rights component for use in middle schools the past three years. They were recognized for their pilot program which utilizes resources from Facing History and Ourselves, Amnesty International and A World of Difference.

Because the pilot has been so successful, Principal Tom Hall expanded the human rights course to all students in grades six, seven and eight. More than 350 students this year have participated in the program.

Highlights of the three-year effort include:

- Students co-writing letters with Massachusetts senators at the State House on behalf of political prisoners, seeking their releases.

- Students flying to Washington, D.C. to appeal directly to the Yugoslavian Ambassador on behalf of those suffering human rights in Yugoslavian high schools because of their ethnicity.

- Students developing a building wide assembly to address stereotyping, scapegoating, name calling or discrimination in Quincy.

- Students appearing on CNN, Showtime and Channel 7 in Boston, to describe their efforts to help freedom grow here and abroad.

Refreshments were served by John Fantucchio and Sal Re, and the entertainment was provided by disc jockey Wayne Cascarano, who continually donates his time to Lodge functions, and the South Shore Joys, a clown act.

Serving 200 guests in a timely fashion is no easy task, but the volunteers who were entrusted the task did an outstanding job: Addie Fabrizio; Dagney Cardarelli; Addie Tapella; Edie Morris; Kim Losordo; Mary Ann DeCarli; Jo Fantucchio; Lina Monticone; Cathie Payzant; Viola DiMasio; Ellen Realini; Lillian Capone; Jo Grazioso; Richard Gentile; Bernie Smith; Jim Mastrantonio; the Sommers Family--Paul, Paul, Kevin, Claudia, Ed and Michael; and the Cochran Family--Edward, Virginia, Ginny, and Jon Pistei.

Additional assistance was provided by Maitre d' Anthony Cardarelli, recording secretaries Dan Fabrizio and Rocco Buonvicino, and photographer Jack Norton.

In appreciation for their efforts on behalf of exceptional adults, the Lodge was presented with citations from Quincy Mayor James Sheets, State Representative Michael Morrissey, and Mayor Raymond Flynn of Boston.

Also in attendance to support the Lodge efforts were State Representative Steve Tobin (D-Quincy) and State Representative James T. Brett (D-Boston), who has sponsored a number of Legislative bills on behalf of exceptional citizens statewide.

Nutley Outlines Accomplishments

A coffee hour for Ward 6 City Council candidate Thomas Nutley was recently held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCauley, 92 Bototh St., North Quincy. Nutley discussed issues and answered questions on items of importance to the North Quincy residents. He cited his six-year record of accomplishments including the rezoning of several areas of North Quincy to prevent high-rise development, gaining $1.3 million from the MWRA to reconstruct the dangerous East Squantum St.-Quincy Shore Dr. intersection, erecting steel barriers and flashing lights at the nearly Bototh-East Squantum Sts. intersection, obtaining federal monies to keep the two community centers open and also providing funds for large-screen televisions and VCRs for the entertainment of senior citizen visitors to the centers.

He also cited an increased police presence throughout the area at his request, the closing of a noisy, all-night factory at Young St., the repaving of several streets including Kendall St. and Nutley's leadership in preventing the establishment of a noisy, 24-hour-a-day helicopter landing pad at the Neponset Bridge area.

Nutley updated the attendees on his efforts to close the Sagamore Inn, an the resultant law suit against him, and his successful efforts over the years to defuse tensions between long-time residents and recent Asian arrivals to the area.

"The list of endeavors that I have successfully completed these past six years is a record of accomplishment which makes me very proud," Nutley said.

"In all honesty, I have referred every concern by residents to the appropriate city department head for action, and then followed-up to try to get the job done," he added.

"Have I gotten every street paved...and curbs placed on every street? The answer to that is 'no' because there are only so many city dollars to go around and every city need is prioritized according to need and to safety considerations with the most important done first.

"All in all, I am proud to say that I have delivered services for this ward as successfully as any councillor in the city's history. I'm proud of this community and that is why I have worked so hard these past 18 years as a community activist and recently as the Ward 6 councillor to maintain the quality of our community, I will continue to work just as hard if I am re-elected," Nutley said.

In closing, he invited the attendees to attend future coffee hours at Walsh's Restaurant, 9 Billings Rd., tonight (Thursday); and at the Squantum Nickerson Post Oct. Tuesday, Oct. 15 from 7 to 9 p.m.

"I'll have as many informational coffee hours as time allows to discuss issues of concern to residents and to answer questions," he said.

Wollaston Lutheran Church To Celebrate 60th Anniversary Of Congregation Founding

Wollaston Lutheran Church, 550 Hancock St., will celebrate the 60th anniversary of the founding of the congregation Saturday and Sunday.

On Saturday evening, members and friends of the congregation will gather in the common room of Fenno House, 540 Hancock St., for a catered supper. An anniversary festival service will be held at 10 a.m. Sunday. Guest preacher for the occasion will be the Rev. John Bauer of Colorado. He is the son of Pastor Emeritus Frank and Jean Bauer, and he is presently a chaplain in the military.

In September, 1931 the Rev. Elmer A. Kettner was called by the regional district of the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod to begin mission work in the greater Boston area.

The pastor of First Lutheran Church of Boston suggested that Rev. Kettner begin in Quincy. Once here, Kettner canvassed from house to house inviting the unchurched to attend the Lutheran service he proposed to conduct. The first service was held on Oct. 11, 1931. It was attended by 130 people.

Kettner served as pastor at Wollaston until 1953 when he was succeeded by Rev. Frank Bauer. In 1983 Rev. Adolph H. Wismar, Jr. became pastor as Rev. Bauer retired from full-time parish ministry. In 1989 Rev. Richard Manahan Law arrived from Hong Kong to begin work among the growing Asian population now residing here. Earlier this year the Rev. David Mahn was called to serve as associate pastor.

Wollaston Lutheran Church has sponsored two elderly housing apartment buildings: Fenno House and Town Brook House at 45 Brackett St. The congregation also housed the men's homeless shelter prior to its permanent home at Father Bill's Place.

In addition, the congregation has sponsored many services to immigrants and refugees. They include English classes, job referral services, free legal clinic, elderly outreach, tutoring services, and more.

Ayers Speaks With Mullen On North Quincy Attacks

Responding to recent attacks in the North Quincy area, Ward 6 City Council candidate Bruce Ayers recently met with Police Chief Francis Mullen to discuss what action police are taking.

Police have an ongoing investigation and are targeting the North Quincy area increasing patrols with marked and unmarked cars. Ayers said he has been doorknocking in the Ward 6 area and encourages neighbors to participate in the neighborhood watch program and to report any suspicious activity to the authorities.

"It's a ward councillor's job to keep the constituents informed on public safety issues, and I greatly encourage everyone to become active in neighborhood watch.

"This is a classic example that people helping people can make a difference."

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Did you ever think about how our world is both weird and wonderful? The simplicities tend to make it wonderful. Unfortunately, the complexities are often caused by failure to look for, identify and accept simplicities.

For example - simplicity is seen in the 23rd Psalm, the Ten Commandments and the Beattitudes. Then too, simplicity is seen in the kite flying and the falling apple which revealed simplicities in the law of electricity and gravitation. Consider too, how simplicity is unseasonal in the beauty of the mountains and valleys, the trees, lakes and rivers - as only God could make them.

Summed up, simplicity is the thumb print of God. When we're willing to look at the thumb print, identification is instant. The world and the things in it become wonderful; weirdness disappears. The late Winston Churchill was right when he said, "Out of intense complexities, intense simplicities emerge."

We are always most appreciative of any comments you might have concerning these articles you read here ...

The total enrollment figures are based on a combination of all students registered in the undergraduate liberal arts program (820) and the graduate program (184), and includes full-time and part-time students.

Beechwood Center Celebrating 10th Year

In observance of its 10th anniversary, the Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Fenno St., Wollaston, is planning a celebration weekend Oct. 4 and 5.

On Friday, Oct. 4 at 7:30 p.m., there will be an anniversary concert featuring the music of Dr. Summer Hirschberg and his Pro-Dixie Jazz Band and members of the music school faculty.

On Saturday, Oct. 5 at 9 a.m., there will be a one-to-five-mile anniversary walk for the entire Beechwood community. All elders, parents of the day care and children as well as Beechwood personnel are invited to attend.

Officials point out that this is not a prescribed length of walk, whatever one can do. Walkers are also encouraged to get sponsors with proceeds to benefit the Beechwood Community Life Center.

The activities are being planned by Beechwood's Board of Directors under the co-chairmanship of Donald Strong and Suzanne Heffernan. Residents in the Beechwood community as well as the South Shore are invited to attend.

The celebration weekend will mark the 10th year anniversary of the Beechwood Knoll Elementary School becoming the Beechwood Community Life Center.

The change occurred Oct. 4, 1981.

Since the change, the Beechwood Community Life Center has become a state-wide model for the use of abandoned school buildings. It was declared surplus in the cutback of Quincy school facilities.

Over the last 10 years, the Beechwood facility has resumed its educational functions again, this time as a self-sustaining school of music, drama, art and other subjects for young and old alike.

Heffernan and Strong say the celebration weekend is a way of thanking the many people who have supported the life center the past 10 years.

Raiders Eye Third Win At Plymouth

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy football team, which turned in one of its finest two-way performances in some time last Friday night, rolling over Falmouth, 27-0, will go after its third win in a row Friday night at 7 when it plays at Plymouth.

Plymouth will be seeking its first win after losing to Marshfield, Barnstable and Taunton.

The Raiders played an almost flawless game both offensively and defensively as it completely dominated Falmouth from the start.

"The Kids were just outstanding in every department," said a happy coach Ken McPhee. "The defense was awesome and we had a fine offense both on the ground and through the air. Our ground game was stopped by a great Acton-Boxboro defense in our opener but it came into its own tonight as the offensive line played an excellent game. Liam Higgins, in his first varsity start, came up with an outstanding game proving we have depth. Due to injuries, we are getting deeper as we go along. Our starting quarterback, Mark Taylor (who suffered a shoulder separation in the opener) may be back to play some defense against Plymouth. We have two very fine quarterbacks."

Higgins was 9-for-11 for 106 yards and a touchdown and North received some fine running from Mark Sinclair (four carries for 74 yards and a touchdown), Chris Murray (six carries for 54 yards, a touchdown and a two-point conversion) and Mark Cocuzzo (seven carries for 54 yards).

Desmond Bellott, a real game-breaker, had a big night with four pass receptions for 54 yards, 80 yards on three punt returns, a pass interception and another strong defensive game.

"Bellott made one hit that you could hear all over the stadium," McPhee said. "The official said it was one of the hardest hits he has ever seen in a high school game."

Mark Kelleher had another fine game with three receptions for 60 yards and an outstanding defensive game.

North gained 206 yards rushing while Falmouth had only 68.

Falmouth quarterback John Reardon completed four of eight passes but they were good for only four yards.

Sophomore Danny Duncan took over at quarterback in the last quarter for North and ran the team well.

McPhee couldn't say enough for the defense and praised Kelleher, Mark Zych, Chris McCallum, Chris Campbell, Dave Rafferty and Scott Kohler. Kelleher and McCallum were outstanding linebackers and McPhee had good words for hit TNT interior linemen (tackle-nose guard-tackle), Zych, Kohler and Scott Prouty.

The secondary was excellent with Bellott, Willie O'Donnell and Pat Surraatt intercepting passes. Also coming in for their share of praise were Chris Peck, Pat Shea and Dave Reinhart.

Falmouth (1-2) had the first scoring opportunity as it recovered a fumble on North's 22 early in the game. North held and took over on its 20. The Raiders then drove 80 yards for their first score. Higgins hit Bellott for 19 yards, then threw to Kelleher for 43 and Higgins, on a bootleg, skirted right end for three yards and the touchdown with 29 seconds left in the first quarter. The kick for extra point failed.

Bellott returned a punt from the 50 to Falmouth's 20 to set up the second score midway in the second quarter. Kelleher made a diving catch of a Higgins pass for the score and Murray rushed for the two-point conversion.

North scored again after taking the second half kickoff when Murray capped a 70-yard drive by scoring from the 10. Again the kick failed.

With 1:45 left in the third quarter, Sinclair scored on a 15-yard run and Higgins kicked the final point of the game.

Manets Defeat Panthers, Elks Down Apaches

The Houghs Neck Manets (3-0) defeated the Quincy Point Panthers (2-1), 12-0, last Sunday to take over first place in the Quincy Youth Football League.

In a battle for third place, the West Quincy Elks (1-2) topped the North Quincy Apaches (0-3), 12-0.

Two long passes from Manet quarterback Terrance Bowman accounted for the two touchdowns. William Dunn was the top receiver and also did the bulk of the ground work.

Panther running back Chris McArdle played fine two-way ball in the first half but was injured in the second half. Sean Joyce drove down to inside the Manet's 10 but a fumble turned the ball over.

Mohammed Nahas made several key tackles for the Panthers and A.J. Gilmore, Joyce, Jeff Russell and David Gunther played outstanding defense and kept the Manets in check for three quarters.

Mike Sheffer scored both touchdowns for the Elks and carried for 123 yards, while Brian Morrissey and Mike Balducci also ran well.

The defense was led by Ryan Callahan, who had two sacks, and Dan DiPaulo, Jason Little, Tim Shubert, Eric Hanlon and Matt Hayslett who each played well.

The Apaches got good efforts from backs Jason Healy, Brian Walsh and Sean O'Toole and linemen Steve Stentiford, Ken Lippens and Shaun Donovan.

The Elks and Apaches junior varsity teams battled to a 6-6 tie. Donald Reuban scored on a six-yard sweep for the Elks' score and also rushed for 75 yards.

Sunday night at Veterans Memorial Stadium the Panthers will play the Elks at 6 p.m. and the Manets will face the Apaches at 7:30 p.m.

8 Titles Won In Quincy Tennis Tourney

The 21st annual Quincy Tennis Tournament concluded this past weekend at the Voc/Tech tennis courts.

Co-sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department and the Granite Bank, the tournament saw over 100 of Quincy's finest players battle it out for two weeks for the chance to win one of the eight championships titles.

The first championship was won by the mother/daughter team of Sandy and Susan Burke, who took the women's double championship (6-4, 6-7, 7-5) from another mother/daughter team, Gail and Pam Trafton. This match saw three sets of great doubles play and also gave us a preview of the women's singles finals.

This match had Susan Burke face Pam Trafton. Trafton, one of the finest young high school players in Massachusetts, proved to be too strong for Burke, defeating her (6-0, 6-0). Armed with a big serve and solid ground strokes, Trafton's game was awesome.

On the men's side Tom Savoie proved to be unstoppable throughout the two weeks. Never losing one set, Savoie used his smooth ground strokes that dominated the play in each match. In the final he defeated Joe Ryan (6-2, 6-0), to capture the Lionel "Shine" Buckley Cup for men's singles champions. The men's doubles finals brought two very seasoned teams against each other.

In the end, the longtime team of Lenny Ciavaro and Bruce Riddick defeated the 1975 men's double's champions, Joe McLaughlin and Steve Myatt, in three sets (6-3, 3-6, 6-4). The difference in this one proved to be the great service returns of Ciavaro and Riddick. McLaughlin and Myatt both posse big serves that Ciavaro and Riddick handled throughout the three very well played sets.

The men's 35 and over singles final saw defending champion Wayne Chatterton making it two in a row by defeating Chanapaul Akathaporn (6-0, 6-1). Chatterton's strong serve and great net play was the difference and proved too much to overcome.

The boys 16 and under final had two newcomers on the Quincy tennis scene take to the court. Ben Israel and David Goodman fought two tough sets with Israel coming out on top (6-2, 6-4) to win the title. These two boys both play very steady and will have to be watched in the future.

A popular event over the past few years has been the men's "B" singles. This year's final had two solid players, Edward Montejo and Steve NgGo, match up for two extremely well played sets, with Montejo defeating NgGo (6-1, 6-2).

The final match of the tournament was the mixed doubles final. The William B. Ryan Cup was a battle between the father/daughter team of Peter and Pam Trafton and Al McDonald and Susan

Bridgewater-Raynham 52, Quincy 12

Presidents Still Looking For Elusive First Win

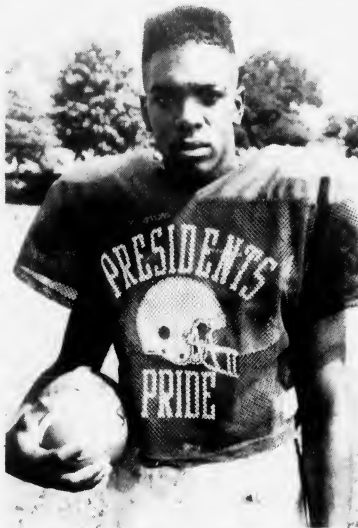

Quincy's football team has put last Saturday's nightmare behind it and is concentrating on winning its first game Friday night when it hosts Taunton in an Old Colony League game at Veterans Memorial Stadium at 7 o'clock.

The Presidents, very much in the game in the first quarter, were overwhelmed by Bridgewater-Raynham, 52-12, for one of the worst defeats for a Quincy team in some time.

Taunton takes a 1-2 record into Friday night's game, having defeated Plymouth and losing to New Bedford and Case.

"What can I say, we just have to forget this game and work hard for the Taunton game," Quincy coach Jack Raymer said. "We were in the game for a while but after Bridgewater-Raynham recovered a fumble deep in our territory and scored two plays later for a nine-point lead, it was all over. We just couldn't do anything either offensively or defensively."

"Their wishbone was working well and they had no trouble going through the line. Chris Walker, who had a dozen tackles, and Robbie Kane were making all of our tackles in the backfield. Offensively we couldn't move on them. Our quarterback (Pat Gallagher and Joe Crespi) were rushed consistently and had little chance to get passes off."

B-R, which scored 35 points in its opener but was surprisingly held scoreless by Canton, rushed for an amazing 475 yards while the Presidents were held to 28 yards on the ground and 48 yards through the air on six completions in 15 attempts.

Quincy actually held a 12-7 lead early as three touchdowns were scored on long runs.

"Mike Malvesti did some nice punting for us and Calvin White showed me enough to warrant more action in the future," Raymer said.

Quincy kicked off to open the game and on the first play from scrimmage B-R's Lenny Ferrara raced 66 yards for a score. Mike Donovan kicked the first of his seven extra points and is 12 for 12 in that department.

On the ensuing kickoff

Quincy's Walker broke loose and galloped 91 yards for a score but Donovan blocked Noel DiBona's extra point attempt.

For one of the few times in the game the Presidents held, forcing a punt and Kane romped 94 yards for Quincy's other touchdown but again Donovan blocked DiBona's kick.

It took the Trojans five plays after Quincy's score to tally again as Pat Pauline ran 38 yards for a score.

Quincy fumbled on the first play after the kickoff and B-R recovered on the Presidents' 31. Two plays later Pauline went 23 yards for a 21-12 lead with 41 seconds left in the opening quarter.

After that it was all Bridgewater-Raynham as its backs romped at will.

Walker made a fine play, knocking down a pass in the end zone and Donovan kicked a 24-yard field goal for a 24-12 lead early in the second quarter.

B-R then drove 75 yards in eight plays and quarterback Dave Zukowski passed to Justin Moscardelli for six yards and it was 31-12 at halftime.

Zukowski raced 70 yards for a touchdown in the third quarter and in the final session Danny Cox scored from the one and Jamie McKenna from the five.

The classic, sponsored by Screamers, had many prizes for both winners and losers. A closest-to-the-pin prize on the fifth and tenth holes went to Rick Golden and Robbie Glynn. For the second straight year Dave Kreuz of Merrymount won a pair of Red Sox tickets for the lowest score of 63.

Other prizes were donated by the Imperial Terrace, the Pepsi Corp., and Boston Bruin Chris Nilan, who gave an autographed hockey stick.

Goals Hard To Come By For North Boys

The North Quincy boys' soccer team continues to play competitively, but has had problems breaking into the win column.

Despite playing strong games against Eastern Mass. contenders New Bedford, Silver Lake and Weymouth, goals have been hard to come by.

The Raiders lost to a skillful New Bedford team, 3-0. Chris Olsen, Dan Dana and goalkeeper Adam Calvert had excellent games.

Against Silver Lake (5-1-0), North played a tough defensive first half, which ended scoreless.

The Lakers scored twice quickly in the second half, one on an indirect hit and the other on a head ball off a cross from the right corner.

North scored on a penalty kick by co-capt. Tom Johnson and had several fine chances following the score. Silver Lake ended the scoring with an indirect kick with a minute left in the game.

North also played a strong defensive game against unbeaten Weymouth (5-0), losing 2-0, after missing on several good scoring opportunities.

Olsen, Brian Fitzgerald, Paul Kearns and goalkeeper Calvert played well.

North will play at Falmouth Monday and will face Quincy for the second time Wednesday night under the lights at 7:30 at Kincaide Park.

Volleyball

North Girls In Flying Start

The North Quincy girls' volleyball team is off to a flying start with a 6-1 record and sole possession of first place in the Old Colony League following a 2-0 (15-3, 15-5) victory over Weymouth Monday.

Jim Rendle's North team played Quincy last night (Wednesday), will host Falmouth Friday and will be at Dennis-Yarmouth next Thursday.

Prior to Monday's win North had defeated Falmouth 2-0 (15-11, 15-4); topped perennial Div. I powerhouse Milford, 2-1 (15-10, 12-15, 15-13); defeated Dennis-Yarmouth 2-0 (15-3, 15-11); suffered its only loss to two-time Div. 2 state champion Medway, 2-1 (13-15, 15-6, 4-15), and handed Durfee its first loss 2-0 (15-8, 15-0).

North Quincy's success comes from a balance of experience, depth and athletic talent, according to coach Jim Rendle.

The North girls are led by senior captain and setter Brenda Hayduk and a strong group of seniors with plenty of playing experience, including outside hitters Cheryl Kelly, Tara Guarnieri and Jeanne Manning. Back row specialists are Tracy Linehan, Amy Wong and middle blocker Jen White.

Behind them are junior middle blockers Joanne Curreri and Heather Rendle, outside hitters Regina Murphy and Laura Rines and sophomore Maureen McCarthy.

"The blend of experience, athletic power and depth, coupled with the hard work and dedication these girls have shown should result in continued success," said Rendle.

North's junior varsity team is also 6-1 and has had consistently strong performances from setter Heather Simmons and outside hitter Wendy Sweetser on offense.

The defense has been solid behind the play of Melinda Roberts, Amy Detwiler and Amy Chin. Adding depth to the jayvee squad have been freshmen Missy Roberts, Michelle George, Karen Shea and Meghan Roche.

King Discusses Budget, Class Size, Vo-Tech

School Committee candidate Margaret "Peggy" King discussed budget, class size and the Center for Technical Education (formerly the Quincy-Vocational Technical School) at recent coffee hours hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Norman Greenfield and Mary Hanlon.

King said she had given a sample program budget to George Umschied, who is handling changes in the budget format. She said she hopes to see improvement in the format and the process which she believes should be greatly improved. Because of class sizes, increases at the elementary level have forced the school committee to add staff.

"Fortunately, the mayor was able to find money to help cover the costs involved.

"However, cuts in the budget have to be made again to handle the additional personnel. Increases in class size at the high school level are yet to be addressed," she said.

On the subject of vocational education, King reiterated her view that this area needs a full re-examination. "There is something amiss when the numbers of students enrolled in a full four-year vocational technical education program have declined so much

"When a 25-year teacher in the electronics department is released in this day and age of technology, when that area should be going full force, one must stop and look at the situation," King said.

"This was a world renowned school. Japan and West Germany sent people to find out how it operated. We need to provide a variety of educational programs for all students...business, vocational as well as college preparatory."

Eaton Campaign Kick-Off At Sons Of Italy Hall Oct. 7

Francis "Sandy" Eaton of Quincy, an Independent candidate for state representative in the Third Norfolk District, will kick-off his campaign Monday, Oct. 7 at 8 p.m. at the Quincy Sons of Italy Hall, 120 Quarry St.

The event will feature a cash bar, light refreshments and entertainment.

Suggested donation is $15 per person, $25 per couple. Tickets will be available at the door. For more information or to make reservations, call 472-3396.

Eaton's candidacy was recently endorsed by the United Electrical Workers Union District Two and Local 262, Service Employees International Union Local 509 and NursePLAN, the political action committee of the Massachusetts Nurses Association.

Eaton is a registered nurse at Quincy Hospital.

UE District Two covers all of the New England, while Local 262 represents workers in shops around the Greater Boston area. SEIU Local 509 is made up of some 10,000 social service and educational professionals across the state.

Responding to the endorsements, Eaton said, "I'm proud that my efforts on behalf of healthcare reform and tax justice have won the respect of people working in both the private and public sectors, in manufacturing and the service industries, as well as among professionals."

"Together, we can hammer out a truly universal health insurance system that everyone can afford. We can restructure the taxation system, both to give relief to our working families and to raise the revenue needed to provide necessary services."

Gorman Sworn In As Fire Chief

mayor, the candidates were interviewed by a panel set up by the mayor. Besides Sheets, the panel consisted of Executive Secretary Thomas Koch, Administrative Assistant Bernice Mader, City Solicitor Stephen McGrath and Personnel Director Kathleen Yaeger.

Gorman and Walsh were again interviewed last Friday by Sheets and Yaeger. "There were some areas that I was not happy with from both candidates and I wanted to probe both candidates," the mayor explained.

Among the issues discussed in the interviews were finances, overtime, unions, sick time and new ways of raising capital, such as through a city-run ambulance service.

In the end, Sheets said the decision proved to be very difficult.

"This was a very difficult decision because I like both men but I can only choose one and it was my choice. I made the decision."

"I know we had an interview process with an interview panel but they were simply there to solicit answers," the mayor said.

Sheets called both Gorman and Walsh "excellent candidates. I wish I could have appointed both of them chief," he said.

As the new chief, Sheets said Gorman will face extensive challenges in managing the department, particularly finances in light of dwindling revenue and rising costs.

"The new chief is going to face the extensive challenge of having the responsibility of delivering the highest level of fire services on a diminishing budget."

"We're going to be in difficult economic times for at least the next five years and certainly we have to look into reorganization of the delivery of fire services. The new chief will have to make sure we have maximum utilization of manpower and equipment."

Gorman's appointment is historical since it marks the first time a father and son have been chief of the fire department in the city of Quincy.

Gorman's father, the late Thomas Gorman, served as Quincy fire chief from 1947 to 1967. Gorman said his father's 43-year career on the department influenced his decision to become a firefighter.

"I grew up around the fire station with him. I went to fires with him," Gorman said.

"My father enjoyed the job. He enjoyed being a firefighter. I think he really enjoyed being chief, although some of the politics he didn't like."

As chief during the 1950s and 1960s, Gorman was one of the first fire officials to promote smoke detectors in residential homes. "Those detectors saved a tremendous amount of lives," his son said.

Although Gorman is following in his father's footsteps, he said he never aspired to become a fire chief.

"My aspiration was to become a deputy chief. I had some mixed emotions about being the chief, with its responsibilities. I enjoy going to fires and working with the men."

With 19 months experience as an acting chief, Gorman is not a stranger to sitting behind a desk doing administrative tasks such as formulating budgets.

"I know what it's going to be like but I never thought it would happen. There are other people in the department that I thought would be there."

One of the first issues Gorman said he will address is modernizing the internal operations of the department. "We've done a lot already. We've come into the computer age."

Over 1,500 Attend Quincy College Environmental Fair

Between 1,500 and 2,000 attended the recent Quincy College 4th annual Environmental Fair at the college.

The attendees, who seemed to consist of equal numbers of adults and children, were able to buy organic produce, sign up for a free energy inspection, or visit one of close to 50 booths filled with everything from a live owl to information on upcoming legislation and how to test for lead paint poisoning.

According to president O. Clayton Johnson, "What makes this fair different from many others is our family orientation. This year, with all the families that attended, we really achieved that goal."

Among the more unusual highlights of the fair were the seismic truck brought by U.S. Geological Survey, which demonstrated how workers can identify whether water, rock or various kinds of soil are under the ground through seismic readings, and the exhibit of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service which was brought in by a truck from New Hampshire. Also, Boston Gas brought a natural-gas powered vehicle, the same type now being driven by state environmental commissioner Susan Tierney, and Quincy Public Health Department displayed their popular doll-house exhibit outlining health hazards in the home.

Children particularly enjoyed having their faces painted as the earth by college staffer Marguerite DeFrancesco, and making wind socks and other environmentally related items.

More than 300 posters were displayed by school children from grades 2-8 as part of the Environmental Poster Contest co-sponsored by Quincy College and the Quincy Sun. Six posters were chosen for special awards and will be on display in the windows of the Sun on Hancock St., but all the children were winners and will receive ribbons and certificates.

As Fair Committee chairman Leo Kelly noted, "The children know much more than the adults about environmental issues, and these posters prove that. Many people have commented to me about how much knowledge and thought these posters demonstrate. If we all cared about the environment, the world would be a better place."

Names of all the participants in the poster contest will be announced in next week's Quincy Sun.

There's a new medical center in town.

A place where you can find a doctor, establish a relationship, get to know each other. A place where you can find a pediatrician, too.

It's a multi-service medical facility where you can get your check-ups, your throat cultured, your ankle X-rayed, your blood tested. And it's comforting to know that among the group of doctors that practice here, someone is always on call in case you need medical assistance after office hours.

Our location is probably already familiar to you, but our name is brand new—and our service is now open to the community. Formerly known as a health center for Medical East, a Blue Cross and Blue Shield HMO, we now accept Medical East (which will become part of HMO Blue) as well as most traditional health insurance plans.

Come introduce yourself or give us a call. We'll help you find a doctor.

Petition Would Separate Hospital Medical Staff From City Employees

The Public Health and Hospital Committee of the City Council Monday night unanimously approved to initiate a Home Rule Petition dealing with Chapter 268A, the Conflict of Interest Law.

The law, which was enacted several years ago, ruled that for the purposes of Chapter 268A, the members of the medical staff at Quincy Hospital are to be considered city employees.

Ellen Zane, director of the hospital, said that the reason she requested the petition was because the Conflict of Interest Law limits the hospital's ability to develop joint projects such as a "physician hospital organization" (PHO) or an office building with the medical staff.

"This (the petition) will help put Quincy Hospital back on a level playing field with its competition," she said.

A PHO is a joint venture between a hospital and its medical staff. It can be used to legally combine hospital and physician services into one package, priced jointly as if it were a single product. This is an important feature in developing contracts with managed care plans since it eliminates the need for managed care plans to negotiate with the hospital and its physicians individually.

"I thought originally that this would be putting the city on the hook, but the information you've given us shows that it's not," said Councillor Michael Cheney. "I'm going to support it enthusiastically."

Agreed Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson, "I hope the folks up in the State House realize that many of the chains that bind us are antiquated and should be thrown off."

The Home Rule Petition exempts Quincy Hospital medical staff members only for the purposes of the medical office building and the PHO.

The Roman Gardens restaurant now has until Oct. 29 to name a manager.

The state Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission recommended to the Quincy License Board that Roman Gardens receive a month to work out its problems relative to the ownership of the business and to name an official manager.

Last week the License Board told the operators of Roman Gardens to name a manager within a week or its licenses would be revoked.

License Board chairman John Gillis said the restaurant must have a manager of record who is responsible to the city and the state ABCC.

Wardan of Brockton, the partnership attempting to purchase Roman Gardens, has been operating the restaurant since agreeing to buy it in January from D.F.G., Inc.

Ward Reed of WarDan told the board that the partners in D.F.G. have been unable to agree on naming a manager and unable to agree on terms for selling Roman Gardens.

$9,000 Approved For Fire Dept. EMT Program

The City Council Monday night unanimously approved the allocation of $9,000 to the Fire Department for the purpose of educational expenditures.

Fire Chief Thomas Gorman explained that 30 members of the department took part in an Emergency Medical Training program that cost $300 per person, which is where the figure of $9,000 came from.

Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan noted that the EMT program is a worthwhile one, saying "A large number of the fire calls that come in nowadays are medical calls."

Gorman agreed with Phelan's assessment.

Joint Commission Awards Quincy Hospital Accreditation

Quincy Hospital has achieved accreditation from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations as a result of its demonstrated compliance with the Joint Commission's healthcare standards.

The Joint Commission's on-site survey took place in June.

John Clem of the commission said, "Above all, the national standards mandate that attention to quality be a top-level activity that permeates the entire organization."

Healthcare

professionals are expected to use indicators of quality to monitor and evaluate all areas of clinical care. Clem said the people of Quincy and surrounding communities should be proud of Quincy Hospital's continuing commitment to raise the quality of the services they provide.

Ellen Zane, director of Quincy Hospital, commended the staff, stating that the accreditation review highlighted the "terrific job our employees, medical staff and Board are doing to provide quality patient care."

SURGERY FOR CHILDREN

Surgery can be a scary prospect for any of us, but it is even more so when that surgery involves our children. The way children approach surgery is determined partly by their age. Very young children, under age five, are often most frightened by the idea of being separated from their families. After that age, children start to be more concerned about whether anesthesia will really work, losing control of their bodies, and having people they don't know taking care of them. As they enter their teens, children start to have concerns much like those of their parents. They worry about how their bodies will function and look after surgery. In most cases, it is advisable for parents to ask someone from the surgical team or the hospital's preadmission program to talk with the child to provide information and emotional support.

P.S. Ask the doctor for names of children the same age who have had similar surgery and would be willing to share their experiences.

If you have questions about your child and surgery, call your Pediatrician, or call us. We'll try to answer your questions and refer you for further consultation or advice if necessary. This column is presented in the interest of better health by COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE, specializing in cardiology and treatment for hypertension and cholesterol-related problems. ## McCauley Eyes GOP Run

Former Mayor Frank McCauley may soon be back on the political front.

McCauley, who is now Executive Director of the State Board of Retirement, says he is "seriously considering" running for Republican State Committeeman in the Norfolk District which comprises Quincy, Braintree, Holbrook and Avon.

The seat is now held by McCauley's Andy Card, Assistant to President Bush and White House Deputy Chief of Staff.

McCauley has no thoughts of taking on Card. Card, McCauley says, is giving up the seat because it is difficult for him to serve in that post because of his White House commitments and busy schedule.

Card is considered by some observers as a potential challenger to Senator Edward Kennedy in 1994.

Nomination papers for the State Committee post will be available Nov. 8. The election will be held with the Presidential Primaries next March.

Kathy Roberts of Quincy is the GOP State Committeewoman and is expected to seek re-election to another four-year term. With McCauley a candidate, Quincy could very well wind up with both state posts.

Incidentally, in case you might be wondering, there would be no conflict for McCauley to hold both his state retirement board post and state GOP committeeman seat. He has already checked that out.

INCIDENTALLY, McCauley raised $7,638 in sponsor pledges in last Saturday's third annual Jimmy Fund Marathon Walk which covers the same 26.2 mile route of the Boston Marathon.

He finished the grind in six hours, 2 minutes — 23 minutes faster than last year. He had hoped to get under the six hour mark.

This brings to $13,853 he has raised in the three walks to help fight cancer in children and for patient care.

By the way, if you have a few pounds you'd like to shed, try walking. McCauley lost seven pounds on Saturday.

FORMER STATE SENATOR William Golden has reached across the Fore River Bridge to endorse Quincy's Ron Mariano for state representative in the Oct. 15 Democratic primary.

At a recent coffee hour at his home, Golden cited Mariano's actively working for the community with "a proven record of effective grassroots leadership."

MILESTONE: James (Pete) Ricciuti, who was a major figure in the elections and administrations of Mayors James McIntyre, Walter Hannon and Arthur Tobin, turned a young 75 the other day and was honored at a party by friends and family.

Pete, who doesn't even look 75, says his hair is natural black and there is no truth whatsoever to speculation he might owe it to olive oil.

Friends rib him that at least he could tell them what brand of olive oil it is.

"I think he's mixing it with shoe polish," long-time friend Atty. Carl Johnson muses.

If anything, Ricciuti must have found the Fountain of Youth.

Athletic Committee Donates $1,000 For Adams Field

By MICHAEL WHALEN
The City Council Monday night accepted a gift of $1000 from the Quincy Schools Athletic Contributions Committee for the purpose of the beautification of Adams Baseball Field.

Committee member Ron Mariano said "We want to make a contribution in some of the areas that have suffered because of tight fiscal restraints.

"This money will be used to improve the infield of Adams Field, which is one of the best baseball fields around...We want to make sure it remains that way."

Mariano also took the opportunity to speak on behalf of the committee's plans for new aluminum seating at Quincy Municipal Stadium.

"We're trying to raise a total of $80,000 for the seating," he said, adding that the committee's efforts are for the purpose of "trying to generate some sort of enthusiasm and pride."

Mariano noted that those wishing to contribute to the stadium fund may have their names engraved in the seating for a contribution of $300.

"We (the committee) can't think of a better way to spend our money," he said.

Real Estate Update

Steve Fitzpatrick

OVERPRICING CAN BE COSTLY

QUESTION: Several REALTORS have told me that my house is overpriced by about 20% and, in the long run, could cost me money. How can this be?

ANSWER: Because overpricing stops buyers from considering your home. No matter how much is spent on advertising, an overpriced home will not sell. Prime prospects who should have bought, have gone elsewhere to buy. When a home remains unsold too long, interest stops because buyers become wary. Eventually your house will sell, but for less than you could have realized had you priced it realistically. Use extreme caution in pricing your house more than 5 percent above its market value.

OVERPRICING A HOUSE will lose more good prospects than anything else.

Boston Firm Agrees To Bond $6 Million For U.S.S. Lexington

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

With the future of the U.S.S. Lexington to be decided within the next two weeks, Quincy's bid received a major financial boost Tuesday when a Boston-based bonding company agreed to underwrite $6 million in bonds if the city wins custody of the ship.

Mayor James Sheets said the agreement by Adams, Harkness and Hill makes the city's financial package much stronger. "It's a major piece of the financial part. The other cities (Corpus Christi, Texas and Mobile, Alabama) do not have the capability to bond up to $6 million. It gives us a real plus."

According to Sheets, the Lexington Corporation set up by state and local officials was notified by Adams, Harkness and Hill that the bonding company would underwrite $6 million of a $10 million bond issue to bring the Lexington to Quincy and set up the Quincy-built aircraft carrier as a shipbuilders museum and tourist attraction in the Town River.

The revenue would be used to tow the Lexington from Philadelphia to Quincy, dredging the Town River site, acquiring the land and constructing a custom-built cradle which the carrier will rest.

Sheets called the financial agreement the biggest news pertaining to the Lexington in the past two weeks. With the agreement, the mayor said he is comfortable with the financial aspects of the city's bid for the ship.

"I'm comfortable with the finances of the project. It's an absolutely doable project with will energize Downtown Quincy."

If Quincy wins custody of the ship, Adams, Harkness and Hill will underwrite bonds for $6 million 60 days after the bonds are issued. The underwriting means the Lexington Corporation will automatically receive the $6 million 60 days after the bonds are issued.

"Sixty days after the issuance of bonds, $6 million would be transferred to the Lexington Corporation. The underwriting of the bonds demonstrates the private sector views the Lexington project as a sound one" the mayor said.

"These bonds would be issued by the Lexington Corporation and there is absolutely no obligation by the city or the state to pay for these bonds over time. The legislation creating the Lexington Development Corporation prohibits the city and state from making any bond payments."

"The corporation would pay for the bonds with revenue generated by admissions, sponsorships, functional use of the ship and private contributions," he said.

Sheets noted several major corporations, including Anheuser-Busch, Pepsi-Cola and Polaroid have all inquired about sponsoring the Lexington's return.

The mayor said Tuesday he expects Navy Secretary H. Lawrence Garrett to decide which city receive custody of the ship within two weeks.

Until a decision is made, the mayor said his office will continue its intense lobbying drive. "We will not let up on our lobbying until the decision is made."

"The information flow may be completed by the lobbying will not end until the decision is made by the secretary. We'll be recontacting some Congressional people who know the secretary of the Navy and follow up on leads on people who could encourage the secretary to allow the Lexington to come home."

Wildcat Strike Of War Workers Ends At Fore River

A wildcat strike of some 5,500 workers at the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Fore River Shipyard ended when management and labor agreed to turn their dispute over to the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration.

First of the workers to walk out were 1,800 welders, complaining that the company had upgraded rates and revised the bonus contract system without consulting with the union.

William Mullancy, president of the Independent Union of Fore River Workers, said the strike was not authorized but was led by "loud-voiced demurrers" in disregard of an understanding with the company.

The strike was kept from spreading throughout the yard by Major Edward C. Madden, an Air Corps veteran just back from 30 months in Europe, who spoke to the men about hardships suffered overseas.

The shipyard continued to operate during the walkout.

Kathleen Bitetti of Washington Court, Quincy, has been selected as the 1991-92 recipient of the UMass/Boston Alumni Association Scholarship Award.

Scholarship Chairman Thomas S. Vangel said, "The award recognizes a student whose commitment to the university has proven exemplary and who has demonstrated potential to enhance the university's reputation upon graduation."

Bitetti ranked eighth in her Quincy High School class in 1986 and had originally enrolled in Brandeis University. At Quincy High, she was president of the National Honor Society.

She is studying arts and economics at the university, and is currently the director of the Harbor Gallery in the McCormack Building at the Harbor Campus, a post she has held for three years.

"The past year has forced me to realize that the arts are in grave danger," she said, "and that artists have to take a more active role in saving funding for the arts and stopping censorship in general. I feel that my degrees will enable me to do just this."

During the current academic year, Bitetti plans to write an honors thesis combining both majors that will focus on public policy for the arts. She plans to pursue graduate studies at UMass/Boston's McCormack Institute or at Harvard University's Kennedy School.

"I'm also involved with the Boston Coalition for Freedom of Expression," she said. "This group was formed due to the current rise of censorship that is sweeping the nation. We fight censorship on the local, state and national levels. I also work in the Visitor Services Department at the Harvard University Art Museum."

Bitetti has been curator of 16 exhibitions at the Harbor Gallery and of others in the Healey Library on the campus. The gallery has shown works by former UMass/Boston professor Ros Barron and by photographer Jerry Berndt.

Nutley Explains Opposition To Norfolk Downs Rezoning

Before 50 residents at a recent coffee hour held at Walsh's Restaurant, Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley explained why he opposed the rezoning of the Norfolk Downs area.

"That proposed rezoning would have allowed 10-story buildings and the inhabitants would have choked the area with intolerable traffic so I opposed and defeated the proposal," Nutley said.

Responding to other questions, Nutley briefed attendees on the status of the Sagamore Inn. "Upon my recommendation, and police testimony, the city licensing board voted five to zero to withdraw the bar's license to operate. They can stay open temporarily while they appeal the licensing board's decision to the state ABCB."

Nutley addressed other issues, including his imminent donation of $15,000 in business linkage monies to the Atlantic and Squantum Community Associations for large screen televisions and VCR's for the entertainment of senior citizens at the centers and computers for the after school education of youngsters at both community centers.

In response to a question about the recent attacks on women in the Montclair area, Nutley announced that he had contacted both the police and the Atlantic Center director to hold an evening meeting in the near future at the Atlantic Center.

He also announced he will hold another community meeting at the "Best Buy" site at Quincy Shore Dr. and East Squantum St. in late October. At that time, Nutley will discuss the negotiations that have occurred between he and the building owner and the improvements to the first proposal presented by the owner.

"We have made great progress in addressing the concerns articulated to us at an earlier meeting," he said.

In closing, Nutley urged the attendees to pay close attention to the debates that he had requested of the two community associations and of WDA and Continental Cablevision. "It's important that the public gets a full opportunity to hear the candidates and their stands on the issues that affect you," he said.

"Our community is only as worthwhile as the work that we do to protect it so let's all watch the debates and then turn out on Nov. 5 to vote for the candidate of our choice," Nutley said.

Bragg Addresses Classroom Overcrowding, Consolidation

School Committee candidate JoAnn (Grazio) Bragg says many residents have expressed concerns about overcrowded classrooms and consolidation to our high school while she has been knocking on doors, attending PTO meetings and candidates' nights.

Bragg acknowledged concerns such as these are a big part of the reason she wants to be on the school committee. "Earlier budget decisions contributed to the overcrowding problems we now have."

"We need school committee members who understand the consequences of their votes. Since I have children in each level I will know exactly how each level will be impacted."

"My financial background will guide me make decisions based on utilizing each penny wisely and making sure all funds are spent to enhance quality education. Our graduates should leave our schools with the skills necessary to become caring, productive citizens."

Commenting on high school consolidation, Bragg said, "Before this option is even considered, several issues need to be addressed."

"One, we have a growing elementary population, a population that has just started to filter up to our middle schools and soon will be in our high schools. This year we are dealing with overcrowded classrooms in our high schools and elementary schools."

"Two, what about costs? Has anyone looked into the additional costs needed to renovate either of our high schools to be adaptable to a one high school city?

"Third, what about federal and state mandates on class size for our special needs and bilingual students. How will these legal requirements be adhered to?"

At this time, Bragg said she is against the closing of any school and believes there are too many unanswered questions. "In the past, too many schools have been closed. That's a large part of the reason we presently have overcrowding."

"Short term decisions are not the answer," Bragg said. "We need to look at the overall picture and plan for long-range educational goals."

"ISSUES:" WARD SIX

We the committee to re-elect Ward 6 Councillor, Thomas J. Nutley, family and friends, believe that Tom Nutley is the best Ward 6 council candidate by far. We also believe he is one whose every concern has been for the betterment of the Ward 6 community. Let's look at some of the "issues" and his actions on behalf of the people and communities of Ward 6:

* Issue #1: Responsiveness and Accessibility:

Tom Nutley has been accessible and responsible to the needs of the people of Ward 6. He has "delivered" services as well, or better, to his constituents than any Ward 6 councillor ever.

* Issue #2: Deer Island Jail to North Quincy:

When the relocation of the Winthrop-Deer Island jail, and it's massive traffic, to Quincy - Moon Island seemed a certainty, Tom Nutley gathered thousands of signatures in opposition and led the drive to halt the jail's relocation to Quincy.

* Issue #3: Combined Sewer-Water Bills:

Tom Nutley fought the implementation of this charge. As an alternative, he submitted to the city 31 less painful ideas to raise revenues and reduce city expenses.

* Issue #4: Sagamore Inn:

Despite being sued personally, Tom Nutley demanded the close up of the Sagamore Inn (so voted 5-0 on September 24)

* Issue #5: Community Protection - Zoning:

Tom Nutley rezoned much of North Quincy to prevent high-rise development.

He defeated a proposal that would have allowed ten (10) story buildings in Norfolk Downs.

He served as chairman of the City Council's Zoning Review Committee, held public hearings and wrote the final report of 55 ordinances which checked uncontrolled development.

With the aid of a Citizens Advisory Committee, he down-sized future development at Marina Bay.

He rezoned the Quincy Shore Drive-East Squantum Street area to prevent congested, high-rise development at this dangerous intersection.

* Issue #6: Tax Classification:

Tom supports tax classification (higher taxes on business; lower taxes on residents) His opponent does not support classification.

* Issue #7: Community Centers:

Tom obtained Federal and private business (linkage) funds TVs and VCRs for Senior Citizen visitors and computers for youngsters at both centers.

* Issue #8: Helicopter Landing Station:

He led the successful community opposition to the establishment of a noisy, all night-late night helicopter station at North Quincy.

* Issue #9: Neighborhood Tensions:

Tom Nutley courageously faced the problems and initiated the programs that helped to reduce violence and to diffuse tensions between the new Asian residents and long time Quincy residents.

* Issue #10: "No Heat" Assistance and Snow Removal Info:

At Tom Nutley's urging, the night and week-end telephone number for both was instituted.

* Issue #11: Labor:

Tom Nutley is the only Ward 6 candidate with the solid support and endorsements of virtually every major labor union.

* Issue #12: The Future:

Tom Nutley gained $1-3 million from the MWRA to reconstruct the dangerous East Squantum Street-Quincy Square Drive intersection. Other traffic reconstruction will follow - also, he has worked with the MWRA and MDC to guarantee us 45 acres of future passive recreation open space at Squantum Point Park at Marina Bay.

Note: Informational "position papers" on the above issues are available upon request.

McGlone Wants Gasoline Tax Money Spent On Roads, Bridges

Jack McGlone of Weymouth, a Democratic candidate for state representative in the Third Norfolk District, has called on Beacon Hill to use all of the revenue from the 1990 increase in gasoline tax to repair collapsing roads and bridges.

Last year, the legislature adopted a 10 percent increase in the gas tax to finance needed repairs to the state's transportation infrastructure through the Highway Fund. At the end of FY 91, the balance in the fund was approximately $230 million.

"This surplus has unconstitutionally been used to plug the state's general revenue deficit, instead of being used to repair our decaying roads and bridges," McGlone said. "Road and bridge repair would greatly help the economy by creating thousands of needed jobs, not to mention making our bridges and highways safer for everyone."

"People are furious that monies collected by the Commonwealth for the purpose of repairing our roads and bridges are being used to balance the budget on paper, without addressing the problems that caused the deficit. This fiscal dishonesty must be stopped."

McGlone pledged to support efforts to institute a "pay as you go" program for the Highway Fund. This payment of funding would save the state on interest costs that are incurred under the usual bonding method. The savings would then be utilized to fund more highway repair.

The state DPW is responsible for 2,899 bridges. Regarding their condition, 377 are structurally deficient; 984 are functionally obsolete; 805 are more than 50 years old; 288 are posted for weight restrictions; and 40 are closed to traffic. Some bridges fall into more than one category.

"We don't need any expensive studies or commissions," McGlone said. "All we need is a common sense approach to our crumbling infrastructure and insist the Highway Funds are used to create jobs while overhauling our roads and bridges."

IF YOU'RE TIRED OF ROLLERCOASTER HEATING PRICES, PIPE UP

The cost of natural gas remains stable without fast up, down and around price fluctuations associated with heating oil. One of the main reasons for this is the fact that almost all of our supplies come from North America, making natural gas an energy resource that we control. So if you want steady energy costs as well as a steady supply, pipe up. And switch to natural gas heat.

Durkin Wants School-Community Based Decision-Making Policy

School Committeeman Stephen Durkin has called on School Supt. Dr. Robert Ricci to establish a policy which allows for school-community based decision-making regarding the filling of building level administrative levels.

In his letter, Durkin wrote, "We should begin to move forward to school-based decision-making not only in hiring, but in curriculum development and budgeting. In the area of hiring it is unclear to me that school building staff and parents should have considerable involvement in the selection of individual school administrators, and perhaps even classroom teachers.

"As an initial first step, it would be my thought to require that all building level administrative positions be filled only after a screening process which seeks input from the effected school community, regardless of the number of applicants.

"It is my belief that school-based hiring decisions would, as much as possible, eliminate political considerations from the hiring process. Secondly, a strong argument can be made that school principles, teachers and active parents are most familiar with the needs and objectives of their school," Durkin said.

"While we should always encourage school system staff to apply for job openings, I believe that it would be a positive factor to advertise positions widely, if that is what the individual school community desires, with the objective of obtaining the most qualified and best-suited candidate," he added.

Durkin asked Ricci to place the item on the School Committee agenda for the Oct. 16 meeting.

Open House At NQHS Oct. 17

The North Quincy High School Staff and Parent Board will be holding an open house at the school on Thursday, Oct. 17 from 7 to 9 p.m.

Parents are invited to attend and follow their student's schedules, meet their teachers, have an opportunity to hear what each course is about, and what the students are expected to do in terms of homework, assignments, and classwork. The format will be for informational purposes rather than for holding parent-teacher conferences.

Pride Committee members will be around the building to assist in finding classrooms.

Refreshments will be provided in the cafeteria to enjoy during study hall periods. First period will begin promptly at 7 p.m., so it is suggested that parent arrive at 6:50 p.m. in order to be in the first period classrooms at 7 p.m.

IF YOU'RE CONCERNED ABOUT A CLEANER ENVIRONMENT, PIPE UP.

When you heat with natural gas, we can all breathe a little easier. Because it's the cleanest fossil fuel there is, it's better for the environment. In fact, natural gas produces virtually none of the chemicals that cause smog and acid rain. So if you want to keep your home and our air cleaner, pipe up. And heat with natural gas.

Powers Proposes Quarterly Review Of School Budget

At a recent School Committee meeting, Jane Powers proposed the committee adopt a quarterly budget review process.

She noted that with the revisions currently underway in the budget document itself as well as the increased computer capabilities that quarterly reports would ensure greater fiscal accountability throughout the system.

Quarterly reports on the budget line items will alert the committee to potential problem areas so that decisions to correct imbalances can be made consistent with the priority needs of the system as determined by the committee.

Powers said the end of the year budget transfers were too late in the process to allow for adequate input by the School Committee.

The committee unanimously accepted the proposal.

Miller Resigns Law Firm Position To Run Full-Time For Councillor-At-Large

George Miller, a candidate for city councillor-at-large, has resigned from his position at a Boston-based law firm to campaign full time.

"My decision to resign was made only after discussing it with my family. I came to the conclusion that despite our aggressive campaign, my efforts have to be intensified to overcome the name recognition advantage the incumbents enjoy," Miller said.

"Financially, it will be a difficult period for me, however, my desire to serve the people of Quincy outweighs my personal sacrifice and I am not a stranger to personal sacrifices. There were seven children in my family and resources were always spread thin."

Miller, a resident of 120 Summer St., said he began working when he was 11 years old as a shoeshine boy in the bars throughout Quincy Point. He also collected scrap metal, stacked bottles, shoveled snow and delivered newspapers when he was younger.

"My mother and father died when I was just a teenager, but despite this, I was able to overcome tragedy and adversity and work my way through college and law school, and if given the privilege to serve the people of Quincy, I will bring my willingness to make personal sacrifices and ability to overcome adversity as well as my experience as an attorney to the office of councillor-at-large," Miller said.

"My full-time campaigning efforts will be directed at continuing my door-to-door campaign and speaking at the many coffee hours I have scheduled throughout the month of October at the city's senior citizens housing complexes.

"Additionally, I will be working more aggressively to inform the people of Quincy that if elected I will strongly oppose any further cuts in funding for the school, fire and police departments and that the protection of the residents interests with regard to the environment is one of my top priorities."

'Riches Spiritually Hazardous' United Methodist Topic

Offertory ushers will be Mr. and Mrs. Michael Johnson and at the fellowship hour Liz Buccella, Paula Gilbert Mulrey, Barbara Fielding and Irene Yoerger will serve as hostesses.

During the service, Liz Buccella will speak on the 1992 budget. Following the pastor's "Young Disciples" message, Sunday school will convene.

A bake sale will be held Friday, Oct. 11. The 3M's Club will have its first fall meeting with a pot luck supper following which, Rev. and Mrs. Soper will show color slides of their pulpit exchange in California and the Hunters will also show color slides of their recent trip to Alaska. Saturday, Oct. 12, the Sunday school will sponsor a car wash in the church parking lot from 10 to 2.

Mariano Stresses Long Community Service

Ron Mariano, candidate for State Representative from the Third Norfolk District in the Democratic primary Tuesday, Oct. 15, says he will provide a fresh voice on Beacon Hill, but one that has the benefit of many years of community service.

"As a lifelong resident of the Third Norfolk District, I know firsthand the problems faced by Weymouth and Quincy," he said. "All my adult life I have been active and involved in our communities. We need and deserve a representative who will stand up to the special interest lobbyists and attorneys which have helped to create the dilemma our area faces."

"The financial crisis our district is suffering demands a representative with the experience and background to make sound decisions, a candidate with a proven record of commitment to our area that will provide strong, compassionate and independent leadership. I can and will provide that leadership," Mariano said.

"I have spoken out publicly on the issues facing our area--the sludge treatment plant, toxic waste incineration, the Edison plant, unemployment, quality education, local aid, affordable health care and the environment, just to name a few. My views are well known and I have not flip-flopped on any issue for political considerations."

"I want to see our working men and women back at work; I want our children to have a quality education; I want a safe, clean environment for this and future generations; I want to see our area receive the State and Federal funds which it deserves. I believe, as your next State Representative, I can make a difference."

"For a fresh voice on Beacon Hill, with a proven record of accomplishment at the local level, I hope that you will vote for me to be your Democratic nominee for State Representative on Tuesday, Oct. 15. Together we can make a difference; we can take Beacon Hill back from the special interests."

With the special primary election less than a week away, the two Democratic candidates for state representative in the Third Norfolk District collectively have raised and spent more than $30,000.

Campaign finance reports filed Tuesday in the secretary of state's office show Ronald Mariano and Jack McGlone have raised a combined $31,650 and have spent a total of $31,000 in their bids to win the Democratic nomination which will be decided Tuesday, Oct. 15.

McGlone, who is waging his first attempt at public office, has outraised and outspent Mariano. According to the reports, McGlone has raised $19,945 while Mariano has raised $11,705, a difference of $8,240.

In terms of expenditures, McGlone has spent $18,707 compared to Mariano's $12,294, a difference of $6,413.

Mariano, who was elected to the Quincy School Committee two years ago, began his fundraising with a balance of $959. McGlone did not have a previous balance since this is his first run for office.

As for ending balances, McGlone has $1,237 in his campaign chest while Mariano has $369 left.

McGlone's report lists 97 contributions, mostly in $100 and $200 amounts. His report also lists three $500 donations and five $1,000 donations, including on $1,000 contribution from Norfolk County District Attorney

William Delahunt of Quincy.

Other notable contributors are former state Attorney General and gubernatorial candidate Francis Bellotti ($500), Bridge and Structural Ironworkers Local 7 ($200) and Local 537 Pipefitters ($100).

Mariano's report lists 64 contributions, a vast majority of them being $100 and $200. He did not receive any $1,000 contributions. He did receive three separate contributions of $500 each, two of which came from outside the district.

Notable contributors to the Mariano campaign include Mayor James Sheets ($100), School Committee candidate and boyfriend friend Daniel Raymonds ($100) and Council President Ted DeCristofaro ($100).

were 5,507 registered Democrats and 2,571 registered Independents in the Quincy side of the district, a total of 8,078 voters. In Weymouth, there were 4,057 registered Democrats and 4,835 registered Independents in the district, a total of 8,892 voters.

The figures do not include Democrats and Independents who enrolled from Sept. 12 to Sept. 25. In Quincy, officials said new registration was light, with approximately 30 new voters.

Tuesday's special primary is shaping up as a classic confrontation between a seasoned political veteran and an optimistic first-time candidate.

Mariano, 44, worked for former State Rep. Robert Cerasoli when the latter was chairman of the House Post Audit and Oversight Committee. In July, Cerasoli stepped down as state representative to become the state's new inspector general.

His resignation set off a scramble for the seat which has been in the hands of a Quincy Democrat since 1968.

Mariano calls himself a "logical contender" for the seat because of his civic involvement and work on issues pertaining to the district, such as the MWRA sludge facility in Quincy Point and Clean Harbors' bid for a toxic waste incinerator in East Braintree near the Quincy line.

A former teacher and lifelong resident of the district, Mariano was elected to the Quincy School Committee two years ago.

On the other hand, McGlone, 32, is making his first bid for public office. He said he is seeking the seat because he believes voters have become "disenfranchised" with elected officials and the status quo of state government.

As a first-time candidate, McGlone says he has no "political debts." He said hopes to bring his experience as a trial attorney to Beacon Hill. A 28-year resident of the district, McGlone has labeled himself as "an advocate for the underdog" meaning taxpayer.

Gillis and Fryer both said they expect election results to be known by 9:30 p.m. Tuesday. Quincy and Weymouth each utilize an electronic scanner to count punch-card ballots.

The polls will be open in Quincy and Weymouth from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Next Tuesday's special state primary election will be the first in Quincy in 16 years. On Nov. 18, 1975, then Ward 4 Councillor James Sheets won both the Democratic and Republican nominations for state representative in the former Fourth Norfolk District.

Sheets, who ran as a Democrat, edged Atty. Joseph Killian by 124 votes (1,191 to 1,067) for the Democratic nomination. Sheets received 151 write-in ballots on the blank Republican ballot, one more than necessary to qualify.

Sixteen years ago, only 3,709 of an estimated 14,000 voters or 26 percent turned out to cast ballots in the special primary which drew a field of five candidates.

A special election was scheduled that fall after William Delahunt vacated the seat when he was appointed Norfolk County District Attorney by former Gov. Michael Dukakis.

No Public Response To West Quincy Building Moratorium

The City Council Monday night held a hearing on a proposed six-month building moratorium for the Willard Street area.

According to Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio, the moratorium would freeze development during a development study that is part of the deal allowing the national retail chain Home Depot to develop the former Antonelli Iron Works site on Willard St.

Fabrizio, whose ward includes the Antonelli site, had established provisions recently for Home Depot to get council approval to develop the property.

When asked if he knew of any buildings under current construction that would be delayed by the freeze, Fabrizio said "Not at this time."

No public response was generated during the hearing.

The council referred the moratorium proposal to the planning board without a vote.

Profiles Of Democratic Candidates For State Representative In The Third Norfolk District

Mariano: 'I'll Work For The People Of Quincy, Weymouth'

By ROBERT BOSWORTH
Ronald Mariano of Quincy, one of two Democratic contenders for state representative in the Third Norfolk District, says his past experience and involvement in the community best qualifies him to be the next legislator from the district.

Citing his work on such issues as fighting the MWRA sludge facility in Quincy Point and helping defeat a toxic waste incinerator in nearby East Braintree, Mariano said "I come from Quincy Point, I have been active in issues that affect both Quincy and Weymouth."

"I was active in the Clean Harbors' (incinerator) issue. I was active in the MWRA sludge siting issues. I am someone who understands the issues, who has dealt with the issues and has tried to effect some change."

"I think that's my basic qualification that I bring to this position. I'm very familiar with a lot of issues affecting Quincy and Weymouth. I have worked to support the people of Quincy and I will work to support the people of Weymouth," Mariano said.

Mariano, a lifelong Quincy resident, also said his two years on time on the Quincy School Committee is an asset.

"My experience on the school committee brings some knowledge that would help solve some problems that Weymouth is dealing with currently in their school systems so I think I have a combination of experiences that make me a logical contender for this seat."

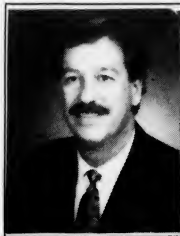

Mariano says the most important issue affecting Quincy and Weymouth is stabilizing local aid to the two communities.

"We need to stabilize local aid so that cities and towns know what they're dealing with so that they can begin to restructure and reorganize their town and city governments. This constant changing of the dollar amount creates haphazard budget cutting."

"It doesn't allow any long-range planning," said Mariano, who as a member of the Quincy School Committee, has been faced with three budget cuts in the city's school system so far this year because of reduced aid.

"Consequently, you're not making any intelligent cuts, you're just reacting and everything is done in a compressed time frame so you don't have a lot of opportunity to investigate reorganization and significant change and I think that's a real detriment in running a town or a city and I think it's a problem that's endemic to both Quincy and Weymouth."

Noting Quincy lost $4.5 million and Weymouth $2.4 million in local aid this fiscal year, he said, "Cities and towns have to know what

RONALD MARIANO

Name: Ronald Mariano
Age: 44
Address: 57 Presidential Dr., Quincy
Occupation: unemployed; resigned from position with Public Protection Bureau of Attorney General's Office to run for seat
Education: 1964 graduate of Quincy High School; 1969 graduate of Northeastern University, BS in business administration; 1972 graduate of UMass Boston, masters in education Activities: Past president and current board of director of the Ward 2 Civic Association; chairman of Ward 2 Democratic Committee; member of Norfolk County Advisory Board; co-founder and coordinator of Presidents Youth Basketball League; secretary and clerk of Quincy Schools Athletic Contribution Committee; member of Quincy School Committee.

they're working with and what they're going to be working with and I think that is primarily the issue.

"Having been someone who has been on the front lines trying to deliver local services in this reduced economic time it's almost impossible to do anything intelligently when you're reacting to budget cuts like that."

Infected, Mariano said he would support or file legislation intended to stabilize local aid payments to municipalities.

"I think cities and towns have to have a base. I would support a measure so that funding for every city and town would not be reduced from year to year, it would only be increased, maybe tied to some sort of percentage increase with inflation and I don't think that's an unrealistic request to make for state government."

Asked whether he would support a tax increase if the revenue were earmarked for local aid, Mariano replied, "I don't think you have to support a tax increase specifically for local aid. I'm not going to tax a new taxes pledge; I think we may have to look at state revenues at some point."

"I think we certainly have to look at the way we fund our school systems and the way we're funding our police and fire departments and so I think I will be taking a look at dedicated revenue enhancements for these three specific areas but I think there's sufficient money to fund local aid."

"I think the question isn't the amount of local aid, the question is stabilizing it at a particular figure so that you're not dealing with these fluctuations of $2.4 million in Weymouth and $4.5 million in Quincy."

"I think that's the crux of the problem. It doesn't allow for any long-range planning."

Mariano also expressed his opinions on the reactivation of the Edgar power station, a state early retirement incentive program, consolidating four state police divisions and making the MWRA more accountable.

Regarding Boston Edison's plans to reactivate the Edgar plant located in the Fore River industrial basin, Mariano said he is concerned about the negative impact it may pose on the environment and health of nearby residents.

Acknowledging the plant would provide Weymouth with much needed tax revenue and some jobs, he said, "You hear an awful lot about this being a labor issue but you have to remember that the people who live around the Fore River industrial basin, the Weymouth and Quincy residents, are blue collar people, they're union people too."

"Someone has to protect their interests as far as their properties, their homes and the air that they breathe. I'm not necessarily convinced that it's a bad idea. I just think we have to be very, very sure the life and property rights of the individuals that live in Weymouth and Quincy are protected."

As for an early retirement plan for state workers proposed by the Weld administration, Mariano said such plans must be analyzed critically. Recalling a similar program offered to Quincy school employees, he said, "It was not the rousing success that was anticipated."

"I think an early retirement plan has to be looked at very, very carefully and the numbers have to be absolutely accurate because you can end up getting seriously hurt financially by offering too many incentives and having far too many people taking advantage of it."

Concerning the consolidation of the State, Registry, Metropolitan and Capital police into one department, Mariano said, "I think if you can significantly save money, it's something that should be done. There's obviously a duplication of effort in some areas and an overlapping of powers that might be streamlined by the consolidation so it would be something that I would look at and support if it was shown to provide some savings."

McGlone: 'I'll Be An Advocate For The Underdog'

By ROBERT BOSWORTH
John (Jack) McGlone of Weymouth says his family's blue-collar upbringing and political newcomer status set him apart from his Democratic opponent in the race for state representative in the Third Norfolk District.

Noting his late father was a plumber and a member of Local 12, McGlone said, "In my family, we were brought up to learn that you're word is gold, you don't forget where you came from and you bring back common sense in dealing with issues. I was brought up that we treat everybody equally, not a select few that will benefit from services, that everybody will benefit from them."

"As a trial attorney, I'm an advocate for the underdog and I feel that at least the voters and the ratepayers in this area are the underdogs. I will take my expertise as an advocate to Beacon Hill and fight for each and everyone of them."

As a first-time candidate for public office, McGlone said he has "no political debts."

"I'm not indebted to anybody. I don't have to get a phone call from so and so who says 'hey, you promised me a job.' I don't have that, I don't have any issues hanging like that over my head."

The only issue that I have is that I've worked in private industry, I realize the cuts and sacrifices the working people have to make each day. I'm from a working-class, union family and I feel that the state representative that I would bring to them is to bring back as much local money and local aid into the economy for jobs of the working men and women in this district."

"I will go to (Beacon Hill) and fight for the people and once my job is done, then move on."

McGlone, a 28-year resident of the district, said he is running for state representative because he believes voters have become "disenfranchised" with the status quo of state politics. Recalling the anti-incumbent tide prevalent in last year's state elections, he said, "I felt that the voters in the communities wanted a change, they wanted a new direction. They felt that enough was enough which I have also felt."

"I have the energy, the educational background and the person-to-person contact that I have developed over the last three months to realize that people want accessibility and accountability in state office which I am committed to do."

McGlone said the issues on the minds of most voters are soaring MWRA rates and reductions in local aid.

To combat the increasing water and sewer rates levied by the MWRA, McGlone said he has devised a three-pronged strategy. The first

Address: 85 Coolidge Ave., Weymouth
Occupation: attorney prong calls for asking the state's congressional delegation to find more federal money for the cleanup. Secondly, he said the state should "come up with or at least looking into inserting their own funds to help the cleanup."

Lastly, McGlone said the cleanup's $8 billion tab should be picked up by all 351 cities and towns in Massachusetts, not just the 60 communities in the MWRA district. "What I'm hearing out there that it's unfair that 60 communities and towns pay for such a large cleanup," he said, adding all municipalities will reap the benefits of a clean harbor in terms of tourism and positive environmental impact.

Concerning local aid, McGlone said "The state has to do their fair share in taking on the responsibility of providing education and the fire and the police that are necessary for our communities to exist."

Asked whether he would support a tax increase if the revenue were earmarked for local aid, he replied, "Before I would be inclined to raise any taxes, one way or the other, to earmark it for local aid or for education, or fire or police, I feel there are more cuts to be made in the administration in government and furthermore into the legislative."

"There are people making mid 30s to low 60s salaries but they're not doing the work that their supposed to be doing, those are the areas that should be cut. They shouldn't be cutting the entry levels of state government because they're not the ones wasting the tax payers money."

Like Mariano, McGlone said he would not take a "no new-tax" pledge. "I will not take that stand, but I will guarantee that I will look into every possible cut before any increases are brought on the working class people."

Regarding the reactivation of Boston Edison's Edgar Power Station in the Fore River industrial basin, McGlone said he supports the project because it will provide Weymouth with tax revenue and jobs. He also believes the plant would have a minimal effect at most on the environment.

"The Edgar plant is going to be burning natural gas which is the purest form of energy so the environmental issues are minimal, if any, so therefore we go back to the jobs that are desperately needed in Quincy and Weymouth."

"If my vote on the hill could affect the economy or at least pump some money (into the district) I'll do everything that I can and I think the Edison (plant) is needed."

McGlone said he would support the governor's early retirement incentive program if the money saved is earmarked for local aid. In addition, he said he prefers reducing the state payroll by eliminating higher administrative personnel, not human service providers.

"If they're going to reduce the payroll, they also have to look down the road at filling some of those jobs in the human health care and safety service industries."

McGlone also said he favors consolidating the State, Registry, Metropolitan and Capital police "if it's going to save money and not cost jobs."

"If they're going to save tax dollars, I would want to make sure the money goes to local aid. The proposition is decent enough as long as the jobs that it saves is not a detriment to the community for safety."

Commenting on a bill sponsored by Sen. Paul Harold which is designed to weaken the MWRA's Board of Directors clout by giving the authority's Advisory Board final budget approval, McGlone said "I support that measure but I don't think its goes far enough."

"In the overall picture, it looks nice but substance it doesn't address the issues of the rates increasing dramatically over the years. This is one step toward resolving it but also you have to look at coming up with state funds or including all of the communities paying toward the debt service (of the cleanup project)."

On a proposal which

He said he fully supports a bill co-sponsored by Sen. Paul Harold that would give the MWRA's 60-member advisory board final budget approval instead of the 11-member board of directors.

Mariano, who has publicly criticized the MWRA in the past, said, "I find them very difficult to deal with, very independent to the point of being arrogant, and I would support anything that would bring some measure of local control back to the city or town."

Speaking on a proposal which would limit the number of two-year state representative terms to four, Mariano said he is undecided on the issue. But, he added, "I have no intention of being a career legislator. I will do it solely."

"I don't have a law degree, I don't have a business, this is my profession at this time so I would concentrate all of efforts on this. This is something I want to do and I'm going to dedicate all my energies to it and I'm not looking to create a business or increase my law practice."

McGlone: 'I Am The Clear Choice Of An Independent Voice'

On a proposal which would limit the number of terms for state representative to four two-year terms, McGlone said he supports and would adhere to such a measure if elected.

"I would be in favor of limiting the number of years that a legislator serves. I feel that I would take the pledge as long as I felt that I have done the service to my community the best of my ability.

"I think there should be a limited terms and I would adhere to it."

Finally, McGlone said he would be an independent voice for residents of the Third Norfolk District at the State House..

"I am the clear choice of an independent voice that will bring a new direction, the right direction, in the legislative branch and I will answer the cry that the voters have been asking for: accessibility and accountability and the business as usual on Beacon Hill will no longer stand."

Quincy 28, Taunton 6

Presidents Have Defense, Offense Clicking

By TOM SULLIVAN

What a difference a week makes.

After absorbing a 52-12 thrashing at the hands of Bridgewater-Raynham the previous week, the Quincy football team regrouped, changed its defenses and defeated Taunton, 28-6, at Veterans Memorial Stadium for its first win in three games.

The Presidents will try for win number two Friday night at Veterans Memorial Stadium at 7 o'clock when it hosts winless Plymouth, which has lost to Marshfield, Barnstable, Taunton and North Quincy.

"At Bridgewater we changed our defenses in hopes of stopping their wishbone," said Quincy coach Jack Raymer. "We were unsuccessful and tonight we went back to our 43 defense which was so successful last year.

Tonight we played much more aggressively, really hit and pretty well stopped their attack. We did a good job handling (A.J.) Viera, one of the best running backs in the state.

"Offensively we did a much better job both on the ground and through the air as we had a balanced attack. Pat Gallagher did a terrific job passing and his top receivers, Chris Walker and Robbie Kane, were again outstanding.

"Noel DiBona ran well and our line was terrific, both offensively and defensively. I think we are all right now and I think we will do well the rest of the way."

| Quincy Scoring |    |     |     |
|----------------|----|-----|-----|
|                | TD | PAT | Pts |
| Walker         | 4  | 0   | 24  |
| Kane           | 2  | 0   | 12  |
| DiBona         | 1  | 5   | 11  |
| Crespi         | 1  | 0   | 6   |
| Anderson       | 1  | 0   | 6   |

In sharp contrast to the game at Bridgewater when the Presidents were held to 28 yards rushing, they gained 155 yards on the ground against Taunton. Gallagher was 6-for-12 for 166 yards and two touchdowns, DiBona rushed 11 times for 68 yards and Jason Anderson, coming into his own, had his best game with 48 yards on seven carries and a touchdown.

Viera, who scored 13 touchdowns and carried for nearly 1,000 yards a year ago, was held to 50 yard on nine carries. Quarterback Eric DeMoura was 5-for-11 for 77 yards but none did any damage until the final minute against Quincy's reserves when a pass to Jason Kackler put Taunton on the Quincy one and DeMoura scored the Tigers' only touchdown. Taunton was held to 17 yards rushing and 38 yards overall in the first half when Quincy took a 28-0 lead.

Raymer praised Gary Collins, Dave Cedrone, starting his first game at offensive guard, Steve Fernald, Duane Holmes, Walker and Kane for their work on the offensive line.

He also had good words for the entire defense, especially sophomore Rich Howard, Chris McLaughlin, Collins, Mike Kavanaugh, Ally Sleiman, Dave Bogan, Mark Zaborowski, Scott MacPherson and Joe Crespi, MacPherson and Crespi sparked in the secondary.

Dr. Bruce Index Official U.S. Triathlon Team Chiropractor

A Quincy doctor is off to Australia and Hawaii as the official U.S. Triathlon Team chiropractor.

Dr. Bruce Index, who holds office hours in his Quincy Center office suite when he is not out on the bike trails, running in marathons or practicing swimming, has been appointed team chiropractor for the U.S. triathlon team. A tri-athlete, Dr. Index will accompany the team to the World Triathlon Championships in Australia Oct. 13.

The world's greatest male and female tri-athletes will compete in Australia to determine the winner before many of them move on to Kona, Hawaii for the Ironman Championships Oct. 19.

Dr. Index will be looking out for the health of a number of top U.S. athletes throughout the trip and the two grueling events.

A member of the Massachusetts Sports Chiropractic Council, Dr. Index was chosen for the position from a group of qualified Sports Chiropractors by the Chiropractic Triathlon Network. He has competed in the New York Marathon and recently in a New England Triathlon held in Farmington, Conn.

The triathlon consists of three successive events held in order of physical danger to the participant: the swim, the bike and the run. Although distances vary, the World Championships in

DR. BRUCE INDEX, a Quincy chiropractor, is serving as the official chiropractor for the U.S. Triathlon team.

Australia will consist of a one-mile swim, 25-mile bike and a 6.2 mile run.

Distances for the Ironman competition will be 2 and 1/2 mile swim, 112 miles on bike and a full 26.2 mile marathon.

The youthful, athletic Dr. Index began his practice in Quincy in 1984. He has been the chiropractor at seven Boston Marathons and seven endurance triathlons. He has also competed in two New York Marathons.

Dr. Index has treated triathletes with various physical problems in the past few events.

"Swimming creates rotator cuff problems and even tennis elbow as the swimmer overextends his reach. Back problems are the cyclist's greatest area of complaint, both in the neck and low back," he said.

"The triathlon runners, like most distance runners, suffer from injured ligaments and sprained muscles."

Dr. Index, who is a certified chiropractic sports physician (CCSP) gained from 110 hours of post graduate studies, graduated from Syracuse University in 1979 and National College of Chiropractic in Chicago in 1982. He resides in Easton.

The North Quincy girls' volleyball team solidified its hold on first place in the Old Colony League and improved to 8-1 with a 2-0 (15-2, 15-4) victory over Falmouth last Friday.

The victory was secured by the fine play of senior Cheryl Kelly and sophomore Maureen McCarthy.

In their previous game the North girls topped Quincy, 2-0 (15-11, 15-5).

In the first game North was led by the setting of senior captain Brenda Hayduk and the defense of senior Tracy Linehan.

In the second game the team was led by the excellent net play of junior Heather Rendle with five kills and the defense of junior Regina Murphy.

"The win was a real team effort with everyone contributing," said coach Jim Rendle.

Raiders Eye 4th Win At Barnstable

North Quincy's undefeated football team, fresh from a hard-fought, physical, 9-0, victory over winless Plymouth, will seek its fourth win in a row Friday night when it plays at Barnstable in a 7 o'clock Old Colony League game.

Barnstable is 2-2 with wins over Dennis-Yarmouth and Plymouth and losses to Bishop Stang and Weymouth.

North Quincy was beaten up physically with several injuries last week, but all are expected back for Barnstable and Mark Taylor, the starting quarterback until suffering a shoulder separation in the opening game, will also return.

Mark Kelleher was dazed when hit hard and was taken to the hospital. He was later released and will be ready for Friday's game. Quarterback Liam Higgins, who has done an outstanding job replacing Taylor, injured his shoulder and was unable to do any passing in the second half, hurting the Red Raider's offense.

Linebacker Chris McCallum suffered a foot injury and is expected back.

"We got banged up out there tonight," said North coach Ken McPhee. "But we are still undefeated and that is what matters."

Plymouth played us tough and didn't look like an O-3 team. I give them credit."

Higgins had a good game before suffering his shoulder injury. He kicked his third field goal, threw a touchdown pass and was 6-for-10 for 74 yards.

Desmond Bellot made a leaping pass interception which helped set up the touchdown and was outstanding defensively.

Mark Cocuzzo had another fine game with 72 yards on 16 carries.

North gained 232 yards overall, 158 on the ground and 74 through the air. Plymouth had only 51 net yards rushing.

"Higgins, Sinclair and Bellot played tremendous games for us and the whole defense was just outstanding again," said McPhee.

Higgins gave North the lead with a 23-yard field goal with 12 seconds left in the opening quarter.

He hit Kelleher with a six-yard scoring pass early in the second quarter. Bellot set it up with his interception and 27-yard return.

North then kept the ball on the ground and the defense took care of things the rest of the way.

The Blue Eagles never sustained any drives and spent most of the night on their side of the field.

Dan Kelleher was Plymouth's top runner with 62 yards on 15 carries. Quarterback Mike Shea had a tough night with one completion in six tries for 25 yards and was sacked twice.

While the Blue Eagles coughed up the ball five times, North had just one turnover.

North Jayvees Roll, 26-0

By PETE ZOIA

The North Quincy junior varsity football team not only won its first game but scored its first touchdown of the year in a 26-0 victory over Falmouth.

It didn't take North long to score as it recovered a fumble and scored in three plays. Danny Duncan passed to Brian Raftery to the Falmouth 31, then hit Tony Licciardi to the 15. Sean Skahan circled his left end and scored standing up. A pass to Raftery was good for the two-point conversion.

The Raiders stopped the Falmouth offense with gung tackling as the Cape team was unable to put together any kind of a ground attack.

Licciardi went 11 yards to North's 41, a fine counter play for 14 yards by Jamie O'Connell went to the Falmouth 45 and Duncan found Raftery in the clear and completed a 45-yard scoring pass.

Capping the scoring in the first quarter, Duncan showed his potential as a potential varsity standout for North by hitting Licciardi with a 68-yard scoring bomb.

Falmouth made its first first down closing out the opening quarter but failed to reach Raider territory.

Licciardi ran back a punt 72 yards for the final North Quincy score.

Falmouth managed to reach the North 12 but the Raiders stiffened and took over as the half came to a close.

North coaches Peter Chrisom and Tom Carter used their starters sparingly in the second half and there was no further scoring.

Sophomore Jim Sapienza had a 14-yard run for the Raiders.

North Quincy will play at Barnstable Monday.

Youth Football

Panthers Blank Elks

Chris McArdle scored on the second possession of the game and Jeff Russell rushed for the conversion as the Quincy Point Panthers returned to the victory column last Sunday night.

The Panthers won 14-0 over the West Quincy Elks in Quincy Youth Football League action at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

With most of the game being played in the rain, the Panthers took the 8-0 lead into the locker room and came out to start the second half in a driving rainstorm.

Carmen Lorenzano, Sean Joyce and McArdle turned in some key defensive play in the third quarter, stopping the Elks' passing game. Mike Sheffer was the top performer on both sides of the ball for the Elks.

John Michael Lopriore sparked the Panthers in the third quarter, setting up Joyce's early fourth-quarter touchdown.

The scheduled second game between the Houghs Neck Manets and North Quincy Apaches was rained out.

Sunday night the Manets (3-0) will face the Elks (1-3) at 6 o'clock and the Panthers (3-1) will meet the Apaches (0-3) at 7:30.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Fate seems sometimes to delight in making strange combinations among the pieces of the game it plays through the centuries ...

Did you know that Queen Isabella of Spain and Christopher Columbus were born in the same year ... 1451? Queen Isabella was born on April 22 at Madrigal de Las Altas Torres and Columbus in Genoa between August and October ... It is also believed by some historians that Amerigo Vespucci was born in the same year.

Fate or coincidence? Who knows! But one thing we do know is that these three protagonists of the great oceanic adventure changed the face of the world ... The discoverer, his noble patron the man from whom the new world was to take its name were all born in the first year of the second half of the 15th century, which was to open a new period of history ...

How to help the newly widowed

Whether the remaining spouse is a man or woman, they are going through equally difficult times.

Without forcing any issues, you need to help keep the widow or widower ACTIVE. Not always, because they need the "alone and quiet" times to pull themselves together.

Usually there are close friends and relatives around the first week or so after the funeral. That's where you come in — after they have left — to re-activate the mourning person.

Help them process certain papers or just to re-enter society. We can help on this because grief can re-appear. But this, too, is a part of recovery.

Down the Drain.

In 1984, Quincy residents paid $1.8 million in water and sewer costs. In 1991, they will pay over $10 million. That's an increase of 556%.

That's your hard-earned dollars down the drain.

Where has your money gone? It's gone to clean up Boston Harbor after the whole state polluted the water. It's gone to support an MWRA that spends money like it's going out of style.

We need an independent fighter on Beacon Hill.
We need someone we can trust with our money.

We need Jack McGlone.

Jack McGlone will demand that every community in Massachusetts share the cost of the Boston Harbor Clean Up.

Jack McGlone will demand that the legislature bring the MWRA under control.

On Tuesday, October 15, we can elect someone who will be on our side.

Please vote for Jack McGlone for ROGER SMITH'S mother Janet Hersey Smith and grandmother Hazel Hersey led a protest of what they claim is unsafe driving conditions on the Fore River Bridge. Mrs. Hersey Smith holds a sign with the last words of a letter she wrote to her son who was killed last year on the bridge.

At Fore River Bridge Memorial Vigil

Family, Friends Remember Roger Smith, Push For Bridge Safety Improvements

By MICHAEL WHALEN

On October 12, 1990, slightly after 11 p.m., 16-year-old Roger Smith was driving his Ford Grenada southbound across the Fore River Bridge, heading for his home in Hingham.

Although the night was cold and drizzly, Roger had to be in good spirits. He had just received his driver's license two days earlier, and his good friend Bradford Gately was by his side. The two had spent some time together and apparently had decided to call it a night.

Roger never made it home.

His car skidded on the wet steel grating at the top of the bridge and crashed sideways into the bridge's steel drawbridge gate.

Witnesses said Roger was not speeding, and police later reported that neither drugs nor alcohol was a factor in the crash.

Roger was impaled on the gate and died instantly. Three "jaws of life" were necessary to extricate his friend, who was rushed to the Quincy Hospital emergency room. Although he received a broken jaw, leg, and ribs and was badly bruised, Bradford Gately is alive to tell the story today.

Gately is one of the approximately 70 friends and family members who attended the Roger Smith memorial vigil last Friday morning between 7 and 9 a.m. along the Fore River Bridge. (A second vigil was held between 3:30 and 6 p.m., followed by a memorial service at First Baptist Church in Hingham). People lined across the bridge to both remember Roger and to try and raise awareness about the still dangerous condition of the bridge.

Some held blue and white balloons, symbolizing the sky and the clouds. Others held one of the 23 signs that formed a message to Roger written by his mother.

It was Janet Hersey Smith who organized the vigil.

"I'm here to let The Powers That Be, if that's what you want to call them, realize that it's not just me out here. There were a lot of people who were affected by Roger's death," she said.

Mrs. Smith, who still lives in Hingham, said she thinks that the vigil might be able to do some good as far as public awareness is concerned.

"I think that people are beginning to realize the dangerousness of the bridge," she said. "It's

For State Representative Mariano Wins Democratic Nomination

By ROBERT BOSWORTH and FREDERICK HAPPEL

Quincy School Committeeman Ron Mariano built a 1,381-vote cushion in Quincy and held off a surge by political newcomer John "Jack" McGlone in Weymouth to win the Democratic nomination for state representative in Tuesday's special primary.

Mariano piled up wide margins in all six Quincy precincts in the Third Norfolk District while McGlone scored big victory margins in Weymouth's six precincts. The final results showed Mariano with 2,513 votes and McGlone with 2,289, a difference of 224 votes.

Turnout, which was higher in Quincy, appeared to be the deciding factor in the race.

In Quincy, Mariano tallied 1,935 votes while McGlone received 554 votes, a difference of 1,381 votes.

In Weymouth, the results were almost the inverse: McGlone tallied 1,735 votes to Mariano's 578, a margin of 1,157 votes.

Turnout in Quincy was higher than expected as 2,809 voters or 29.6

percent turned out. Turnout in Weymouth was approximately 25 percent.

In one Weymouth precinct, number 17, only 94 voters turned out. The precinct has historically had low voter turnout. The higher turnout there could have affected the outcome of Tuesday's election.

With his victory, Mariano will face Weymouth Republican

William Izbicki and Quincy Independents Cheryl Balzano and Francis "Sandy" Eaton in the final election Tuesday, Nov. 12.

On Tuesday, Izbicki tallied 565 votes. He was the only Republican on the primary ballot.

Mariano swept the six Quincy precincts, compiling an impressive victory margin of 1,381 votes. Mariano received 1,935 votes or 77 percent in Quincy while McGlone finished with 554 votes or 22 percent.

Mariano's largest victory margin came in Ward 2 Precinct 5 where he received 316 votes to McGlone's 44, a difference of 272 votes.

Ironically, Mariano's smallest margin of victory

Faulty Line Plagues City Hall Phone Calls

If you've had trouble getting through the city's switchboard, the culprit is a dysfunctional line.

Over the past three and a half weeks, many people have called the switchboard number (773-1380) but have not had their calls answered by switchboard operators.

That's because one of the three lines serviced by the 773-1380 number has not been functioning properly, said Grace Giunchiglia, secretary to Mayor James Sheets.

According to Giunchiglia, people who call the faulty line cannot distinguish that the line is not working properly because it rings in their telephone. However, the switchboard does hear the ringing.

As a result, a person who calls on the faulty line hears the ringing while the switchboard does not and therefore the call is not answered. The malfunction explains why many calls to City Hall over the past several weeks have not been answered.

Both NYNEX and AT&T have been notified and are working to correct the problem. Officials hope service on the faulty line is restored by next week.

In the meantime, people who call the city line at 773-1380 and do not get an answer after seven or eight rings are instructed to hang up and call again to reach one of the two lines still in service.

Morrissey Calls For Speeding Crackdown On E. Squantum St.

In response to resident complaints and personal observation of speeding of motorists traveling along East Squantum Street to the Long Island-Moon Island area, Rep. Michael Morrissey (D-Quincy) has called on the Quincy Police Department to install extra patrols in the vicinity.

In a recent letter to Police Chief Francis Mullen, Morrissey said, "I took the opportunity this week to observe the travel in the area and I agree with my constituents that the speed is excessive and needs monitoring. The area is thickly settled with many small children which makes this a very dangerous situation."

Morrissey noted that the problem is most severe in the morning hours while children are on their way to school.

FAMILY AND FRIENDS of Roger Smith, the Hingham youth killed when his car skidded on the wet grating of Fore River Bridge last year, hold signs with words from a letter Roger's mother wrote to protest what they say is unsafe driving conditions on the bridge.

NASA To Visit QHS-Center For Tech Education Friday

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) will provide a one day school visit at Quincy High School/Center for Technical Education tomorrow (Friday) with their Aerospace Education Service Program.

This program, which is conducted by professional educators, discusses various NASA projects. The Aerospace Education Specialists are former teachers with degrees in science, mathematics or science education.

The school visit program consists of three components: The lecture-demonstration assembly, individual classroom visits, and the teacher resource seminar. The 50 minute lecture-demonstration is designed for large audiences and describes the past, present, and future of our country's exploration of space. Manned space flight and the principles of rocketry, aeronautics, communications, remote sensing and astronomy are explained and demonstrated throughout the presentation.

The classroom visits last from 15 to 20 minutes each and are designed as follow-up sessions for students who attended the lecture-demonstration.

The resource seminar also lasts 15 to 20 minutes, with teachers and administrators to discuss educational materials, teacher programs, and other services available through NASA.

This presentation is part of the ongoing program to infuse technology into the curriculum.

Quincy Tourism Association Opens Office In Health Center

For the first time in its 10-year history, the Quincy

Tourism Association has its own office located at the John F. Kennedy Health Building, 1120 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

QTA members recently marked the occasion at the ribbon cutting ceremony followed by an open meeting. Besides the office, the association has added a local telephone number, 847-0929, as well as an "800" number (1-800-564-1551) so that tourists from Canada and throughout the United States may call toll-free for information on the local tourism industry.

"I feel as many others do, that Quincy has been a well kept secret in the tourism field and now its time to share the secret," QTA President Maryann McMahon said.

"Quincy has so much to offer historically and that history is a common bond to all, no matter where they come from. Also, in challenging times such as cities and town currently face, we must not overlook any potential revenue base that can be developed, especially one that can be developed with a small investment of funds.

"We look to our volunteers to be our greatest resource in creating a successful tourism industry in Quincy," McMahon said. "We are asking that businesses and individuals take out a membership to assist us and also enjoy the activities throughout the year," she said.

McMahon said the QTA is seeking volunteers to help with the city's effort to substantially increase tourism within Quincy which in turn would boost the revenue base for the city, its merchants and tourism related businesses.

"We are seeking volunteers to assist by working on special projects, or staffing the office and visitor information booths in Quincy Square. There's a lot to be done, but this is something that citizens of Quincy can get involved in at their own pace and make a difference in their community.

"Tourism is a great project for schools, civic groups and individuals to get involved in as well as something that families can work together on," McMahon added.

This past June marked the 10th anniversary of the QTA, a volunteer organization whose primary goal is to assist city officials and merchants in increasing the tourism industry in historic Quincy.

Established under the administration of former Mayor Arthur Tobin as a 35-member committee, the QTA has grown to more than 100 active members including individuals, businesses and senior citizens. The non-profit organization derives its revenue from membership fees and event fundraisers.

The QTA has been instrumental in developing and promoting many of Quincy's interesting and unique historic and recreational attractions for visitors and residents.

Among the attractions are the Quincy Historic Trail, the Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre and the Tourism Information Booth.

In addition, the association is working on five projects: the campaign to bring the U.S.S. Lexington home; holidays in Quincy, Sail Boston in 1992, tourism transportation development study and day and overnight bus tours.

Anyone interested in becoming a member of the QTA can visit the QTA's new office at 1120 Hancock St., room #3, or call 847-0929.

There's a new medical center in town.

A place where you can find a doctor, establish a relationship, get to know each other. A place where you can find a pediatrician, too.

It's a multi-service medical facility where you can get your check-ups, your throat cultured, your ankle X-rayed, your blood tested. And it's comforting to know that among the group of doctors that practice here, someone is always on call in case you need medical assistance after office hours.

Our location is probably already familiar to you, but our name is brand new—and our service is now open to the community. Formerly known as a health center for Medical East, a Blue Cross and Blue Shield HMO, we now accept Medical East (which will become part of HMO Blue) as well as most traditional health insurance plans.

Come introduce yourself or give us a call. We'll help you find a doctor.

Annual vaccination is recommended for people with long-term heart or lung problems; residents of nursing homes and chronic care facilities; people over 65 years of age; anyone who has been treated in the past year for kidney disease, cystic fibrosis, anemia (low blood) or severe asthma; people with a type of cancer or immunological disorder which lowers the body's resistance to infections; children or teens on treatment with aspirin who may be at risk of getting Reye Syndrome; health care workers; or anyone wishing to reduce the chance of catching the flu.

Persons who are ill and have a fever should delay vaccination until the fever and symptoms have gone.

Flu vaccine will be given only to Quincy residents age 18 and older. Others should check with their doctor.

Shut-ins should call the Health Department's Nursing Department at 773-1380 ext. 238 to arrange a house visit.

IF YOU'RE TIRED OF ROLLERCOASTER HEATING PRICES, PIPE UP.

The cost of natural gas remains stable without fast up, down and around price fluctuations associated with heating oil. One of the main reasons for this is the fact that almost all of our supplies come from North America, making natural gas an energy resource that we control. So if you want steady energy costs as well as a steady supply, pipe up. And switch to natural gas heat.

BREAST CANCER PUZZLE

Researchers around the world are finding that more and more women are being diagnosed with breast cancer, but fewer of them are dying from the disease. The question is, why? One recent study in Finland found that doctors are diagnosing the disease sooner, and that this early detection enhances a woman's chances of fighting breast cancer.

Every woman should do a monthly breast self-exam, preferably right after the menstrual period. Also, women should discuss the use of mammography (breast X-rays) with their doctors. Personal risk factors that could help determine at what age and how often to schedule mammography include family history of breast cancer, menstrual and childbirth history, past hormonal drug usage, incidence of benign breast disease, the diet.

P.S. The technology exists to detect breast cancer early enough for a cure rate of more than 85 percent.

Breast cancer is a worldwide health problem, and all women should be concerned about this health risk. We are always available to discuss with

Ballot Position A Factor?

Top votegetters Dan Raymondi and Linda Stice aren't resting on their preliminary election laurels as they continue their run for two of the three School Committee seats.

And, there's good reason.

Raymondi and Stice will have a ballot position disadvantage in the Nov. 5 final election.

Raymondi's
name will be fifth
(next to last) and Stice's name sixth (last) on the ballot.
In the September preliminary election, ballot position was determined by lottery.

But in the final election, the ballot positions go first to incumbents and then to the other candidates by alphabetical order.

So, on Nov. 5 the names of incumbents Steve Durkin and Mary Jane Powers will be first and second respectively, followed by Joann Bragg, Margaret (Peggy) King, Raymondi and Stice.

In the 11-candidate preliminary election field, Raymondi won the top spot in the position drawing with Bragg fourth, Durkin fifth, Powers seventh and Stice 11th.

So, being at the bottom of the ballot is nothing new for Stice. And, it didn't hurt her in the preliminary election as she polled 3,219 votes — just 914 behind Raymondi who was at the top of the ballot.

Their votes would seem to bear out the opinions of some political observers who believe being the last name on the ballot is almost as good as being at the top.

spots on the final election ballot.

And, it's a plus for Bragg, who moves up to No. 3 spot.

But position is no guarantee of victory. It is still up to the individual to get his or her message out during the campaign. And his or her supporters out on election day.

Durkin and Powers, who finished third and sixth in the preliminary runoff, will gladly take their No. 1 and 2

And, as they used to say in the old days: Always Run Scared.

Of COURSE, THE same ballot position rules will hold true in the City Council races.

Council at-large incumbents Tim Cahill, Mike Cheney and Patricia Toland will hold the No. 1, 2, and 3 spots on the ballot.

Former Mayor-Councillor Joseph LaRaia will be fourth and George Miller fifth.

BRUCE AYERS, Ward 6 City Council candidate, is distributing whistles as he knocks on doors in North Quincy and Squantum.

AYERS

The whistles are in response to recent attacks in the North Quincy area, says Ayers, who has met with Police Chief Frank Mullen on the problem.

"They are a safety precaution to attract attention and scare away an attacker" he says.
"The whistles can be attached to key chains."

So far he has handed out 500 of them.

Ayers, incidentally, has a "Harvest Brunch" fundraiser
Sunday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Raffael's in North Quincy. Tickets are $15 per person and $25 a couple and will be available at the door.

ANOTHER FUNDRAISER, this one for School
Committeewoman Mary Jane Powers, is set for Tuesday, Oct. 22 from 6 to 9 p.m. at Coddington's in Quincy Sq. Tickets are $15 per.

LOOK ALIKES: Rev. Gene Langevin, pastor of the First Church of Squantum and Senator Paul Simon of Illinois.

CURIOSITY SEEKERS

QUESTION: I'm trying to sell my house on my own and I'm being swamped with "curiosity seekers." How do you limit these intruders?

ANSWER: Curiosity seekers are one of the plagues which the do-it-yourself broker has to contend with.
It's not only an inconvenience, but it could be a risk to open the door, day and night, to all who knock. The best solution is to place your home in the hands of a local REALTOR. He'll weed out curiosity seekers from prospects at his office, visit you only by appointment, and will always accompany prospects. On top of that, you'll probably end up with more money than selling it on your own.

Career Began At Squantum

Quincy Aviation Pioneer, Writer Get Together For Magazine Feature

By STEVE KAVANAGH

John Griffin and Frank Delear, former Quincy residents, have a lot in common. Both men presently live on Cape Cod and have a passion for flying.

So it was only natural that Delear, a writer, interview Griffin, an aviation pioneer, for a story in the current issue of "Aviation Heritage Magazine." The article chronicles Griffin's distinguished career from pilot to founder and head of a top aerotechnical school to adviser to congressional and Federal Aviation Administration committees.

Delear, of Centerville, graduated from Quincy High School in 1932 and earned a journalism degree at Boston College in 1936. After a brief stint as assistant sports editor for the Quincy Patriot Ledger Delear joined the Bridgeport (Conn.) Post Telegram where he was a reporter, feature writer and aviation editor from 1937-1942.

For a man with an interest in aviation Delear was in the right place at the right time. The Bridgeport/Stratford area is home to Sikorsky Aircraft the leading manufacturer of helicopters in the world and a trail blazer in the aeronautical field. Delear joined the Chance Vought Aircraft division of the then United Aircraft Corporation, Stratford, in 1942, as a publicity representative.

The United States' involvement in World War II accelerated the emerging importance and development of aircraft.

Meanwhile, Griffin, of Osterville, was also busy as manager of Air Transport Command supply lines through the Arctic and over the North Atlantic during the war.

Griffin became interested in flying as a child after attending the Harvard-Boston Air Meet in Squantum in 1910. He bought a de Havilland Gypsy Moth biplane in 1930 and began flying at the Dennison Airport in North Quincy. He started his own flying school in 1932 and founded East Coast Airways in 1934 in Hanover. The school was later renamed East Coast Aero Tech and will mark its 60th anniversary next year.

The school grew rapidly and in 1937 Griffin became a pilot with Boston & Maine-Central Vermont Airways, which eventually became Northeast Airlines. Griffin quickly became chief pilot and operations manager.

Following the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor the government took control of many planes of domestic airlines, including Northeast, to set up overseas supply routes for the military.

Griffin's other duties during the war included training military pilots, navigators, radio operators and mechanics.

Some of his other accomplishments and awards include, president of state and national aviation education and trade organizations; recipient of the 1977 Godfrey L. Cabot Award of the Aero Club of New England for outstanding contributions to aviation; election as an "Elder Statesman of Aviation" in 1990 by the National Aeronautic Association; second lieutenant with the Air National Guard; captain with American Export Airlines (later American Overseas Airlines); honorary doctorate in engineering from Wentworth Institute of Technology; Wentworth board of directors; associate fellow of the Society of Licensed Aircraft Engineers and Technologists of Great Britain; the 1956 Air Force Association award "in recognition of his contributions to American airpower."

Delear, an aviation historian, retired in 1977 after a long career in public relations with Sikorsky Aircraft division of United Technologies Corporation. Previously, he worked with the publications department of the former Socony-Vacuum Oil Co., New York.

He is the author of five books on aviation including "Famous First Flights Across the Atlantic"; "Igor Sikorsky--His Three Careers in Aviation"; "Airplanes and Helicopters of the U.S. Navy"; "Helicopters and Airplane of the U.S. Army"; and "The New World of Helicopters." He has also authored many articles for newspapers and magazines.

IF YOU'RE CONCERNED ABOUT A CLEANER ENVIRONMENT, PIPE UP

When you heat with natural gas, we can all breathe a little easier. Because it's the cleanest fossil fuel there is, it's better for the environment. In fact, natural gas produces virtually none of the chemicals that cause smog and acid rain. So if you want to keep your home and our air cleaner, pipe up. And heat with natural gas.

Banana Bread An Easy Recipe

I wonder if all households are the same as far as bananas go! Usually, there are half bananas eaten by those little darlings of ours when they come to visit. Or there are a few very ripe ones that you simply don't want to throw away. Here is a great and easy recipe for banana bread and one that was handed down by my mother.

BANANA BREAD

1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
1 egg
3/4 tsp. baking soda
1 1/2 cups flour
1 Tbsp baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
3 large (mashed) banana Cream the butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in the egg and then add the flour, baking soda, baking powder, salt. Blend and then add the mashed bananas. Pour into a greased and floured loaf pan and bake at the 350 degree oven for 50 to 60 minutes.

If you want, you may include chopped nuts sprinkled into the batter before baking. (about 1/4 cup). We like our banana bread served with cream cheese (the lowfat cream cheese of course!)

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point, Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Izbicki Expresses Support For Political Term Limits

Bill Izbicki of Weymouth, a Republican candidate for state representative in the Third Norfolk District, expressed his support for term limits for all politicians at a recent candidates' night held at the Fore River Clubhouse.

"I favor limited terms for all politicians. This is the best way to keep elected officials from becoming entrenched," Izbicki said.

"We need people who can distinguish between good government and bad government. The people who have been in too long tend to accept the status quo."

The proposed constitutional amendment would place a limitation on the number of consecutive terms that can be served by the governor, lieutenant governor, treasurer, secretary of state, attorney general, auditor, executive councillors, state representatives, state senators and U.S. representatives and senators from Massachusetts.

The amendment would limit constitutional officers to two four-year terms; executive councillors, legislators and U.S. representatives to four two-year terms; and U.S. senators to two six-year terms.

The amendment, if passed, would be enacted in January, 1995.

The process to amend the state constitution with the term limitation involves four steps.

First, 70,286 certified signatures must be collected by Nov. 20, 1991.

Second, the amendment must be approved by 25 percent of the legislature (50 members) in a joint session of the House and Senate in 1992.

Next, at a second constitutional convention, held during the 1993-94 session of the legislature (mostly likely in 1994) the amendment must again receive the approval of at least 50 legislators.

If all the above requirements at met, the amendment will be presented to the people for their vote on the November, 1994 ballot.

If the amendment is enacted, all incumbents would be able to seek reelection for up to eight more years (U.S. senators for 12 more years), regardless of the number of terms already served.

Incumbents who have served the maximum number of consecutive years allowed in a particular office could again seek election to the same office, after at least one term for office has elapsed.

The first officeholders effected by the amendment would be required to leave office beginning in the year 2002 (2006 for U.S. senators).

Q-VOTE Endorses King For School Committee

Quincy Voice of Teachers in Education (Q-VOTE), a political action committee representing Quincy citizens in promoting quality education, has endorsed Margaret "Peggy" King for School Committee.

Each election year, Q-VOTE interviews all candidates for school committee. A series of open-ended questions are asked of each candidate regarding a personal assessment of the school system. Goals of the candidate if elected and actions the individual would take to improve fiscal support for education.

In its endorsement, Q-

VOTE said King knows the problems of education first hand—as a long-term, respected educator and high school department head. The committee also said King has experience working on educational issues at the local, state and national levels.

"Experience in the insurance industry has balanced her educational commitment with a business sense. This one candidate has worked tirelessly for candidates who have supported educational issues."

"Now is the time for Q-VOTE to endorse this one candidate for school committee."

ENC Cornerstone Laying For Nease Library Oct. 22

Eastern Nazarene College will unveil the cornerstone of the now nearly complete Nease Library building Tuesday, Oct. 22.

In addition to college administration and trustees placing various representative items in time capsule, Mayor James Sheets, an alumnus of the college, will bring greetings and reader representative Bill Flynn from the Patriot Ledger will include the Tuesday edition of the paper in the cornerstone.

The Nease Library, located on the corner of Elm and East Elm Aves., will open in January. It is a freestanding structure that is attached to the existing college library, and consists of four levels of new construction, totally approximately 29,000 square feet of floor area.

In addition, approximately 5,000 square feet of floor space from the basement of the old library structure is being renovated and combined with the new building. Both the new and existing portions of the building will be fully accessible to the handicapped and equipped with state of the art mechanical, electrical and fire protection systems.

The Nease Library was designed by John M. Sheskey & Associates of Quincy, and is being constructed by Tocci Building Corp. of Woburn.

Both Gardner Hall (1930) and the existing library building are listed by the City of Quincy's Historical and Architectural Inventory as historically significant. The new structure has been designed to complement these existing structures through its similar massing and choice of exterior materials and detailing.

The college libraries at Eastern Nazarene have always held a policy of accessibility for neighbors, and the new building will be no exception to the policy. Check-out policies will be limited to current students, but the library floor plans include numerous areas for quiet study and research.

| * COURAGE                     | Tom Nutley led the drive to halt the relocation of the Winthrop-Deer Island Jail to Moon Island. He gathered thousand of signatures in opposition and testified at the State House to present his, and your, opposition to this Suffolk County prisons being moved to Quincy. Tom fought successfully to close the Sagamore Inn (and, was sued personally by the owners for speaking out on behalf of his constituents). He has dared to question lucrative city pensions and he supported a one year wage freeze on city employees in order to save the jobs of young teachers, police officers and fire fighters. He also fought to delay the onerous combined sewer and water bill (he offered 31 other less burdensome recommendations to the Mayor that would have reduced city expenses and increased revenues). |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |

Quincy Business Group Says:

Lexington Tourist Site Should Be Managed By Private Enterprise

If the city wins custody of the U.S.S. Lexington, the city should lease out the site to a private management enterprise to prevent the tourist attraction from becoming "another Boston convention center type of fiasco," members of a recently formed pro-business organization in Quincy believe.

At a recent meeting of the Quincy Business Voice, members said the aircraft carrier could help the local economy by attracting thousands of tourists. "It has the potential of creating new permanent jobs, attracting new businesses, and in general, boosting the economy of our entire city," said Loren Strout, acting chairman of the group.

"However, the association warns, if Quincy decides to run and manage the attraction, or create a commission to do it, the members of the Quincy Business Voice feel that it could become another Boston convention center type of fiasco. The city should lease out the site to a private enterprise that has the experience in management of this type of operation.

"We would also suggest that anyone, while on the city's or commonwealth's payroll, could not be hired by this private enterprise, thus guaranteeing the general public better access to employment at the site. The city's only involvement should be as a landlord," Strout said.

"The Quincy Voice members also feel that little is known by the general public of how all of this is going to be implemented after the carrier arrives, and suggests that the Sheets administration reveal these plans very soon so that all can have a chance to input their opinions.

"The impact of traffic, etc., are vital and important issues that should be addressed in the Lexington site, and the entire proposal should be put under the same scrutiny as the Home Depot proposal of West Quincy," he said.

"We wish our city leaders well, but we also strongly feel that because of the magnitude of the size of the project, and all that goes with it, more should be known by the general public in our city as to what planning is being done to address all of the concerns that will impact the Southern Artery vicinity of our city, and all major travel routes leading to the site.

"We suggest that City Councillor Ted DeCristofaro begin meetings in his ward now, to hear the concerns of his constituents in the area where the 'Lady Lex' will call home," Strout added.

Friends Remember Bridge Accident Victim

important for everyone to make a statement. Maybe then the political game will be in motion and someone will do something about it."

The "political game" recently took a macabre twist for Mrs. Smith when she opened a letter sent to her home that had been addressed to her son. Inside was a bill from the Massachusetts Department of Public Works for $11,870 in damages done to the bridge.

State Public Works Commissioner James Kerasiotes was reportedly "appalled" when he learned of the bill and immediately ordered his budget office to stop billing drivers directly and to notify their insurance companies only.

But despite that fact, and despite the formal apology she received from Assistant Public Works Commissioner Joseph Donavan, Mrs. Smith is still angry about the situation and continues, with the assistance of her lawyers, to dispute the bill. Roger's father, Joseph Smith of Quincy, is also very upset about the entire situation. Like his former wife, he believes that any damage that may have been done to the bridge was not Roger's fault.

"They've got to fix this bridge and they've got to do a damn good job or it's going to happen again," he said. "And I say that with pain in my heart. I don't want to see another kid killed."

"I'm just sick and tired of the lies and deceit and dishonesty of these people (the DPW). They've got $230 million for the bridge in their general fund and they're hiding it. They turn around and do something else with it."

Smith, who has been publicly outspoken in the past about the circumstances surrounding his son's death, said he was pleased to see State Senator Paul Harold, Mayor James Sheets and City Council President Theodore Decristofaro of Quincy at the vigil.

"They (the DPW) are more apt to listen to guys like that," he said. "Me, I'm just an ordinary stiff, although I stuck in their (DPW's) side like a thorn."

Sheets, who said he spoke with the DPW about a year ago on the subject, said that it's "tragic" that the bridge still poses a threat to motorists.

"I'm concerned because there seems to be a lack of response; they should have promoted action long before this. Instead of asking for more money, they should be putting what they have into the bridge."

Sheets also said that he sympathizes with Roger's family.

"When you have children, you have a sense of what it would be like to lose a child," he said. "It's every parent's nightmare."

Still, the family remains hopeful that the vigil will cause a public reaction to the lack of response on the DPW's part.

"It's amazing, the support that's been shown here," said Hazel Hersey, Roger's grandmother. "So many people wave and shout things like 'keep up the good work.' I saw two women (motorists) go by who took off their glasses to wipe their eyes."

"I would say it was quite effective in getting the message across."

Janet Hersey Smith certainly hopes so.

"Between 1988 and 1990, there have been 41 accidents on this bridge," she said. "There have been six deaths in the span of six years, and it could happen again if something isn't done to repair the bridge."

Driving northbound on the bridge, motorists could read Mrs. Smith's message to her son formed by the 23 signs held by Roger's friends and relatives.

The message said, "Dear Roger, I've looked for you all year, waited for you to come home. Then I realized, death is so final. The Fore River Bridge killed you, and it waits to kill again. In disregard it makes each of us a potential victim of an untimely death. When will people wake up and realize, death is so final? I love you, I miss you and I am so sad. Love, Mom."

And Bradford Gately, whose every step and every breath must now seem to him a miracle, had an even briefer message for Roger.

"I miss you," he said. "And I wish you were here."

Spiritual Development Mission At St. John's

St. John the Baptist Church, School St., Quincy Center, will hold a spiritual development mission at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 20 to Oct. 24.

Three of the guest speakers were formerly assigned to Catholic parishes in Quincy.

The Rev. Joseph Byrne was a deacon at St. John's prior to his ordination in 1969 and later returned as a priest and served 10 years here. He was also chaplain of the Quincy Police Department. Now parochial vicar at St. Albert the Great Church in Weymouth, Fr. Byrne continues to be active in diverse Catholic programs in the community.

St. Ann's Church in Wollaston was one of the parishes in which Sister Anne D'Arcy served as an elementary teacher. A member of the Order of St.

Joseph, she taught at four other parochial schools in the state before becoming a member of the Office of Spiritual Development, an Archdiocesan program constantly gaining in popularity.

Sister Anne provides ongoing assistance to parish advisory boards in the planning of spiritual renewal retreats, evenings of prayer, and parish missions. A native of Brighton, she earned a master's degree in education from Creighton University in Omaha, Nebraska. She will speak at all four weekday Masses during the mission at 8 a.m.

The Rev. James Haddad, another of next week's guest speakers, is director of the Archdiocese's Pastoral Institute. He has supervised programs for the continued education of priests, and also has served as director of development. Fr. Haddad, currently pastor of St. Joseph's Church in Needham, holds a doctorate degree in sacred theology. Earlier in his priestly career, he was assigned to North Quincy's Sacred Heart Parish.

The Rev. Daniel O'Connell, presently a parochial vicar at that same parish and a Boston Catholic TV host (on channel 49 in Quincy), will be homilist at Tuesday evening's penance service.

The purpose of the spiritual renewal mission is two-fold: To celebrate and deepen the faith that is already active in the parish and to reach out to those who for any reason may not feel connected. St. John's mission is the culmination of a year of prayer and planning.

The morning worship service will be preceded by the first in a year-long series of Bible studies conducted by pastor Roger Ketcham. These will begin at 8:30 a.m. in Room 3 of the parish house. This week's study will be the Bible passage to be used during the morning worship service: John 13: 31-35.

3 Quincy Youths Chosen For City Year Corps

Valerie Caruso, Jason Costa and Lynn Harrington, all of Quincy, have been chosen to serve full-time with City Year—a youth community service program in Boston.

These young people were selected from over 600 applicants for 100 positions based on their desire to help others and to make a difference in urban communities.

The three have joined young people, ages 17-22, from more than 30 Greater Boston neighborhoods and towns and nine states.

They will spend about half of their year of service with children ages 6-12 through in-school and after-school programs and workshops to prevent violence and drug and alcohol abuse.

The youth corps will also build housing for homeless families, turn vacant lots into community gardens, and care for babies addicted to crack. Corps members receive $100 a week and, upon completing the program, a $5,000 public service award.

City Year is privately funded. Each corps member is sponsored by a foundation, corporation or citizens who make donations to City Year. Caruso is sponsored by Timberland, Costa by Bank of Boston and Harrington by Echoing Green Foundation.

City Year will hold its third annual Serve-a-thon, Saturday, Oct. 26. About 4,000 volunteers are expected to contribute 25,000 hours of community service.

Fore River Embayment To Share $700,000 Grant For Improved Water Quality

The Fore River embayment is one of three small bays that will share in a $700,000 grant recently granted by the Massachusetts Bays Program to support water quality improvement.

The Massachusetts Bay Program, part of the National Estuary Program, is a joint state, federal and local effort to address coastal pollution problems in Massachusetts and Cape Cod bays.

Grant funding is provided through the Federal Environmental Protection Agency and administered by Executive Office of Environmental Affairs. The other two embayments beside Fore River that will benefit from the grant are Plum Island Sound in the towns of Newbury, Rowley and Ipswich, and Wellfleet Harbor in the town of Wellfleet.

Tri-community planners representing the municipalities of Quincy, Braintree, and Weymouth, with management assistance from the Tellus Institute, a non-profit environmental research group, will coordinate a research program directed at the Fore River embayment.

The embayment is approximately a five square mile estuary bordered by the communities of Quincy, Braintree, and Weymouth. The state water quality classification of the river is SB, meaning the Fore River is designated for protection and propagation of fish, other aquatic organisms, primary and secondary contact recreation, and shellfish harvesting.

Because of shoaling conditions coupled with historic filling and development, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has determined that the future use of the Fore River for boating and recreation is contingent upon channel dredging.

The embayment contains substantial coastal wetlands. While their environmental integrity has been significantly compromised, these wetlands continue to serve as important fishery and wildlife habitat. Shellfish beds totalling about 220 acres exist, but none of these beds have been used on an unrestricted basis since the 1970's.

Although virtually no commercially fisheries remain in the embayment, the area retains a popular sport fishery. Further, a healthy spawning population of rainbow smelt continues to utilize the river. The historical record suggests the embayment could provide greatly enhanced commercial and recreational opportunities given improvements in water quality.

Land use in the embayment is characterized by a mix of residential, industrial, commercial, and marine activities. At various times in the embayment's past, the Fore River has been home to a major shipyard, an oil refinery, a petroleum storage facility, a hazardous waste processing facility, and power generating facilities.

In addition, the embayment will soon be home to the MWRA's sludge processing facility as well as the new Boston Edison Edgar station. Much of the growth on the Fore River has occurred without foresight or consideration of the cumulative environmental consequences, and without effective coordination among the communities.

As a consequence, the environmental quality within the Fore River has declined to a point where the embayment's beaches are often closed to swimmers in order to protect public health. In addition, there is considerable concern about sediment quality, particularly in areas close to major industrial activity, and the potential impact of contaminated sediment on fish and marine life.

While Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth recognize that the Fore River's environment has been damaged by urbanization and industrial development, no attempt has been made to systematically document and understand the environmental health of the embayment in an integrated manner. More importantly, no attempt has been made to mitigate these impacts and protect it from further degradation and possibly restore some of its previous uses.

The objective of this proposal is to initiate a tri-community effort to end the piecemeal management of the embayment and begin to measurably improve environmental conditions. After considering the existing data concerning environmental quality in the Fore River, this project will begin to forge the institutional mechanism required for better understanding and management of the embayment.

Further, the group will identify one or more critical environmental problems which can be measurably improved within the time frame and resources of the Mini-Bays program.

Miller Opposes Cuts In Quality Essential Services

George Miller, candidate for councillor-at-large, recently spoke of the city's obligation to provide quality essential services at a series of coffee hours at senior citizens complexes throughout the city.

"One of my top priorities as your councillor-at-large will be to strongly oppose any further cuts in funding for the police, fire and school departments. The city must provide quality essential services rather than settling for staffing these departments with mere skeleton crews," he said.

"The constant cuts in the fire department budget have caused layoffs and the possible closing of two of our city's fire stations resulting in a department which may be severely impaired in providing its life saving services.

"In the school department these cuts have caused jam packed classrooms at the opening of this school year, the reduction of approximately 30 teachers positions, and school buildings which are in a severe state of disrepair.

"Similarly, because of these cuts, the city has not filled a number of vacant patrolmans positions leaving the police department understaffed and resulting in a continued and undue reliance on overtime spending.

"Our elected officials must have the courage to make the necessary cuts and changes in other nonvital areas.

All unnecessary vacant administrative positions must be eliminated. The salaries of administrative positions to be filled must be reduced, and city buildings must be consolidated.

Additionally, the city must weed out abuses in the present worker's compensation program.

Despite budget cutbacks, the politicians must not continue to chip away at the bedrock essential services, and as your councillor-at-large, I will wage an aggressive campaign to restore these services to a level that the citizens of Quincy expect and deserve."

Presidents Seek 3rd Straight At Medford

By TOM SULLIVAN

It wasn't easy, but the Quincy football team, after dominating throughout the game, pulled out a 20-7 decision over Plymouth last Friday night at Veterans Memorial Stadium for its second straight win to even its record to 2-2.

The Presidents will try to make it three in a row Saturday afternoon at Medford at 1:30 p.m. over the winless Mustangs.

Medford is 0-4 with losses to Woburn, Waltham, Arlington and Somerville.

"Don't let that record fool you," said Quincy coach Jack Raymer. "We scouted them against Somerville and they have an aggressive team which is due to explode. I don't expect it to be easy."

|----------------|----|-----|-----|
|                | TD | PAT | Pts |
| Walker         | 4  | 0   | 24  |
| Kane           | 4  | 0   | 24  |
| DiBona         | 1  | 7   | 13  |
| Gallagher      | 1  | 0   | 6   |
| Crespi         | 1  | 0   | 6   |
| Anderson       | 1  | 0   | 6   |

Quincy completely dominated last week's game with Plymouth but the scoring didn't come easy. A pass, an 80-yard punt return and a touchdown following a fumble accounted for the three touchdowns.

In the first half Plymouth had the ball for only three minutes, but the Presidents led by only 6-0 at the half, being stopped on the one-foot line as time ran out. The second half also was all Quincy.

"They had a real scrappy team," said Raymer. "Although we dominated, we have to finish of our scoring chances. I was disappointed we didn't score more."

The previous week Plymouth held undefeated North Quincy to a 9-0 win.

Robbie Kane, a real game-breaker, sparked the Presidents as he caught a touchdown pass and ran back a punt 80 yards for a score.

"Kane continues to do a terrific job on the special teams," said Raymer. "He and Chris Walker are tremendous on the special teams. Pat Gallagher (5-for-12 for 60 yards and a touchdown) had another fine game and our running game clicked well. We had 195 yards rushing (Plymouth had only 66)."

Noel DiBona carried 15 times for 86 yards, Jason Anderson carried 12 times for 70 yards and Dave Bogan added 26 yards on three carries.

Ally Sleiman had an outstanding game as he recovered a fumble to set up Quincy's final score, made the key block to clear the way for Kane's punt return, had a quarterback sack and was in on several tackles.

Gary Collins, who had a pass interception, Dave Cedrone, Steve Fernald, Duane Holmes, Keith Norris, Mike Kavanaugh and Mike Malvesti were outstanding on the offensive line.

Defensively, Sleiman, Kavanaugh and Collins led the way, while Anderson, Rich Howard, Chris McLaughlin and Rich Buckley turned in fine performances.

Quincy received the opening kickoff and scored in seven plays, Gallagher hitting Kane with a 20-yard scoring pass. DiBona's kick for the extra point was low.

After stopping the Blue Eagles twice, the Presidents drove 77 yards on 19 plays and ate up eight minutes, reaching Plymouth's eight-yard line. A fake field goal play failed and Gallagher carried to the two.

On the final play of the half DiBona was stopped on the one-foot line.

During the drive Gallagher completed passes to Walker, Kane and Kavanaugh.

Quincy stopped Plymouth cold following the second half kickoff and Kane, behind fine blocking, returned the punt 80 yards for the touchdown. DiBona kicked the extra point.

Earlier this season Kane had run back a punt 94 yards for a touchdown against Bridgewater-Raynham.

Collins intercepted a pass to halt the Blue Eagles. DiBona's attempt for a field goal was foiled when the pass from center was mishandled. Sleiman then recovered a fumble and three plays later Gallagher scored from the 10 and DiBona added the extra point.

Plymouth averted a shutout early in the fourth quarter when Mike Shea (6-for-16 for 80 yards) hit Dan Keller for 41 yards and carried himself for the touchdown from 19 yards out.

Shea threw some bombs that were either overthrown or underthrown with receivers in the clear.

North Jayvees Win Second Straight, 12-6

The North Quincy junior varsity football team won its second straight game, defeating Plymouth, 12-6. And for the second straight week the Red Raiders' defense did not allow a point.

Plymouth got its only score on an interception return for a touchdown.

North Quincy got on the board first with a 42-yard scoring strike from quarterback Danny Duncan to receiver Brian Raftery.

The duo hooked up on a 45-yard scoring play the previous week during North's 26-0 win over Falmouth.

Josh Gott's seven-yard touchdown run turned out to be the difference for the Red Raiders.

North Quincy played Barnstable this past Monday and faces Weymouth this Monday.

Flynn, Tangney Westfield Runners

Jennifer Flynn, former North Quincy runner, and Julie Tangney, who ran at Quincy High, are freshmen members of the Westfield State College women's cross country team.

Coach Doug Allen feels his team can finish in the top 10 in the New England Division 3 championships and the top 20 in the All-New Englands.

North Quincy 32, Barnstable 14

Undefeated Raiders, Weymouth Clash Friday

The undefeated North Quincy football team warmed up for the Old Colony League game of the year Friday night by rolling over Barnstable, 32-14, last Friday in the battle of the rival Red Raiders.

North and Weymouth, both 4-0, will meet Friday night at 7 o'clock at Veterans Memorial Stadium in the league's biggest game of the season so far.

While North has defeated Acton-Boxboro, 13-12; Falmouth, 27-0; Plymouth, 9-0; and Barnstable, 32-14; Weymouth, has rolled past Leominster, 21-16; Silver Lake, 41-0; Barnstable, 27-12; and Taunton, 40-19.

North's secondary will be put to a severe test as Weymouth's Mark Stanton threw six touchdown passes, a Weymouth record, in last week's win over Taunton, and has thrown 12 TD passes in four games.

"This will be a real tough game for us," said North coach Ken McPhee. "Our defensive line has been tremendous all season and the secondary has done a fine job, but it will have to be at its best against Stanton. We will have to put the pressure on him at all times."

In last week's win at Barnstable, junior Tony Licciardi gave the Raiders the lead right at the start when he ran back the game's opening kickoff 82 yards for a score.

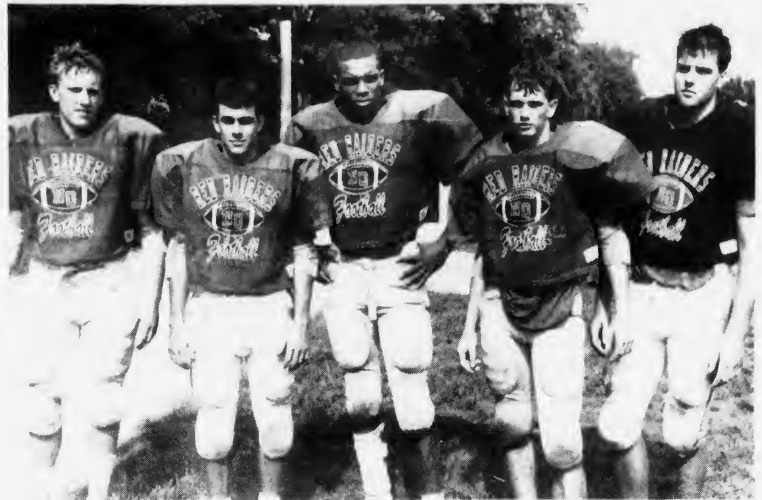

| North Scoring |    |     |    |     |
|---------------|----|-----|----|-----|
|               | TD | PAT | FG | Pts |
| Higgins       | 1  | 3   | 4  | 21  |
| Murray        | 2  | 2   | 0  | 14  |
| Kelleher      | 2  | 0   | 0  | 12  |
| Sinclair      | 2  | 0   | 0  | 12  |
| Cocuzzo       | 1  | 0   | 0  | 6   |
| Licciardi     | 1  | 0   | 0  | 6   |
| Reinhart      | 1  | 0   | 0  | 6   |
| Bellot        | 0  | 4   | 0  | 4   |

After that the Raiders put together another fine two-way effort.

Starting quarterback Mark Taylor, who suffered a separated shoulder in the opening game, returned and had a good night with seven for 12 for 72 yards and a pair of two-point conversion passes.

Junior Liam Higgins, who have filled in well for Taylor, did only the punting and place kicking and kicked his fourth field goal.

Dave Reinhart, filling in for Taylor at defensive end, had an outstanding game, recovering a blocked punt in the end zone for a touchdown, having two quarterback sacks and recovering two fumbles.

NORTH QUINCY'S defensive backs have been storing all season and had another fine night in last week's win at Barnstable. Left to right, Brandon O'Connell, Pat Shea, Desmond Bellot, Tony Licciardi, who ran the opening kickoff back for a touchdown at Barnstable, and Mark Taylor.

"We had a balanced running attack tonight," said McPhee, with four running backs doing well."

Mark Cocuzzo carried four times for 47 yards, Chris Murray carried four times for 53 yards, Matt Walsh, playing in only his second game, carried four times for 37 yards and Mark Sinclair carried four times for 15 yards and a touchdown.

Taylor's passes included one to Desmond Bellot for 29 yards and one to Mark Kelleher for 25 yards. Barnstable's quarterback had only two completions in six attempts for 19 yards.

Following Licciardi's kickoff return, Taylor passed to Bellot for the two points.

Later in the quarter Murray scored on a seven-yard run.

Higgins kicked his fourth field goal of the year, a 31-yarder in the second quarter and Scott Prouty blocked a punt, Reinhart recovering in the end zone for a touchdown.

Taylor again hit Bellot for the two-point conversion. At the half it was North 25, Barnstable 8.

In the third quarter Sinclair capped a drive by scoring from the one and Higgins kicked the extra point.

Apaches Get First Victory; Manets Run Win Streak To 5

After a dismal 0-3 start this year, the North Quincy Apaches got their first win in an exciting 22-14 victory over the West Quincy Elks, while the Houghs Neck Manets improved their record to 5-0 with a 26-6 win over the Quincy Point Panthers.

The Apaches scored first, as running back Shawn Johnson took a pitch from quarterback Jason Healy and broke a long run around the left end. The attempt for the conversion was no good.

The Apaches defense played well as they held the Elks offense to very little yardage in the first half.

In the second quarter, Apaches running back Brian Walsh added another six points with a short touchdown run at the end of a seven-play drive highlighted by the Apaches ground attack. Johnson put another two points on the board with a successful conversion. The Apaches led, 14-0, at halftime.

The Elks turned the tables in the third quarter as Michael Scheffer broke a long run for a touchdown. Scheffer also scored on the two-point conversion.

The Apaches offense sputtered in the third as it failed to move the ball successfully, and as a result, the Apaches were forced to punt from their own 5 yard line.

The Elks took possession of the ball deep in Apaches territory and scored again in the beginning of the fourth. The conversion was no good, and the game was tied at 14.

In the fourth, Healy led the Apaches offense on a time-consuming drive, behind the running of Walsh and Johnson. Walsh made the conversion to close out the scoring.

The Elks could not move the ball on next possession and time ran out.

Playing well for the Apaches defensively were Ken Lippens, Cedric Douglas, Steve Steniford, Tim Bouzan, Dan Busse, Johnson and Healy.

Playing well for the Apaches junior varsity this year are Jim Finn, Pat Egan, Sean O' Toole, Shawn Almond and Jeremy Riley in the backfield and Jim Reid, Shawn Donovan, Dan Collins and Mike Steniford on the line.

The Apaches also wish to recognize the courageous effort put forth by first year running back Tom Gilmarin both on and off the field.

The Manets used a successful combination of the running and passing games to secure their victory over the Panthers.

After initially scoring on a ground attack, the Manets switched to the air as quarterback Chris Bowman passed to Greg Santoro for another touchdown. Bill Dunn kicked the extra point and at halftime it was 13-0, Manets.

In the third quarter Bowman scored on a 30-yard keeper and Dunn again added the kick.

The Panthers finally got on the board when they opened the quarter with a touchdown catch by Kurt Palluccio, but the pass attempt for the conversion was no good. Bowman again ran it in for the Manets as time ran out to close the scoring but the kick for the extra point failed.

The Panthers, whose record now stands at 3-2, will next play the Apaches, while the Elks will try to improve their 2-3 record when they face off against the Manets.

Charlie Djerf Joins 'American Gladiator' Tour

By STEVE KAVANAGH
Quincy native Charlie Djerf recently joined the American Gladiator's Live Tour at the Worcester Centrum.

The tour is a spinoff of the popular television show and will be televised at a later date. The American Gladiator's is a competition featuring various events which test an individual's speed, strength, agility, endurance and athletic ability.

Djerf, 35, who now lives in Worcester, qualified in September during a tryout at the Centrum and was one of six men and six women chosen for the Centrum tour date. He competed against nearly 300 other men in four events. Contestants had to pass each event to advance to the next.

The first was 45 finger-tip pushups in under a minute. Next, contestants had to run the 40-yard dash in 5.3 seconds or better. Third was the shuttle run which had to be completed in under 15 seconds. Contestants who met each qualifying standard then participated in the "Power Ball" competition, an event on the television program where contestants try to stuff a large ball into a drum which is defended by other "Gladiators."

Djerf qualified in each event and two weeks later received a letter from the promoters of the tour stating he had been selected as an alternate/contender.

"I'm really happy about it," he said.

Djerf said he got interested the first time he saw the program.

"When I first saw the show I wondered how they selected the contestants," he said. "I thought it was something I would be good at. I played sports all through school and I work out regularly."

Djerf enjoys distance running and enters many 10K road races each year. In 1983 he completed the Boston Marathon.

He almost missed his chance to tryout for the Gladiators.

"I just happened to see a notice in the paper about the tryouts the day before they were held," he said. "I had no idea they were coming to Worcester."

Some of the American Gladiator events which Djerf may compete in include the "Eliminator" -- an obstacle course; "Assault" -- a "War Games" type event where participants try to reach a destination while being attacked with tennis balls fired from a bazooka-like gun; "Break Through & Conquer" -- contestants try to run with a football into an end zone past their opponent; "Atlas Fare" -- contestants enter a large, hollow ball and try to run the ball onto scoring "pods" on a special floor.

He is the son of Charles and Shirley Djerf of Quincy and the grandson of the late Dr. Charles Djerf. His father is a Quincy High School teacher and announces high school football games at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Charlie also has three brothers, Russell, Brian and Dennis, all of Quincy.

BUSINESS & REAL ESTATE

JENNETTE ZEC, R.N., of the Hanover HealthStop, and David Coleman, Quincy HealthStop, examine a slide preparation area in the Quincy HealthStop laboratory with Tony Richard, lab manager. The Quincy, Weymouth, Hanover and Braintree HealthStops have begun an affiliation with Quincy Hospital in which HealthStop patients will be referred to Quincy Hospital for some emergency or hospital services. HealthStop personnel participated in a recent Community Rounds program designed to orient them to the facilities and services available at the hospital.

HealthStop, Quincy Hospital Team Up

HealthStop, the nation's largest network of walk-in family medical centers, and Quincy Hospital have teamed up in an effort to improve the delivery of quality medical care on the South Shore.

The recent affiliation between Quincy Hospital and four HealthStop medical centers in Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree and Hanover, combines convenient family medical care with the expertise of an experienced acute care hospital.

"The affiliation with Quincy Hospital will allow us to provide a comprehensive package of family care services," said Mark Shankman, M.D., chief medical officer at HealthStop. "Our affiliation links us to a network of some of the best specialists and most advanced medical technology in this area."

"Quincy Hospital has undergone significant changes over the past few years," Quincy Hospital Director Ellen Zane said. "Our new, state-of-the-art facilities, all private patient rooms, and expanded specialized programs are attracting patients from all over the South Shore.

"The affiliation with HealthStop helps us reach out into our neighboring communities and offer residents much of the expertise and technology of Boston Teaching Hospitals, only a lot closer to home."

The affiliation is intended to speed up referrals for HealthStop patients to Quincy Hospital facilities and specialists on the hospital medical staff. HealthStop, in turn, has made office space available to physicians on staff at Quincy Hospital who can provide important medical services to residents.

"We're moving now to rotate specialists at the HealthStop facility in Hanover. The idea is to improve access to specialized care," Zane said.

Founded in 1982, HealthStop was designed to make high quality, general medical care readily available in communities throughout the greater Boston area.

"Our family physicians and internists provide traditional family care services weekdays, evenings and weekends," Dr. Shankman said. "Although many patients call to schedule an appointment, we continue to offer walk-in service because it is an integral part of our commitment to making quality care readily accessible."

Staffed by full-time physicians, nurses, x-ray technicians and medical assistants, each HealthStop medical center offers general medical services including routine examinations, gynecological services and treatment of chronic illnesses such as hypertension and diabetes.

Each office also includes on-site x-ray and laboratory facilities enabling efficient diagnoses of most illnesses and minor injuries by HealthStop physicians.

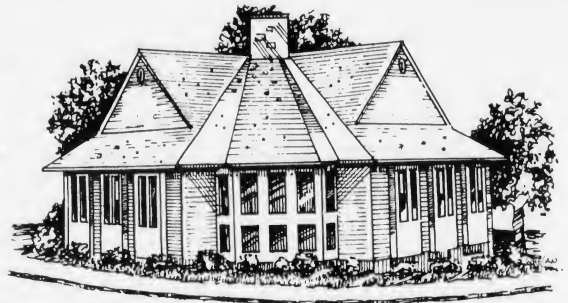

Quincy Hospital is a 302-bed acute care facility providing inpatient medical and surgical services on the South Shore. Major specialty areas include cardiology, internal medicine, orthopedics, general surgery, oncology (cancer), pediatrics, obstetrics, gynecology and adult-geriatric psychiatry.

Still, 20 years later, McDonnell continues to offer the city his high caliber of legal expertise," Powers said.

"My firm conducts general law, with emphasis on trial practice," McDonnell said.

"I, along with the other two attorneys that make up the firm, work on probate issues, workman's compensation, personal injury, estate planning, wills, real estate, and family law. With the help of an additional support staff, we enjoy a long history of satisfied clientele, both from the private and commercial sector."

"For a number of years I had held a lease at another building," said McDonnell. "The building was an older building. The space was becoming functionally obsolete, it was in need of major improvements, and there was also no elevator. The lease was expiring so I decided to look around."

Sheets To Attend Lexington Decommissioning

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Thousands of guests and former crew members are expected to attend the decommissioning ceremony for the aircraft carrier U.S.S. Lexington

Friday, Nov. 8 at 10 a.m. at Allegheny Pier, Pensacola Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla.

The chief Naval Operations, Adm. Frank Kelso II, will be the principle speaker. The ship's commanding officer is Capt. William Kennedy.

Mayor James Sheets said he plans to attend the ceremony, regardless of whether the city win's custody of the ship.

"I think it's important for someone from Quincy to attend and represent the city and the people who built her and served on her. If we don't get (the Lexington), I'll attend the decommissioning anyway since it was built here.

"Obviously, if we get the Lexington, others may attend the ceremony at their own expense," Sheets said Tuesday.

A decision on whether Quincy, Corpus Christi, Texas or Mobile, Ala., will be the future home of the carrier is expected to be made by the end of the month.

The Lexington was built at the Fore River shipyard in Quincy Point and began her commissioned service Feb. 17, 1943. The ship was named after her predecessor, U.S.S. Lexington (CV 2) which was sunk May 8, 1942, during the Battle of Coral Sea.

The Lexington is a World War II veteran. During her many war time exploits, she destroyed more than a thousand enemy planes, sunk 300,000 tons of Japanese shipping and damaged another 600,000 tons. Despite repeated Japanese claims of her destruction, the Lexington continued to fight and was nicknamed "The Blue Ghost," the ship that couldn't be sunk.

U.S.S. Lexington is the oldest aircraft carrier in the U.S. Navy and the only active carrier of the Essex class. Its engineering plant is powerful enough to provide utility services for a small city. The ship's engines develop 150,000 horsepower feeding turbo and diesel generators producing 7,000 kilowatts of electrical power.

The ship's boilers supply steam for the main engines, turbo generators, steam catapults and many other systems. Nearly 180,000 gallons of fresh and feed water for the boilers are produced daily by the evaporators.

The size of the Lexington's food service facilities, laundry, barber shop, snack bar and retail stores are equal to the facilities of several major hotels. In 1979, women joined the crew and work side-by-side with the men, from the flight deck to the engineering spaces.

In Weymouth, McGlone swept the six precincts comprising the other half of the Third Norfolk District. McGlone's largest victory margin came in Precinct 6, his home precinct, where he defeated Mariano by 345 votes, 442 to 97.

The closest Weymouth precinct was Precinct 17 where McGlone tallied 64 votes to Mariano's 27.

In Precinct 5, McGlone had 293 votes to Mariano's 64, a difference of 229 votes. In Precinct 9, McGlone had 329 votes to Mariano's 125, a 204-vote margin.

In Precinct 12, McGlone had 316 to Mariano's 112, a difference of 204. In Precinct 16, McGlone had 291 while Mariano had 153, a 138-vote margin.

The Third Norfolk District seat became vacant in July when former State Rep. Robert Cerasoli stepped down to become the state's new inspector general. Cerasoli had represented the district for 18 years before his appointment.

Board, Restaurant Agree On Complaints Remedies

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Management of The Varsity Club restaurant, neighbors and city officials have worked out an agreement to help curb excessive noise at the restaurant and resolve parking problems in the area.

Managers of the Varsity Club, 33 Independence Ave., also agreed to make some physical changes to alleviate food odors and lighting which have bothered some neighbors.

A spokesman for the neighborhood, Lois Ferrazzi of 80 Federal St., told the License Board Tuesday that residents were "fed up" with late night noise caused by club patrons, a loud air conditioning vent on the roof, a clanging dumpster and trash barrels and empty beer kegs being dragged in the parking lot.

License Board Chairman John Gillis said the large crowds which flock to the popular nightclub have contributed to creating unforeseen problems in the neighborhood.

"When we first granted this license we never dreamed it would be such a success," said board Chairman John Gillis. "But we shouldn't penalize them (Varsity Club) for being successful."

The board voted to adopt conditions on the Varsity Club's license to solve the problems including:

- placing a special shroud around the air conditioning vent to absorb the noise.

- changing the parking lot lighting system. The current system goes on and off during the night and makes noise which disturbs neighbors. New lights will be installed which will constantly shine onto the restaurant and away from abutting homes.

- install new duct work for the fryolater fans to help alleviate smoke and food odors.

- require employees to

Programs For Youth, Asian-Americans $2.2M Grant To Fight Drug, Alcohol Abuse

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Called a "shot in the arm" in the city's fight against drug and alcohol abuse, a five-year federal grant of $2.2 million has been awarded to Bay State Community Service, Inc. on behalf of the Quincy Coalition for the Prevention of Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse.

The grant from the Office of Substance Abuse Prevention of the Health and Human Services Department of the U.S. government, represents the largest single award of this type in the state. State and local health officials announced the awarding at a press conference in City Hall Monday morning.

The grant will be used to create a community-wide coalition to prevent alcohol and substance abuse. Organizations which will benefit from the grant include the police, school and health departments, Quincy Housing Authority, Quincy Hospital detoxification center, Survival, Bay State Community Service and the Asian-American Committee.

The coalition represents 15-private and public groups and agencies as well as city and county department. Its goal is to reduce alcohol and other drug abuse, especially among youth and young adults, and a growing Asian-American minority which constitutes 12 to 18 percent of the city's population of 81,000.

According to William Spinks, coalition chairman and executive director of the South Shore Council on Alcoholism, many Asian-Americans in Quincy have not been using substance abuse resources.

"We felt there was a real need to reach out to that community and try to identify what the problems were and to try to identify what the needs were in the community and in doing so we contacted many of the Asian-American representatives that gave us insight as how they perceive some of those problems and one of the key problems identified was the stress level and the feeling of isolation by some of those Asian-Americans.

"We know that's one of the preconditions of developing problems around alcohol and other drug use. It's a way that people sometime use to cope. We know that this population could be a great risk down the road as they assimilate into our culture here in the community," Spinks said.

Culturally-appropriate services for Asian-Americans will be developed by recruiting Asian-Americans for the coalition and through special training and consultation for coalition

MBTA Train Noise Exceeds Federal Limit, Readings Show

By MICHAEL WHALEN

A recent series of noise level readings done by the Department of Environmental Protection shows noise from Quincy's MBTA trains far exceeds federal government limits.

Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan, who requested the noise level readings be done, spoke with disfavor at Monday night's City Council meeting about the situation.

"I don't want to get too technical about this," Phelan said, "but basically, 10 decibels of sound over existing background noises (such as conversation or the sound of a power mower) is supposed to be the limit.

And recent readings showed that the trains registered 32-40 decibels over the existing noises."

Councillor Patricia Toland, who first brought the problem to the attention of the council at the request of a neighbor, said the noise from the trains is "absolutely unacceptable...It's a very perplexing problem. We should go to the MBTA Board of Directors and really make a fuss about it."

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley agreed. "The noise is relatively horrendous."

Phelan said, "This is definite proof that there's significant noise impact from the trains and that further study needs to be done on it."

In the past, the council has discussed the possibility of placing an acoustic barrier along Quincy's Red Line such as those found at other MBTA stations for the purpose of helping to contain the noise.

A Lot Of Beautiful Fall Foliage Here

Fall Foliage is expected to hit its peak this week and next in Quincy, according to Ray Cattaneo, Executive Director of Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments.

Mount Wollaston Cemetery is usually the first site to display many brilliant shades of fall colors, he said.

"Merrymount Park off Southern Artery offers an outstanding view of the foliage as well as the conservation nature trail, off Fenne St. to the marsh side on Quincy Shore Drive," he said.

"Paxon Park in South

Quincy is another area for viewing, although the gates are locked at this time because of illegal dumping, you can park along Faxon Park Road and walk to the observation circle lookout where there is a view over Quincy Bay.

"Squaw Rock in Squantum offers a limited amount of the changing foliage, but the scenic view of the Boston Skyline and Harbor Islands is striking."

Cattaneo noted that Quincy residents unable to travel any distance, will have the opportunity to see beautiful foliage here at home.

By STEVE KAVANAGH

The culmination of The Quincy Partnership's historic site lighting project will take place Oct. 30 at 5:30 p.m. when the First Parish Church and Old City Hall (McIntyre Government Center) are illuminated in soft white light.

The lighting ceremony coincides with the 256th birthday of John Adams, second president of the United States, who is buried at the church along with his son, John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the U.S., and their wives, Abigail and Louisa.

The festivities will begin at 3 p.m. with a walking tour of Quincy by the National Park Service in cooperation with the Quincy Tourism Association and students of the Quincy public schools.

Following the tour there will be a service inside

First Parish Church with a wreath laying ceremony at 5 p.m.

At 5:30 p.m. the exterior of the church will be illuminated. The lights in the belfry and clock have also been replaced to match the light color.

The ceremonies will then move across the street to Old City Hall where the facade will be illuminated.

The Eastern Nazarene College Choir will perform both inside and outside the church and refreshments will be served.

Invited guests and participants include Congressman Brian Donnelly, Mayor James Sheets, Gerald Patten, Regional Director National Park Services, Rev. Sheldon Bennett, Charles Francis Adams and Adams family members.

The Quincy Partnership has already completed the lighting of the Adams Academy and the Thomas Crane Public Library. The Academy ceremony was held Oct. 30 of last year and the lighting of the library was celebrated June 14 following the city's stirring Flag Day parade which was also organized by the Partnership.

First Parish Church was Quincy's first house of worship. The existing edifice was built in 1828 and dedicated Nov. 12 of that year with John Quincy Adams holding Pew No. 1.

City Hall was designed by architect Solomon Willard and completed and first occupied on Nov. 1, 1844. City Hall, built from Quincy granite, cost $19,115.93 to build. By comparison, the addition built in 1979 cost $1.9 million—100 times more.

John Quincy Adams II, grandson of the sixth president, served there as town moderator for many years. Quincy was incorporated as a city in 1888.

The Quincy Partnership is a group of leaders from the business community, government, non-profit organizations and the general public. Ed Keohane is chairman of the group.

60-Foot Canteen Trailer Raises Concerns

Members of the city License Board have expressed reservations about a proposed 60-foot canteen trailer located at Manna Bay.

The board voted Tuesday to delay action on a Common Victualer license application and recommend to the applicant Eugene Murray that he go before the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Murray told the board Oct. 8 that he wants to sell coffee, sandwiches and other packaged food items from the trailer in the early morning hours to construction workers boarding the shuttle boats to the MWRA work site at Deer Island.

Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue and Building Inspector Matthias Mulvey inspected the site last week but were unable to inspect inside the trailer.

"To our knowledge there are no handwashing or toilet facilities," Gallahue said.

Board members also discussed whether or not it was fair to other Marina Bay businesses that pay property taxes to allow the trailer.

Mulvey recommended the case first go to the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Mulvey and Gallahue also told the board they saw "check cashing" signs inside the trailer. Murray has not informed the board if he plans to offer check cashing services.

If Murray gets approval for the trailer from the ZBA he must still appear before the License Board to apply for a Common Victualers license.

$51,500 Appropriated For Tree Plantings, Playground Restoration

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The City Council Monday night unanimously approved the allocation of $51,500 to the park and forestry department for the planting of trees and the maintenance of both the Collins-Rest-A-While playground and the infield of Adams Baseball Field.

The allocation was taken from the sale of real estate.

A majority of the funds—$30,000—is earmarked for new tree plantings. Raymond Cattaneo, executive director of the Park and Forestry Department said he has received more than 100 requests for tree throughout the city.

"And if this is appropriated, I'm sure there will be a lot more calls," he added.

Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan enthusiastically supported the funding.

"It's really a small amount of money considering the trees give the people a good feeling about living in the city. The trees make the city come alive," Phelan said.

Councillor Patricia Toland also supported the allocation.

"Trees are very important in beautifying the city although I would like to see more green trees and less crimson kings. Green is so much cooler in the summer."

Mused Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien, "I'll support this no matter what color they are."

Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio said that he would also offer his support "as long as they (the trees) are fairly distributed."

To date, Wards 3 and 5 apparently have the most requests for trees.

Another $15,000 was allocated for the maintenance of the Collins-Rest-A-While playground on Southern Artery and Hancock Street.

Cattaneo said the area is "a unique playground because you always see someone there year-round. We don't have the money to keep repairing it and this is the playground that should be repaired; it's constantly used. The equipment there is out of date."

Toland agreed with Cattaneo's assessment that the playground is the city's most used.

"This isn't just a neighborhood, this is the city as a neighborhood," Toland said. "Children from all over the city use the area. It's a pleasure to see this allocation."

"It's a bargain for the City of Quincy to encourage this. From a taxpayer's standpoint, this is money well spent," Chretien said.

Councillor Timothy Cahill also offered his support in the matter.

"It's (the allocation) a good idea," Cahill said. "It's the ultimate place for a kid's playground, since it's doesn't really bother anyone's neighborhood. I hope it becomes the park to end all parks. I hope it gets citywide support."

Council President Ted DeCristofaro said the playground is located in a good location.

"It's important that parks be located in an area where cars are going by. It's safer for the children than a more secluded area," Decristofaro said.

The remaining $6,500 of the total allocation was granted for repairs needed in the infield of Adams Baseball Field.

Cattaneo said $7,500 was needed to pay Foye and Letendre Landscaping of Quincy, the low bidder in the matter, for a sand and clay mixture that costs $12 to $13 a yard.

A total of $1,000 had already been donated by the Quincy Schools Athletic Contribution Committee, Cattaneo said.

Speaking in favor, Phelan said "Adams Field is always a good time. I know that the council has fun at the celebrity ballgames and the kids really love the field, too."

When Cattaneo noted he has only four men to provide the care for 37 parks and playgrounds totalling 500 acres, Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley expressed both his surprised and his support.

"You really are short-handed if you have only four men to take care of all of that," he said.

The culmination of The Quincy Partnership's historic site lighting project will take place Oct. 30 at 5:30 p.m. when the First Parish Church and Old City Hall (McIntyre Government Center) are illuminated in soft white light.

The lighting ceremony coincides with the 256th birthday of John Adams, second president of the United States, who is buried at the church along with his son, John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the U.S., and their wives, Abigail and Louisa.

The festivities will begin at 3 p.m. with a walking tour of Quincy by the National Park Service in cooperation with the Quincy Tourism Association and students of the Quincy public schools.

Following the tour there will be a service inside

First Parish Church with a wreath laying ceremony at 5 p.m.

At 5:30 p.m. the exterior of the church will be illuminated. The lights in the belfry and clock have also been replaced to match the light color.

The ceremonies will then move across the street to Old City Hall where the facade will be illuminated.

The Eastern Nazarene College Choir will perform both inside and outside the church and refreshments will be served.

Invited guests and participants include Congressman Brian Donnelly, Mayor James Sheets, Gerald Patten, Regional Director National Park Services; Rev. Sheldon Bennett, Charles Francis Adams and Adams family members.

The Quincy Partnership has already completed the lighting of the Adams Academy and the Thomas Crane Public Library. The Academy ceremony was held Oct. 30 of last year and the lighting of the library was celebrated June 14 following the city's stirring Flag Day parade which was also organized by the Partnership.

First Parish Church was Quincy's first house of worship. The existing edifice was built in 1828 and dedicated Nov. 12 of that year with John Quincy Adams holding Pew No. 1.

City Hall was designed by architect Solomon Willard and completed and first occupied on Nov. 1, 1844. City Hall, built from Quincy granite, cost $19,115.93 to build. By comparison, the addition built in 1979 cost $1.9 million—100 times more.

John Quincy Adams II, grandson of the sixth president, served there as town moderator for many years. Quincy was incorporated as a city in 1888.

The Quincy Partnership is a group of leaders from the business community, government, non-profit organizations and the general public. Ed Keohane is chairman of the group.

60-Foot Canteen Trailer Raises Concerns

Members of the city License Board have expressed reservations about a proposed 60-foot canteen trailer located at Marina Bay.

The board voted Tuesday to delay action on a Common Victualer license application and recommend to the applicant Eugene Murray that he go before the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Murray told the board Oct. 8 that he wants to sell coffee, sandwiches and other packaged food items from the trailer in the early morning hours to construction workers boarding the shuttle boats to the MWRA work site at Deer Island.

Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue and Building Inspector Matthias Mulvey inspected the site last week but were unable to inspect inside the trailer.

"To our knowledge there are no handwashing or toilet facilities," Gallahue said.

Board members also discussed whether or not it was fair to other Marina Bay businesses that pay property taxes to allow the trailer.

Mulvey recommended the case first go to the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Mulvey and Gallahue also told the board they saw "check cashing" signs inside the trailer. Murray has not informed the board if he plans to offer check cashing services.

If Murray gets approval for the trailer from the ZBA he must still appear before the License Board to apply for a Common Victualers license.

$51,500 Appropriated For Tree Plantings, Playground Restoration

By MICHAEL WHALEN
The City Council Monday night unanimously approved the allocation of $51,500 to the park and forestry department for the planting of trees and the maintenance of both the Collins-Rest-A-While playground and the infield of Adams Baseball Field.

The allocation was taken from the sale of real estate. A majority of the funds—$30,000—is earmarked for new tree plantings. Raymond Cattaneo, executive director of the Park and Forestry Department said he has received more than 100 requests for tree throughout the city.

"And if this is appropriated, I'm sure there will be a lot more calls," he added.

Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan enthusiastically supported the funding.

"It's really a small amount of money considering the trees give the people a good feeling about living in the city. The trees make the city come alive," Phelan said.

Councillor Patricia Toland also supported the allocation.

"Trees are very important in beautifying the city although I would like to see more green trees and less crimson kings. Green is so much cooler in the summer."

Mused Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien, "I'll support this no matter what color they are."

Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio said that he would also offer his support "as long as they (the trees) are fairly distributed."

To date, Wards 3 and 5 apparently have the most requests for trees.

Another $15,000 was allocated for the maintenance of the Collins-Rest-A-While playground on Southern Artery and Hancock Street.

Cattaneo said the area is "a unique playground because you always see someone there year-round. We don't have the money to keep repairing it and this is the playground that should be repaired; it's constantly used. The equipment there is out of date."

Toland agreed with Cattaneo's assessment that the playground is the city's most used.

"It's a bargain for the City of Quincy to encourage this. From a taxpayer's standpoint, this is money well spent," Chretien said.

Councillor Timothy Cahill also offered his support in the matter.

"It's (the allocation) a good idea," Cahill said. "It's the ultimate place for a kid's playground, since it's doesn't really bother anyone's neighborhood. I hope it becomes the park to end all parks. I hope it gets citywide support."

Council President Ted DeCristofaro said the playground is located in a good location.

"It's important that parks be located in an area where cars are going by. It's safer for the children than a more secluded area," Decristofaro said.

The remaining $6,500 of the total allocation was granted for repairs needed in the infield of Adams Baseball Field.

MIRACLE CURE OR SCAM?

There is hardly a newspaper or magazine around that doesn't carry amazing, sometimes frightening reports about medical discoveries and new drugs. Often the information is contradictory. News about coffee and caffeine has been an example of this, with reports one day charging caffeine causes cancer, followed by later stories of how it may actually protect against certain types of cancers. How can we sort it all out? First, consider the source of the story. Reports by national health organizations and major private foundations are generally most reputable. Second, find out whether the research is based on test tube, animal or human experimentation. Naturally the results of the studies with people are the most trustworthy. Finally, pay the most attention to studies conducted with large numbers of patients, not just a handful of subjects.

P.S. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration advises pregnant women to use caffeine-containing foods and drugs sparingly, if at all.

Our column is presented in the interest of better health for all. COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE is a medical facility dedicated to the compassionate and caring practice of medicine. ## McGlone Will Be Back Jack McGlone will definitely be back as a political candidate.

The only question is: for what office?

Three possibilities:

(1) Another run for the Third Norfolk state representative seat.

(2) Challenge Republican state Senator Robert Hedlund of Weymouth.

(3) Or, this one: maybe a Quincy City Council bid. McGlone, running out of Weymouth in his first campaign for public office, lost the Democratic nomination to Quincy's Ron Mariano in last week's special primary election.

But it was an impressive political debut for a newcomer as he came within just 223 votes of victory.

It was a Quincy vs. Weymouth fight even though some voters and some supporters of the two candidates insisted hometown loyalty had nothing to do with it.

But, a look at the vote, says differently.

In Quincy, Mariano got 1935 votes to McGlone's 554 to win here by a 1,381 vote margin.

But in Weymouth, McGlone's vote was 1736 to Mariano's 578. McGlone's margin there was 1,158.

And if there had been a half-decent voter turnout in Weymouth Precinct 17, McGlone might have been the winner overall.

Weymouth Town Clerk Frank Fryer refers to Precinct 17 as "a mongrel" because of all the apartments along Route 18 in that area.

"We only see them (occupants) every four years," he says. "They only come out for the Presidential election or maybe now and then for a governor's race."

"The people living in those apartments come and go and don't really have an interest in town matters."

There are 929 registered voters in that precinct and only 112 bothered to vote last week. McGlone got 64 of those votes, Mariano 27 and lone Republican candidate William Izbicki, 21.

If just one third or a little more of that precinct had turned out, it might have been enough to give McGlone a whisker-win over Mariano.

But getting back to McGlone's political future.

At the present time, he is a Quincy resident, living with his bride of a month, the former Celeste Bradley in her Burgin Parkway condo.

"We have the condo up for sale and are looking around for a house to buy," McGlone says.

Where are they looking?

"Oh, it will be somewhere in the district." (That's the district, like in Third Norfolk District).

So that would mean Weymouth or the Quincy Point, South Quincy area.

"I'm thinking of making another run for the state representative seat," he reveals.

"But I will also take a look at the state senate seat."

That's the seat that William Golden gave up to run for lieutenant governor last year. Hedlund won it, upsetting veteran Robert Ambler, long-time Democrat state representative.

McGlone's Weymouth vote last week no doubt is the reason he is considering a run for the senate seat.

To make that run, he would have to move to Weymouth, Hingham, or one of the other towns in that district.

But if he decides not to and settles down in the Quincy Point or South Quincy area, he could still run for the state representative seat.

Or City Council.

"I don't know about getting into Quincy city politics," he says. "I suppose, though, it might depend on where we buy that house."

Well, Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro has been hinting that this might be his last campaign.

But regardless, you'll be hearing more from young

Mr. McGlone.

IN OUR RUNDOWN on ballot positions for the City Council at-large race last week, we overlooked William Ryan.

RYAN

Ryan, who has conducted a low-key campaign, will hold down the No. 6 spot behind Tim Cahill, Mike Cheney, Patricia Toland, Joseph LaRaia and George Miller.

Ryan, who is 71, notes he is the only senior citizen among the at-large candidates. A veteran of World War II, he was in the 101st Infantry and a member of the "Boston Irish Regiment."

Third Army General George Patton gave him a battlefield first lieutenant commission during the Battle of The Bulge. Ryan later moved up to the rank of general in the Massachusetts National Guard.

IT'S KNOCK, KNOCK in North Quincy. This year's city election candidates are concentrating on North Quincy more than any other part of the city as the campaign heads down the home stretch.

Reason is that the Ward 6 Council fight between incumbent Tom Nutley and challenger Bruce Ayers is expected to bring out bigger voter turnout than anywhere else in the city.

So candidates for City Council at-large and School Committee are knocking on doors all over North Quincy, figuring that whoever answers the door will be going to the polls Nov. 5.

RAY CATTANEO, executive director Quincy Parks and Forestry, is rooting for his "alma mater," the Atlanta Braves in the World Series.

Cattaneo was in the Braves system back in 1949-1954 when they belonged to Boston and was a good hitting, good fielding third baseman.

He hit .308 for the Braves Owensboro, Ky. farm team, with 15 homeruns and 108 runs batted in. He later played at Jacksonville, Fla. where one of his teammates was Hank Aaron.

CATTANEO

Cattaneo never made it to the big leagues. His biggest problem: a fellow by the name of Eddie Matthews had third base all locked up with the Braves.

Matthews, like Aaron, is in the Hall of Fame.

And, wouldn't you like to have the Braves back in Boston!

THREE POLITICAL FUNDRAISERS on tap: Bruce Ayers, Ward 6 City Council candidate, has a cocktail hour tonight (Thursday) from 5 to 7 p.m. at Walsh's Restaurant, Billings Rd., North Quincy. Tickets $25.

Councillor at-large Tim Cahill has a fundraiser tomorrow (Friday) from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. at Torre dei Passeri, Washington St. Tickets are $10.

And, School Committee candidate Joann Bragg has a Family Halloween Dance Friday night from 7:30 to 11:30 p.m. at the Bryan VFW Post Hall, Broad St. Tickets $10 adults, $3 children.

SOMEONE MENTIONED to young George Miller, candidate for City Council at-large, that they were impressed with the number of political signs he has throughout the city.

But Miller shrugged off the compliment. "Signs don't vote," he noted.

AND, SPEAKING of political signs there seems to be a lot fewer sprouting this year on Independence Ave. known in past elections as Political Row.

Opens New Office At 100 Newport Ave.

Blue Cross/Blue Shield On Track To Becoming City's Largest Employer

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

With the opening of its new office at 100 Newport Ave. Monday morning, Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Massachusetts is on its way to becoming the single largest employer in Quincy.

Approximately 100 local officials, business leaders and BCBS employees attended the opening and outdoor ribbon cutting ceremony. The four-story office building will house up to five Master House Centers and eventually employ 800 people, bringing BCBS's Quincy work force to 1,700, the largest in the city.

Presently, the non-profit health insurance and health care coverage corporation employs 900 employees in Quincy, a majority at 100 Hancock St. and the rest at 25 Newport Ave. The projected 1,700 employs in Quincy would be BCBS's second highest concentration behind only Boston.

"Blue Cross and Blue Shield has almost 40 sites throughout Massachusetts. When this building is fully staffed, we will have 1,700 employees in the city of Quincy which will make it the largest single source of talent of Blue Cross Blue Shield other than Boston," said Martin Joyce, senior vice president of operations for BCBS.

Joyce said the building at 100 Newport Ave. will house what the company calls a customer-oriented "master business center office."

"Each master business center will be a dedicated service area for a specific set of accounts and subscribers and members that it services. We will provide enrollment, claims processing, coordination of benefits and customer service at each of those sites."

"When fully staffed with over 800 people, this building will ultimately house five master business centers and will be the absolute focus of this new dedication to high quality service."

The new structure will include retaining of employees and new computer systems geared to providing faster, more personal service.

BCBS covers more than two million members. The non-profit corporation is the largest provider of health insurance and health care coverage in Massachusetts.

Joyce said Quincy was selected to the new centers for several reasons. He noted the city's aggressive pursuit of new business and BCBS's prior success in Quincy.

He also said the "availability of fine buildings such as this designed for the white-collar workforce is representative of this city and very few others." In addition, Joyce noted the site is easily accessible by automobile and public transportation.

"We're thrilled to be here and we look forward to growing our business here and to becoming even better partners with the city of Quincy and better neighbors with its people," Joyce said.

Guerino Savio, president of SCI Properties, the owner and manager of the building, said BCBS first leased office space in the first floor of the building in 1983.

"Since then, Blue Cross and Blue Shield has leased over 400,000 square feet of space in North Quincy and today, the

Zoning Proposals Cheered, Jeered

A proposed zoning ordinance for Quincy drew both applause and heavy fire at a City Council hearing chaired by Ward 6 Councillor Dr. Charles J. Herbert.

Spokesmen for the Wollaston, Atlantic, Norfolk Downs and Merrymount were all for it while representatives of Quincy Point and Germantown blasted the proposal.

Oct. 23-29
61 Years Ago

Leo Mullin of Quincy Point said he saw sinister motives behind a move that changed the Town River area from light to heavy industry and Herbert said he did not know who made the change.

Said J. Edward Keams of the Ward 2 Improvements Association: "We don't want heavy industry and regardless of what you do we're going to keep it residential."

Dan Raymondi Sees Character As The Key To Leadership

Born and raised in Quincy to a working-class family taught him about hard work; about honesty and integrity, and about determination.

As a student in the Quincy Public Schools and at Holy Cross College, his athletic and academic achievements were outstanding. At Boston College Law School, Dan earned his Doctorate of Jurisprudence.

Recently, as the Norfolk County Treasurer, Dan transformed a scandal-ridden office into one of the finest auditing and accounting offices in Massachusetts. And now Dan wants to work on improving Quincy's schools.

Timid officials see obstacles as an excuse for inaction. Dan Raymondi sees obstacles as challenges to overcome. That's Dan Raymondi's character. And that's what makes Dan Raymondi a leader.

Zucchini Sizzle

After planning for many months for our daughter Nancy's wedding, the time is getting so close, that getting back to my column a little earlier than was expected is actually therapeutic!

Today's recipe was given to me by our daughter Sue, who got it from her husband's aunt Lois. She was so excited about it, I tried it immediately. The recipe includes zucchini which is quite plentiful at this time of year and not too expensive.

ZUCCHINI SIZZLE

- 3 small zucchini (sliced)
- 2 or 3 garlic cloves (minced)
- 1 small onion (chopped)
- 1 tsp of basil (fresh if you have it)
- 3 or 4 medium sized ripe tomatoes (cut in small pieces)
- 1 red, purple or yellow pepper (for color) chopped
- 1/2 cup water, 1/2 cup chicken stock and a cup of tomato juice
- 1 1/2 cups seasoned bread crumbs

parmesan or a favorite cheese for topping

3 Tbsp olive oil (or other)

In hot oil, saute the zucchini, garlic and onion until tender. Add the pepper, basil and the fresh tomatoes. Then add the liquids (water, chicken stock and tomato juice). Stir until blended and then gradually add the bread crumbs until mixture resembles a stuffing.

Place in a greased baking dish topped with a favorite cheese, cover and bake in a 325 degree oven until cheese melts (about 15 minutes).

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point, Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

9 Recognized For 'Extraordinary' Service Beechwood Life Center Celebrating 10th Anniversary

Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Fenno St., Wollaston, is celebrating its 10th anniversary with a variety of special events and activities.

The celebration was launched over a recent weekend with participants including city officials, community supporters, present and former staff members, corporate and personal donors who have contributed to the growth of the center.

Nine recipients were honored at an awards dinner for "extraordinary service" to the center and to the community.

The recipients are:

- The Grossman family, who donated the land on which the Beechwood Knoll School--now the Beechwood Center--was built.

- Former Mayor Francis McCauley.

- Dr. Cecil Paul, president of Eastern Nazarene College, who was the founding director of the center.

- Janet S. Powell, co-founder of the center.

- Barry Welch, Director of the Quincy City Recreation Department.

- Henry Bosworth, publisher of the Quincy Sun.

- John Browne, former director of Plant Facilities for the Quincy Public Schools.

- Charles Phelan, Ward 5 city councillor.

- Stephen Farquhar, general manager of Continental Cablevision.

Speakers at the dinner were Mayor James Sheets, Dr. Paul, Susan Heffernan, chairman of the Beechwood Board of Directors and Sharon Beals, executive director. Don Strong was the emcee and presented the awards.

More than 250 persons attended a family concert by the Pro-Dixie Jazz Band led by Dr. Sumner Hirshberg, a Beechwood board member.

cake, a replica of the center, was baked and donated by Michael and Nikki Everett whose daughter, Tanya, attends After School Program at Beechwood.

An intergenerational anniversary walk was led by two grand marshals, Harold McManus, 94, and Michael Chan, 4. Michael also had the most sponsors among the walkers and won a party as a prize for his Beechwood class.

The Beechwood Center, a nonprofit, community-based agency and a neighborhood center for the City of Quincy, began in 1981 with $200 and no assurance of funding. It now has a staff of 70, 200 volunteers, and an annual budget of over $500,000.

Ninety percent of the center's income is from private sources including tutions.

The idea for the center was proposed in 1981 when the Beechwood Knoll School was closed and neighborhood fears were raised the building might be used as a warehouse or for some other unwelcome purpose.

The building was leased to the Beechwood Community Life Center by the School Committee with Dr. Paul, Janet Powell and Virginia Kurtzman as incorporators.

Original components of the program were the Beechwood Players, the Musik Schule, and the Quincy Art Association. Also incorporated were the Wollaston Counselling Associates and Campus Kinder Hous, a day care program sponsored by Eastern Nazarene College.

Over 140 Attend Rural Lodge Military Appreciation Night

Rural Lodge of Quincy recently honored its members who had served in the armed forces with a Military Appreciation Night at Masonic Temple in Quincy.

The evening was organized by Wor. R. Peter Carlson (U.S. Coast Guard Reserve) and Roger Hamel (U.S. Marines) under the supervision of Wor. David H. Smith (master, Rural Lodge). On display in both the banquet hall and the Lodge Room were flags representing each of the military services. The Marine Corps Color Guard from South Weymouth Naval Air Station, accompanied by the bagpipes of Thomas Fee, posted the colors in the banquet hall.

The blessing, given by Wor. Carl O. Widman, chaplain of Rural Lodge, was followed by a roast beef dinner prepared by Rural Lodge's Mike Rettig. Members of Wollaston Rainbow Assembly helped Rural Lodge brethren serve the dinner.

U.S. Army Reserve Lieutenant Col. Kevin Murphy, a participant in Operation Desert Storm, addressed the members and guests on the subject

"Freedom Isn't Free."

Rural Lodge presented a check to Henry (Hank) Bradley, director of Veteran's Services in Quincy. The check is to be used to help, aid and assist needy veterans. Bradley, himself a Vietnam veteran, extended the thanks of the needy veterans to the lodge.

Over 140 people attended to honor the more than 60 Rural Lodge members who had served this country with distinction. In attendance were the Rt. Wor. District Deputy Grand Master Arthur Johnson, his Wor. District Deputy Grand Secretary Robert Sargent and Wor. District Deputy Grand Marshall Roy Johnson.

Member attended from as far away as Washington state and Colorado.

Rural Lodge members who had served in the military were awarded a tie tack/lapel pin which consisted of the Masonic square and compass along with the service emblem of the branch of the military in which they served.

The event started out to honor two Rural Lodge members who had served in Operation Desert Storm and grew into a night where all Rural Lodge members who had served in the Armed Forces were honored for the sacrifices that they, and others like them, have made so that we might continue to enjoy our freedoms.

Nutley Schedules Meetings On Public Safety, 'Best Buy' Future

international coffee hour held at the home Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lynch, 220 Quincy Shore Dr., and at a public coffee hour at the Squantum Nickerson Post.

The major concern was the future plans of the former "Best Buy" discount store at Quincy Shore Dr. and East Squantum St.

"I am delighted to announce," Nutley said, "that I have scheduled a final meeting with the owners and the community for 7 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 30 at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center at 12 Hunt St. (behind North Quincy High School.)"

"I have been negotiating with the owners for the past two months to see if we can address neighborhood concerns and come in with a proposal whereby food will not be cooked, or sold, at this facility so near residences.

"I think we have been able to address those concerns and I'm sure that the residents are going to be very happy when they hear the new plans on the 30th," he said.

In addition, Nutley explained how he, Mayor James Sheets and Quincy's state legislators had negotiated with the MWRA for two years and had finally gotten the Authority to release $1.3 million for the reconstruction of the nearby East Squantum St.-Quincy Shore Dr. intersection.

"This reconstruction of this dangerous intersection is long overdue and I'm delighted that we have the money and will soon begin the reconstruction," Nutley said.

The councillor also discussed other issues including his desire to down-size and restrain future development at both Marina Bay-Monarch and at the massive Jordan Marsh complex.

"The future quality of life of the people living in this area will be dramatically impacted by what happens at Marina Bay and, even more so, at the Jordan Marsh complex and I intend to maintain firm control over everything that takes place out there."

Nutley scheduled a discussion with Quincy police representatives Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center on the recent attacks on women in the North Quincy area and how women and senior citizens can better protect themselves.

"I would like to see a large turnout of women and seniors at this important meeting," Nutley said. ## Miller Says Protecting Residents A Top Priority

Speaking at a recent coffee hour at 1000 Southern Artery Senior Citizens' complex, George Miller, a candidate for city councillor-at-large, stressed the need for the city to protect residents' interests with regard to the MWRA's sludge plant located at the former General Dynamics shipyard and the proposed reopening of Boston Edison's Edgar Station.

If elected, Miller said, "I will make the protection of residents' interests with regard to their environment a top priority."

"If the MWRA's sludge plant's operation results in the emission of offensive odors, as many have predicted, I shall spearhead the city's efforts and insure that the city takes any and all necessary measures to protect the health, safety and financial interests of the residents affected."

Continuing, Miller said, "The Fore River basin is an environmentally sensitive and extremely populated area. Clean Harbors, Procter and Gamble and the MWRA must be kept in check.

"It is the duty of Quincy's elected officials to ensure that the proposed reopening of Boston Edison's Edgar Station in this heavily populated area is both safe for our health and safe for the environment.

"Our elected officials must learn a lesson from our experiences with the MWRA's sludge plant. If elected, I will work with Weymouth officials to determine whether Edison's proposal is safe and economical rather than prematurely suggesting plans that would facilitate Edison's proposal," Miller added.

A fundraiser for Miller will be held Monday, Oct. 28 from 7 to 10 p.m. at the American Legion Post, 2 Mechanic St., Quincy Center.

Tickets are $15 per person and are available at the door or by calling 479-7638.

100 Attend Fundraiser For King

Approximately 100 friends, supporters and city officials attended a recent fundraiser based on the theme "Now, More Than Ever," for School Committee candidate Peg King at the Hollow Restaurant.

On hand to speak on King's behalf was Quincy Atty. Thomas Kiley, a former assistant district attorney and a former student of King's at North Quincy High School. Kiley asserted that Quincy's schools, due to economic and social factors, have been unable to maintain the tradition of excellence that existed when he attended Quincy's schools.

"I want Quincy's public schools to be as excellent for my children as they were for me," Mrs. King, as a teacher, always demanded excellence. My hope for Quincy is knowing that she will demand the same excellence as a School Committee member."

King told the group her candidacy has already impacted the campaign. Her call for a re-examination of vocational-technical education is now being echoed by other candidates.

"What has happened to our vocational school, once world renowned. We need to provide a quality educational program for non-college bound students, as well as for college preparatory students. Non-college bound students should be graduating with some marketable skill whether in business or an occupational area."

King also noted that her proposal to pilot Site-Based Decision Making in Quincy is becoming popular. "It makes sense that those who have a stake in a school should share in making decisions about what is best for their school," she said.

Regarding budget formats, King stressed her ability to follow up on campaign promises. She has provided the school department's business office with a sample of the kind of program budget that King believes the school's should adopt.

"While others talk about budgets, I have already gone ahead to try to do something to build a better budgeting process," she said.

PROPOSED CHILDREN'S PLAY AREA

First Fundraiser Nov. 7

$60,000 Campaign Launched To Refurbish Children's Park

The Quincy Park Improvement Committee (Q-PIC)—a volunteer group of Quincy residents—has launched a campaign drive to raise $60,000 to reconstruct and refurbish the children's park known as Collins-Rest-A-While.

The play area at Hancock St. and Southern Artery across from Veterans Memorial Stadium was built in 1969 and named for J. Ernest (Honey) Collins, a 32-year member and chairman of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board.

Michelle A. Lydon, director of the Lydon-Russell Funeral Home and chairwomen of Q-PIC notes:

"Collins Rest-A-While is one of the city's most heavily utilized children's play areas and with recent downturns in municipal expenditures, it is an area in much need of renewal. Much of the play equipment is broken and badly in need of repair."

Plans are for a metal park to be constructed at the site with many new features for children. They include toddlers' and older children's areas.

Both areas will have slides, small walkways, tunnels, tire swings, seesaws, baby and older children's swings, a merry-go-round, benches and picnic tables.

The area will be enclosed with a new fence for safety and landscaped.

The committee's first "fundraiser" will be held Thursday, Nov. 7 from 5 to 9 p.m. in the atrium at Presidents Place, Quincy Square. Tickets are $15 per person.

There will be hors d'oeuvres, a cash bar, and music by D.J. Mark McGillicuddy. Tickets and drawings for prizes will be available at the door.

Other "fundraisers" will be scheduled. In addition to donations, volunteers are also needed to help make the campaign a success.

There are five donation

A Ghoulishly Good Time At Woodward School's 'Witches Mansion--House Of Horrors'

By MICHAEL WHALEN
If you're looking for a fun and relatively inexpensive way to celebrate Halloween, you might want to check out "The Witches Mansion-A House of Horrors" being held Oct. 25-28 at The Woodward School for Girls, 1102 Hancock St.

Although this is the fifth consecutive year the school has held the event, it's still going to be a ghoulishly good time for all.

Just ask Barbara Segadelli, the school's director of development and admissions.

"We have many more games and activities this year," Segadelli said. "It's going to be a brand new adventure, even for people who have been there before."

The "mansion" attracted approximately 5,000 people last year, with proceeds benefiting the scholarship program at the Woodward School.

According to Segadelli, it takes almost a month to set up for the event, with "minimally 75, more like 100" parents, students and faculty contributing to the effort.

Segadelli believes that this coordinated, team-oriented approach is what makes the event so successful.

"The parents put in an inordinate amount of time," she said. "There's a lot of labor and intensity. We probably have a dozen dads who take the day off from work to help out."

"And the creative input from the students has been great. It's amazing, the foresight they have, knowing how children would react to different scenes."

Not only children visit the "mansion," however.

"The people that come to see it are literally all ages," Segadelli noted, "from babes in arms to grandparents."

Among the event's highlights are a food bar, prizes, games, and the various "spooky" scenes that will be viewed in a number of different rooms throughout the building.

Asked about the new features that have never been seen in the "mansion" before, Segadelli refused to elaborate.

"I don't want to give everything away," she said.

The event will take place tomorrow (Friday) from 6 to 10 p.m.; Saturday, Oct. 26 from noon to 10 p.m.; Sunday, Oct. 27 from 3 to 9 p.m.; and Monday, Oct. 28 from 6 to 10 p.m.

Admission is $3. Birthdays will be done upon request, and group rates are also available. For more information call 773-5610.

Ryan Develops 8-Point Campaign Platform

Bill Ryan, a candidate for city councillor-at-large, has developed an eight-point policy plan for his campaign.

Ryan said public safety is the first item on his agenda. "There should be further cuts in the police and fire departments," he said.

Ryan also suggests the city construct an overpass connecting the Star Market area with the Ross Parking area to alleviate traffic at the corner of Granite St. and the Burgin Parkway. He said he would work with Cong. Brian Donnelly to get federal funds for the project.

Other points in Ryan's platform are:

- Combine the duel positions in the school department and city departments, such as purchasing, personnel and accounting.

- Placing all future underground utility lines from Massachusetts Electric and the telephone company underground.

- Developing a master plan for capital outlay for the next five years.

- Open City Hall one night a week for taxpayers to help guide citizens with their problems.

- Have a tourist information center at City Hall Saturdays and Sundays.

- Place all park and recreation areas including the school areas under the control of the executive director of the park department.

City Receives $2.2 M Grant To Help Prevent Alcohol, Drug Abuse

GEORGETTE WATSON, executive director of the Governor's Alliance Against Drugs, was the guest speaker at a press conference Monday in City Hall. The conference was held to announce the awarding of a $2.2 million federal grant to help prevent alcohol and drug abuse in Quincy.

members.

One of the reasons Quincy received the grant was because of its high Asian-American population, Spinks said. "The federal government acknowledged when we received this grant that that was one of the key areas that really helped us get this particular grant funded."

"It also pointed out to us the need to expand and to reach out to other ethnic groups in the city and to identify their patterns of use and abuse around such substances too so we'll be doing that over the next couple of years in the city," he added.

The project has nine objectives, the first of which is to create an organizational structure based on community empowerment to coordinate and promote alcohol and other drug abuse (AOD) prevention. In the first year, the coalition membership will double, and eight subcommittees will be formed to develop new prevention efforts. A prevention team will be hired to implement prevention activities, and mini-grants awarded for new programs.

Also during the first year, a needs assessment will be conducted. The assessment will include a provider survey, interviews with leading citizens and baseline surveys of representative samples of students and adults to assess the level of AOD use.

Janet Powell, a coalition member and Quincy school guidance counselor since 1974, said alcohol abuse continues to be a problem among Quincy's student population throughout the city.

"As a counselor, I hear the stories every Monday morning in the schools and I mean right across the city, not just one or two neighborhoods, but right across the city, kids are drinking on weekends and more and more kids are drinking on school days for reasons of peer pressure, for stress, for low self-esteem.

"Alcohol is a primary factor in sexual activity, sexual promiscuity, teen pregnancy and I believe the police say that among teen crime, alcohol is involved in 90 to 95 percent of all teens."

"It's a serious problem in Quincy," Powell said.

Mayor James Sheets said the community must come together in order for the war on drugs and alcohol abuse to have a chance to win.

"There is nothing more important to us as we look at our society and how it's changing than to come up with methods and means for combatting drugs and alcoholism...for people of all walks of life in all age categories."

"For the city of Quincy, this is a marvelous opportunity to launch that war," the mayor said.

Because it is a community-wide project, coalition members and other officials expressed optimism that the partnership would be a success.

"I believe this is the first group that really stands a chance of people overcoming our territorialism, overcoming our own individual focus and working together to send Quincy families and kids a unified message of underaged drinking is not going to be encouraged in Quincy and we'll do the best we can to eliminate it and to develop healthier attitudes toward all drinking, including adults and families," Powell said.

Guest speaker Georgette Watson, executive director of the Governor's Alliance Against Drugs, agreed with the coalition's community-wide focus on prevention.

"I believe that we have to go beyond the four walls (classrooms) and into the communities. Once the youths leave school, they are faced with the community, with drug dealing that is going on in the neighborhoods."

"I believe that now the governor's alliance needs to go into the communities. I always tell people they are more of us if we organize than it is of them in the street trying to get a hold of our kids," Watson added.

Other project objectives include a program philosophy and long-range planning as well as training programs on topics such as leadership and community empowerment.

Throughout the project, better communication about AOD issues will be promoted among agencies/groups within Quincy and with other communities through meetings and reports, annual conference and preparation of a resource directory. An on-going public awareness campaign will include creating a speaker's bureau, a semi-annual newsletter and AOD-free celebratory events.

The coalition, which is using "What Adults Start, Kids Continue" as its slogan, hopes to make the program financially self-sufficient by the time the grant money expires in five years.

"We'll be looking at ways over the next four to five years to tap into our resources, local resources, state resources, federal resources to maintain this kind of activity that we hope to generate over the next four to five years," Spinks said.

Council Delays Vote On $389,997 For Sewer System Overhaul

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The City Council Monday night discussed the allocation of $348,997 from the sewer rehabilitation fund to the Department of Public Works.

The allocation would be part of a $1.3 million overhaul of the city's sewer system that was first introduced in June by Public Works Commissioner David Colton.

Colton said $148,997 of the funds would go toward the purchase of a Vactor 2100 Series vacuum/jet body and truck while the remaining $200,000 would be used for contractual services on a street-to-street basis to examine and refurbish the city's drain system "to determine where the problems are."

Speaking in favor of the allocation, Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson described it as "a needed tool....We have to face the future in terms of maintaining the sewer system. This appropriation is a smart appropriation. This does the job for us."

But Councillor Michael Cheney asked that the decision be delayed until further discussion could take place.

"This is an awful lot of money to be granting on the first night that it's presented to us," he said.

Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien said Mayor James Sheets should play a larger role in the matter.

"The mayor should be consulting with the auditor (Robert Foy) on this a bit more," Chretien said. "We ought to be putting together a long-term borrowing plan."

Cheney agreed, and also requested that Colton ask for a legal opinion on the appropriation from City Solicitor Stephen McGrath.

No action was taken and the matter was returned to committee.

Council Approves $17,750 For Recreation Programs

The City Council Monday night appropriated $17,750 to the recreation department for the continuance of the department's many programs.

Recreation Director Barry Welch said the monies were taken from the reserve fund previously collected by the recreation department and placed into the city treasury for the purpose of future appropriation.

Councillors enthusiastically supported the funding.

"Congratulations on your very many successful summer programs and thank you for your constant effort" Councillor Patricia Toland told Welch.

Councillor Michael Cheney also voiced his support for the appropriation.

"You've done an outstanding job, and it really strikes a nerve like nails on a blackboard when I hear kids (in Quincy) say they've got nothing to do," Cheney said. "There's plenty to do. I'm surprised that the complaints aren't from parents saying 'I can't get my kids into the program.'"

Councillor Timothy

Cahill agreed. "The programs are excellent...700 kids is a lot of kids, and the programs keep them out of trouble. I hope next year you can get 1,000 kids."

Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson also commended Welch and his staff.

Welch said he hopes more people participate in the department's programs in the future.

"The folks who get into our programs do everything," he said "and the folks that don't really aren't aware of them at all."

Cheney Opposes Elimination Of 1989 Sewer Rehab Fund

Councillor Michael Cheney Monday night announced his intention to oppose the proposal of Governor William Weld to eliminate funding of the 1989 Sewer Rehabilitation Fund.

"The governor said he would clean the (Boston) Harbor, and that he was opposed to an increase to water and sewer bills. Now he wants to impose a tax on water and sewer bills," he said.

The elimination of the fund would increase Quincy's sewer bills by $1.3 billion.

Cheney said the support of Mayor James Sheets was needed to oppose the governor's proposal.

"People simply cannot afford to pay this," he said. "We have to fight; if necessary the mayor should sue the state."

Speaking on behalf of the mayor, Executive Secretary Thomas Koch said "We certainly support the resolve. From day one since the governor announced his proposal, we've been lobbying against it."

Cheney planned to go to the State House Tuesday to lobby against Weld's proposal and present his resolution.

Weymouth 13, North Quincy 8

It Was Like Old Times At The Stadium

By TOM SULLIVAN
It was like old times at Veterans Memorial Stadium last Friday night when the largest crowd in several years watched the undefeated North Quincy and Weymouth football teams collide in the Old Colony League's biggest game of the year.

The crowd, estimated at about 4,000, was the largest to watch a game since before Weymouth broke up into two schools several years ago.

The game lived up to expectations with Weymouth getting by the Raiders, 13-8, to improve to 5-0, while North dropped to 4-1.

North coach Ken McPhee, pleased despite the loss, hopes his team doesn't suffer a letdown Friday night when it hosts Durfee, which brings in a 1-3-1 record. The Fall River school captured its first win last week over Bishop Feehan after tying Greater New Bedford and losing to Brockton, Somerset and Dartmouth.

"This was a truly fine game," said McPhee following the loss to Weymouth. "Both teams played really hard and played strong defense. We thought we'd score more than we did. We had a couple of fine opportunities but didn't cash in."

| North Scoring |    |     |    |     |
|---------------|----|-----|----|-----|
|               | TD | PAT | FG | Pts |
| Higgins       | 1  | 3   | 4  | 21  |
| Murray        | 2  | 2   | 0  | 14  |
| Kelleher      | 2  | 0   | 0  | 12  |
| Sinclair      | 2  | 0   | 0  | 12  |
| Licciardi     | 2  | 0   | 0  | 12  |
| Cocuzzo       | 1  | 0   | 0  | 6   |
| Reinhart      | 1  | 0   | 0  | 5   |
| Bellot        | 0  | 4   | 0  | 4   |

Weymouth's Joe Donovan was the main thorn in North Quincy's side. He rushed for 75 yards and set up the winning touchdown with a pass interception and 21-yard return.

North Quincy had 89 yards on the ground while Weymouth rushed for 149 yards. North's Mark Taylor completed only one pass in the first half but finished 14 for 28 for 174 yards including a pass for North's only score.

His favorite receivers, as usual, were Desmond Bellot and Mark Kelleher. Bellot had several receptions including gains of 24, 15 and 13 yards and Kelleher's included gains of 23 and 14 yards.

The Raiders did well against Weymouth's great quarterback, Marc Stanton, who was 7-for-15 for 81 yards including his 13th TD pass of the year.

Bellot knocked down two Stanton passes and Willy O'Donnell batted down another.

Mark Cocuzzo had seven carries for 31 yards and Mark Sinclair had five carries for 28 yards. Chris Murray added 21 yards.

McPhee praised Kelleher, Chris McCallum, Scott Kohler, Scott Prouty and Mark Zych for their defensive play and had good words for the secondary of Bellot, Tony Licciardi, Pat Shea and Brendan O'Connell. Also hailed for their performances were O'Donnell and Chris Peck.

After stopping North following the opening kickoff, Weymouth drove from North's 43 following a Liam Higgins punt. A disputed roughing the passer call hurt North as it gave the Wildcats a first down on North's 10 and Stanton passed to Bill Guerard for 13 yards and a score. Mike Taylor kicked the extra point.

North then drove 66 yards to the Weymouth seven-yard line, keyed by a pass interference call, a 12-yard pass from Taylor to Bellot and Cocuzzo's 13-yard run. Weymouth held and Higgins' try for his fifth field goal of the year fell short.

There was no further scoring until the third quarter when Donovan intercepted a pass and returned it to North's 35.

On the first play Keith Williams went all the way for a touchdown. A try for a two-point conversion failed.

Bellot had catches of 13, 24 and 15 yards as North drove 64 yards to the Weymouth four. On fourth down and two North tried to cross up the Weymouth defense and Murray got the call but was stacked up as the Wildcats held.

Weymouth couldn't pick up a first down and Stanton, instead of punting, stepped out of the end zone for an intentional

"That was a good play," Weymouth coach Joe Kelly said. "We didn't want to get a punt blocked down there."

North came back and drove 51 yards to score with 10 seconds. Taylor passed to Licciardi for 27 yards and the TD. After the try for two-point conversion failed, the Raiders tried an on-side kick, but the ball bounced free down the left sideline before Weymouth steered it out of bounds, ending North's hopes of a win.

North Jayvees Bomb Barnstable

By PETE ZOIA

The North Quincy junior varsity football team improved to 3-0 with a 26-14 victory over Barnstable.

Jamie O'Connell, the smallest player on the squad, scored his first touchdown on an 18-yard run. Sean Skahan scored twice, once on a one-yard plunge after a long drive and once from the two.

Dan Duncan passed to George Wirtz for a two-point conversion.

North gained 308 yards on the ground with Skahan having 112 yards on 11 carries. Josh Gott had 78 yards on nine carries, O'Connell 58 yards on four carries and Jim Sapienza 48 yards on six carries.

The defense was strong, forcing four fumbles which led to North scores. North also had seven quarterback sacks.

Coaches Tom Carter and Peter Chrisom had good words for Nick Mastrogiacomio, Dave Pacino, Mike Linnane, Gott, Wirtz, Ken Duddy and Brian Rafferty for their work on offense.

Keith Lentini, Sean Halpin, Eric Delorey, Bill Skutal, Rafferty, Pacino, Skahan and Mastrogiacomio were hailed for their defensive efforts.

North Boys Defeat Quincy

The North Quincy boys' soccer team has been playing competitively against more experienced Old Colony League Teams, but continues to lack a scoring punch. The Raiders were 4-12 going in the final game of the season yesterday (Wednesday) against Barnstable.

North defeated Quincy for the second time in a night game at Kincaide Park. The Raiders scored first on a corner kick by Kevin Murphy which was headed in by Matt Flynn.

Quincy's John Lewis scored on a rebound of a Dean Morris direct kick to tie the game at 1-1. The game winner was scored by senior stopper Chris Olsen, who chipped in a loose ball from the top of the penalty area.

Both goalkeepers, Adam Calvert of North and Andy Smith of Quincy, had outstanding games. Tom Johnson, Aidan O'Donoghue and Paul Kearns played well for North.

North rolled over winless Taunton, 6-1, with Dan Davis scoring twice on passes from Murphy. Bo Smith scored unassisted and Flynn, Johnson and Brian Kelley had goals. Mark Cahill, Garvin Chan and Mike Walsh had assists. Brian Fitzgerald, Mike MacDougall and Adam Chansky played strong games.

North Quincy played its strongest game of the year against first place Silver Lake last Friday night at Kingston, bowing 2-1.

North played a rugged man-to-man defense and held the Lakers scoreless in the first half.

Both teams had scoring chances in the first half. Twelve minutes into the second half a high cross by Chan deep in the Silver Lake end was misplayed and was deflected past the Laker goalkeeper.

North held on to the lead until the Lakers' Joe Doherty broke in to tie the score. The Lakers turned up the pressure and put in a loose ball with five minutes left.

"This was the best any North Quincy team has played in the six years I've seen them," said coach Bob Dano. "I can't single out anyone as everyone played the best game of his high school career. Adam Calvert was just outstanding in goal."

Will Retire In February

Marty Finnegan: A Legend Is Stepping Down

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy Public School system will be losing a legend when Martin C. "Marty" Finnegan, 64, retires after 41 years in the school system, the last seven as coordinator of athletics, next Feb. 28.

"This is the hardest decision I have ever had to make," said Finnegan. "I had the good fortune to come under the guidance of such fine people as Munroe MacLean, Bill Sullivan, George Wilson, Don McDonald, Bill Hutchinson, Curly Rogers and many others. But my assignments over the years have enabled me to teach at all levels throughout the system and I just feel it is time for me to step down."

Finnegan, a graduate of Boston College High School and Boston University, where he starred in basketball and baseball, came to Quincy as a student teacher in September, 1950. December of that year he was appointed physical education instructor at Central Junior High, succeeding Bob "Scotty" Whitelaw.

He moved to Quincy High in September, 1952. He was assistant to basketball coach MacLean and football coach Sullivan.

Finnegan succeeded MacLean as head basketball coach in 1959. He coached basketball for 22 years, 11 as head coach. He won one Greater Boston League title and took several teams into the Tech Tournament.

From 1972 to 1985 he was physical education instructor and in 1985 he was named coordinator of athletics, succeeding the late Carl Leone.

"One of the things I will remember as coordinator of athletics was finally getting Quincy and North Quincy out of the Suburban League and into the Old Colony League, where they are more competitive," he said.

"We were turned down twice by the athletic directors. Also, I am happy that we were able to maintain all of our athletic programs despite budget cuts."

Finnegan became involved in the fight against chemical abuse in 1967 when he was first appointed by then Supt. of Schools Lawrence Creedon to head the teacher research committee.

"I was a speaker out of the office of then District Attorney George Burke, speaking to schools and businesses on alcohol and drug abuse," he said. "After my retirement I am going to continue speaking to schools and businesses. We have come a long way in our fight against chemical abuse."

"We have made some inroads in battling drugs, but alcohol remains a real problem among students. I am going to continue to fight this problem."

Finnegan has traveled thousands of miles throughout New England and down the East Coast speaking to schools and businesses on this problem.

"I will miss my associations with so many wonderful people in the school system," he said. "Bob Sylvia, in particular, and I go back a lot of years." (Sylvia, also a Boston University graduate, is getting ready for his 28th year as Quincy hockey coach.

"Among my greatest memories are those of the boys I coached who come back every year to say hello and to let me know how they are doing," he said.

Finnegan has received many awards and he is especially proud of them.

One is the Quincy Sun's "Citizen of the Year" Award given to him in 1988 "for his vision and dedication to freeing our youth from drug and alcohol abuse through 'Project Impact.'"

Another is the first Massachusetts

Interscholastic Athletic Association (MIAA) award for his contributions to the MIAA chemical health program on behalf of student athletes and high schools of the Commonwealth.

The third was a national award from the International Interscholastic Athletic Administration on behalf of the Mass. Athletic Directors Association.

"Upon leaving I must mention the fine people who have been my loyal office colleagues over the years, including Barbara Cahill, Florence Buhl and Janice Francis. Any success we may have attained would not have been possible without their dedication and professionalism," Finnegan concluded.

Marty and his wife, Norma, live in Needham, and are the parents of five daughters, Christine, Patty, Janet, Terry and Susie and two sons, Mitch and Rich.

Youth Football

Manets, Panthers Title Showdown

The unbeaten Houghs

Neck Manets (5-0) and the Quincy Point Panthers (4-2) will clash for the Quincy Youth Football championship Sunday night, Nov. 3 at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The Manets will face the West Quincy Elks in a makeup game this Sunday but has clinched first place regardless of the outcome. The Panthers have finished the regular season.

The Panthers defeated the North Quincy Apaches, 20-6, last Sunday with Sean Joyce leading the offense and scoring a first quarter touchdown.

John Michael Lopriore scored in the second quarter on a pass from Jeff Russell.

The Apaches put together a fine drive late in the half and were threatening, but time ran out before they could score.

The Apaches took over where they left off to open the second half and drove deep into Panther territory. Shaun Johnson scored behind fine blocking and Brian Walsh added the two-point conversion to cut the Panther lead to 12-8.

The Panthers drove to the Apache eight but the Apaches held and took over on the one-yard line. The Apaches drove to the 35 but Brad Smith made a fine defensive play and Joyce intercepted a pass and returned it for a score.

Russell passed to Eric Oliva for the two-point conversion.

Smith and Joyce were outstanding for the Panthers, while Ken Lippens, Dan Bosse, Paul Greely, Muhammed Drakeford, Steve Stentford, Chris Halpin and Cedric Douglas played well for the Apaches.

Quincy 16, Medford 12

Presidents Will Need Offense At Weymouth

When you make one of your poorest showings of the year and still come up with a victory, it is a plus.

That is the way Quincy football coach Jack Raymer feels after his Presidents, who turned in another strong defensive effort but made their poorest offensive showing of the year, held on to pull out a 16-12 win over winless Medford last Saturday at Medford, their third win in a row, to improve their record to 3-2.

Raymer hopes for a far better offensive effort Friday night when Quincy travels to Legion Field in Weymouth to face the unbeaten (5-0) Wildcats at 7 p.m.

Weymouth, which edged Quincy, 15-13, a year ago when an official reversed a decision to take a touchdown away from the Presidents, has defeated Leominster, Silver Lake, Barnstable, Taunton and North Quincy. Its close win over Quincy last year gave the Wildcats the Old Colony League title with Quincy a close second.

"We played good defense at Medford but couldn't click offensively," said Raymer. "They have a scrappy team and we couldn't penetrate consistently against their seven-man line. Our passing was off and we just couldn't put anything together on the ground. Pat Gallagher completed only two of nine passes for 74 yards (including a 65-yard scoring play late in the game for the winning touchdown) and we managed just 106 yards on the ground. We had only one first down in the first half (four for the game)."

| Quincy Scoring |    |     |    |     |
|----------------|----|-----|----|-----|
|                | TD | PAT | FG | Pts |
| Walker         | 5  | 0   | 0  | 30  |
| Kane           | 4  | 0   | 0  | 24  |
| DiBona         | 2  | 0   | 1  | 23  |
| Gallagher      | 1  | 0   | 0  | 6   |
| Crespi         | 1  | 0   | 0  | 6   |
| Anderson       | 1  | 0   | 0  | 6   |

Quincy managed to hold Medford's standout quarterback, Mike Moreno, to four pass completions, one for a TD, and a bomb into the end zone barely missing on the final play of the game. However, the three-year veteran, one of the best quarterbacks in the Greater Boston League, caused the Presidents all kinds of problems with his running.

"He is a real scrambler and very hard to stop," Raymer said. "He's a real fine quarterback."

Noel DiBona, who scored 10 of Quincy's points, had a fine game, carrying 13 times for 56 yards, scoring a touchdown, kicking a field goal and an extra point. Dave Bogan, who filled in for the injured Jason Anderson, who is expected back Friday night, picked up 30 yards on six carries and was outstanding again on defense, and Calvin White had 14 yard on three carries. Chris Walker had both pass receptions.

A bright spot for Quincy was the kicking off of

Kavanagh, Ally Sleiman, David Bogan and Jason Eleuteri.

sophomore Mike Elder, who kicked off for the first time and each of his kicks went inside the Medford 10-yard line.

Junior Mike Kavanagh had 10 tackles and two assists, junior Bogan nine tackles, three assists and a fumble recovery and sophomore Rich Howard six tackles and two assists.

Gary Collins, Dan Morrell, Jason Eleuteri, who had a quarterback sack for a 15-yard loss, Chris McLaughlin and Ally Sleiman played fine defensive games and Walker, Mark Zaborowski, DiBona and Robbie Kane played well in the secondary.

"Zaborowski made a good play on the final play of the game, getting his hands on the ball and helping knock it out of the receiver's hands," said Raymer.

Things started off well for Quincy. After stopping Medford cold following the opening kickoff, the Presidents started on Medford's 32 following a poor punt. Five plays later DiBona scored from the seven and kicked the extra point.

After that Medford pretty well dominated the rest of the half and with less than two minutes left Moreno passed to Rob Greco for 10 yards and a score. But the kick for the tying point was blocked and Quincy held a 7-6 edge at halftime.

There was no more scoring until early in the fourth quarter when the Mustangs blocked a punt and had the ball on the Quincy 27. Four plays later Paul Morey scored from the two to give Medford a 12-7 lead. The try for a two-point conversion failed.

Medford kicked off and on the first play from scrimmage Gallagher hit Walker, who broke into the clear and raced 45 yards to complete a 65-yard scoring play. Quincy's try for a two-point conversion failed.

Walker recovered a fumbled Medford pass and five plays later DiBona kicked his first field goal of the year, a 25-yarder. With 1:04 left Medford wasn't through. It reached the Quincy 30 and Moreno threw his bomb that was dropped in the end zone as the game ended.

pass to Jason Sova. Quincy faked the extra point kick and Kevin Carey threw to Dan Morrell for a two-point conversion.

FinCom OKs $55,000 For 21 Copy Machines

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The Finance Committee of the City Council Monday night unanimously approved an appropriation of $55,000 to the school department for the purchase and maintenance of 21 copy machines to be used by department members.

School Department Business Manager George Umsheid said the funds will be used to purchase 16 new "higher-level" copy machines as well as toward the continued maintenance of five machines already in use as part of a five-year contract.

"After five years," said Umsheid of the machines,

"they're pretty well worn out."

Councillor Patricia Toland said the appropriation was an important and necessary step in helping the department.

"We know that the school department has cut down on purchasing workbooks, so it's really not as much (money) as it seems," Toland said.

Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien agreed.

"We have seen classroom supplies be slashed to the bone, and if this is the case, then this (appropriation) is going to have to happen."

Asked by Ward 4 Councillor Thomas

Fabrizio what the harm would be in delaying appropriation until the school's next budget, Umsheid said the conditions of the current equipment necessitated a quicker response.

"Some of these machines are really at the end of their life," said Umsheid, adding that an immediate appropriation would "save money over the long run."

Responding to a question asked by Councillor Michael Cheney, Umsheid noted he had researched the subject and found that the price agreed upon for the machines was a competitive one.

PRINTED FORM FABLE

QUESTION: Why should I use the service of a REALTOR when I can buy all the real estate forms I need at the stationery store and just fill them in myself?

ANSWER: These printed forms are only a starting point. There are dozens of varieties of deeds, leases, mortgage forms. Which ones are to be chosen to best protect yourself is a good question for openers. Then, it's what goes into the blanks, what is crossed out, and what is added that gives you the value, security and protection that you pay the experts for. Believe me, some of the largest financial losses and legal entanglements have resulted from printed forms being incorrectly used.

-install signs notifying patrons that cars parked in the club's parking lot after 12:45 a.m. will be towed. The Varsity Club closes at midnight but often patrons will leave their cars while visiting later operating establishments. When the patrons return in the early morning hours they often wake neighbors by opening and closing car doors, starting engines, and using loud and sometimes profane language.

Ward 4 City Councilor Thomas Fabrizio pledged to work on restricting parking on nearby streets. Anne Corcoran of 57 Independence Ave. told the board that club patrons often block her driveway or make it difficult to pull out onto the street.

Sometimes patrons will even park in neighbors' driveways, she said.

Police Chief Francis Mullen said he would instruct police officers working the private detail at the club to be more aware of loitering and other concerns of neighbors. He also said he would enforce ticketing of illegally parked cars in the area.

Varsity Club general manager Tom Brigette told the board that the club has had problems with the parking lot gate which was installed almost two years ago at the request of the neighbors.

Brigette said the club normally locks the gate after closing time but that patrons who leave their cars behind return and often cut the lock and chain. Brigette agreed to try Mulvey's idea of towing the cars.

Mayor James Sheets, Sen. Paul Harold and City Council President Ted DeCristofaro welcome BCBS to their new facility while wishing the company success.

"We look forward to the future, we look forward to working with you, we will work forward to helping you when necessary and I can assure you that your move to the city of Quincy will be a good one," Sheets said.

Quincy, which was the home of the granite industry and shipbuilding for many years, is now on the cutting edge of change despite the difficult fiscal times.

"The city of Quincy is on the move, we are not allowing the economic conditions of this decade to determine what we're going to do. We're going to determine our own future and I believe you have made the right choice."

Harold agreed the city's character of employment has changed from blue-collar to white-collar workers. "Between North Quincy, Downtown Quincy and Crown Colony, we hope to replicate again the expansion of white collar jobs. Those people can shop here and enjoy the many things we have to offer here as a city," he said.

DeCristofaro said the city has been working hard to bring new business into Quincy. "This is a step in that direction and we want to thank you very, very much and wish you the best and hopefully we'll see more of you in the future."

3 Students Face Disciplinary Hearing On Gun Charges

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Three Quincy High School students arrested last week on gun charges face a disciplinary hearing with Superintendent of Schools Dr. Robert Ricci and Principal Lloyd Hill.

The hearing, which is scheduled for Monday, Nov. 4, could ultimately result in the expulsion of the three students at the hands of the school committee.

Only Ricci, Hill, and those who witnessed the arrests will attend the hearing, which is closed to the public.

Ricci, who has the power to recommend to the school committee that the three be expelled from the Quincy school system, said "It's a serious, serious matter, and serious action will be taken."

While noting that it is too early to predict the fate of the three students, Ricci added "If it is decided that what I heard happened actually did happen, my recommendation would probably be for some sort of exclusion. How long a period they would be out of school, I can't say at this time."

If Ricci decides that further action is necessary, he will make his recommendation to the school committee, which will take matters into its own hands during either its Nov. 13 or Nov. 20 meeting.

Mayor James Sheets, who serves as chairman of the school committee, was unavailable for comment. But Executive Secretary Thomas Koch, speaking on Sheets' behalf, said Sheets wanted the penalty paid by the students to be "severe."

"While the mayor feels that both the school personnel and the police department did a superb job in handling the matter," said Koch, "he will not tolerate this behavior from students within our system, or from any system."

"And he wants the strictest, most severe action to be taken."

Vice chairman Frank Santoro said expulsion might set an example and prevent students from

40% Turnout Forecast

8 Council, School Seats At Stake In Nov. 5 Election

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Four contested races are expected to draw 38 to 40 percent of the city's electorate to the polls for the general election Tuesday, Nov. 5.

Election day will be highlighted by a seven-candidate race for councillor-at-large and a six-candidate field for school committee. The other contested races are for Ward 1 councillor and Ward 6 councillor.

City Clerk John Gillis estimates 38 to 40 percent of the city's 44,068 registered voters will go to the polls Nov. 5. He said he doubts turnout will be higher since Mayor James Sheets is unopposed.

"The lack of a mayor's race will certainly affect turnout but I think the councillor-at-large race, school committee and Ward 6 council race have generated a lot of enthusiasm. I think turnout will be closer to 50 percent in North Quincy and about 38 to 40 percent throughout the city," Gillis said.

Some political observers agree this year's city election has not generated as much enthusiasm as recent past elections. However, some of this year's races are heating up and could drive turnout higher, setting the stage for perhaps some upsets.

In the race for councillor-at-large, incumbents Timothy Cahill, Michael Cheney and Patricia Toland are opposed by one political veteran and three first-time candidates.

Former Councillor and Mayor Joseph LaRaia as well as newcomers George Miller, William Ryan and Louis Zagami are seeking city council-at-large seats. Zagami is running as a write-in candidate and his name does not appear on the ballot.

Toland is running for her fifth two-year term as councillor-at-large while Cahill is aiming for a third term. Cheney, who served as Ward 1 councillor for five years before his election to councillor-at-large two years ago, is making his first re-election bid as councillor-at-large.

LaRaia, a councillor-at-large from 1972 to 1975 and again from 1980 to 1987, is making his first comeback bid for that office since leaving four years ago. He made a successful comeback for councillor-at-large in 1979 after losing a re-election bid for mayor in 1977.

In recent years,

LaRaia's comeback bids have come up short. He tried to regain the mayor's office in 1987 and 1989 but lost both times.

The school committee race was pared down from nine to six candidates in the September preliminary election. The six candidates seeking the three seats on the board are incumbents Stephen Durkin and Mary "Jane" Powers and challengers Jo Ann Bragg, Margaret "Peggy" King, Daniel Raymond and Linda Stice.

In the preliminary election, Raymond, a former school committeeman and Norfolk County treasurer, topped the ticket. Stice, a political newcomer, finished a strong second followed by Durkin who is seeking his third term.

Two other first-time candidates, King and Bragg, finished fourth and fifth respectively in the preliminary. Powers, who was elected to a two-year term in 1989 and is making her first run for a four-year term, finished sixth in the preliminary.

Nutley, Raymondi Cheney Top Spenders In Respective Races

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley, School Committee candidate Daniel Raymondi and Councillor-at-large Michael Cheney have spent the most money in their respective races this election season, according to campaign finance reports filed Monday at City Hall.

Including expenditures before the September preliminary election, Nutley has spent a total of $12,852. His preliminary election report showed $5,973 while his latest report shows another $6,879.

The latest report covers the reporting period from Sept. 1 to Oct. 28.

Ayers, who topped Nutley in the preliminary by 501 votes, has spent a combined $10,919. His report before the preliminary listed $4,302 and the latest report shows another $6,617 in expenditures.

With the Nov. 5 election five days away, Nutley has a balance of $830 while Ayers has $454 remaining in his campaign chest. During the most recent reporting period, Nutley raised $5,197 while Ayers raised $4,572.

Nutley loaned his committee $2,000 from his own money while Ayers loaned his committee $1,081 from his own pocket.

The second biggest spender is Raymondi who has spent $12,211 in his campaign to win a seat on the School Committee. Raymondi, who finished first in the preliminary, spent $4,481 before the preliminary and another

Large Turnout For Quincy Center Harvest Festival Day

Several thousand people attended Saturday's Quincy Center Harvest Festival Day sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

QCBPA President Charles Ryder said he was very pleased with the turnout.

"It went terrific," Ryder said. "It was really great. The weather was perfect, and the community spirit was fantastic. It was a really nice community event, and we got a lot of feedback on it."

Agreed QCBPA Commotions Committee Chairman Richard

Carriger, "We were thrilled with the crowd. We had an even bigger crowd than we expected, an excellent turnout. It was absolutely great, a nice family day."

Quincy Center stores offered sales and bargains throughout the day, and crafters' displays and specials were also featured at the event.

Among the day's festivities were musical entertainment by The Alumni Band, face painting, hayrides, and a children's costume parade that Ryder called the "highlight" of the day.

"I was amazed that we got that many (over 200) kids in their costumes," said Ryder.

Carriger was also pleased with the participation in the costume parade.

"What a great sight that was, to see the kids marching down Hancock Street in their costumes. You could tell who the mothers and fathers were, that's for sure, because their faces were beaming," he said.

The consensus was that the entire day was a huge success.

"It was the best thing that happened in Quincy in a long, long time," said

City Council President Theodore DeCristofaro, who attended the event. "It was nice to see so many children involved. There should be more events like this."

Councillor Patricia Toland, who also attended, echoed DeCristofaro's sentiments.

"Whenever you have children and family participation, you know you are going to have a successful event," Toland said. "It was wonderful to see all these youngsters and families enjoying themselves on a beautiful autumn day. I hope the QCBPA will do this again."

Tiffany Linn, a fourth grader at the Merrymount School, placed first in the contest with her Betsy Ross costume. Robert Hennessey, a second grader at Merrymount, took second place by dressing as Blue Boy. Third place went to Benjamin Fitzgerald, a third grader at the Lincoln-Hancock School, who won for his Robin Hood costume.

A raffle was also held during the festival. First place winner Rick Wilson of Quincy went home with a turkey from Roxie's, an ice cream cake from Baskin-Robbins, a fruit basket from the Farmer's Market, movie passes from Entertainment Cinemas, and a case of Pepsi from the Pilgrim restaurant.

Scott Sherman and Nancy Ferris, both of Quincy, placed second and third in the raffle.

Cheney Proposal 'Gun Hotline' Endorsed By Police

By STEVE KAVANAGH

A "Gun Hotline," a telephone line to the Quincy Police Department where callers can leave anonymous tips about illegal guns and other weapons has been proposed and could be in operation by the end of next week.

Councillor-at-Large Michael Cheney initiated the idea in the wake of last week's arrests of three Quincy High School students on illegal gun possession charges.

"I understand that some students have said they fear retribution if they report that someone has a gun," Cheney said. "This would be a toll-free hotline where callers could give police information anonymously."

Cheney met with Police Chief Francis Mullen and Norfolk County District Attorney William Delahunt and said both have endorsed the hotline.

"If this will help get guns off the street the police department is all for it," Mullen said. "I'll endorse anything to help make the community safer."

Mullen said although he supports the concept there are details which have to worked out.

Cheney said he has already begun soliciting donations to fund the hotline and public service advertising. He said that even a local gun club is interested in supporting the hotline.

"We don't want to wait for a gun incident to happen. We will not tolerate it in our schools or in the community," Cheney said.

"This (hotline) is not in reaction to one incident but to a number of incidents which have been expressed to me over the past six months," Cheney said.

"I applaud Quincy High School students for taking a strong stance against last week's incident.

"The incident that took place outside Quincy High School is not reflective of the thousands of good students in the Quincy Public Schools," Cheney said.

He also said he would like to see an "Amnesty Day" or week or month where people could turn in unregistered firearms with no questions asked or legal weapons which they no longer have a use for.

Valve Testing May Cause Rusty Water

The MWRA will continue its program of testing and replacing air valves in Quincy between Nov. 4-15.

The turning and switching of valves will create rusty water and some decrease in water pressure in neighborhoods of Quincy.

"Low water pressure can last as long as a week after the work is completed," said William Brutsch, director of the MWRA waterworks division. "Some rusty water could stay in the local system for as long as two weeks."

He said that rusty water does not create a health hazard.

Where Are You George?

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

George Bush where are you? We elected you back in 1988 because you were going to help us. You were going to make us a proud country once again. You were going to put America back on its feet.

You made us many promises back in '88 when you were so proudly waving that American Flag. It's time to come out from behind the flag George, stop hiding behind the flag and do something for the people who elected you.

Unless you do something soon there will soon be almost 3 million Americans who will have nothing left but a flag. 1992 is almost upon us George, how many promises will you make to us next year as you try and gain our votes, how many more would you break shortly after.

For someone who was suppose to be the "Education President" you have been so busy hiding that you have not done one thing for the education system. The only ones who have gotten a grade education while you been President is voters.

The voters have learned that if they want something to be done for America, vote Democrat. We are all proud to be Americans, and we will continue to wave the flag proudly, but we want a President who will deal with the issues that confront us and not hide behind the flag. Its time to come out of hiding George, its time to start packing your bags. Its now time to read our lips George, we are saying goodbye.

EXERCISE: A POWERFUL DRUG

There is no doubt that prudent exercise is one of the best things you can do for your health. Several well-respected studies have shown that the more physically active you are, the lower your risk of suffering a heart attack.

Cardiovascular exercise (exercise that raises your heart rate) can be a positive factor in weight control, increasing bone strength, controlling diabetes, and even in fighting depression.

Medical experts have also found that exercise can be a dangerous thing if not approached with caution. Some doctors even refer to exercise as a drug, to be handled with careful attention to dosage and possible negative effects.

A Few Election Questions

Although Mayor James Sheets is running unopposed in next Tuesday's city election, he does have an opponent of sorts.

One called "Blanks."

But political observers in general — and future mayoral hopefuls in particular — will be watching to see how many blanks Sheets draws: how many voters don't punch in his name.

For any member of the present City Council or anyone else who might be flirting with challenging Sheets in 1993, counting the blanks is like taking Sheets' political pulse.

A few blanks would read: he's politically healthy and the people are happy with his mayoral performance.

But a lot of blanks, hmmm! Dissatisfaction? Start thinking about 1993.

Sheets is only the third mayor in the city's history accorded a free ride to re-election.

The first was Thomas Burgin in 1940 and the second, Francis McCauley, in 1983.

A mayor's race — when there is one — is the main bout on the ballot and brings out a heavy vote. When there isn't one, the voter turnout is usually light.

A half-century ago, for example, with Burgin unopposed, only 15 percent of the registered voters bothered to come out.

For the record, Burgin got 85 percent of those who did and drew 15 percent blanks.

Forty three years later in 1983, the voter turnout was 36.1 percent. McCauley got 81 percent of that and 19 percent blanks.

Studying blanks a mayor or any other incumbent draws is a favorite political pastime any election year.

But are the number of blanks a true barometer of a candidate's strength or weakness when he or she is running unopposed?

How many voters just pass by an unopposed candidate's name figuring he or she doesn't need a vote?

But politician watchers insist few voters will pass up the opportunity to snub a candidate they don't like.

There are always tell-tale signs in blanks, they say, and they will be looking for them next Tuesday.

City Clerk John Gillis is predicting a 38 to 40 percent turnout next Tuesday with Ward 6 a little heavier because of the battle between incumbent Tom Nutley and challenger Bruce Ayers for the Ward 6 Council seat.

Incidentally, Republican McCauley thinks Democrat Sheets is going to have a low blanks percentage.

"I think he is doing a good job," says McCauley. "He has good executive ability. The way he put together that package presentation for the Lexington shows that."

"Whether he wins or loses the Lexington, you have to be impressed by his presentation on it."

THE BIG QUESTION in the City Council at-large race is once again: "Can Joe come back?"

Politically, Joe LaRaia, it seems, has had as many lives as a cat. Winning, losing and then coming back.

Actually, he has won two council-at-large comebacks and lost one. And he won one mayoral comeback and lost two.

But for him to make it back once more this year he has got to move out one of three incumbents.

TOLAND

And all three, Tim Cahill, Mike Cheney and Patricia Toland, have been out there campaigning hard knowing that LaRaia is always a threat in a one-out-of-three-vote contest.

It's hard to tell how many LaRaia diehards are still out there. And will they go in and "bullet," giving LaRaia their only vote as many of them have in the past? Every time someone "bullets" for him, it's like getting three votes.

Newcomers George Miller and Bill Ryan could have an effect on who will be the top three. Some observers are already predicting that regardless of how Miller fares this year, he'll be heard from again soon.

SPEAKING OF COMEBACKS, the big question in Ward 6 is whether incumbent Tom Nutley can come back from a second place finish in the preliminary election to beat back the challenge of first place finisher Bruce Ayers.

Ayers topped Nutley by 501 votes and former Ward 6 Councillor Joanne Condon Walsh by 802 votes in an impressive political debut.

Where will Condon's 425 votes go? If Nutley had gotten all of them in September, he would still have been 76 votes shy of Ayers. Nutley is counting on picking up a good chunk of the Condon votes and a large voter turnout than the 34.5 percent in September.

Ayers thinks he will get most of the Condon votes, keeps his own he got in September and pull in the bigger share of the new votes next Tuesday.

One of them is right. Is it Nutley or Ayers?

THERE'S A NUMBER of questions in the School Committee race.

Can Dan Raymond and Linda Stice, who finished one-two in the preliminary election, do an encore? Is incumbent Steve Durkin who finished third in September safe? Can he move up? Can incumbent Mary Jane Powers, who barely won a nomination, hold off not only Raymond and

RAYMONDI

DURKIN

POWERS

Stice but Margaret "Peggy" King and Joanne Bragg who finished ahead of her — fourth and fifth respectively?

Will the banning of prayers at high school graduations be a decisive issue?

A lot of questions Election Year '91. The official answers will come next Tuesday.

Veal Stew

In A Jiffy

On the days before our big wedding, there still had to be meals to prepare with various guests arriving for the event. One cool evening, I made a veal stew that was done in a jiffy and tasted like it cooked for hours. Our future son-in-law Jed enjoyed it so much, he made me promise to share it with all of you. It also had absolutely no fat in it at all so it's great for dieters!

VEAL STEW

1 Lb. veal stew (cut in bit size pieces)
3 medium sized potatoes (cut up)
3 carrots (cut up)
1 can string beans
1 cup tomato sauce
1 medium onion water seasoned bread crumbs (optional)
a smidgen of garlic powder salt & pepper to taste
grated cheese for topping

In a little oil, saute the veal and onion for a few minutes. Add the potatoes and carrots and about 2 cups of water, salt, pepper and garlic powder and cook covered until potatoes and carrots are tender (about 20 minutes). Add the string beans and tomato sauce, and if you like a thicker stew, add a couple of tablespoons of seasoned bread crumbs stirring constantly. Serve hot with grated cheese and crusty bread. (You may substitute peas instead of string beans ... I used the string beans because they are my husband's favorite!)

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point, Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Nutley Discusses 'Best Buy,' Marina Bay, Jordan Marsh 'Development'

At a recent coffee hour held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Faherty, 40 Hummock Rd., Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley discussed issues of interest to the area's residents.

"I realize that your major concern is of the heavily travelled East Squantum St. and Quincy Shore Drive intersection nearby and the impact that a proposed mini-mall, and its attendant traffic, would have on your neighborhood," said Nutley.

"Let me point out that I had rezoned that area to Residence 'A' (single family homes allowed only by right) so that we could deal with future contingencies such as this proposal.

"Over the past two months, I have negotiated with the store owners in order to address the concerns expressed by area residents regarding their reluctance to see food cooked at that site that is located so close to residential homes, and their concern about the traffic that a mini-mall of 12 food stores would bring to this dangerous intersection. I've stressed that a smaller 'hard-goods' store, with no cooking odors, would be more acceptable to the residents than a mini-mall of 12 stores.

"That development will have a far-reaching impact on the area's traffic and on the quality of life in this neighborhood," said Nutley, "which is why I have been so hard on the developer during these negotiations.

"Our next, and perhaps last, community meeting on this issue will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 30 at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 12 Hunt St. I hope to see a large turnout of interested residents to hear the vastly changed, and improved plans."

Nutley also spoke on a related issue: the reconstruction of the East Squantum St. and Quincy Shore Drive intersection via the use of $1.3 million gained from the MWRA by Nutley, Mayor Sheets and state legislators.

"The design phase is finished," said Nutley, "and we are in the process of choosing one of five alternative plans for reconstruction. After so many years of difficult traffic conditions at that very busy and dangerous intersection it will be a relief to us all to have the intersection rebuilt to a safer and more acceptable pattern for the many thousands of people who drive through it each day."

Nutley also discussed other issues such as the imminent expansion of Marina Bay and the redevelopment of the massive Jordan Marsh complex.

"I have filed legislation to rezone the Jordan Marsh area to Planned Unit Development (P.U.D.) so that the community can have input into what happens there," he said.

"I intend, if reelected, to work vigorously, as I did with Marina Bay earlier, to down-size all proposed development and the attendant traffic, to a reasonable level that is acceptable to the nearby communities. These next few months will be pivotal to the Ward 6 area," concluded Nutley, "and I intend to stay alert to all developments proposed for this area."

King Calls For Budget Reform, More Senior Citizen Involvement

At recent coffee hours, School Committee candidate Peg King stressed the need for program budget format, more senior citizen involvement, strong public relations on school happenings and a pilot school using school based decision making.

King also reiterated her stand on revitalizing the Quincy Center for Technical Education (formerly the Vocational-Technical School) while adding she would be a fighting advocate for public education. Several additional concerns were raised by some attending the coffee hours. Foremost was the recent gun episode at Quincy High School.

"These students should be expelled," King said. "We must send out a strong message that such behavior will not be tolerated. Criminal charges should also be pursued. The students at Quincy High are to be congratulated for their strong stand. Adults can do no less," she added.

The recent hiring of a new personnel director was another subject of concern. Most said the school committee should have been able to find someone within the system qualified for that position. The short notice and small number of candidates should have been an indication that another notice of at least the usual 30 days should have been issued, King said. "A candidate can have excellent qualifications on paper, but in a position where you are dealing with people you must have excellent interpersonal qualifications as well," she said.

Asked about the search for a new superintendent, King said a wide-search is not needed since the Quincy school system has qualified persons. "We need someone now who has demonstrated a commitment to the community and the school system, and whose records of competence is clear," King said. To boost morale among staff and parents, she said the next superintendent should have excellent interpersonal and communication skills.

"We must know that the person can be a change agent and is abreast of the educational changes that are of demonstrable worth," she said.

As for various educational reforms proposals, King said she is concerned that no funding has been proposed although many new reforms require additional expense. "We cannot fund adequately what we now hope to provide. The major reform we need in this state is a reform on how we finance public education," she said.

New Phone System To Save City $65,000 Per Year

By STEVE KAVANAGH 376-1000.

That's the new City Hall telephone number which will go into effect either in mid-December or January.

Quincy will be converting its phone service to New England Telephone's Centrex system. City and phone company officials estimate the city will save approximately $65,000 a year or about $5,000 per month. The savings will total about $450,000 over the course of the seven-year pact.

"The service offers many advantages for Quincy," said Mayor James Sheets. "The city will now have a unified state-of-the-art telephone system for the '90s. It is extremely important for government to seek ways to improve services and reduce costs," said Sheets.

"I'm enthused about the new system," said Robert Brennan, head of Quincy's Data Processing Department. "Among the benefits will be improved service, efficiencies within city offices, and it will give the public better service and more information when it is convenient for them."

Presently, if a resident calls the City Hall switchboard after 4:30 p.m. there is no answer.

One way the new system will improve service is to allow the public to dial a specific city department directly. The present system requires all calls to go through the city's switchboard at 773-1380. A listing of individual department phone numbers will be listed in future editions of the telephone book and will also be mailed out with resident's water bills. The new listings will also be advertised in The Quincy Sun.

Centrex is simple to update which means new technology and equipment can easily be applied to the digital system.

Features of the new system include 25 "call processing" numbers for many city departments. For example, Brennan said, if a resident calls the Recreation Department a recording will instruct the caller to press "1" for information on the Lincoln-Hancock pool, "2" for vacation-week gym programs, "3" for the city tennis tournament, etc., or "9" to speak to a Recreation Dept. employee.

Each school in Quincy will be able to leave various messages for parents and students including "no school" announcements, information on PTO meetings, social and sporting events, etc.

"The phone company estimates that about 30% of all business calls are of an informational nature," Brennan said. The call processing system would free city employees from answering these types of calls.

Brennan said residents will be able to dial for information 24 hours a day although most departments and the main switchboard will still operate during normal 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. hours. Callers dialing from a rotary telephone will still be connected to an operator during normal business hours.

The new system will also allow city departments, such as fire and public works, to list emergency numbers 24 hours a day—seven days a week.

Quincy Hospital and the Police Department will keep their present systems.

Brennan said that the schools, Quincy College, libraries, Fire Department and City Hall each have separate systems and will be consolidated. Each of these systems have their own monthly charges, Brennan said. By consolidating under the Centrex system Quincy will have one 728-line system which will qualify for a discount of about 33%, he said.

The new system will also include a "Voice Mail" feature for most department heads, each City Councillor and the School Committee. Voice Mail works like an answering machine. For example, a resident may call his Ward Councillor and hear a personalized message. The caller then has an opportunity to leave a message.

Another benefit of the change will be the replacement of the Fire Department's 20-year old switchboard.

The city will retain its recycling hotline number, 770-BINS, at the request of Public Works commissioner David Colton. Colton noted that the city has done a great deal of advertising and promotion of the hotline.

The changeover will enable the Thomas Crane Public Library to reinstitute its "Story Line" which allows young callers a chance to hear a three-minute recorded story on the phone.

Brennan said the new phone numbers will give some departments an opportunity to match its phone numbers with its function. For example, the number for the Dog Officer will be 376-IDOG.

Before deciding to go to the Centrex system, Quincy officials checked with about 35 other communities which recently made the changeover. All reported that they were satisfied with the new system, Brennan said.

Halloween Safety Tips

Police Chief Francis Mullen reminds all motorists to exercise caution on Halloween. Children will be "trick or treating," wearing costumes with masks, and crossing the streets throughout the community.

Parents should go over safety rules with children before they leave the house including:

- cross only at corners.
- never cross between parked cars.

- If there is no sidewalk, walk facing the oncoming traffic.

Parents should also follow these tips to further ensure the enjoyment of Halloween:

- make sure children are dressed in light-colored clothes; short enough to prevent tripping. (Reflectors and/or reflective material would be added safety measures).

- make sure children can see well through face masks.

- accompany young children.

- go out early, in daylight if possible, or carry a flashlight in the dark.

- stay within the boundaries of your immediate neighborhood and visit only the homes you know.

- watch for traffic.
- only accept and give wrapped or packaged candy.

- examine candy before allowing children to eat it.

Residents should remove all obstacles from their steps and leave on outside lights which will help prevent youngsters from falling.

All-Night Parking Regulations

Each year at this time the Quincy Police likes to remind the public of the all-night parking regulations in the City.

City Ordinance Article IV Sec. 67. All-Night Parking Prohibited

"It shall be unlawful for the driver of any vehicle, other than one acting in an emergency, to park such vehicle on any street for a period of time longer than two hours between the hours of 1:00 AM and 7:00 AM of any day.

The above shall not apply to any vehicle bearing an all-night parking permit which has been issued by the Quincy Police Department. Said permits shall be valid for one year from date of issue, and shall cost $2.00. Said permit may be revoked for cause at anytime."

All-Night Parking Permit Agreement

1. The parking deal permits the owner of this vehicle to park in a designated area between the hours of 1:00 AM and 7:00 AM

2. All other City Ordinances with regards to parking regulations must be observed.

3. In the event of a snow emergency this night parking permit is suspended and the vehicle must be removed from the street until plowing operations are completed. If the vehicle is not removed it will be subject to tow action.

4. If the owner of this car moves to a different address he will notify the Quincy Police Department immediately.

5. Violations of the above regulations will result in the revocation of this permit.

Winter Parking Schedule

Between Oct. 15 and April 15 you must park your vehicle on the even numbered side of the street in an even numbered year ... and, park on the odd numbered side of the street in an odd numbered year.

Applications for all night parking permits may be obtained at the Quincy Police Station. Once the application is filled out, the request is checked by the Traffic Bureau. An officer will be sent to the address to check the need for a parking permit.

If in his/her estimation there is enough room in the driveway for the vehicle, the parking permit will be denied. Parking permits are not issued so that people do not have to jockey vehicles around in their driveways.

It may take up to two weeks before a parking permit request is granted, this gives the department time to check the address on several occasions to make sure there is a real need.

Parking permits cost $2, one all-night parking ticket costs $5, it's a matter of simple economics, a parking permit is cheaper.

If you have any further questions about over-night parking, please call the Quincy Police Traffic Bureau at 479-1212 ext. 308.

Surveying and traffic studies have already begun on the project, which is primarily being administered by the Quincy DPW. Construction is scheduled to begin next June. The project is being undertaken in order to mitigate traffic disruption which may occur as a result of the MWRA worker ferry service from Marina Bay to Deer Island.

"Residents are noticing workers and equipment on the roadways, and naturally they have questions," Morrissey said. "We just want to make

Powers Says Gun-Carrying Students Cannot Be Tolerated

Responding to the recent gun incident at Quincy High School, School Committee member Mary "Jane" Powers said all students and school staff have a right to a safe and secure learning environment.

Powers, who is running for re-election, made the comments at a recent community round table candidates forum. If re-elected, she said she would act to ensure that students who bring weapons to class will not be tolerated. She recommended that full disciplinary measures be enacted including expulsion which can only be undertaken by a vote of the School Committee.

Speaking with School Supt. Dr. Robert Ricci and Quincy High School Principal Lloyd Hill, Powers said she supported their actions to suspend the students and convene a security task force committee. She commended the high school's administrative staff for their "quick response and cooperative efforts with the police department."

Powers also praised the petition drive initiated by students as a positive step in reinforcing the cohesiveness of the students. In addition, she applauded their concern for safety and determination not to let the incident smear the reputation of the school.

Powers pointed out she was the only School Committee member who rejected the superintendent's recommendations last March to eliminate two security positions. She was one of three members who opposed the elimination of an assistant principal at Quincy High School.

"I did not support those recommendations because I felt that these positions were crucial in maintaining a safe and well-disciplined school," Powers said.

The cost savings of the two security positions was approximately $40,000 and the assistant principal savings approximately $30,000. Because of seniority and bumping rights, a teacher position with less seniority was actually lost.

"I'm sure there are some people questioning the wisdom of that decision now," she said.

The issue will be on the agenda at the Nov. 6 school committee meeting.

Indoor Yard-Bake-Craft Sale For Head Start Nov. 9

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc.-First Chance Head Start will sponsor an Indoor Yard/Bake/Craft Sale Saturday, Nov. 9 at St. Francis of Assisi School Hall in Braintree.

Beginning at 9 a.m., the sale's proceeds will help send a homeless child to the Head Start Program.

Anyone wishing to donate an item or needing for information can contact Jennifer at 848-8142.

Due to cuts in the budget, programs which Head Start previously offered to the communities of Braintree, Quincy, Weymouth and Hull can no longer continue. One of the programs cut enabled homeless children to attend Head Start. As a result, Head Start is forced to find other financial resources.

At a recent policy council meeting, Head Start encouraged parents to become more involved. They are appealing to patients to keep these programs intact.

Kandance Copeland, a policy council representative, said Head Start is hoping to raise $4,000 so that one homeless child can enroll in the program.

The first of many fundraisers will be the yard/bake/craft sale Nov. 9.

Donations of any kind-clothes, appliances, crafts, baked goods and other items, would be appreciated. The council is forming a committee of parents who want to become more directly involved in the organization of the sale.

Parents who are interested can contact their family advocate at 848-8142.

8 Council, School Seats At Stake Nov. 5

aces will be decided in Wards 1 and 6 where the incumbent Ward councillors are being challenged.

In Ward 1, incumbent Peter Kolson, who is seeking his second two-year term, is opposed by first-time candidate Gail Glover. Gillis does not expect turnout out to be higher in Ward 1 because the campaigns have not been as visible as in Ward 6.

Gillis said turnout in Ward 6 could climb to 50 percent because both candidates have run high-profiled campaigns. The Ward 6 contest also started earlier since there was a preliminary race.

In the preliminary, political newcomer Bruce Ayers scored an impressive victory over incumbent Tom Nutley and former Ward 6 councillor Joanne Condon Walsh.

With 34.5 percent of the voters casting ballots in the preliminary, Ayers topped the ticket, gathering 1,227 votes. Nutley, who is trying to win a fourth term, finished second with 726 votes.

Condon Walsh, who served as Ward 6 councillor from 1977 to 1985, finished third in the preliminary, ending her comeback bid.

Although Tuesday's election will unlikely attract a record-breaking turnout of voters, it nonetheless will be historical.

For the third time since Quincy become a city in 1888, a mayor will be re-elected without an opponent on the ballot. Sheets, the 28th individual to serve as mayor of Quincy, will join former Mayors Thomas Burgin and Francis McCauley as the only mayors to earn that distinction.

Burgin was re-elected without opposition in 1940; McCauley did the same in 1983. All three mayors won terms without a challenge under the Form A plan of government.

Like McCauley, Sheets is unopposed for his second term. McCauley went on to win two more terms in 1985 and 1987, both contested races.

In addition to Sheets, four ward councillors will be re-elected without opposition next Tuesday.

They are:

Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro, who is seeking his sixth term; Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence F. Chretien, a third term; Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio, a second term; and Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan, a third term.

Dan Raymondi Sees Commitment As The Key To Accomplishment

Commitment to Quincy and its young people. While in law school, Dan won a seat on the School Committee. After serving his 4 year term, he was elected to the City Council.

Later, as the Treasurer of Norfolk County, he brought reform and professionalism to that critical office.

Friends say that Dan hasn't changed much over the years. He still possesses that quiet determination he had displayed when he was working as a laborer putting himself through school.

He's never forgotten about the hard work and commitment that has been a family tradition. That's why we need Dan Raymondi on the School Committee. Because he is as responsible as he is active. Because he gets things done. And his record proves it.

Real Estate Update

Steve Fitzpatrick

RENT HOME OUT OR OR SELL?

QUESTION: I plan to buy a larger home. Do you have any advice on the merits of selling versus renting out our present home?

ANSWER: I would strongly consider selling over renting. To keep the house rented, you'll have to pay advertising costs or fees to a broker. Maintenance costs take a bite out of rental income. Each time there is a turnover the house will have to be cleaned and redecorated. A vacancy can result in a loss that could take years to recover. A deadbeat tenant could take up to six months to evict plus legal costs. You're better off selling a single-family home and using the money to move up to a bigger and better home.

IT MAKES MORE SENSE to sell your house than to rent it out.

Bragg Says Goals, Priorities Should Be Set For School System

School Committee candidate JoAnn (Grazio) Bragg recently spoke about her vision for the Quincy public schools.

"Under the direction of the new school committee and new superintendent, I see teachers, support staff and parents working in harmony for the benefit of the youth of Quincy. I see a school system with educational goals and priorities in place before the budget is formulated.

"I want educational goals and priorities that can be measured so changes can be made if we are not meeting them. My vision has teachers and support staff directly involved in the decision-making process, for they know best what is needed in their own school to meet our goals," Bragg said.

To achieve her vision, she said the city needs new leadership on the school committee and members who understand budgets and finances. "I will also use the money management skills I learned through my profession as an accountant. Two areas in particular, expand recycling and broadening the concept of business partnership has the potential to bring revenue in and cut the schools' operating costs.

"We need members who understand how their decisions impact the classrooms in all levels. Since my children are in first, seventh and 10th grade, I will personally be affected by those decisions through my children and their teachers," Bragg said.

She noted her involvement for the last six years with the Citywide Parents Council and 11 years in her children's schools has given her an awareness of concerns throughout the system as did the survey Bragg created and distributed to teachers and other staff members during the 1989-90 school year. The survey asked staff to list their main concerns and their learning supply needs.

"Every day I knock on doors listening to the community's feelings on education, what constantly is stated is the need for stricter academic requirements and to focus more on basic skills. As a member the Educational Development Committee, we have begun this process by requiring our high school students to take additional courses in math, science and social studies.

"On Election Day, Nov. 5, if the voters bestow upon me the honor of serving the children and staff in our public schools, I will be able to be even more effective and will continue to work to promote stricter academic requirements," Bragg said.

20-Year-Old Quincy Man Charged In 19 Break-Ins

A 20-year-old Quincy man has been charged with 19 counts of breaking and entering in the Quincy Center business district, including three at the State Public Welfare office, 1458 Hancock St.

A Norfolk County grand jury returned 19 indictments for breaking and entering last week against Scott D. Lynch of 553 Washington St.

According to Lt. Neil MacDonald, Lynch admitted to police that he was responsible for the break-ins.

Thirteen businesses and offices were broken into beginning July 4 with a dentist's office at 1354 Hancock St. All were within a one-half mile radius in Quincy Square.

MacDonald said a fingerprint taken from the welfare office was matched to Lynch by the State Police computer. An arrest warrant was then obtained in Quincy District Court Oct. 15, and the suspect was arrested.

Due to the large number of commercial breaks that the individual was involved in, Grand Jury proceedings were sought against him. The Grand Jury convened Oct. 23 in Dedham, and evidence was presented which led to the indictment warrants being issued against Lynch.

Cash and electronic equipment, such as VCRs, were taken in the break-ins, MacDonald said. None was recovered.

He said entry was gained through skylights or by forcing open windows and doors.

Break-ins were reported at the welfare office Aug. 27, Sept. 9 and Oct. 8.

Businesses broken into twice were Flynn Insurance, 1205 Hancock St., Sherri's Hair Styling, 501 Hancock St., Great Cuts, 1505 Hancock St., and Community News Dealers, 1431 Hancock St.

Other breaks were reported at Stone Soup Social Club, 24 Cottage Ave., offices at 26 Chestnut St., Quincy Family Planning, 1452, Hair For All Seasons, 1576 Hancock St., South Shore Mental Health, 79 Parkway and Mortgage Guarantee Insurance, 10 Granite St.

To combat the increase in breaking and entering crimes, the Patrol and Detective Divisions of the Quincy Police Department coordinated their efforts by compiling information on all suspicious activity in the area.

Chief Francis Mullen said Dets. Frank Calabro, Robert Ciriello, Peter Gallagher and Patrol Officer Joseph O'Reilly were instrumental in the apprehension of the suspect.

Sun Carrier Aids Injured Man

By STEVE KAVANAGH

An alert Quincy Sun newscarrier came to the aid of an elderly resident of O'Brien Towers who had fallen and been injured last week.

Ellen Lucas of St. Germain St. noticed a yard stick moving under the door of one of her newspaper customers at O'Brien Towers, 73 Bicknell St.

Tom Hickey had fallen and been injured in his bathroom but managed to drag himself close to the front door. Hickey extended the yardstick, with his apartment keys attached, under the door.

Lucas, who was passing by, noticed Hickey's signal and knocked on the door to ask if everything was all right. After retrieving Hickey's keys she opened the door and found that he was hurt.

A call was made to 911 and Hickey received medical treatment.

Lucas, who works at John Adams Nursing Home, delivers The Sun part time in Germantown.

Quincy College Sponsors Voter Registration Day

City Clerk John Gillis and Asst. City Clerk Joseph Shea registered more than 60 Quincy residents at a recent voter registration day sponsored by the Student Government Association and the Phi Theta Kappa Chapter of Quincy College.

The drive was a success, said Anne Condon, a member of the SGA. "It was a great turn out of Quincy College students."

Special thanks were sent to Condon for her helping to organize the day, and also to Gillis and Shea for making the voter registration day possible.

Fire Alert

By WILLIAM ARIENTI
Quincy Fire Department

Fire

All of us use fire in some way every day of our lives.

Whether it be to warm our homes, heat our food, boil water or burn a candle when the electricity goes off, fire is our friend when it is properly used and controlled. However, without the proper precautions, fire can be our worst enemy. Our goal in this series is to help educate you to stop fires from getting out of control, and protect your home and family.

Lets start by explaining exactly what fire is, and how it works. Fire is a combination of four elements; heat, oxygen, a fuel source, and a chemical reaction. Without any one of these elements, a fire cannot burn. This can be better explained by watching a log in a fire place.

As the log burns, you can see a small space between the log and the flame. This space is present because as the log heats up, it emits a gas which is flammable, and this gas, not the log is the actual fuel source for the fire.

As the log continues to heat up, the flammable gas mixes with any available oxygen, and becomes very flammable. At this point, all that is needed for the flame to occur is a chemical reaction which is brought by all the components.

Fire can be stopped by removing any one of the four components. If you were to cool the log, it would stop emitting the flammable gas. If you were able to remove the oxygen, the fire would smother itself and go out. If the log was removed, the fire could not burn, and if you could stop the chemical reaction, no fire would occur. These basic steps are the foundation of fire fighting that the fire service uses.

As fire burns, it searches for more oxygen and more fuel. If these items are available, the fire will feed on them and grow. While it burns, fire makes heat, light, smoke, and fire gasses, the most dangerous of these is the fire gasses. The gasses given off by the fire are poisonous and deadly, and kill more people in fires than flames do. If you are sleeping in your home and a fire occurs, the flames may never reach your room, but the deadly fire gasses may.

This is why every home should be protected by smoke detectors, which is next week's topic.

Durkin Calls For Swift, Harsh Action In Wake Of Gun Incident

At this week's Citywide Parent Council's Candidates Forum held at Quincy High School, School Committee member Stephen Durkin expressed anger at the recent incident involving three students arrested for firearms possession outside of the school.

Durkin called for swift and harsh action against the students and any other student who brings weapons to school. "The School Committee must set a clear example in this case by dealing with the students swiftly and harshly. Students who bring weapons to school don't deserve the right to be in our schools," he said.

"Our primary concern has to be for the safety of the other students at Quincy High School and all our schools," Durkin said. Outraged at the incident, he said he "understands and agrees with parents who are thinking 'how dare someone bring a gun to the place where my child is attending school.'"

"This type of behavior cannot be tolerated," Durkin added.

While the students have a right to a due process hearing, Durkin said, "If the facts are as they appear, I would favor expulsion, at least for the rest of the school year, and possibly beyond."

He called for a system-wide and city-wide commitment and effort to respond to the issue of potential violence in schools. He also praised Quincy High School students for getting involved and expressing their sense of resentment and concern over the incident.

The agency, which has been serving Quincy Point and Southwest Quincy, will be serving additional areas in the coming year. Sections of Houghs Neck, Atlantic and Wollaston will be added to the service area.

Quincy Hosts Falmouth Friday At 5 P.M.

Presidents Upset Undeclared Weymouth

The Quincy football team, following its worst showing of the year, turned in its peak performance of the season last Friday night and knocked Weymouth from the undefeated ranks with a 14-13 victory which gave the Presidents a 4-2 record going into Friday's five o'clock game against Falmouth at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Quincy's win, rated one of the season's biggest upsets, tightened up the Old Colony League race. If Weymouth defeats Bridgewater-Raynham Saturday, four teams, Quincy, North Quincy, Weymouth and B-R all will have one league loss.

Falmouth brings in a 2-5 record with wins over Boston English and Silver Lake and losses to Dennis-Yarmouth, North Quincy, Bridgewater-Raynham, Taunton and Plymouth.

"This was just a great win for our kids," said a happy Quincy coach Jack Raymer, whose team won its fourth in a row. "Our objectives were to hold on to the ball and not turn it over and to play strong defense and we did both. It was a real tough game and I'm proud of the way we came back after our poor showing at Medford."

Quincy's defense was outstanding and came up with the big plays when needed. Weymouth scored with nine seconds left in the game to draw within a point. The Wildcats went for the two points but Mike Kavanaugh and Gary Collins brought the ball carrier down a yard short.

"We were going for it all the way," said Weymouth coach Joe Kelly. "If you are going to get beat, get beat trying to win."

"It's a great win for Quincy," said Raymer, whose team lost, 15-13, to Weymouth a year ago, its only loss, to finish right behind Weymouth in the Old Colony League. "We let them back into the game at the end, but the defense made the big play and stopped them."

Quincy Scoring

|           | TD | PAT | FG | Pts |
|-----------|----|-----|----|-----|
| Walker    | 6  | 0   | 0  | 36  |
| DiBona    | 2  | 10  | 1  | 25  |
| Kane      | 4  | 0   | 0  | 24  |
| Anderson  | 2  | 0   | 0  | 12  |
| Gallagher | 1  | 0   | 0  | 6   |
| Crespi    | 1  | 0   | 0  | 6   |

Noel DiBona had a great night for the Presidents, rushing for 83 yards and kicking the two big extra points. Jason Anderson had his best game, rushing for 75 yards and scoring a TD and Dave Bogan also ran well. Pat Gallagher was 7-of-13 for 96 yards and a score but four other strikes were dropped.

"Our secondary did a good job and, except for his bomb at the end, we did a good job against (Marc) Stanton," said Raymer. "I've never seen a high school player throw the ball that far (73 yards to set up Weymouth's second score)." Stanton was 11-for-19 for 210 yards and his 14th touchdown pass.

Chris Walker had another big game, catching a TD pass and doing another excellent job on defense. Walker, Robbie Kane, DiBona and Mark Zaborowski did a fine job in the secondary.

Kavanaugh played outstanding defense again with 11 tackles and came up with a big interception late in the game.

Bogan, Ally Sleiman, Rich Howard, Chris

McLaughlin, Anderson and Collins sparked on defense and Collins, Steve Fernald, Dave Cedrone, Keith Norris and Duane Holmes all played well on offense.

Mike Malvesti punted well and sophomore Mike Elder kicked off long once again.

Quincy took an early lead when Anderson drove through the middle of the line and raced 32 yards for a score. DiBona kicked the extra point.

Weymouth came back on its next possession when Joe Donovan capped a 13-play, 68-yard drive with a one-yard plunge and Mike Taylor tied the score with his extra point kick.

With 1:29 left Gallagher hit Walker with a 15-yard scoring pass and DiBona kicked what proved to be the winning point.

Stanton's 73-yard bomb to Manny Fernandez set up Weymouth's second TD then passed to Keith Struzzi for 12 yard and the score. Then came Quincy's big play to clinch the Presidents' biggest win in some time.

The North Quincy boys' soccer team (5-13) finished its season on a high note with 3-2 victory over Barnstable last Friday.

The game was extremely close and both teams finishing down two players.

The Raiders won the game with only 10 seconds left on a goal by Kevin Murphy from a perfect cross from Aidan O'Donoghue.

North opened the scoring when a pass from Matt Flynn glanced off a Barnstable defender and was picked off by Dan Danaïs, who broke in on the Barnstable goalkeeper and beat him to the keeper's left.

Barnstable tied the score 10 minutes later.

In the second half North regained the lead on a goal by junior Bo Smith, cutting across the penalty area after receiving the ball from Mike Giese. Barnstable again tied it with 11 minutes remaining.

The teams moved the ball up and down the field with both having good chances. As time ran down, the North Quincy defense played the ball to right midfielder O'Donoghue, who carried the ball upfield. From about 40 yards out, O'Donoghue crossed the ball to senior Murphy, slanting in toward the goal from the left side.

Murphy headed the ball on the dead run, hitting the ball low, just inside the near post, giving North the win.

Raiders Face Lakers At 5 p.m. Friday

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy football coach Ken McPhee was worried about a letdown against Durfee last Friday night after the Raiders had reached an emotional high against Weymouth the week before.

But it didn't happen, thanks to the passing of Mark Taylor and the fine play of Desmond Bellot, as the Raiders rolled over Durfee, 35-0, at Veterans Memorial Stadium and take a 5-1 record into Friday's five o'clock game at Silver Lake.

"We can't take the Lakers lightly as they have proven they can score," said McPhee. "They are only 2-5 but scored 26 points in the last six minutes to upset New Bedford (29-25) and last week they scored 24 points against Taunton (29-24 loss)."

Mark Kelleher had two receptions, including one for a score and Chris Peck had one for 13 yards. John O'Donnell scored on a pass from sophomore quarterback Danny Duncan.

North had 192 yards on the ground, with Mark Cocuzzo rushing for 81 yards including a 41-yard run. Durfee had 92 yards on the ground and 22 on two pass completions. North had 13 first downs and Durfee six.

"I honestly was worried about a letdown but the boys came through with a fine two-way game," said McPhee. "Taylor was outstanding and Bellot played another fine game. Cocuzzo again ran well and I was able to give a lot of the reserves a chance in the last quarter. They did a fine job."

McPhee praised the offensive line, which gave Taylor fine protection and had good words for Mark Zych, Kelleher, Chris McCallum, Chris Campbell, who had a fine game at center; Dave Raftery and Scott Kohler. He also praised Chris Murray and Matt Walsh who ran well, and Peck, who stopped a Durfee drive by recovering a fumble.

"We try to isolate Bellot as much as we can," said McPhee. "Other teams are still doubling him and tonight Taylor did a fine job of finding other people to throw to."

North, playing without injured starters Pat Shea and Tony Licciardi, drove 60 yards for a score after taking the opening kickoff. The Raiders ate up five minutes and Mark Sinclair scored from the one. Liam Higgins' conversion kick was blocked.

North came right back and scored on its next possession, driving 66 yards. Taylor hit Kelleher with a 36-yard scoring pass early in the second quarter and Walsh ran for the two-point conversion.

Durfee's best scoring chance came when it recovered a fumbled punt on North's 14. The Raiders held and took over on the 10.

The Raiders scored again when Taylor hit Bellot, who raced 45 yards to complete a 76-yard scoring play and Higgins kicked the extra point to give North a 21-0 halftime lead.

Peck halted a Durfee drive with a fumble recovery on North's 40.

In the fourth quarter Taylor passed to Bellot for one-yard and a score and again Higgins kicked the extra point.

Late in the game Duncan passed to O'Donnell for the final score and Higgins added the extra point.

North Jayvees Roll By Weymouth

By PETE ZOIA

The North Quincy junior varsity football team continued to roll along as it defeated Weymouth, 24-14, in a battle of the unbeaten. The Raiders improved to 4-0.

The game was only a few minutes old when a fumbled punt gave Weymouth a fine scoring chance as it took over on North's 31. Three plays later, Weymouth led, 6-0, on a four-yard run.

North reached the Weymouth 21 on a pass from Dan Duncan to Mark Sinclair, but gave the ball up on downs. Weymouth drove to North's 39 but fumbled the ball away.

A series of short gains put North on Weymouth's 18. Sinclair picked up six yards and then the final 12 for the tying score. Duncan and Brian Raftery combined for the two-point conversion pass to put North up, 8-6.

Another Raider score came on Sinclair's one-yard run following a 67-yard pass from Duncan to Raftery. Josh Gott added the two points for a 16-6 halftime lead.

Weymouth took the third quarter kickoff on its 31, was stopped and punted. Duncan and Raftery teamed up again for an 11-yard TD pass. Sinclair rushed for North's final points.

Weymouth came back with an 84-yard touchdown run and then recovered an onside kick but time ran out when it reached North's two-yard line.

Donoghue Team Wins Broom Match Title

The Black and White team captained by Paul Donoghue of Quincy held on to defeat Brian Buckley's Navy and Tan team 8 1/2 - 6 1/2 in the fifth annual Broom Match Play Championship.

Although Donoghue captained his team and played with his brother Mike, against Quincy's Buckley and Don Smith of Norwell, the Donoghues were shut out 3-0.

Buckley conquered the winds and speedy greens of the Captains Course in Brewster to shoot the low round of the day - a solid 79. His playing partner Smith shot 81.

But that was the only bright spot for the Navy and Tan. The Black and White duo of Ed Miller of Hingham and George McCall of Hanover defeated Dr. Richard LoGuercio of Norwell and Phil Carino of Randolph, 2-1, on the strength of McCall's three birdies and career low round of 80.

Quincy Residents Rake In Savings

Announcing Quincy's 2nd Annual Leaf Composting Program — And, we want your help. Why?

Last
Year

We composted over 2,500 tons of leaves, and saved over $200,000 of your tax dollars.

This Year

We hope to hit 3,000 tons, and save over $243,000.

How can you help?

It's as easy as 1, 2, 3...

1

Rake your leaves.

2

Bag them.

We recommend using the paper leaf composting bags sold at most stores. They're big, easy-to-fill, recyclable and biodegradable.

Plastic bags aren't great — but, we'll take them.

Bag only leaves, twigs and grass clippings. No trash. No large branches.

Put them on the curb with your trash.

Just separate them from your trash and recyclables, so we know which bags are which!

Thanks for your help!

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

What a difference a few words can make... Even the most frustrating day, the most tiresome duty, the most uncomfortable weather can be erased or at least made lighter by a cheerful:

"Good Morning," a cheerful "Thank You," it works both ways... A similarly light-hearted "You're Welcome" can make the day for another person.

The reasons these and similar expressions can have such a dramatic effect is that, sadly today, they have fallen into general disuse. Oh, yes, a bored "thanks" or "Welcome" is heard from time to time, but usually with as much enthusiasm as an observation about the weather...

It has been noted by optimists that a smile employs fewer muscles and less energy than a frown, but there are those who insist upon doing things the hard way!

All of us could use an uplift of spirit from time to time, and the quickest way to bring it about is to invite it from others.

Remember CHEERFULNESS is contagious... and a lot more fun!

3 Students Face Disciplinary Hearing On Gun Charges

bringing weapons into the school in the future.

"It's a harsh penalty," he said, "And students may think twice before doing something similar again."

"If it sounds like the way I think it does, I would have no problem expelling the students if that were Dr. Ricci's recommendation."

Meanwhile, a student petition to have the three students who were arrested expelled from school continues to pile up signatures at a rapid pace.

"It's (the petition) a statement to let the school committee know our opinion," said senior Jody Ravidia, who began the petition. "A school is supposed to be a safe haven."

Added senior Tara Anshewitz, president of the student council, "We're totally for them getting expelled. And there's no reason for anyone to disagree with this. It's just too fundamental: Guns kill."

The petition was begun last Thursday (Oct. 24) and had over 300 signatures by the following day. The girls attained more signatures from the community over the weekend and are continuing this week to circulate the petition throughout the school.

Two of those arrested, a freshman and a sophomore, were arrested just after school let out Oct. 23 for the possession of two .25-caliber semiautomatic pistols. One of the weapons was loaded with a single round.

The first student was among a group of teenagers outside Bethany Congregational Church across the street from the school. Police arrested him after they found one of the weapons in his jacket.

The other was arrested after he ran from police and was spotted a block away near the South Shore YMCA on Coddington St. He then led police to a men's bathroom in the Y building where he had thrown the unloaded gun into a wastebasket.

A third student, a freshman, was arrested just over an hour later on the front steps of the school. Police said the student had previously sold one of the guns found earlier to one of the other two students.

Students and faculty are now taking as many measures as possible to ensure there will be no further problems with weapons in the school. Hill, who described the incident as "bizarre," voiced cautious enthusiasm about the school's safety in the future.

"It's a first and I hope it's a last," said Hill, who has served as principal of the school for 13 years. "Quincy is a community that can't tolerate something like this. I don't think this will happen again."

A special assembly was held the day after the arrests to inform the rest of the students of what had happened and to impress upon them the seriousness of the incident.

"It (the assembly) was to highlight the rules against guns in the school and to make sure students understand the severity of it," Hill explained. "It was absolutely intolerable behavior, and the most severe disciplinary action will be taken against it."

Although the school lacks both the money and the staff to visibly tighten up security, Hill said extra precautions are being taken.

"The faculty is being as vigilant and observant and attentive as possible, and students have been told to report immediately any matters of a serious nature," he said.

A week after the arrests took place, theories still abound as to what prompted the students to bring the weapons onto school property.

Asked why he thought 15-year-old boys would be carrying guns in school, Hill said he thought it was because of "a lack of values and discipline on the part of all of them."

"It's partly because of a sense of irresponsibility and a lack of parental guidance. And I'm sure parents will be up in arms when they hear I said that, but I don't care."

"The schools should not be primarily responsible for morality. They should be to an extent, but it's not entirely the school's job. There's a lack of involvement of the whole community--church and family and society--that had a hand in this."

Meanwhile, students have their own theory about why the incident took place.

"Certain students come to the school from out of town with their inner city values and inner city way of life," said Anshewitz. "I'm afraid of guns myself, but there are kids that will see one and say 'Wow, a gun.' They're fascinated by it."

"And there's a certain group of students that like to emulate the city kids," said Ravidia. "They wear the jackets, they get the haircuts. They think it's just one more step towards 'Boyz in the Hood.'"

Santoro also had his own thoughts on the subject.

"The more that budgets are slashed and activities are taken away that will keep the kids busy, the more this is bound to happen," Santoro said. "Obviously, we can't solve all the problems of society, but the extra things, the nicer things like athletics do help."

Santoro, like Hill, feels that stronger parental guidance would also help solve the problem.

"Parents are going to have to accept responsibility for their students' activities," said Santoro. "If parents were held accountable, either monetarily or legally, they (the students) would be less involved in unlawful activities."

The three students are currently serving out the remainder of their maximum 10-day suspension from school. A decision by Ricci to turn the matter over to the school committee would result in the suspension being extended until the date of the school committee meeting.

ENC Boosts Local Economy By Nearly $10 Million

Eastern Nazarene College is responsible for nearly $10 million of annual expenditures locally according to an economic impact report released Tuesday.

ENC brings to the local economy an estimated $7 million from outside of the state through tuition and fees as well as gifts in support of the college from churches, alumni and friends. In addition, the construction of the Nease Library and renovations, due for completion in Nov. 1991, will account for $4.3 million in spending through local construction and architectural firms.

In addition to direct expenditures from the college, the faculty, staff and administration (over 200 people), participate in the local economy and tax base.

The report was done by The Association of Independent Colleges and Universities in Massachusetts.

"The presence of a college in a community is considered an important factor in rating the attractiveness of a city as a place in which to live.

The college brings its economic strengths and beyond that its contributions to education, culture and social concerns," said Dr. Cecil Paul, president of ENC and a 28-year Quincy resident.

ENC is a private college in Wollaston supported by member churches of the Nazarene denomination from Maine to western Pennsylvania to Virginia.

Edward Keohane Named To National Selected Morticians

Edward J. Keohane, Keohane Funeral Home, Quincy, was named board member-elect of National Selected Morticians at special ceremonies attended by more than 550 NSM members during the recent 74th annual meeting of the association at The Westin Hotel, Boston.

Keohane will serve a one-year term as a non-voting observer to the NSM board. This will enable him to familiarize herself with the policies and affairs of the association. In 1992, during NSM 75th annual meeting to be held in Kansas City, MO, Keohane will assume full and active responsibilities during his three year term as a duly elected member of the NSM board of directors.

Keohane will work for the board, as well as the NSM executive office in Evanston, Ill., in coordinating programs, policies and activities that continue responsible funeral service in the interest of the consumer.

Keohane Funeral Home was invited into NSM membership in 1967. Like each NSM member mortuary, the firm is pledged to strict adherence to NSM's rigid Code of Good Funeral Practice.

This code sets forth a clear statement as to the obligations, responsibilities and high standards of professional conduct to be observed by NSM member firms in serving their communities.

NSM executive director Fred L. Bates emphasized that membership in National Selected Morticians is by invitation and is extended only after a strict evaluation of those independent funeral homes which maintain the highest quality standards of personal service and mortuary facilities.

In addition, the firm must have a leadership position in the community-one that is built upon an established reputation for superior funeral service.

Jeannette Currie, Cara DiMattia, Daniel Reilly and Amy Wong will receive a letter of commendation from National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC) which conducts the program.

About 35,000 commended students nationwide are being honored for their outstanding performance on the 1990 PSAT/NMSQT which was the route of entry to the 1992 Merit Program. Commended students have shown exceptional academic promise by placing among the top five percent of more than one million entrants, but their qualifying test scores are slightly below the level required to continue in the 1992 competition for Merit Scholarships.

Two law-related programs serving Quincy are the beneficiaries of $201,230 in Interest On Lawyers' Trust Accounts (IOLTA) money distributed by three Massachusetts legal organizations.

The Bar Association of Norfolk County located in Quincy received $8,635 to continue the coordination of the Norfolk County Bar Association evening legal clinics where private attorneys volunteer to provide free legal consultation to members of the public in Norfolk County court house clinics.

Greater Boston Legal Services, which serves Quincy, Braintree, Brookline, Canton, Cohasset, Holbrook, Milton, Randolph and Weymouth, received $192,595 to provide civil legal services to persons living at or below 125 percent of the federal poverty level, which is $16,750 for a family of four.

The awards were made by the Massachusetts Legal Assistance Corporation, a statewide funding agency for legal services programs; the Massachusetts Bar Foundation, a non-profit the Massachusetts Bar Association; and the Boston Bar Foundation, a non-profit foundation established by the Boston Bar Association.

Massachusetts lawyers contributed to the IOLTA program during the past year with interest generated for 18,000 bank accounts. The Massachusetts Legal Assistance Corporation and the two bar foundations are distributing $9.4 million to 169 organizations.

Re-Elected: •Cahill •Cheney •Toland •Durkin •Kolson Raymondi, Stice, Ayers Win School, Ward 6 Seats

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Quincy voters elected two new School Committee members and a new ward City Councillor but returned five other challenged incumbents to office in Tuesday's city election.

Daniel Raymondi and Linda Stice were each elected to a four-year term on the School Committee and incumbent Stephen Durkin was re-elected to a third term. Incumbent Mary "Jane" Powers lost her bid for a four-year term on the board.

Newcomer Bruce Ayers took the Ward 6 seat away from incumbent Thomas Nutley, picking up his voter-getting strength were he left off in the September preliminary election.

City Council at-large incumbents Tim Cahill, Patricia Toland and Michael Cheney finished in that order to win re-election.

Former Mayor-Councillor Joseph LaRaia, trying to make his third political comeback in four years, fell well short, leading some City Hall observers to feel that this could be LaRaia's "Last Hurrah."

George Miller, making his debut as a candidate, finished in a respectable fifth place with William Ryan trailing in the sixth spot.

In Ward 1, incumbent Peter Kolson was an easy winner over Gail Glover to win a second term. Kolson received 2,319 votes while Glover polled 700 votes.

Mayor James Sheets, running unopposed for a second term, was the top vote getter with 12,195 votes. He drew 5,409 blanks.

Cahill topped the ballot in the contested races, polling 9,053 to win his third two-year term as councillor-at-large. Cahill also topped the ticket in 1989.

Raymondi was right behind with 9,009 as he led the six-candidate field for School Committee. He also finished first in the preliminary election.

Raymondi said he was thrilled with his performance Tuesday. He attributed his victory to the "support of his family and friends" and "a lot of hard work."

Cheney nailed down the second spot in the City Council at-large race with a vote of 8,847 with Toland close behind with 8,763.

LaRaia finished far out of the money with 6,850—some 1,913 votes behind Toland. Miller polled 5,422 and Ryan 3,395.

Louis Zagami, a write-in candidate for councillor-at-large, received four votes.

Durkin finished second in the School Committee contest with 7,811, moving up a notch from his preliminary election.

Stice, who was second in the preliminary election, won the third School Committee seat with a strong 7,542 vote production. Besides celebrating her political victory, Stice also celebrated her 43rd birthday Tuesday.

Margaret "Peggy" King was fourth with 6,490. JoAnn Bragg was fifth with 6,236. Powers, who won a two-year seat on the board in 1989, repeated her sixth place preliminary election finish, polling 5,461 votes.

Reflecting on her two years as a member of the School Committee, Powers said, "It's been a good time. I've enjoyed it. It'll be interesting to see how the two new members vote on the difficult issues the School Committee will be dealing with."

Turnout city-wide was 39 percent. In Ward 6, the turnout was 46 percent. Results from all 30 precincts were counted by 10:20 p.m.

In the Ward 6 council race, Ayers capped his impressive political debut with a 420-vote victory margin over Nutley who was aiming for his fourth term. Ayers received 1,776 votes to Nutley's 1,356.

With Ayers comfortably ahead at 9:40 p.m. with four of five precincts counted, Nutley conceded the race. He shook hands with Ayers and wished him the best of luck inside the Council Chambers of City Hall.

Ayers attributed his victory to hard work, a solid organization and voters heeding the call for a change in Ward 6.

"We knew this would be hard work taking on Tom Nutley and Joanne Condon Walsh but we all pulled together. The theme of my campaign was people helping people can make a difference and it did tonight."

Ayers thanked his campaign workers and his family and friends for their support. "I look forward to working with the mayor and the other city councillors and most importantly the people of Ward 6."

"This is a victory for them as much as it is for me. I want to thank everyone for their overwhelming support and I know the real work starts in January," he added.

Ayers and the other newly elected city officials will be sworn into office Monday, Jan. 6.

Miller, who ran a hard campaign for councillor-at-large, said he is seriously (Cont'd on Page 21)

Ship's Future Still Uncertain

Sheets To Attend U.S.S. Lexington Decommissioning

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Mayor James Sheets will travel Thursday to Pensacola, Fla. to attend the decommissioning ceremony for the U.S.S. Lexington Friday at 10 a.m. at the Pensacola Naval Air Station.

Sheets, who will be accompanied by his wife, Joann, will attend a reception Thursday evening and the decommissioning Friday morning. It appears almost certain that the decision on the aircraft carrier's future home will be made after the decommissioning.

Last week, the Navy Department asked officials from Quincy, Corpus Christi, Texas and Mobile, Alabama for more information on how the ship would be moored. The mayor said he strongly doubts Navy Secretary H. Garrett Lawrence will mothball the ship and feels confident the secretary will award the ship to one of the three cities by the end of the month.

In a press release last week, Garrett said the Lexington would not be mothballed or "put to the razor blades." Sheets said the mothballing issue "has been resolved. The Lex will be given to one of three competing cities."

Garrett, who has been weighing the Lexington decision very carefully since August, requested additional technical information on how the Lexington would be moored at each of the sites proposed by Quincy, Corpus Christi and Mobile.

Sheets said the secretary wanted to know what type of cradle Quincy would use for the ship as well as data on cross winds in the Town River area where the Lexington would be berthed.

Because of Garrett's request, Sheets said the ultimate decision on the Lexington may not be made until the end of the month. "(The mooring) information won't be available for a few more weeks," he said, adding the delay gives the Lexington Development Corporation more time to work on raising revenue for the project.

"I think the time that we have now helps the Lexington Development Corporation seek corporate sponsors and I think that's a plus."

Although the decision on the Lexington will not be made before Friday, one thing is certain after it is decommissioned. The Quincy-built vessel will soon leave Pensacola to make room for the Navy's next training carrier, the U.S.S. Forrestal.

The next stop for the Lexington will be either the Philadelphia Naval Shipyard or one of the three cities.

Perhaps the final destination will be known by the end of the month.

400 Quincy Homes Hit; Bail Out Continues

Coastal Storm Causes $2 To $3 Million In Damage

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The devastating coastal storm which hit Quincy last week caused an estimated $2 to $3 million in damages to municipal property and thousands of dollars more to approximately 400 homes along the city's 17-mile coastline.

Quincy officials breathed a sigh of relief Tuesday after President Bush declared a federal disaster area along the Massachusetts coast, including Quincy. With the declaration, the federal government will pay 75 percent of the repair and reconstruction costs caused by the storm which was characterized by strong winds, steady rain and tremendous tidal surges.

On Tuesday, Mayor James Sheets said the storm caused an estimated $2 to $3 million in damage to municipal property, mainly to seawalls and sidewalks in Houghs Neck and Adams Shore. If the mayor's estimate holds true, the city would have to bond 25 percent or $500,000 to $750,000 to pay for the repair and reconstruction work, Sheets said.

The mayor, who surveyed the storm's damage in some neighborhoods, said, "It's really intense in some areas. Not only do you have a lot of damage, a lot of cleaning up has not been done."

"It will take a substantial period of time to respond to it."

Firefighters, police officers, DPW workers and other city officials and employees as well as volunteers from Quincy Emergency Management worked around the clock once the storm began pounding the Quincy coast Wednesday afternoon. Some helped evacuate Quincy residents while others operated pumps to bail out basements, some flooded with up to seven feet of water.

Sixty-one residents were evacuated and brought to a natural disaster relief shelter at the Quincy Vocational-Technical School. Another 37 residents were evacuated to the Atherton Hough School.

The flooding caused officials to close a number of Quincy streets, including Sea St., East Squantum St., Newport Ave., Holbrook Rd. and Quincy Shore Dr. "The breakers came right over the wall," Quincy Emergency Agency Deputy Director Tony Siciliano said, referring to the waves which crashed over the seawall along Quincy Shore Dr.

A half-mile section of sidewalk along Quincy Shore Dr. was uplifted, leaving the concrete slabs in rubble. That section of sidewalk will be repaired by the MDC which controls Wollaston Beach and Quincy Shore Dr.

Flooding was also extensive on Post Island Rd., Edgewater Dr., Shore Ave., Narragansett and Chickatabot Rds.

On Tuesday, Planning Director Richard Meade surveyed the damage to the granite seawall along Shore Ave. from Chickatabot Rd. to Narragansett Rd. Officials from FEMA (Federal

Readers Forum Thanks QCPBA For Harvest Festival Day

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
I would like to thank the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association for organizing the Harvest Festival Day Oct. 26.

I applaud the effort to bring any new, family-oriented quality event to the downtown. In the face of the deteriorating economy and the struggling downtown, the QCPBA should be commended for bringing the festival into being.

The stores of the center should welcome all legitimate attempts to reattract residential shoppers into Quincy Center. Special kudos for the Riverside Theatre Works who performed for over two hours in front of our store.

P.S. What a wonderful sight the parade of costumed children was, stretching the length of Hancock St. from Granite St. to Revere Rd.!

MIX FOOD AND DRUGS WITH CARE

If you take more than one drug, you need to be aware of potentially dangerous interactions. Some combinations of food and drugs can be equally hazardous. For example, in combating depression, drugs such as Marplan, Nardil and Parnate can trigger alarming increases in blood pressure when consumed with foods such as aged cheese, bananas, avocados, yogurt and chocolate. Another common interaction involves milk and other foods containing calcium, which inhibit the effectiveness of the antibiotic tetracycline. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration requires drug companies to print interaction warnings on labels of prescription drugs. Many nonprescription drug manufacturers supply this information voluntarily, but to safeguard your health, consult a professional before taking any medication.

P.S. Alcohol is itself a potent drug and presents one of the most common interaction problems when taken with other drugs.

When it comes to medicines, it's better to be safe than sorry. If you have questions about the interaction between a drug and food, call your physician, or call us, COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE. We specialize in cardiology and the treatment of hypertension and cholesterol-related problems. Our column is presented in the interest of better health for all our readers. Office hours are by appointment at 101 Adams St., Suite 24, in Quincy. Phone 472-2550.

Above And Beyond

You'd have to say that voters in Quincy's half of the Third Norfolk District this year have been asked to go far and beyond the call of civic duty.

For them, there have been three elections in just 49 days: City preliminary Sept. 17; Third Norfolk District Democratic primary for state representative Oct. 15 and the city final election Tuesday of this week.

And, for them it's not over yet. No. 4 is coming up next week — Tuesday, Nov. 12.

That's the Third Norfolk District again, this time the final to determine who gets to sit in the state representative seat vacated by long-time incumbent Robert Cerasoli to become State Inspector General.

Four candidates in the showdown: Democrat Ron Mariano and Independents Francis (Sandy) Eaton and Cheryl Balzano of Quincy and Republican William Izbicki of Weymouth.

Mariano, who defeated Weymouth's Jack McGlone for the Democratic nomination, is favored to win and keep the seat in Quincy.

But he shouldn't try it out until after next Tuesday. He's got to contend with vote splitting with three Quincy candidates in the race and only one from Weymouth.

But beyond that, there is a question of voter turnout: Will some of those voters who went to the polls this Tuesday to cast their ballots in the city final election forget to go out again next Tuesday? Or not go because they might just be tired of all the elections?

There's a lesser but similar problem in Weymouth. On Monday of this week residents there had a special town election. And those in the Weymouth part of the Third Norfolk District will be asked to go out and vote again next Tuesday.

All of those elections have caused a bit of confusion to say the least. Will it affect Tuesday's state representative election results.

AND, SPEAKING OF elections, there's still more to come: The Republican and Democratic State Committee posts in the Norfolk District comprising Quincy, Braintree, Holbrook and Avon.

Former Mayor Frank McCauley and Kathy Roberts hope to make the Republican State Committee posts a tandem for Quincy.

McCAULEY

ROBERTS

Roberts, who has served 16 years will seek a fifth four-year term as GOP State Committeewoman in the Norfolk District which comprises Quincy, Braintree, Holbrook and Avon.

McCauley, who had said he was "seriously considering" running for GOP State Committeeman in the same district apparently is. He has taken out nomination papers, as has Roberts.

McCauley is running because Holbrook's Andy Card, who now holds the seat, is not expected to seek re-election because of his pressing duties as Assistant to President Bush and White House Deputy Chief of Staff.

On the Democratic side, Bernice Mader is seeking re-election as State Committeewoman. But Robert Gibbons of Quincy is stepping down as Democratic State Committeeman.

Michael Bellotti, son of former Atty. Gen. Frank Bellotti is a candidate to succeed Gibbons. Young Bellotti was campaign chairman for Jack McGlone who made an impressive but unsuccessful debut run for the Third Norfolk District Democratic nomination.

Friday is the deadline for filing nomination papers for the state committee posts and ward committeemen.

If you're interested, better hurry. The election for the state posts will be held with the Presidential primaries next March.

IF YOU HAPPENED to see the recent Hard Copy segment on Ch. 7 and thought the voice of the priest charged in a murder was familiar, well it was. That was John Amato, former WJDA newscaster in the role of the priest.

SOME 60 supporters attended a recent fundraiser for Bruce Ayers at Walsh's Restaurant, North Quincy. Among them was Jim Nance, former running back for the New England Patriots.

FORMER WARD 1 City Councillor Leo Kelly was escorting his niece, Sheila O'Sullivan of Bantry Bay, County Cork, Ireland on a tour of Quincy's historic sites last Wednesday.

That was the height of the northeast storm and Houghs Neck was cutoff during the day by the high tides crashing over Sea St. Kelly and his niece finally got back to the Neck by walking a mile or so on the dike.

Earlier in the day when it wasn't raining hard, Sheila assured Uncle Leo: "Oh, I don't mind the rain, I'm used to it back home."

"By the time we had to walk the dike she wasn't so sure," Kelly says.

By the way, back home in Ireland Congressman Brian Donnelly is a like a patron saint, according to Sheila. As popular as John F. Kennedy was.

Reason: Donnelly's appreciated efforts to increase the immigration quota for the Irish.

WELCOME BACK: Former City Councillor Dick Koch, Jr., now living on Cape Cod where he is a police officer, stopped off at City Hall the other day to visit.

It was a fairly short visit. Time to see his brother, Tom Koch, executive secretary to Mayor James Sheets and a few City hall friends.

But long enough, to find a tag on his car.

NOTICE RESIDENTS OF PORTIONS OF HOSPITAL HILL, SOUTH QUINCY ("THE POINT"), PRESIDENTS PLACE AND "THE SQUARE"

The City of Quincy is continuing its efforts to protect the environment by reducing the quantity of extraneous water which enters the sanitary sewer system. As a result, the Quincy Department of Public Works is performing house-to-house inspections in the Central Quincy Area over the next 4-6 weeks to document connections to the sanitary sewer system.

Whitman & Howard, Inc., the City's consulting engineer (working in conjunction with Titbe, Inc.) will be conducting this survey, and the personnel making the field inspections will have appropriate identification. We ask that the occupants of the various homes or business establishments allow the City's representative to enter the premises in order to make a brief inspection.

If you have any questions concerning the survey, please call Mr. George Clark, superintendent of Water, Sewer and Drain at 773-1380, Ext. 217. Thank you for your participation.

Charles Toohey Speaker

Pearl Harbor Keynote For Veterans Day Ceremonies

Charles Toohey of Weymouth, a survivor of the attack on Pearl Harbor, will be the keynote speaker at Quincy's Veterans' Day parade and ceremonies Monday.

Toohey, president of the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association Bay Patriots Chapter, will make his address at the Doughboy Statue in front of the Adams Academy following the parade. This year will mark the 50th anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

The parade begins at 10:30 a.m. from School Street and winds down Hancock Street to the Adams Academy.

Toohey was stationed with the 64th Field Artillery in Pearl Harbor. On Dec. 7, 1941, Toohey was on duty in the communication area over the PX and gymnasium. He heard the steel rafters rattle from the explosion of the bombs dropping on Pearl Harbor.

He ran to the window just as an enemy plane was passing by with the machine gun bullets coming from the plane. He heard glass breaking, turned around and there on the wall, on both side of him, was a row of bullet holes. Toohey said he slowly sank to the floor. Not hit, just stunned.

At a later date his Toohey's unit was sent to Guadalcanal where he contracted various jungle diseases and also received a Japanese "souvenir" - a fragment of steel in his head.

City Council President Ted DeCristofaro will introduce guests.

Following Toohey's address, Reardon along with Gold Star Mothers,

He was discharged from the military in October, 1943.

Toohey joined the Pearl Harbor Survivors Assn. in 1968 and was elected secretary. He has been elected to an office every two years since and has been chapter president for the past eight years.

Toohey and his wife Vicki, along with more than 100 Pearl Harbor survivors from the Boston area, will visit Pearl Harbor in December for a special 50th anniversary memorial service.

The parade will be led by Chief Marshal Leo Reardon of the Quincy Veterans Council which is sponsoring the ceremonies.

Joseph Sullivan, Commander of George F. Bryan Post VFW and Veterans Council Chaplain, will deliver the invocation.

Reardon will give the welcome and Mayor James Sheets will extend greetings from the city.

will place wreaths at the Kennedy Health Center. Wreaths will also be placed in front of the Doughboy statue.

Edwin Boland, Chaplain of Morrisette American Legion Post will offer a prayer.

Richard Henry, Past Commander of the Nickerson American Legion Post will give the benediction following a volley by the Bryan Post Color Guard.

The ceremonies will also include remarks by parade chairman Robert LaFleur and the national anthem played by the Canton American Legion Band.

Burgin Backs Lane For Mayor

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin, on the eve of leaving office for Navy duty, endorsed Rep. Myron N. Lane as his successor, "qualified by education, training and experience to assume responsibility that goes with the Mayor's office."

All five candidates for Mayor — Lane, former Mayor Charles A. Ross, Neil A. McDonald, Russell T. Bates and Laurence J. Curtis — pledged economy in government at a candidates' night sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

Nov. 6-12
1942
49 Years Ago

Ross opened his Ward 5 election headquarters at 225 Beale St., Wollaston, with a rousing speech by former School Committeeman John P. Flavin backing his candidacy.

AUXILIARIES ENFORCE DIMOUT

John T. Lane, vice chairman of the Quincy Defense Council, said Auxiliary Police will be assigned to enforce the dimout along Quincy Shore Drive as soon as the MDC, which has charge of the highway, gives its permission.

A test of the dimout along the drive between Hancock St. and Sea St. showed that three out of five motorists had their lights on, many at high beam, despite warning signs that it was a dimout area.

Lane said most of the offenders were Fore River workers hurrying home at the conclusion of their shifts between 11 p.m. and 12 midnight and 6 a.m. and 7 a.m.

NO HEAT AT MASS FIELDS

Pupils of the Massachusetts Fields School were sent home for lack of heat despite the fact that there were 700 gallons of oil in the school's tank.

Due to a mechanical flaw in the system, it was not possible to pump oil unless there was more than 700 gallons in the tank and federal regulations forbid the delivery of oil if there was more than 400 gallons on hand.

Vegetarian Treat Compliments Of Anita

Our niece Anita was having breakfast with us last week and it seems in our family, as we are enjoying a meal, we are usually discussing another. In this case, she was telling us about this great vegetarian casserole that she had prepared the day before. It's so nutritious as well as tasty, and can be made ahead of time for baking.

Slice all the vegetables and cut the broccoli if not using florets. In a slightly greased casserole dish, layer all the raw sliced vegetables placing cheese between each layer. Sprinkle the top with oregano, cheddar and grated cheese and bake covered in a 350 degree oven for about 35 minutes. It's great for a side dish or poured over rice. (Canned, peeled tomatoes may be substituted for the fresh tomatoes if you wish).

ANITA'S VETERIAN TREAT

About 1/2 lb broccoli florets
3 zucchini
2 yellow squash
2 or 3 fresh tomatoes depending on size
1 medium sized onion
1 lb. fresh mushrooms
Cheddar or any other favorite cheese
Oregano for sprinkling
Salt and pepper to taste
Grated cheese

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at Previte's Market, Summer St., Quincy Point, Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

River Bay Club A Silver Lining In Real Estate Market

The decline of the real estate industry does have its silver lining, or so say the developers of the River Bay Club, a senior rental community in Quincy.

"As prices plummeted and large condominium complexes began to flounder throughout the Commonwealth, we saw an opportunity to buy at the bottom, then build at a time when builders are crying for work," said Project Coordinator Roderick Robertson.

"We have been able to deliver the most economically priced senior congregate care retirement center in New England. We are approximately 30 to 40 percent below comparable communities, and, thanks to that, have experienced a tremendous amount of activity," Robertson added.

The senior living industry is virtually the only segment in the real estate market where activity has continued through the latest downtown. "We have had

ConCom

The Quincy Conservation Commission was scheduled to meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the second floor conference room of City Hall, 1305 Hancock St., and act on four items on its agenda.

They are:

over 3,000 seniors inquire about our community and, now that we are open, we are looking forward to a steady lease-up," said Marketing Director Deb Brennan.

The River Bay Club is a 287-unit, eight story facility, the largest of its kind in New England. The facility features a wide range of amenities and services ranging from the library, billiards and ceramics rooms to housekeeping, dining and assistance in living services.

Located on the corner of Brackett St. and Southern Artery with tremendous views of Quincy Bay and the Boston skyline, the River Bay Club is becoming a South Shore landmark and center for area seniors.

"We are not so much a place to live as a new lifestyle for seniors," said Anita Holt, River Bay Club's operations director. "With our bus service, activity calendar and seminar and lecture series all developed specifically for seniors, the River Bay Club is an interesting and active place to reside."

The club offers its residents the opportunity to age in place. As a resident becomes more frail, assistance in living can be made available in the apartment. If more attention is needed, River Bay Club offers an assisted living wing where a more limited environment and added attention can prevent premature nursing home placement.

The River Bay Club is a rental community that should not be confused with the more expensive endowment or purchase programs. It is very similar to renting an apartment, yet the resident enjoys evening dining, housekeeping and emergency call response as part of the monthly fee, along with the use of the commons area.

The community provides seniors with an active retirement lifestyle and many needed services at a reasonable cost.

Free Eye Health Screening For Senior Citizens Nov. 16

Quincy Hospital will hold a free Eye Health Screening for senior citizens Saturday, Nov. 16 from 9 a.m. to noon in the Ambulatory Care Center on the fourth floor of the hospital.

The screening is part of a statewide event co-sponsored by the Executive Office of Elder Affairs and the Massachusetts Society of Eye Physicians and Surgeons (MSEPS). The one-day event will take place at over 30 hospitals statewide.

Domenic M. Strazzulla, M.D., will screen for glaucoma, cataracts, macular degeneration and other eyes diseases common to seniors. The screening will also include vision and blood pressure testing.

"Older people are vulnerable to many disorders associated with the natural aging process that can reduce vision but are treatable," said Donald Putnoi, M.D., president of MSEPS. "Although an eye screening should not replace a complete periodic medical eye examination, a screening can assist in identifying possible problems that need further evaluation."

Elder Affairs Secretary Franklin P. Ollivierre said "This program offers an important opportunity for thousands of elders across the state to receive a screening, at no cost, that can provide early warning of potential eye disease."

Age related visual problems that can lead to permanent loss of sight include:

- Glaucoma. This rise in fluid pressure inside the eye, which may occur without symptoms, may result in damage to the optic nerve and loss of sight. If detected early and treated with prescription eye drops, vision loss can be prevented.

- Cataracts. Clouding of the normally transparent lens inside the eye can lead to severe vision impairment and require surgery. When the cloudy lens is removed, it may be replaced by an intraocular lens implant, which allows the eye to focus clearly.

- Macular degeneration. This condition, which is caused by a deterioration of the "macula" or central part of the retina, leads to loss of central vision. While there is no cure for the common form of macular degeneration, ophthalmologists can prescribe special low vision aids that will often improve vision for reading and close-up tasks. In a less common form of this disorder, early treatment with a laser beam may be successful in reducing vision loss.

You should see an ophthalmologist if you have any of these common warning signs of eye disease:

- Loss, blurring, or any change in vision;
- Flashes or streaks of light;
- Eye pain or unusual sensitivity to light;

- Seeing rainbows or halos around light;

- A sudden onset or increase in floaters (spots or shadows in your vision);
- Inflammation of the eye or lid.

Space is limited for this free screening and advance registration is required. Call the Public Relations Department at 773-6100, ext. 4016 to register.

Thank you to all the family, friends, workers, contributors and voters who supported me in my recent campaign for councillor at large.

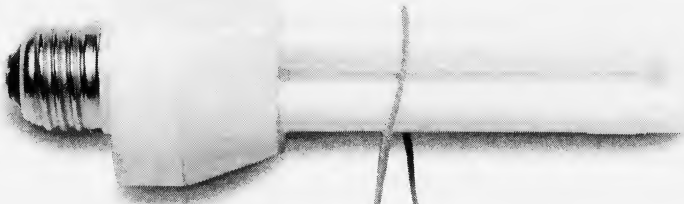

With much appreciation,

Patricia M. Toland

Rape Prevention General Precautions

(This is the first article in a three-part series on rape prevention.)

General Precautions:

Be aware that assaults, including rape, can happen to anyone, anytime, anywhere. Observe your environment and be alert at all times. Know your neighborhood and neighbors. Look for potential danger areas and safety areas. What stores, or other buildings that may be open late and may serve as shelters, or who is likely to be home in your neighborhood. Take note of unlighted or little traveled areas and avoid them when possible.

Trust your gut feelings. If someone or something looks suspicious to you, get in a safe place and call the police immediately. It is better to be embarrassed than hurt.

Be familiar with your own limitations and think about how react under stress. Some people can respond effectively by physical struggle or fighting, others by fleeing the scene and others by distraction, screaming or talking. Know your style.

Never hitchhike and don't accept rides from strangers.

Always carry enough money for an emergency phone call or taxi ride.

IF YOU ARE ASSAULTED AND YOU SEE A WEAPON, YOUR FIRST PRIORITY IS TO NOT GET INJURED. USE YOUR GOOD JUDGEMENT, SOME OF THE TACTICS DESCRIBED HERE MAY NOT BE APPROPRIATE FOR YOU.

Simple rules of self defense in case of threat or assault:

Make sure there is a genuine threat. If the threat is genuine:

A. RUN to the nearest place where other people are likely to be.

B. SCREAM or do anything else necessary to make as much noise as possible in order to attract the attention of others. Yell 'FIRE', it gets more attention and response than screaming for help.

C. If you see a well-lit private residence, go directly to the door as if you live there. This will usually scare off the offender. You can explain your dilemma when the door is answered. Most people will understand.

D. If you are assaulted for theft, and there is no indication that you will be hurt, DO NOT RESIST, GIVE UP YOUR VALUABLES.

E. If you are personally assaulted you must make a very crucial decision. Total non-resistance minimizes any physical danger and could save you serious injury. If your life is at stake however, fight for your life. If you decide to use basic self defense techniques, use them with maximum force.

For more information, contact Crime Prevention Officer Bob Hanna at 479-1212 ext. 117.

No matter what self defense techniques you use, use them only to buy enough time so that you can scream and run.

(In the next part of this series, precautions to take at home, on the street and in public places will be discussed.)

Partial Psychiatric Hospitalization Program Opens At Quincy Hospital

A partial hospitalization program for psychiatric outpatient treatment opened Monday at Quincy Hospital.

Like the hospital's inpatient unit, the program places special emphasis on patients 55 years and older.

"With the opening of our partial hospitalization program, Quincy Heights at Quincy Hospital has dramatically expanded treatment options available to older adults suffering from emotional and behavioral problems, said Quincy Hospital Director Ellen Zane. "We are enthusiastic about being able to offer the South Shore community, especially adults 55 and older, a central location for adult and geriatric psychiatric treatment services."

The advent of the partial hospitalization program provides seniors, families and friends the opportunity to participate in an intensive weekday mental health program conducted in an outpatient setting. The program runs Monday through Friday with the patient arriving at 8:30 a.m. and leaving at 3:30 p.m.

Patients remain active participants in their families, social networks and the larger community while receiving comprehensive treatment for their psychiatric problems. In addition, use of partial hospitalization services can often prevent the need for more costly long-term inpatient psychiatric care.

Alexandra Accardi, M.D., will serve as assistant medical director of Quincy Heights, directly responsible for the partial hospitalization program. Accardi was most recently the medical director of Triage and Emergency Psychiatric Services at Waltham-Weston Hospital & Medical Center. She sees private patients in her office at Quincy Psychiatric Associates on Adams St., Quincy.

She received her medical degree from Tufts Medical School and did her residency at the New England Medical Center in Boston. She is experienced in hospital-based psychiatric services.

Quincy Heights' multidisciplinary treatment program includes crisis intervention, psychological evaluation in conjunction with medical services, individual treatment plans, family services, discharge planning and continuing care. There is also transportation available if needed.

"Our goal is to establish an outpatient treatment program that defines the standard of excellence for psychiatric care of older adults in our community," Accardi said.

Referrals can be made by physicians, other health care professionals, family members, friends, or the individual by calling 617-773-9634. Assessment of a person's condition is offered free of charge, and the services provided at Quincy Heights are covered in whole or in part by Medicare and most major health insurance companies.

THE COUNTER OFFER

QUESTION: I received a written offer to purchase my property. What happens to the original offer if I make a counter offer?

ANSWER: A counter offer is a combination of a rejection of the initial offer and a new offer by the seller. When the seller demands a higher price, more down payment, or different terms, the buyer's original offer is automatically cancelled. In effect, this may burn bridges behind you. If the buyer refuses your counter offer, there is no way you can force him to make good on the original offer because it will have been wiped out with the rejection and counter offer. This is a tricky area of negotiation that calls for expert advice.

Mariano Says He Will Be 'Readily Accessible' To Quincy, Weymouth Voters

Ron Mariano, Democratic nominee for State Representative in the Nov. 12 election, said that if he is elected Third Norfolk District Representative he will be readily accessible to the voters of Weymouth and Quincy.

Having been involved at the local level for many years, I share the concerns of the voters," he said. "Too often our elected officials are highly visible during their campaigns, but then are never seen or heard from again, at least until the next time they run for office.

"This type of 'ghostly' representation is consistent with legislators who spend their time pushing special-interest legislation. However, I can assure the voters of the Third Norfolk District that my special interest will continue to be the working men and women of the district and the adequate funding of local government operations.

A legislator's responsibility is to represent the views of the voters of his or her district on Beacon Hill and to assist constituents with problems whenever possible. Representatives cannot adequately do this unless they are in constant communication with the voters of their district.

"Having regularly attended local government meetings for many years prior to becoming a candidate for State Representative, I can assure the voters of the Third Norfolk District that I will continue this practice, thereby being able to fairly present local government concerns at the State House. In addition, I plan to hold regularly-set office hours in both Weymouth and Quincy. I will seek out the views of the Third Norfolk District on matters that come before the legislature through a regular series of 'town meetings' and will be readily available to all residents of the District.

"Too often elected officials forget their roots after the votes are counted. I pledge to the citizens of the Third Norfolk District that, if elected on Nov. 12, I will not become invisible. I will continue to be active, involved and concerned—I will continue to be here."

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Veteran's Day ... November 11 ... is a day which takes on a special meaning in these challenging times.

Veteran's Day is a time to honor the millions of men and women who performed the highest obligation of their citizenship ... active service in the defense of their country. On Veteran's Day let us, as a nation, pause to honor those veterans - living and dead - who have served their country in time of need ... They served it well. Many gave up their lives for their country and for the freedom we enjoy. Let us, also, honor those who have lived to make those freedoms meaningful by post-war service to their disabled comrades, to their neighbors, to their community, to their states, and to their nation.

As we honor all those who so rightfully deserve thankful remembrance, let us also make this day - a day of united expression of dedication to the cause of peace with honor throughout the world. . .

Eaton Says Campaign Based On Well-Being Of Working Families

Francis "Sandy" Eaton of Quincy, an Independent candidate for state representative in the Third Norfolk District special election Tuesday, Nov. 12, said his campaign has focused on "the well-being of our working families."

If elected, Eaton said his "vision of a commonwealth that cares will provide the framework for my decision-making once in office."

Summarizing his platform, Eaton outlined his stands on such subjects as taxes, affordable health care, education and the environment.

"Our families and the small business community pay too much in state taxes precisely because the wealth and their corporations are paying too little. Over the last 40 years, this imbalance has grown worse, so that, now, only in Nebraska do corporations pay for a lower percentage of the state budget. Simple justice demands that this burden be shifted," he said.

"Access to affordable health care has become the top issue for more and more families. Twenty-five years ago the private insurance industry was given the mandate to provide that coverage, and it has failed. Now is the time to switch over to the universal, cost-effective system our Canadian neighbors a few miles away enjoy."

"As someone who's worked in health care throughout this same 25-year period, I am ideally suited to argue forcefully on Beacon Hill for this change," said Eaton, who is a nurse at Quincy Hospital.

Calling children "our most valuable resource," Eaton said "society as a whole must recognize the value of education and act accordingly." "A restructured tax system, one which breaks the connection between the regressive property tax and public education, will provide state and federal funds adequate to the need."

"Then all our children, from wealthy communities and from those not so wealthy, will be able to start off on a level playing field and make the most of their talents. We all would benefit."

Concerning the economy and the environment, Eaton said, "Jobs in a healthful environment are what it takes to keep roofs over our heads. Boston Edison has been trying to get the green light to reopen its Edgar Station in North Weymouth, promising jobs and revenues."

"But its unwillingness to fund a thorough health study of the Fore River basin provides the single most important reason to keep this reopening on hold. Instead, the state should release funds earmarked for roads, bridges and tunnels."

"Any state surplus should be used to stimulate the economy through needed work. Layoffs of productive workers in the public sector must stop. Paychecks are the best stimulus for the whole economy," he said.

Among the unions and associations which have endorsed Eaton's campaign are Local 285 of the Service Employees International Union, with chapters at South Shore and Quincy Hospitals, and the Massachusetts chapter of the Democratic Socialists of America.

ARTS/ENTERTAINMENT

Bennington Marionettes At Beechwood Center Nov. 12

The Bennington Marionettes will perform "Hansel and Gretel" Tuesday, Nov. 12 at 1:30 p.m. at Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Fenno St.

The performance is part of the Cultural Enrichment Program for Youth (CEPY), an ongoing series at Beechwood. Admission is $2.

The story of "Hansel and Gretel" has its origins in the ancient German oral tradition of storytelling. Though the fable is perhaps thousands of years old, it wasn't written down until the early 19th century by the Brothers Grimm. At the end of the century, the German composer Engelbert Humperdinck transformed "Hansel and Gretel" into what is recognized as one of the world's greatest operas.

The Bennington Marionettes give new life to the Brothers Grimm fable with a fresh, brilliant adaptation. Musical arranger John Clifton and writer Lon Extract have translated and made accessible to younger audiences 10 of the very best songs from the opera including "Brother Won't You Dance With Me," "The Evening Prayer," and "The Witches Ride."

Adults, as well as children, thrill to the flight of the witch, the appearance of nine larger than life size angels, the dance of the glowing goblins, the magic of the sandman, the battle of the birds, the exploding oven and a three story, 14-foot high gingerbread house.

Artistic director of the marionettes is Cedric Flowers, actor, director, writer, and teacher, former faculty member of Bennington College, and author of "Puppets: Methods and Materials." Lolly Marsh, cofounder of the Bennington Marionettes, is one of America's greatest master puppeteers.

The CEPY Program at Beechwood is funded in part by grants from the Quincy Arts Council, the Massachusetts Cultural Council, and the New England Foundation for the Arts, with additional support from the Raytheon Company and the National Endowment for the Arts.

For more information call 471-5712.

Quincy 27, Falmouth 21

Presidents Can't Take Lakers Lightly

With its ground game shut down, the Quincy football team took to the air Sunday and ground out a 27-21 victory over stubborn Falmouth for its fifth win in a row, improving to 5-2.

Quarterback Pat Gallagher had his best day of the year and was the Presidents' offense as he threw for four touchdowns as Quincy played under an emotional cloud following the tragic death of former player Peter Eleuteri, whose brother Jason plays on the current team.

Quincy travels to Silver Lake Saturday for a 1:30 game and the Presidents must be wary as the Lakers (2-6) came within a minute of shocking North Quincy last week.

Silver Lake has defeated Hingham and New Bedford and lost to Duxbury, Weymouth, Falmouth, Barnstable, Taunton and North Quincy.

"This wasn't easy today, Falmouth is a much improved team," said Quincy coach Jack Raymer. "These kids had a lot on their minds and you have to give them credit. We proved our balance as Pat (Gallagher) really came through for us when they stopped our running game. I think our kids did well under the circumstances and I think they learned the game of life this week.

"Gallagher was just outstanding as was Chris Walker, who has been a standout in every game (three touchdowns receptions). The offensive line did a fine job, giving Gallagher good protection."

While Quincy's running game was stopped, Falmouth had a fine ground game sparked by Billy Castro, who scored all of the Clippers' points with three touchdowns and three extra points.

He carried 23 times for 107 yards. Castro leads the OCL in scoring with 73 points.

Gallagher, who now has 10 touchdown passes, seven of them to Walker, threw for 276 yards on 9-for-18.

He started slowly and threw three interceptions. Castro picked one off on Quincy's 34 and scored the first touchdown of the game from five yards out. He also kicked the extra point.

In the second quarter Gallagher hit Walker, who caught three passes for 146 yards, all for touchdowns, with a 21-yard scoring pass. Noel DiBona's kick for the tying point failed.

After Ally Sleiman recovered a fumble, Quincy went ahead when Gallagher connected with Walker for an 80-yard scoring play. DiBona kicked the extra point.

Later in the quarter Walker completed his hat trick when he and Gallagher connected for a 45-yard scoring pass and DiBona again kicked the point.

In the third quarter Quincy widened its lead to 27-7 when Gallagher hit Robbie Kane with a 55-yard TD score and DiBona kicked his third extra point.

Falmouth refused to quit and Castro added his second touchdown in the third quarter from two yards out and then, with 3:50 left, cut the gap to 27-21 when he scored from the five and kicked the extra point.

Mike Malvesti came up with a big 46-yard punt which pushed Falmouth back to its 15.

"That was a tremendous punt by Mike and I feel that was the key play in the game," said Raymer.

Dave Bogan sacked the Falmouth quarterback but a 15-yard penalty against the Presidents put the ball on the Falmouth 32.

Kane ended Falmouth's last hope with his second pass interception of the game, returning the ball to the 11. The game ended one play later. Mark Zaborowski also had a key interception for the Presidents.

North Quincy 22, Silver Lake 21

Raiders Need All-Out Effort Against B-R

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy football team, expected to win easily, survived a first half nightmare and squeezed by Silver Lake, 22-21, last Saturday to keep its Old Colony League title chances alive and improve to 6-1 overall. The Raiders fell to 2-6.

The Raiders will have to give a far more impressive effort Saturday when they host Bridgewater-Raynham, the only unbeaten team in the league, at 1:30 at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

B-R, which tied Weymouth, 21-21 last week, is 6-0-2 overall and 4-0-1 in the league. The Trojans have defeated Whitman-Hanson, Quincy, Marshfield, Falmouth, Plymouth and Barnstable and tied Weymouth and Canton.

"I didn't expect an easy game, as Silver Lake has shown all season it can score, but that first half (a 13-0 Laker lead) was a nightmare," said North coach Ken McPhee. "But I am proud of the way out kids bounced back. We will have to bounce back against Bridgewater-Raynham and play like we are capable of playing. They have a real fine team."

North's hero, Chris Murray, had a fantastic second half after failing to carry the ball in the first half when Silver Lake controlled the ball and kept it out of North's hands.

Murray carried 17 times for 186 yards, scored two touchdowns and added a pair of two-point conversions, the final one giving North the win with 1:03 to play.

"Chris was just amazing in that second half and he was our offense today," said McPhee. "He had many long runs and they just couldn't stop him."

Murray had runs of 20, 21, 19, 31, 25, and 27 yards during his second half spree.

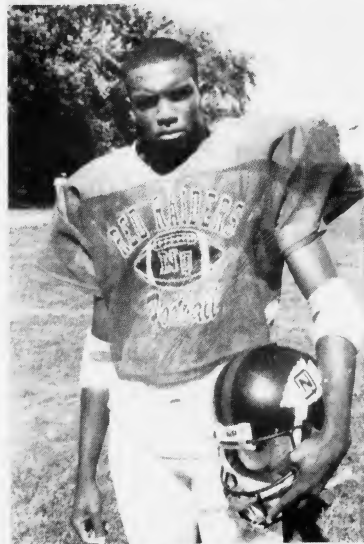

Silver Lake coach Jon Cuccinatto said, "We wanted to make them move the ball on the ground and we designed our defense to stop the pass and they took advantage of that."

The Lakers did a good job bottling up North's passing attack and Mark Taylor was only 4 for 12 for 56 yards. But Murray made them pay for that strategy.

North had 284 yards on the ground with Mark Cocuzzo rushing for 50 yards, including a 30-yard run, and Matt Walsh carrying three times for 13 yards. SL had 136 yards rushing and had 142 yards on 6 for 11 passing. Both teams clicked off 15 first downs.

After recovering a North fumble on the Raider 37, Silver Lake took the lead on a one-yard plunge by J.P. Duffy, who had a fine day for the Lakers. He also kicked the extra point.

The Lakers drove 90 yards for their second score in the second quarter, with Duffy hitting Kory Ferullo for a 42-yard gain. Marcus Lopes scored from the one.

North drove to the Laker four-yard line but a dropped pass in the end zone ended the threat and the Lakers took a 13-0 lead into the locker room.

North recovered a fumble on the Laker 21 and Mark Sinclair scored from the one. Murray added the two-point conversion.

Silver Lake came right back on a 24-yard touchdown pass from Duffy to Ferullo and added the two-point conversion for a 21-8 lead.

Murray took over and single-handedly led North downfield, carrying three times for 59 yards and scoring on a 19-yard run. The try for the two-point conversion failed.

Then Murray took over again, carrying for nine yards, adding a 28-yard run to the 13, breaking tackles for eight yards and going the final five. He then added his big two-point conversion.

Desmond Elliott intercepted a pass on the next-to-last play of the game to seal the victory.

North Jayvees Win Fifth Straight

By PETE ZOIA

The undefeated North Jayvees continued their winning ways by defeating Durfee, 26-12, for their fifth consecutive victory.

Continuing their policy of scoring early, the Raiders put six points on the board when Josh Gott scored from the one yard line. The passing of Dan Duncan led to this initial touchdown.

The North defense played a big part in the second score when Jim Sapiaenza intercepted a Durfee pass and ran it to their 30. Duncan threw to Brian Raftery on the 12, and Mark Sinclair ran it in to their 30. Duncan threw to Brian Raftery on the 12, and Mark Sinclair ran it in from there to make it 12-0 and the first quarter ended.

Durfee managed to work the ball to the North 35 to start the second quarter. Two passes did the trick for a TD. A 20-yarder and a 15-yard screen pass made it six points for Durfee.

The following kickoff was a bouncer to Sinclair who gathered up the ball on his 17 and burst through the entire Durfee team for an 83-yard score. Sean Skahan added the two points. With neither team getting any advantage, the half ended shortly after.

Skahan put on a neat exhibition of running, getting 34 yards on four carries to the one-yard line where Gott dove in for the score to make it 26-6.

The final quarter was an impressive one for Durfee.

Durfee partially blocked a North kick to gain the ball on the Raiders 24. In three plays, Durfee was on the board again from two yards out to conclude all the scoring.

Despite the final score, Coaches Tom Carter and Peter Chrisom of North both felt Durfee was the best opponent the young Raiders have faced to date.

Emergency Management Agency) surveyed the damage Saturday.

Besides the sections of seawall which were physically damaged, Sheets said other sections which were weakened by the storm may have to be replaced. Concrete jersey barriers have been placed along the seawall until it can be reconstructed.

Sheets praised Quincy Police Chief Francis Mullen, Fire Chief

Thomas Gorman, DPW Commissioner David Colton, Siciliano and other department heads and city officials for their cooperation and coordination during the storm.

"I think everyone was pulling the wagon in the same direction," he said.

Compared to Hurricane Bob which hit the city in late August, last week's nameless Nor'easter caused much more in damages to municipal and private property.

Like Bob, last week's storm will cost the city about $300,000 in overtime costs. The overtime cost will be paid out of the FY 92 budget.

Sheets said he hopes department surpluses will cover the overtime costs. However, if the storm creates a budget shortfall next spring, revenue will be allocated from the city's free cash account. As of Tuesday, the account had approximately $150,000.

DEP Sets Emergency Cleanup Regulations

The Quincy Conservation Committee has announced the issuance of "Emergency Regulations of Cleanup Activities" by the Department of Environmental Protection for communities in the Coastal Zone.

Quincy residents whose property has sustained storm damage due to flooding Oct. 30 may be interested in these regulations, which allow some cleanup activities without the requirement of filing a permit.

Other activities may be accomplished by the issuance of an emergency certificate that is contingent upon the work being "necessary for the protection of the health or safety of the citizens of the Commonwealth and that an agency of the Commonwealth has ordered the work to be performed."

The DEP has mandated some safety measures that must be taken to mitigate dangers when "removing debris, retrieving boats and repairing structures."

On beaches, marshes, and waterways some examples of allowable work without an emergency certification are clearing of debris and objects that will not alter the wetlands; repair of existing structures; small repairs to seawalls; and clearing of roadways.

A copy of the detailed description of each allowable activity, and of activities which require permitting as well as the applicable laws for this work is available through the Conservation Commission, the Building, Engineering, Health and Public Works Departments, and the Police, Civil Defense, and Fire Departments.

Fire Alert

by WILLIAM ARIENTI
Quincy Firefighters Local 792

Smoke Detectors

Our homes are our biggest investments.

We keep them clean, we buy the best furnishings we can afford, and decorate them for style, comfort and convenience. However, all of these furnishings put together do not match the value of a few properly placed smoke detectors.

Smoke detectors are the main reason for the decrease in fire deaths in this country. Because most fire related deaths happen at night, smoke detectors wake and alert the residents of the home before smoke has a chance to injure them. Smoke detectors also reduce the cost of fire damage in the home due to the fact that a fire which is detected in its early stages can be extinguished easier by the fire department.

Smoke detectors are available in two categories, photo-electric, or ionization, either type is suitable for the average home or apartment. The power source for smoke detectors also vary, there are battery operated, electrically "hard wired", or electrical with battery back-up. Battery operated can be installed by anyone, but electrical, or electrical with battery back-up must be installed by an electrician. When the battery operated alarm goes off, only the detector that senses the smoke will sound, while the electrically hard wired detectors may be connected so that all alarms will sound if one detector senses smoke. Each home owner must decide what is best for their own needs.

Proper placement of smoke detectors is also very important. A detector should be placed on every level of the home, including the cellar and the attic, if accessible. Smoke detectors should be placed at the landing of every stairway and outside any sleeping areas of the home. They should be attached to the ceiling, at least 12 inches away from any walls, since smoke has a tendency to roll away from tight corners between the ceiling and wall as it rises.

Just having a smoke detectors is not enough to provide safety. Each detectors battery must be changed at least once a year, dusted and vacuumed out occasionally, and any other instructions for proper maintenance that the manufacturer recommends must be adhered to.

Smoke detectors are invaluable in keeping your home and family safe. Millions of lives have been saved by them. They can be used in almost every room in the house, except the kitchen, there you need a fire extinguisher, which is next weeks topic.

4 Vie For Cerasoli's Seat Third Norfolk District Special Election Nov. 12

Election countdown: three down and one to go.

So far this election season, Quincy voters have gone to the polls for the city's preliminary election Sept. 17, the special primary election for state representative in the Third Norfolk District Oct. 15 and the city's general election Tuesday.

Next Tuesday, Nov. 12, the unusual election season will come to a close when voters in the Third Norfolk District head out to the polls one more time to cast ballots in the special final election for state representative.

On the ballot next Tuesday are Quincy

Democrat Ronald Mariano, Weymouth Republican Bill Izbicki and Quincy Independents Cheryl Balzano and Francis "Sandy" Eaton.

Next Tuesday's winner will succeed former state representative Robert Cerasoli who stepped down in July to become the state's new inspector general.

City Clerk John Gillis predicts 25 percent of the registered voters in the Third Norfolk District will turn out next Tuesday. In Quincy, the district comprises all five precincts in Ward 2 and Ward 3 Precinct 1. The district also includes six precincts in Weymouth.

Mariano won the nomination by defeating John "Jack" McGlone of Weymouth. They were the only candidates in the primary.

The final election for state representative election next Tuesday represents the fourth election in Quincy in eight weeks. The hectic political pace will slow down after Nov. 12 as voters will not go to the polls again until March 10, 1992, the date of the Super Tuesday primary election.

For those political junkies who may be wondering, the presidential primary is less than 19 weeks away.

Council Supports Ban On Toys At Christmas Parade

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The City Council Monday night unanimously supported a motion by the Christmas Festival Committee which would ban hawkers and vendors from selling children's toys such as "Silly String" and "snappers" at the city's annual Christmas parade.

Such toys have proven to be a distraction to those marching in the parade in the past.

Calling the Christmas parade "one of the greatest events Quincy has," Councillor Michael Cheney voiced his support of the motion.

"It's just very distracting," Cheney said. "The kids buy this so-called 'Silly String' and a minute later they're spraying it all over the place. And the 'snappers' are also bothersome to the marchers when they're thrown on the ground."

Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio was at first uncertain about whether or not the motion should be supported.

"I don't want to make light to this," Fabrizio said, "but how are we going to enforce this? Are we going to fine some 10-year-old kid who brought 'Silly String' to the parade from his house?"

But Council President Theodore DeCristofaro put aside Fabrizio's fears, saying that only the those selling the toys at the parade would be penalized.

"We're trying to stop it at the source," DeCristofaro said. "The kids will have a harder time getting it if it's not there (at the parade)."

DeCristofaro added that parents are less apt to buy the toys for their children if they have to make a special trip to the store to do so.

Hawkers and vendors attempting to resist the ban on the toys would have to pay a $50 fine for a first offense. Repeat offenders who continue to sell the toys at the parade would pay a $100 fine for second and third offenses and $200 for subsequent offenses.

Homes Flooded Should Have Wiring Checked

For safety reasons, homeowners whose residences were flooded during last week's storm should have an electrical contractor or licensed electrician check the wiring and electrical equipment that may have been underwater, recommends Quincy Wire

Inspector Thomas Purpura. Electrical equipment that was under salt water, such as main fuse or circuit breaker panels, safety controls on heating systems, basement appliances, receptacles and switches are usually damaged internally when homes are flooded.

This damage may not be apparent on the exterior. Damaged and corroded electrical equipment is a very hazardous condition.

All electrical equipment and devices that were under salt water should be replaced as to avert possible hazardous conditions or fires.

Mother Fighting To Clear Suicide Stigma From Son's Death

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Peter Eleuteri's mother says she will fight to clear the stigma of suicide from her son's death.

The 18-year old Quincy High School senior was found dead at the Haymarket MBTA station early last Friday morning.

Peter Dimon, a spokesman for the MBTA, said that MBTA police are treating Eleuteri's death as "a possible suicide."

Dimon would not say whether the MBTA has considered the possibility of foul play or another reason for Eleuteri's death.

"There is a continuing investigation of suspicious death," he said.

However, Lori Stefanelli, Eleuteri's mother, said that MBTA detectives investigating the case told her that they believe Eleuteri was murdered and suicide was not being considered as a possible cause of death. She said the MBTA police told her they did not know why MBTA spokesmen called the death an "apparent suicide."

"We shouldn't have to fight this," Stefanelli said. "We're fighting to clear his name. I don't want one person in this city to have a doubt about what happened. He was loved too much by a lot of people."

Stefanelli said that the undertaker who handled Eleuteri's funeral agreed with her that he had been badly beaten and had not committed suicide.

Results of an autopsy, performed Friday by the Suffolk County Medical Examiner's office, had not been released as of Tuesday.

Eleuteri's jacket was turned inside out, one of his sneakers was off, his gold ring and money missing, and photographs of friends torn in half, his mother said. She said these factors and other evidence suggests that he was mugged and did not throw himself onto the electrified third rail.

"There is no doubt he was severely beaten," Stefanelli said.

About 1,000 people attended Eleuteri's funeral Monday at St. John's Church.

"Everyone's been great to our family. The turnout of friends at the wakes and funeral was overwhelming. The Quincy Police Department was just great they gave us escorts back and forth," Stefanelli said.

considering another run but for another office: state representative in the Third Norfolk District.

"I have some plans—I'm seriously considering running for state representative. I learned a lot during the campaign and I think if I had entered the councillor-at-large race earlier that could have made a difference," he said, adding he will decide shortly whether he will enter next year's state rep race.

Officials elected unopposed were:

•Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro elected to a sixth term with 1,757; 1,253 blanks.

•Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien, a third term with 1,800 votes; 1,099 blanks.

•Ward 4 Councillor Tom Fabrizio, a second term with 1,449 votes; 716 blanks.

•Ward 6 Councillor Charles Phelan, a third term with 1,826; 1,050 blanks.

Nutley Fifth To Lose Ward Seat

Thomas Nutley, who was defeated by newcomer Bruce Ayers in Tuesday's city election is the fifth incumbent to lose his ward council seat in 30 years.

And, he is the third Ward 6 councillor to have suffered that political fate in the last three decades.

In 1961, Richard Barry defeated Ward 6 incumbent William Ellis by a vote of 3,453 to 2,850.

Twelve years later in 1973, Dennis Harrington took the Ward 6 seat away from J. Vincent Smyth by a close vote of 2,124 to 2,053.

In that same year, another newcomer by the name of James Sheets defeated Ward 4 incumbent Albert Barilaro 2,584 to 1,627.

And, in 1977, Steve McGrath defeated incumbent Warren Powers for the Ward 5 seat by a vote of 2,824 to 2,329.

State Lottery Testing 'Pull Tab' Game Here

The Massachusetts State Lottery has begun testing a "Pull Tab" game in Quincy and hopes to expand distribution of the new tickets.

The Pull Tab tickets are similar to The Lottery's instant tickets. The Lottery is testing 11 styles of the colorful tickets which range in price from 25 cents to $1. Instead of "scratching" to reveal game and prize information players pull back a cardboard tab to reveal game symbols and prize amounts.

Prizes for the $1 tickets range from $1 to $250, said Paul Murphy, director of the Pull Tabs game.

The Quincy Licensing Board voted Tuesday to allow distribution of the game in Quincy bars, taverns and restaurants.

The game has already been available for a couple of weeks at three locations in Quincy, Cronin's Pub House in Quincy Point, Alumni Cafe in Wollaston, and Amelia's Restaurant at Marina Bay.

Murphy said the goal of the game is to increase revenues for local aid distribution for cities and towns.

Two sample tickets were sent to the License Board for review. One, called "The Champ" is designed to represent a slot machine with prizes ranging from $1 to $80 with bonuses which can double and triple the payouts. Another game, "3 of a Kind," is a poker-style game paying prizes for three-of-a-kind ranging from $1 for three "8s" to $100 for three "Aces." Both tickets cost $1.

Students In Gun Case To Go Before School Committee

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Two Quincy High School students arrested Oct. 23 on gun charges will appear before the school committee at its Nov. 20 meeting.

School Supt. Dr. Robert Ricci said he decided at a disciplinary hearing held at his office Monday night that further action was necessary in disciplining the students.

"I can't say at this point exactly what my recommendation was, but if they're going before the school committee, I'm sure you have a pretty good idea of what it was," Ricci said.

Ricci has the power to recommend to the school committee that the students be permanently expelled from the Quincy school system if he so chooses. At the very least, an appearance before the committee suggests the students face strong punishment.

The two students, a freshman and a sophomore, were arrested just after school let out Oct. 23 for the possession of two .25-caliber semiautomatic pistols.

A third student who was arrested just over an hour later for allegedly selling one of the weapons to one of the other two students will not appear before the committee, Ricci said.

"His attorneys have invoked a special education law requesting that a core evaluation of the student be done," Ricci explained. "It may be up to 30 days before that is complete, but he will not be in school in the interim."

Ricci noted that the two students waiting to appear before the school committee will continue to serve extended suspensions until Nov. 20.

A Few Words on FUNERAL SERVICE

Grief Causes Guilt

Guilt almost always is present with grief at the loss of a loved one. This is because anger is a natural part of the grief process. This anger can be directed outward as hostility to others or inward upon oneself.

One may become angry and feel guilty for what he or she mistakenly identifies as anger at the deceased. The cycle can continue with unhealthy results.

Children may feel guilt when a parent dies. They don't understand, in most cases, that they didn't cause the death. If this continues, call us or a psychologist.

PRAYER OF APPLICATION TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, who light all roads so that I can attain my goal, you who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and who in all instances of my life are with me; I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you and even in spite of all material illusion, I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine. Repeat this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days the favor will be granted even though it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after favor is granted without mentioning the favor

20-30 Jobs For Residents

BFI Plans Recycling Center In South Quincy

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Quincy could soon become the home of the state's first "recyclery."

The city's waste hauler and recycling firm, Browning-Ferris Industries, is proposing to operate a recyclery or recycling center at the vacant Antonelli property, 88 to 106 Penn St., South Quincy.

Mayor James Sheets and Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio recently mailed letters to South Quincy residents advising them of BFI's plan. The center is an attempt to boost the recycling effort in Quincy by allowing businesses and apartment dwellers to participate.

The project needs the approval of the City Council. Councillors are expected to address the plan later this month. Sheets and Fabrizio will begin holding neighborhood meetings on the subject soon.

If approved, BFI would begin operation early next year.

City officials say the project has several benefits, from expanding the recycling effort to generating jobs for Quincy residents. The center would also supply city departments with essential supplies such as paper for the school system.

City officials consider the recycling center as an extension of Quincy's curbside recycling program. The program presently collects paper, glass and plastics from Quincy households.

"It clearly is the next step in our recycling movement," Sheets said. "We want the city to be a comprehensive recycling center."

With the recycling center, businesses and landlords not part of the curbside program could pay BFI to collect recyclables at their place of business or apartment building, thereby reducing their waste stream and disposal fees, said DPW Commissioner David Colton.

With the center, Quincy's recycling participation could climb by as much as 10 percent or more, Colton said.

As proposed, BFI would first collect paper and cardboard. The company intends to seek state permits which would allow it to collect glass, plastics and cans, the latter of which are not collected in the current curbside program.

The facility would also include a drop-off center which would allow Quincy residents to "drop-off" recyclables at no-charge.

Officials say the center makes sound fiscal sense. Not only will BFI fund the entire cost of the center, the facility is expected to generate 20 to 30 full and part-time jobs, Colton said.

Furthermore, BFI would give South Quincy and other city residents priority when the workforce is hired.

The cost of the center has not yet been determined, said BFI's

Succeeds Cerasoli In 3rd Norfolk District

Mariano Wins State Rep. Seat

By ROBERT BOSWORTH and FRED HAPPEL

Quincy School Committeeman Ronald Mariano piled up a huge vote in Quincy and held his own in Weymouth to win the Third Norfolk District state representative seat in Tuesday's special election.

Mariano's blockbuster Quincy vote left Weymouth Republican William Izbicki needing a miracle in his hometown to pull out a victory.

Mariano made that impossible with a much better vote in Weymouth than Izbicki could produce in Quincy.

Quincy Independents Francis (Sandy) Eaton and Cheryl Balzano trailed far behind Mariano and Izbicki.

With his victory, Mariano succeeds former State Rep. Robert Cerasoli, his boyhood friend, who stepped down in July to become the state inspector general. Cerasoli held the seat for 18 years.

Mariano's win keeps Quincy's Democratic stronghold on the seat intact. Since 1968, the seat has been held by a Democrat living in Quincy.

Mariano rolled up a total vote of 3,230 or 57.2 percent to Izbicki's 1,983 (35.1 percent) for a 1,247 vote margin. Eaton had 352 or 6.2 percent and Balzano 78 or 1.3 percent. In Quincy, Mariano built an insurmountable lead pulling in 2,294 votes or 74.9 percent while gathering another 936 votes or 35.2 percent in Weymouth.

RONALD MARIANO

Izbicki got 1,566 votes or 59 percent in Weymouth but only 417 or 13.6 percent in Quincy.

Eaton had 215 votes (7 percent) in Quincy and 137 votes (5.1 percent) in Weymouth. Balzano drew 63 votes (2 percent) in Quincy and 15 (.7 percent) in Weymouth.

MWRA To Begin Soil Testing In Houghs Neck

The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority recently announced that beginning the week of Nov. 12, soil testing will be conducted in the Houghs Neck area of Quincy to determine soil/rock characteristics for the proposed upgrading of the Brintree-Weymouth sewer system.

The holes dug will be approximately four inches in diameter. Each hole is drilled by driving a four inch steel casing into the ground to the top of rock. Each boring will take approximately one day to complete. Once the borings are completed they will be back filled.

Veterans' Day 1991 Message:

Veterans Deserve Quality Health Care, Remembrance

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Local servicemen said their fellow veterans deserve remembrance as well as quality health care during the city's Veterans' Day ceremonies Monday.

Inclement weather cancelled the parade and forced the ceremonies inside the Quincy High School gymnasium.

Approximately 150 veterans, local officials, guests and residents attended the annual event which was sponsored by the Quincy Veterans Council.

In his keynote address, Charles Toohey of Weymouth, a Pearl Harbor survivor, said Veterans' Day has evolved from Armistice Day which recognized the end of World War I into a holiday honoring all veterans.

"As we gather here today, celebrations are going on all over the country and also in other countries as well...We have parades, speeches, ceremonies and at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington (National) Cemetery, are just a few of the ways that Americans will be taking time today to pay tribute to all our veterans who served past and present and in war or peace time to protect and preserve the great union of our Founding Fathers which began over 200 years ago today."

CHARLES TOOHEY, a Pearl Harbor, was the keynote speaker at the city's Veterans' Day ceremonies sponsored by the Quincy Veterans Council.

(Quincy Sun photos by Robert Bosworth)

Toohey, who was on duty as a member of the the 64th Field Artillery in Pearl Harbor Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941, recalled the thousands of U.S. lives lost in the surprise attack by the Japanese. "It was there aboard the U.S.S. Arizona America lost 1,100 men in a matter of minutes and they're still there today entombed in a watery grave."

"They too are veterans and should always be remembered. To those who never fought for freedom, please enjoy the freedom we earned for you."

On that infamous day nearly 50 years ago, Toohey was on duty in the communication area over the PX and gymnasium. He heard the steel rafters rattle from the exploding bombs and ran to a window just as an enemy plane firing machine gun bullets passed by.

He heard glass breaking, turned around and there on the wall, on both sides of him, was a row of bullet holes. Toohey slowly sank to the floor. Not hit, just stunned.

Toohey, who joined the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association in 1968, has served as chapter president for eight years. He and his wife Vicki along with 100 other area survivors will fly from Boston to Hawaii to attend the 50th anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor.

James Niland, commander of the DAV Post 79, said Veterans Day "is an entirely fitting day" to salute America's citizen soldiers, from the Revolutionary War to the PETER DUNN, left, 96, a veteran of World War I and past commander of World War I Barracks in Quincy, and Thomas Hurlbeaus, past commander of the Quincy Veterans Council, listen to the benediction given by Richard Henry, chaplain and past commander of the Nickerson American Legion Post, at Quincy's Veterans' Day ceremony Monday.

Persian Gulf Conflict, "who have so bravely answered our nation's call to arms."

However, Niland said many veterans need more than one day in their honor; more importantly, they need quality health care. Because of government cutbacks in VA services, he said many veterans are in jeopardy of losing quality health care.

"On this Veterans' Day we recall that serious questions have been raised concerning the quality of care available at VA hospitals and we seek answers to why this nation risks losing faith in one of its most valuable resources, the VA health care system."

While Operation Desert Storm troops were welcomed home with patriotic parades, Niland said, "The federal government was cutting off payments to thousands of mentally incompetent veterans from our previous wars, veterans least likely to fight back and most assuredly unable to do so."

Niland then quoted a recent remark made by one U.S. senator to the secretary of Veterans Administration. "Tell the president he did a heck of a job with (Operation) Desert Storm, but Mr. President, we've got to meet our commitment to veterans of other wars. Yellow ribbons and speeches are not enough."

"As a veteran, I couldn't agree more," Niland said. "Yellow ribbons and speeches are just not enough. Veterans deserve more than a patronizing pat of the back."

"Empty promises and still deeper cuts in programs and services make no mistake about it, our nation's sons and daughters who have fought so courageously from Belleau Wood to Baghdad don't want government handouts."

"All they've ever asked is that our government honor its commitment to provide quality VA health care to this nation's sickest, oldest and neediest veterans and its commitment to those whose minds and bodies have been shattered by bombs and bullets."

"As we salute our veterans on this 11th day of the 11th month," Niland said, "let's remember with pride their commitment to defend the freedom of each of us and joy on this special day but let us also remember that once the guns of battle fall silent and the sabers no longer rattle, our government has an equally abiding commitment to those same defenders of freedom, a commitment to veterans of all generations that we must not allow to be forgotten."

"America's veterans, a most effective resource, its veterans deserve this nation's continuing commitment, loyalty and support," he added.

Peter Dunn, 96, a veteran of World War I and past commander of World War I Barracks in Quincy, was given a standing ovation during the ceremony. Dunn slowly rose from his seat and then waved a small American flag vigorously as the crowd applauded.

Mother 'Relieved' Arrest Made In Son's Death

By STEVE KAVANAGH

A suspect has been arrested and charged with murder in the Nov. 1 death of 18-year old Peter Eleuteri of Liberty Street.

Meanwhile, the MBTA has issued a statement concerning their controversial handling of the case.

Vincent Haddock, 22, of Malden, was arraigned Tuesday in Boston Municipal Court and was sent to Bridgewater State Hospital for observation by Judge William Tierney. He will return to court Dec. 2 unless indicted by a grand jury. Tierney set bail at $100,000.

"I'm relieved that someone is behind bars," said the victim's mother, Lori Stefanelli. "We (the family) have felt like someone has been watching us, so this is a relief," she said. Stefanelli said Tuesday that the family has been receiving crank phone calls.

Haddock, also known as Vincent Moore, has been charged with murder, unarmed robbery, and assault and battery with a dangerous weapon (a shod foot). He pleaded not guilty in Boston Municipal Court

David Rodman, of the Suffolk County District Attorney's office, which is now handling the case, said the investigation is continuing and that possibly other suspects were involved.

Eleuteri was allegedly murdered in the early morning hours Nov. 1 at the Haymarket MBTA station near Faneuil Hall. His body was found on the electrified third rail at about 4:30 a.m. Eleuteri had been at a Faneuil Hall nightclub earlier and was last seen waiting to meet a friend for a ride home.

MBTA officials originally announced the death was "an apparent suicide" but later termed it a "possible suicide" and said there "is a continuing investigation of a suspicious death."

Family and friends of Eleuteri were upset by the MBTA's assertion that he might have killed himself.

Lori Stefanelli, Eleuteri's mother, said she was upset that MBTA officials told the media and the family that the death was being handled as a suicide despite being told by detectives that the case was being handled as a homicide.

Stefanelli said it was unfair for the family to have the stigma of suicide attached to Eleuteri's death. Lou Eleuteri, Peter's father, and other family members and friends, also contended from the start that he did not commit suicide.

Eleuteri's ring and money were missing, his jacket turned inside out and a sneaker missing. In addition, his face appeared to be badly bruised and beaten.

In a press release issued Monday, MBTA officials said the death "was made to appear an accidental death, but was, in fact, a homicide."

On Tuesday, MBTA general manager, John Haley Jr., issued a statement apologizing to the family "for any grief our statements might have caused the family."

Haley also said, "They have suffered an enormous loss by having a son die under such violent circumstances."

"The determination of apparent suicide was made by the first MBTA officers responding to the scene. These officers, who have many collective years of

Magic Johnson

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
Isn't it sad to compare the lives of two men about the same age of 33-Jesus Christ and Magic Johnson—one giving his life for mankind and the other to give his life to be a model for youth by teaching them "safe sex?"

I see through the news media that the Jesuits have contacted the Vatican to name a patron saint for AIDS victims. The Jesuits apparently are not with it since TV, radio and the news media have already given us one: Magic Johnson.

YOUR ACHING BACK

Lower back pain is one of the most common complaints doctors hear from their patients. The causes can be so numerous and the pain so severe that successful diagnosis and treatment are not always simple matters. On an initial visit, you can expect to give a medical history covering such questions as "when" and "how" the pain started. Does it stay in one place or seem to move around? What are your daily routines and habits? A physical examination will also be performed, with attention to posture, muscle tone and range of motion. Routine X-Rays will reveal bone changes, but other tests may be required as well. Electromyography (EMG) is a type of nerve and muscle study. Magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) can produce images of the body tissue without using X-rays.

P.S. The earlier you seek help for lower back pain, the better your chances of relief.

The fact that back pain is a common problem doesn't make it any less painful or debilitating. A favorite pastime for Quincy political observers is sifting through election results in search of a future mayor.

They sifted last week and found not one but three possibilities: Tim Cahill, Dan Raymondi and Mike Cheney.

Cahill and Raymondi topped the City Council at-large and School Committee fields respectively. And Cheney finished in a strong runner-up spot to Cahill.

For Cahill, it was the second straight election in which he has led the pack. Some had wondered whether he could do it this time because of his outspoken stands on a number of controversial issues.

Cahill isn't the type to wait and see which way the political winds are blowing before speaking out. He stands up, tells you what he thinks and why. No straddling the issue.

People agree with him and people don't. But those who don't agree with him usually respect him for telling it the way he sees it — and why. Apparently a lot of people like that. Cahill was the top vote-getter in the contested races with 9,053.

Raymondi, who lost his Norfolk County treasurer's post in last year's anti-incumbent tidal wave, came roaring back this year as a School Committee candidate. He was second to Cahill in the contested races vote department with 9,009.

RAYMONDI

Raymondi, many feel, had more than just the School Committee in mind as he put on one of the most effective campaigns around here in a long time.

Some see Raymondi as a future candidate for mayor or maybe district attorney. They are sure he is not going to spend the rest of his public life on the School Committee. He ran unsuccessfully for mayor against Frank McCauley in 1981 when Arthur Tobin left office. Many believe he has another shot in the future.

Cheney, in one sense, could have been the big winner last week as he took the second Council at-large seat with a vote of 8847 — 206 behind Cahill and 84 ahead of third place winner Patricia Toland.

It was a big win because Cheney was considered by many observers to be the likeliest incumbent to go if Joseph LaRaia was to come back.

There was some strategic bulleting on the part of Cheney supporters — including union members — to help keep LaRaia at bay. A bit ironic considering that LaRaia has been the recipient of many bullets through his political career.

Bulleting, in case you aren't familiar with that fine form of political art is to vote for just one candidate when you could vote for three. So a bullet is like giving the one candidate three votes.

TOLAND

The bulleting for Cheney apparently hurt Toland, who many thought was going to top the at-large field with four women on the School Committee ballot bringing out the female vote. Toland finished third, 290 votes behind Cahill.

Cahill and Cheney, many observers agree, are on a mayoral collision course that could come to a banging heads showdown as early as 1993 if incumbent James Sheets decides not to seek a third term.

But the impressive return of Raymondi might alter that course if he decides to make another run for mayor. You could see a three-way run or one of the three stepping aside.

Stay tuned in. This could get interesting.

A Future Mayor?

AT APPEARS THAT Joe LaRaia after a political career spanning three decades punctuated with big wins and big defeats has finally run out of gas.

Last week, most observers believe, was his last hurrah. Of course, they've said that before and he has come back several times to prove them wrong. But this seems to be "The End." The real finale. LaRaia finished fourth and out of the money in the City Council at-large race. His vote was 6,850 — 1,913 behind third place winner Toland.

LaRaia

MILLER

There's no doubt that newcomer George Miller hurt LaRaia's comeback bid and William Ryan didn't help him either.

Miller racked up 5,422 votes — 1,428 behind LaRaia.

"They cut each other up," said one City Hall observer.

The feeling is that if LaRaia was the lone challenger he might have put it together to unseat one of the incumbents.

His vote, Miller's and Ryan's 3,395 added up to 15,667 indicating there were a lot of people out there wanting a change.

The problem for LaRaia was that he had to share those votes with two other candidates.

Whether or not he could have done it as the only challenger no one will ever know. But there is one thing for sure: He made the three incumbents get out and work.

MAYOR JAMES SHEETS came through the election pretty much without a scar.

SHEETS

He was the top vote getter on the ballot with 12,195. This represents 69.3 percent of the vote with only 5,409 or 30.7 blanks. He got the fewest blanks of anyone.

Unless the roof at City Hall falls in on him, it would seem he is in a good position to win a third term in 1993. But he probably won't get another free ride.

There's usually 10,000 negative votes out there waiting for an incumbent mayor seeking re-election. So, those 5,409 blanks Sheets got indicates he is still up there in the popularity department. That most people are quite satisfied with his performance to date.

AND, SPEAKING OF blanks, all the unopposed City Council Ward candidates — and, no doubt, potential challengers — were checking them out last week.

Ward 2's Ted DeCristofaro, a long-time popular political figure, found himself with more blanks than his colleagues. DeCristofaro got 58.4 percent of the vote but 41.6 percent blanks.

Following him in order: Ward 3's Larry Chretien, 62.1 percent of the vote and 37.9 percent blanks. Ward 5's Charles Phelan 63.5 percent of the vote and 36.5 blanks. Ward 4's Tom Fabrizio, 66.9 percent of the vote and 33.1 percent blanks.

Incidentally, in the contested City Council at-large race there were 10,478 blanks and 10,263 blanks in the School Committee field.

WARD 1's Peter Kolson running against challenger Gail Glover got the biggest vote among the Ward Council candidates. He polled 2,319 or 69.1 percent to Glover's 700 and 20.8 percent. There were 335 blanks. In the percentage department, Kolson's vote was second to Sheets.

Turkey Stuffing

With Thanksgiving day around the corner, I thought I would repeat my stuffing recipe for turkey early this year. Today's recipe is for a basic stuffing mix, but you can add other ingredients such as mushrooms, chestnuts, raisins, etc. The following recipe will stuff between a 10 and 12 pound turkey.

TURKEY STUFFING

6 oz of either ground beef, turkey, pork, etc.
1 stalk celery (chopped)
1 small onion (chopped)
livers from turkey (optional) chopped
1 egg
1 medium bag of stuffing mix
2 Tbsps Bells Seasoning
2 Tbsps oil
1 cup seasoned break crumbs
1/2 cup grated cheese
1/3 cup white or sherry cooking wine
In hot oil, saute the celery and onion. Add the meat, livers and wine. Cover and cook until blended. Add the stuffing mix (that you have soaked in water), and cook covered for a few minutes. You may need to add a little water at this point. Add the bread crumbs, the egg and cheese and continue cooking for about 5 minutes longer. If the mixture looks watery, add some seasoned bread crumbs. Refrigerate the stuffing until cooled. Stuff the turkey cavity with some aluminum foil, sealing the cavity (better than trying to sew it).

Bake in a 350 degree oven uncovered for 20 minutes to the pound. If you plan to add any other ingredients to the mixture, do so after you have sauted the meats.

"While both organizations share an interest in the sport of basketball, we also have the common goal of developing healthy lifestyles among people living and working in the South Shore community," said Ralph Yohe, general executive director of the South Shore YMCA.

The following 12 Quincy residents are members of Boston University's Class of 1995. They are:

Hughes, Andrew McPhee and Tracey Nickerson; Fontbonne Academy, Milton Graduate Eileen Cahalane; Boston Latin School graduate Hui-Wen Cheng; Weymouth High School graduate Stephan Marinelli; and Notre Dame Academy graduate Antoinetta Ruscio.

Broad Meadows Middle School and Continental Cablevision in Quincy have won first place honors in the Arts & Entertainment network's national CityVideos-Young Producers competition for a mini-documentary chronicling the local students' "Winnie the Welder" video history project. The documentary, which aired on Continental's Quincy Channel 3, shows how the students of Broad Meadows teacher Ron Adams researched the story of the nation's first women shipbuilders in Quincy and Hingham during World War II, located and taped interviews with some of them and wrote essays based on their oral history.

The cable program concludes with footage of the students, women shipbuilders, and city and state officials at a "Winnie the Welder Day" reunion celebration at Quincy City Hall last March.

The students created story boards for the documentary, wrote the script and, with Continental's assistance, helped shoot the video footage and edit the TV program.

"This cable documentary is the culmination of a four-year, collaborative video history project involving Broad Meadows and Continental Cablevision in Quincy," said Ed Fiddler, Continental's local program director.

"We're very proud of the students' achievement, not only in creating an award-winning TV program, but also in recapturing an important chapter in Quincy's history and gaining recognition for the more than 2,000 women who did their part for the war effort at the shipyards here," Fiddler said.

"Through the 'Winnie the Welder' project, the Broad Meadows kids learned some almost-forgotten history first hand, and were actually able to teach the community," Adams said. "In the process, they located and came to adopt these pioneering patriots, discovering through their stories the struggles and sacrifices they made during the war as the first women to work at the shipyards."

"Through this project, and the whole process of bringing history alive in a video documentary, many of the kids were bitten by the history bug and continue to do research on their own," Adams said. "Our relationship with Continental has been great and, because the kids love working with video and learn so much, I expect it to continue growing."

In this, its first year, the A&E CityVideos-Young Producers competition was open to all Continental Cablevision systems across the country. Continental serves some 600 communities nationwide. Next year, it will be expanded to include many other cable operators. The award goes to both the cable system and community for the best cooperative video project involving young people.

The Continental-Broad Meadows partnership began in 1986, when Adams, then a history teacher, attended a course on how to record oral history offered by the Quincy cable system.

Since then, Adams' students have learned all about video production at Continental' studio; in 1988 produced a half-hour documentary, "Quincy Pride: Quincy Shipbuilding;" and this year turned their "Winnie the Welder" research/essay project into the award-winning mini-documentary.

When Adams notified the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor about his students' research on the first women shipbuilders, the bureau agreed to sponsor the essay contest, city officials got involved, and the "Winnie the Welder Day" celebration and reunion March 12 was organized. More than two dozen "Winnies" came to the event.

Mother 'Relieved' Arrest Made In Son's Death

experience in investigations, made that initial call based on the condition of the body and the evidence on scene at the time.

"Every time a statement was made on the case--and we have checked both print and broadcast media accounts--we have clearly said that our 'initial' reaction was an apparent suicide, but that the investigation was continuing. In fact, a very intensive murder investigation was ongoing and the results were evident with Sunday's arrest."

Haley said the T waited until after Eleuteri's funeral, Nov. 4, to inform family members that the case was being treated as a homicide. The family was kept informed about the progress of the investigation, he said.

"We could not relay that information to the public without jeopardizing the investigation," Haley said. Police feared Haddock would flee, he said.

Stefanelli said the family may file a lawsuit against the MBTA if they do not apologize for labeling the death an apparent suicide.

After being informed of Haley's statement Tuesday, Stefanelli said she would not be satisfied if an apology were made which absolved the MBTA of wrongdoing for terming the death a suicide.

"They didn't have to call it a suicide," she said. "They could have said it was an accident if they didn't want to jeopardize the investigation."

Featuring Popular Music From Big Band Era To Today

The Alumni Band In 10th Year With Plans To Expand

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Those who attended the recent Quincy Center Harvest Festival Day were probably fortunate enough to hear The Alumni Band, an amateur—but professional sounding—outfit that recently celebrated its tenth year in existence.

Formed as The Quincy High Alumni Band in September 1982, the group later became the Quincy Alumni Band before recently dropping the "Quincy" from its moniker. And although personnel changes have been made from time to time, the group's core has pretty much remained the same for the last decade.

But although most bands would consider themselves lucky to survive that long, the group's leader says that he still has one small problem.

"I'm kind of on a recruitment drive," says George Vallatini, who directs, arranges, and plays bass and electric violin for the band. "I want to build the size of the group up."

Currently, the group has what Vallatini calls a "solid core" of 13 members: Joseph P. Pearson, Jr., Laurie F. Aronoff, Nicholas D. Anastas, and Rick Pearson, saxophones; Matt Warner and Rick Aramian, trumpets; Lisa Merenda, mellophone; Ed McGowan and Pat Sullivan, trombones; John Warner, piano; Paul Francis, drums, and Vallatini.

Vallatini says that he wants to up the number of the group to 21.

"It's like playing in a softball game," he says. "You can play without a right fielder and a catcher, but it's a much more complete experience if you have all of the positions filled."

Although all of the band's current members are from Quincy, Vallatini notes that people from all around the South Shore are invited to come and audition.

"That's why we dropped 'Quincy' from the name," he explains. "This isn't going to be closed to people outside of Quincy."

Vallatini also stresses that as an amateur, nonprofit outfit, The Alumni Band is not necessarily making musical ability a first priority when choosing a new member.

"Our group is more social than professional in nature," he says.

"Of course, there are minimum standards; you have to be able to play."

"But really, what I'm looking for in a new member is someone who can get along with people and enjoys working with people, and who is able to make a weekly rehearsal commitment."

Currently, the band generally rehearses on Wednesdays at the home of one its members. Its style of music mainly consists of big band and jazz tunes, such as the music of Glenn Miller, Duke Ellington, Cole Porter and other legends of the big band era.

Vallatini says that he wants to add trumpets, trombones, saxophones, a bass player ("I'd rather play my electric fiddle," he smiles) and a guitar player to the group, although he quickly adds that "anyone is welcome to come by and try out."

THE QUINCY ALUMNI band was one of the big hits of the Harvest Festival Day sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association on Hancock St. in downtown Quincy. The band's musical library spans the big band era to today.

He also wants area vocalists to feel free to audition. The band in recent years has worked with singers such as The Feeley Sisters of Auburn, Maine, and Vallatini says that he wants to begin working with vocalists on a more regular basis.

In the past, the band has made itself something of a local favorite by playing such events as the Quincy Sidewalk Bazaars, Quincy Sun Muscular Dystrophy Association Telethons and the Quincy Summerfest Concert Series, as well as places such as the Long Island Hospital and senior citizens centers in Quincy and Weymouth.

Vallatini says he would like to continue to play more charitable events in the future.

"It's like a bonus, like an extra award to be able to take the group out and play for the benefit of others," he says. "I want us to be able to continue to play for the community."

The band's next performance will be a Christmas concert on or around Dec. 14, and Vallatini says he wants to have the new 21-member lineup ready by then.

Those who wish to audition may call him at 770-2113.

Free Depression Screening Program At Quincy Hospital

More than 10 million Americans suffer with depression each year, and only 30 percent are diagnosed and treated.

With the holiday season approaching, Quincy

Hospital's psychiatric service, Quincy Heights Center for Emotional Health, will provide a free depression screening program Thursday, Nov. 14.

The program will include three free lectures and an opportunity to complete a self-evaluation questionnaire and discuss the results individually with a mental health professional.

The half-hour lectures will focus on recognizing the signs and symptoms of depression. Dr. Halbert Miller, M.D., Quincy Heights medical director and director of Quincy Psychiatric Associates, will be the speaker.

The program is not designed to diagnose depression, rather to help people identify the signs and symptoms. Depression affects people of all ages and is a treatable disease.

For more information on the free depression screening at Quincy Hospital, call the hospital's public relations department at 773-6100 ext. 4016.

Chretien Encourages Residents To Participate In Leaf Collection

Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien, chairman of the Recycling Committee, is encouraging residents to participate in the city's second annual leaf composting program.

The city's leaf recycling collection program, which began Oct. 28, will continue through Friday, Nov. 29.

Chretien said the program involves three simple steps.

First, residents should rake the leaves. Second, the leaves should be bagged. The city encourages and recommends using paper leaf composting bags which are sold at most stores.

The paper bags are bigger than plastic bags, are easy to fill and biodegradable. Although the city strongly prefers paper bags, plastic bags are acceptable.

People should bag only leaves, twigs and grass clipping. Trash and large branches are not acceptable.

Finally, bags should be placed on the curb on the regular day for trash collection and recycling. Separate bags of leaves from trash and recyclables so that the collection trucks will know which are which.

Chretien said a separate truck will come around on collection day to pick up the leaves and transport them to the city's compost site by the Department of Public Works on Sea St.

Atlantic Children's Craft Class

"This leaf composting is great for several reasons," Chretien said. "It is very simple and the benefits are outstanding, both environmentally and financially."

"Next year, the state will be banning the disposal of leaves from landfills and incinerators, so it is important that we begin composting now. Fortunately, it makes a great amount of fiscal sense."

"Quincy pays $81 per ton to dispose of trash, so if every resident participates in this leaf collection, we can save almost $300,000. Last year, which was our first year, we collected 2,500 tons. This year we should do even better."

Chretien credited many residents for volunteering to help promote recycling and leaf composting. He said 15,000 flyers are being distributed throughout the city by dozens of volunteers.

Anyone who wants to help can call the Recycling Hotline at PRO-BINS (770-2467).

"I know that a lot of people are upset with government these days," Chretien said. "There's a frustration that the economy is weak, taxes are high and government isn't responding in the way that it should."

"Well, as citizens we should all take more responsibility for what is happening. Rather than simply complaining, we can improve the quality of our own lives and save money by participating in the recycling and leaf composting programs."

Cable In Classroom Preview On Ch. 3

A special "Parent's Week" preview of Cable in the Classroom programs will be shown this week on Cable Channel 3 so parents can view examples of the educational programs Continental Cablevision provides local schools.

"Because Cable in the Classroom programs are usually shown during school hours when parents are at work, Continental has arranged to show samples of the programs during prime time," said Ed Fiddler, director of community television for Continental Cablevision of Quincy. "We want parents to see what their children are watching at school, because we believe it is important for parents to be involved."

The programs will be shown each evening at 6 p.m. on Ch. 3. In addition to showing examples of cable's educational programming, the "Parent's Week" preview will suggest ways that parents can use TV more productively in the home.

"Our hope is to create greater awareness of Cable in the Classroom among parents," said Fiddler. "Parents will also find that there are many wonderful educational programs on cable that they can use at home to enrich their children's learning experience."

Cable in the Classroom programs are provided by Continental Cablevision to local junior and senior high schools at no charge and are presented without commercials. The programs are produced by leading cable networks and include CNN's "Newsroom," Discovery's "Inventions," A&E's "Dinosaurs" and C-Span's "Short Subject."

Continental Cablevision started Cable in the Classroom in 1989 to provide high quality, commercial free educational programs to schools--free of charge. Today the service is available in more than 1,000 schools across the nation. In addition to the educational programs, curriculum-based support materials are available to assist teachers in using Cable in the Classroom.

WOODWARD'S A WINNER

Young Women Graduates Set College Records

Woodward School's record of placing nine out of ten graduates into four-year colleges surpasses most preparatory schools for girls in the nation.

"It's a winner," says Headmaster Marshall B. Litchfield, "and we're proud of our young women graduates who have distinguished themselves academically and in most competitive professions."

A private non-sectarian educational institution, Woodward will celebrate its 100th birthday in 1994.

MARSHALL LITCHFIELD

Woodward's alumnae numbers about a thousand whose early years were spent in classrooms where character development went hand-in-hand with intellectual challenge. Classes of limited size allow for individual attention and special tutoring if required.

Woodward's sixth, seventh and eighth grade students are given special emphasis on the development of basics and study skills as they adjust to early adolescence. There is a present ratio of one teacher to every eight students and the faculty is available throughout the class day or after school when help is needed. Even members of the National Honor Society tutor students during study periods.

Diversified Learning A Woodward Specialty

Woodward School offers a seven year program with courses for developing an integrated personality and an inquisitive mind. Courses are not designed to be terminal but to serve as openings to all avenues of advanced study.

The arts play a major role in a student's development, with field trips, workshops and in-house productions involving both middle and upper schools.

Students are made aware of their social obligations through Student Government and community service programs. Woodward recently expanded its athletic programs to include basketball, softball, tennis as well as ski trips. Woodward students in the Independent Schools Athletic League.

Honor Society Is A School Highlight

Maureen Silverman

The Woodward School's National Honor Society began in 1944. Ever since its beginning the National Honor Society has been a very important part of the school. Members tutor fellow students during studies or in an after school clinic. They also volunteer to help at school activities like the Witches Mansion and at Open Houses. They are responsible for holding a tea each fall for prospective nominees. Usually an original skit or play is written and performed by current members to inform nominees of the NHS qualifications.

To be eligible for NHS

membership a girl must demonstrate the characteristics of scholarship (an 86 average or better is required), service to school and community, leadership and character. They present their qualifications for faculty approval. The current members are responsible for the induction ceremony of new members held each spring, an important part of Woodward's annual Founder's Night celebration. The NHS members this year are Seniors Kerri Gillen, Quincy, Lindsey Main, Weymouth and Maureen Silverman, Quincy and Juniors Erin Pelletier, Quincy and Kara Teahan, Weymouth.

Minority Recruiting Actively Underway

It's a first in Woodward history--a minority recruitment program to increase the school's ethnic diversity.

During the next few years, according to Headmaster Marshall Litchfield, an emphasis on minority enrollment will be pursued. "It's healthy for the school and its student body to have more minority students and be more representative of the community," he said. The influx of Asian-Americans into the South Shore has convinced the school's trustees to offer full tuition scholarships to two minority students entering grades 6 and 7 this year.

Quality Education: A Quincy Doctor's Legacy

Dr. Ebenezer Woodward, a prominent Quincy physician and landowner practiced medicine on the South Shore for a half-century. Among his patients were two former Presidents - John Adams and John Quincy Adams. Upon his death in 1869, his will established a trust to erect and support "a female institute as perfect and as well conducted as any other in the state."

Originally the school was limited to Quincy-born girls when it opened for enrollment in grades 9 through 12 in April of 1894. In 1969 the Massachusetts Supreme Court ruled that young women from outside Quincy were eligible to attend.

The school presently enrolls students from several communities in Greater Boston and the South Shore.

Woodward is primarily concerned with providing an academically challenging student-oriented environment. Its main thrust is a comprehensive program for the college-bound student and small classes makes learning highly individualistic. The average student-teacher ratio is 10 to 1.

NEW MEMBERS of the National Honor Society inducted recently are; Kara Teahan, Weymouth; Pamela Schneider, Weymouth; Erin Pelletier, Quincy and Lindsey Main, Weymouth.

PLANNING THE AGENDA for the 1991-92 school year are the officers of Student Government: Secretary-Treasurer Erin Pelletier, Quincy President Lindsey Main, Weymouth, and Vice President Maureen Silverman, Quincy.

Woodward Graduates Excel In All Walks Of Life

by Therese A. Maloney

Class of 1947

Woodward School graduates began contributing to society long before this "age of feminism." Our alumnae are doctors, lawyers, engineers, nurses, school principals, military officers, college faculty, homemakers, etc. A recent alumnae survey showed 4% artists, 21% graduates in educational fields, 14% in various segments of the medical profession, 10% in private business, and 2% in foreign service.

Marilyn Johnson, Class of 1940 is with the U.S. Foreign Service and held Ambassadorships to several African nations, most recently Togoland. A classmate, Mary Elizabeth Flaherty, is principal of Lakeside Elementary School in Braintree.

Marie O'Brien Gunderson, Class of 1939, spent her career as a Licensed Certified Social Worker with the American Red Cross. A Simmons College graduate, her work took her to Japan and Korea and into such military hospitals as Bethesda Naval Medical Center and Valley Forge General Hospital before her retirement eight years ago. She remains active with the Red Cross, the YWCA and, of course, Woodward.

In today's world it is more important than ever that young women are provided with an excellent education, and are trained to think as well as perform a function. Woodward has been giving its students these tools for almost a century. With today's concern about the quality of education such schools as Woodward must continue to survive and grow.

Bridgewater-Raynham 33, North Quincy 12

Raiders Look To Rebound Against Taunton

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy football team found Bridgewater-Raynham's wishbone offense difficult to stop and the Raiders lost to the unbeaten Trojans, 33-12, last Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The win, coach Frank Almeida's 200th, improved B-R's record to 7-0-2 (5-0-1 in the Old Colony League), virtually clinching the league title for the Trojans. North dropped to 6-2 overall (4-2 in the league).

North will try to rebound Saturday when it hosts Taunton in a 1:30 p.m. game at Veterans Memorial Stadium. The Tigers are 3-5 with wins over Plymouth, Silver Lake and Coyle-Cassidy and losses to Case, Quincy, Weymouth, Falmouth and Barnstable.

North put itself in a big hole early with two fumbles setting up B-R touchdowns and the Raiders trailed, 18-0, after a quarter.

They came back with one of their best quarters of the year in the second and cut the Trojans lead to 18-12 at halftime, but B-R dominated the second half to win going away.

While North had 131 yards on the ground, only 10 in the second half, B-R had 310 yards rushing with Chris Paolini carrying 19 times for 230 yards.

The B-R line was brilliant both ways. In the third quarter North had the ball for just four plays.

"We made a lot of mistakes, but they are awesome," said North coach Ken McPhee. "They run the wishbone perfectly and are awfully hard to stop. But our kids played hard throughout and they are still having an excellent season."

North Scoring

|           | TD | PAT | FG | Pts |
|-----------|----|-----|----|-----|
| Murray    | 5  | 6   | 0  | 36  |
| Sinclair  | 4  | 0   | 0  | 24  |
| Higgins   | 1  | 6   | 4  | 24  |
| Bellot    | 3  | 4   | 0  | 22  |
| O'Donnell | 1  | 0   | 0  | 6   |
| Wahh      | 0  | 2   | 0  | 2   |

"Desmond Bellot had another outstanding two-way game. He made most of our tackles in the first half and just played excellent ball both ways."

Mark Kelleher was also outstanding and McPhee had good words for Dave Raftery, Mark Zych, Dave Reinhart and Scott Kohler.

B-R stuck mainly to its devastating ground game and completed only two of nine passes for 28 yards. North had 61 yards passing on six-for-18. B-R had 10 first downs and North eight.

Mark Cocuzzo and Chris Murray did some fine running, but the Raider attack was pretty well bottled up by the strong B-R defense.

North started off well after receiving the opening kickoff and picked up two first downs to reach B-R's 49 but a fumble was recovered by B-R's Todd Feeney and it took just two plays for the Trojans to score. Pat Pauline raced 40 yards to the nine from where Dave Zukowski scored.

North fumbled again on its next possession and

RED RAIDER RUNNING BACKS Mark Cocuzzo, Mark Sinclair and Serge Belcastro have helped North Quincy to its best record (6-2) in recent years. Sinclair has also Danny Cox recovered on North's 40. Six plays later Pauline scored from the one.

North was forced to punt and B-R drove 64 yards in five plays to make it 18-0. Paolini raced 42 yards to the three and Pauline scored his second touchdown.

North came back in the second quarter and scored twice. Reinhart fell on a B-R fumble, one of three North recoveries, on the Trojans' 18 and three plays later Bellot scored on an 11-yard run.

After B-R punted, North drove 54 yards for its second score with Murray scoring from the five.

After that, it was all Bridgewater-Raynham. In the third quarter Paolini scored on a 15-yard run.

In the final quarter

Mike Donovan's punt rolled dead on the North Quincy four-yard line. Mark Taylor was tackled in the end zone for a safety.

B-R completed the scoring when, following the North kick, Paolini raced 55 yards for the score and Donovan kicked the final point of the game.

North Jayvees Roll Over Silver Lake, 30-0

by PETE ZOIA

The North Quincy junior varsity shut out Silver Lake, 30-0, as four different players scored touchdowns.

Jamie O'Connell scampered 13 yards for the first Red Raider score on a beautifully executed counter play. Josh Gott added two points on the conversion try.

The Raider defense stymied the Lakers throughout the first half enabling NQ to get the ball in good field position.

Gott chalked up an second North score on an 18-yard run.

Sean Skahan capped a 51-yard drive with a three-yard touchdown run. O'Connell added two more points.

Eric Delorey joined the scoring parade when he intercepted a Laker pass and returned it 32 yards for the fourth and final touchdown. Dan Duncan passed to George Wirtz for the two point conversion.

All of North's scoring came in the first half.

Duncan was four-of-six for 110 yards. Gott had a banner day registering 138 yards on 14 carries, Skahan ran for 102 yards on 12 carries and Jim Sapienza rushed for 84 yards on nine carries.

Coaches Tom Carter and Pete Chrisom used all the players and lauded the team on their all around effort. They named Mike Linnane, Dave Pacino, Nick Mastrogiacomo, Pete Licciardi, Ken Duddy, Justin Dilkes and Brian Raftery for their blocking.

Delorey, Pacino, Skahan, Keith Lentini, Raftery, and Bill Skutul were singled out for outstanding defensive play.

The Red Raider junior varsity remains unbeaten and untied.

NQ Girls Second In OCL, Third In EMass Meet

While most eyes have been on the fine seasons being had by the volleyball and football teams at North Quincy, the girls' cross country team has done its share of winning.

North wrapped up the dual meet season with a 21-40 romp over Barnstable. Seven North girls placed in the top ten including, Sonia Olmedo, Erin Duggan, Laurie Connolly, Christine Herman, Kristy Kabilian, Jenny Marks and Melanie Gaziano. North finished with a 6-2 Old Colony League record tied for second with Silver Lake.

In the OCL Meet, North placed second, 10 points behind Falmouth. Suzanne Lewis took second place behind Livvy Williams of Plymouth, and Olmedo was 12th, Duggan 14th, Gaziano 15th and Tricia Hughes 22nd. North avenged dual meet losses to Silver Lake and Weymouth.

The Red Raiders dominated the jayvee race by 25 points over second place Falmouth. Connolly placed first with Marks third, Erin O'Brien fifth, Karen Leary eighth, Herman ninth and Elizabeth O'Donnell 10th.

North Quincy was also presented the OCL Sportsmanship Award.

"We didn't come in first, but we beat every single team in this league at least once—that's how competitive this OCL is. You can't win it all the time, you just do the best you can," said coach Jeff Hennessy. "Our girls have a reputation of running well in the big, late season meets, we'll stick with that system. Winning the Sportsmanship Award was nice, it lets you know how the rest of the league thinks about your program, and we do stress cooperation and fair play."

Lewis placed fifth in the Div. 1 junior-senior race at the Mass. State Coaches Meet at Franklin Park. Gaziano placed 30th in the freshmen-sophomore race.

North got its finest performance of the season at the Eastern Mass. Sectional Meet at Franklin Park (3.1 mile course).

Lewis took third to lead NQ to third in the team standings and help the Raiders qualify for the Allstate Championship.

Gaziano placed 31st, Connolly 32nd, Duggan 44th, and Olmedo 50th to close out the scoring at 160 points. Hughes placed 79th and Kabilian 80th as North Quincy was the first team in Class B to have all seven runners finish.

"We know Suzanne's going to do well, and Kabilian is usually our seventh runner, but in between they really mix it up, we never know what order they'll come in, if someone has a bad day, someone else has a great day to offset it. Both Gaziano and Connolly were due for a good race, they picked the right day to do it," Hennessy said.

The boys' squad finished 3-5, their best season in years, despite a disappointing loss to Barnstable, 21-34.

Eric Torvi, Greg Buck, Dave Chan and Hugh Meighan each placed in the top ten.

Buck placed 19th and Torvi 20th in the OCL Meet and were selected as OCL Honorable Mention All Stars. The team placed sixth, avenging an earlier loss to Silver Lake.

Chris Sullivan finished 18th in the jayvee race as the Raiders placed seventh.

Torvi finished 21st in the State Coaches Meet in the sophomore boys' race.

Paul Fitzpatrick Named Asst. Hoop Coach At Bridgewater State

Quincy native Paul Fitzpatrick was recently named assistant men's basketball coach at Bridgewater State College.

BSC athletic director John Harper announces that Fitzpatrick will join head coach Mark Champagne and assistant coach Joe Farroba.

Fitzpatrick is the former head coach of Boston State College where he had a 61-29 record in three years including two MASCAC championships. He was also coach and athletic director at Mass. College of Pharmacy for six seasons.

He has also been co-director of various area basketball camps including the MVP School of Basketball Camp and the Right Stuff Basketball Camp.

Fitzpatrick is a member of the Quincy High School Basketball Hall of Fame and is a graduate of Boston State College.

Volleyball

North Girls Win Division Title

The North Quincy girls' volleyball team took its first big step toward what it hopes will be its second state championship by winning the Division 1 East Central title last Saturday night.

North joins New Bedford, which ended Case's 105-game win streak; Dracut and Milford in the state semifinals. New Bedford won the South title, Dracut the West and Milford the West Central.

North Quincy, the Old Colony League champion, improved to 17-2 by defeating Brookline's Bay State League champs, 3-1 (10-15, 15-6, 15-8, 15-7) in the division championship game.

North trailed, 6-3, in the second game before Heather Rendle and Cheryl Kelly each served six straight points to even the match and send North on its way.

In the semifinals North Quincy defeated top-seeded Cambridge Rindge & Latin, 3-1 (15-6, 15-11, 13-15, 15-13).

The North offense dominated throughout with senior setter Brenda Hayduk pacing the attack. Rendle had 17 kills, Regina Murphy 11 and Maureen McCarthy 10.

"Brenda did an excellent job and our offense was well-balanced but we slacked a bit on defense as we focused on the offense," said North coach Jim Rendle.

North had opened division play with a 3-0 (15-9, 15-10, 15-4) win over Newton North.

Junior Rendle had another outstanding match with 17 kills. Hayduk, Murphy and McCarthy had fine matches as Hayduk took over the serving duties.

"When Brenda is serving, that's the best lineup we could have on the court," said Rendle. "She is a great defensive player and with Heather, Regina and Maureen up front, it's tough to beat us."

Rendle didn't disappoint her father or her teammates as she had nine of her 17 kills in the middle game. Her presence at the net seemed to intimidate the Tigers, who began to make unforced errors.

5 From North, 1 From Quincy OCL Volleyball All Stars

North Quincy players dominate the Old Colony League Volleyball All Star Team with five of the 13 spots.

Quincy High's Liz

Noble, a junior, was also selected to the team.

Red Raider All Stars include senior Brenda Hayduk, juniors Regina Murphy, Heather Rendle and Joanne Current and sophomore Maureen McCarthy.

The All Star team was chosen by the coaches of the OCL.

Julie Detwiler Stars For ENC Volleyball

Julie Detwiler of Eastern Nazarene College Quincy, a member of the volleyball team, was elected to the All Tournament Team at the MIT Invitational Volleyball Tournament, Oct. 4 and 5.

ENC finished the season with a 25-5 record.

Detwiler was also chosen to the 1991 All District NAIA team and has played in two NAIA championships. This season she had an 80% serving record and averaged 24% in kills, blocks and digs.

She is the daughter of Dr. Nancy and David Detwiler of Quincy.

Quincy 34, Silver Lake 8

Presidents Eye 7th In Row At Barnstable

The Quincy football team, rolling merrily along after losing its first two games, had its most explosive half of the season last Saturday, rolling to a 34-0 lead and handed Silver Lake a 34-8 setback for its sixth win in a row.

Quincy is 5-1 in the Old Colony League (6-2 overall).

The Presidents will travel to Barnstable Saturday for a 1:30 p.m. game against the Red Raiders who are 4-5 overall and 2-3 in the league.

Barnstable has defeated Dennis-Yarmouth, Plymouth, Silver Lake and Taunton while losing to Bp. Stang, Weymouth, North Quincy, Bridgewater-Raynham and Duxbury.

"This was the best half we have played in a long time and we dominated," said Quincy coach Jack Raymer. "We just played perfectly both ways. In the second half we used most of our reserves and didn't score again, but the defense continued to be strong and handled them until late in the game."

"Chris Walker had another outstanding game, scoring on a 55-yard pass, intercepting three passes and again making numerous tackles. The offensive line played its finest game of the year with Gary Collins, Dave Cedrone, Steve Fernald, Duane Holmes, Keith Norris, Mike Kavanaugh and Mike Malvesti outstanding."

The defense was again excellent, holding SL to 16 yards rushing and 30 yards passing in the first half. Collins had two sacks and two fumble recoveries and Scott MacPherson had an interception.

Raymer had good words for Jason Anderson, Collins, Dan Morrell, Chris McLaughlin, Rich Howard, Rich Buckley, Claircent Demesier, Robbie Kane, Ally Sleiman, Walker and Mark Zaborowski for their defensive play.

Noel DiBona carried 12 times for 104 yards, scored a touchdown and kicked four extra points. Anderson carried six times for 56

The Lakers fumbled in their own territory on their next two possessions. After the second Anderson scored his first of two touchdowns from the 15

In the second quarter Anderson added his second TD from the six and DiBona converted.

Bogan scored from the five and DiBona missed his only extra point try.

Apaches Topple Elks, 22-12

The North Quincy Apaches ended the season on a winning note with a 22-12 victory over the West Quincy Elks last Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Sunday's championship game between the Houghs Neck Manets and Quincy Point Panthers was postponed because of poor weather.

The Apaches scored first as Jason Healy scored on an option play. Brian Walsh rushed for the two-point conversion.

The second quarter was highlighted by great defense by both teams. West Quincy cut into the Apache lead when quarterback Mike Sheffer ran 55 yards for a touchdown on the last play of the half. The conversion attempt failed and NQ led 8-6 at halftime.

The Elks threatened again in the third quarter driving to the Apache 12. North Quincy's defense forced a fumble however and recovered at the 15. Healy tossed to Walsh for a 50-yard scoring play early in the fourth quarter. The conversion attempt failed.

The Apaches defense continued to play well and forced the Elks to punt from deep in their own end. NQ took over at the Elk 25, and three plays later, Shaun Johnson scored on a two-yard plunge. Walsh rushed for the conversion making it 22-6.

On the ensuing kickoff Sheffer made an outstanding return, bringing the ball all the way to the Apache 20-yard line. With some key blocks from his offensive line, Sheffer then scored on a 20-yard run. The conversion attempt failed.

The Apaches were then able to run out the clock.

The Elks got strong play from Brian Morrissey, Dan DiPalo, Eric Hanlon, Tim Shubert, Mike Balducci and Steve Maze.

The Apaches got solid performances from Cedric Douglas, Muhammad Drakeford, Steve Stentiford, Chris Halpin, Ken Lippens and Tim Bouzun on the line and receivers Paul Greely and Sean O'Toole.

The Elks dedicated the game to former player Peter Eleuteri who died Nov. 1.

The Apaches dedicated the game to junior varsity teammate Tommy Gilmartin.

52 Rows Purchased To Date Stadium Seating Drive Reaches $15,000 Mark

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The fundraising effort to help defray the cost of the city's new aluminum bleachers at Veterans Memorial Stadium continues at a successful rate with $15,000 raised to date.

Since the end of September, 26 rows and 52 individual seats have been purchased from private donations, bringing the total to 52 rows. Of that amount, 45 rows have been purchased as full rows and another seven rows were purchased seat-by-seat.

The stadium seating drive is led by the Veterans Memorial Stadium Committee which is made up of a group of local officials, community leaders and active citizens.

Earlier this year, the city appropriated $88,500 to pay for installing the new aluminum bleachers. The seating committee was formed to raise money to help defray the cost of the seats.

Anyone who would like to purchase a single seat for $25 or a row of 18 seats for $300 can contact School Committeeman Frank Santoro, 80 Haviland St., Quincy, MA 02170, or Recreation Directory Barry Welch at the Quincy Recreation Department, 100 Southern Artery, Quincy, MA 02169.

The Quincy Schools Athletic Contribution Committee, a non-profit organization, is the vehicle being used to raise the funds. Contributions, which are tax-deductible, should be made out to this committee or QSACC.

Nameplates will be affixed to the ends of the rows designating the donors. The first phase of plaques will be installed in time for the traditional Thanksgiving Game between North Quincy and Quincy High Schools Thursday, Nov. 28.

Deware Funeral Home Absorbs Matthew A. Hannel Funeral Home

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Scott Deware recently received a flattering request from Matthew A. Hannel, founder of the Matthew A. Hannel Funeral Home on Copeland St.

After nearly 50 years in the business, Hannel had decided to step down and take a lesser role in his company's services. He then proceeded to ask Deware, president of the Deware Funeral Home at 576 Hancock St., to absorb the Hannel organization and make it part of his own.

Deware was more than happy to comply.

"We're very pleased that Matt had the trust in us to select the Deware Funeral Home to provide service to the families that he's been serving for nearly 50 years," Deware said.

The 76-year-old Hannel, who received his Certificate in Embalming and Applied Arts and Science from the Boston School of Anatomy, started in funeral service as an assistant at the former John Hall Funeral Home in Quincy before he established his own business in 1942.

Although he eventually became famous for serving the Finnish and Swedish populations of West Quincy, Hannel's funeral home was always open to all peoples of all faiths.

The Deware Funeral Home is also a very well established, multicultural organization. It was founded in 1939 by Donald Deware and his brother, Robert, who ran the family business together until Robert died in 1979. Donald Deware continued to serve as president until 1984, when the torch was passed to his son, Scott.

Deware, who said the use of the Hannel's Copeland St. facility will be phased out over a period of time, said he thinks Hannel made a wise decision when he chose the Deware home to assume the responsibilities of his business.

"We feel we have the facilities and people to insure those families that Matt served that they will continue to receive the type of personal care they've been used to receiving with Matt," he said.

Deware added that there are several other features at the Deware Funeral Home that should help make those accustomed to dealing with Hannel feel more comfortable with the change.

These include a resource library "open to anyone wishing to come on in" equipped with books and videotapes that help people cope with death, dying and grief; a children's area that has coloring books, crayons and other items to keep little ones occupied; and several speakers who are always available to talk to church, school or seniors' groups on the subjects of estate planning, dealing with death, drinking and driving, teen suicide, and other topics.

The Deware Funeral Home is also famous for traveling outside of the Quincy area, he said, and has served people in seven states and the Canadian provinces in the past year alone.

"That's my philosophy," Deware explained. "If someone would like us to provide services for them, sometimes we have to go to those people in order to help them."

Peter Watson. He said engineers and architects are still surveying the property.

With department budgets down to bare bones, officials hope the center can supply the city with some essential materials. Sheets noted the school department will be able to use paper that the center collects from businesses.

"It's a major step forward. I'm particularly pleased with the fact that we would make recyclable materials, such as paper, available to teachers," the mayor said.

"There may be opportunities for other exchanges," Colton added.

The site of the proposed center is zoned industrial. BFI intends to take steps to minimize the center's impact on the surrounding area.

First, the 28,000-square foot building would be raised 12 feet from 24 to 36 feet. The structural change would allow all the center's operations to take place indoors.

"(The center) will receive, sort and bail recyclables. All activity would take place inside the building, including the loading and unloading of trucks," Colton said.

BFI also plans to paint the exterior of the building and landscape the property. Truck travel will be restricted; vehicles will be allowed to enter and exit the facility from Burgin Parkway only. No trucks will be allowed to travel north on Penn St.

The center will also have an educational function. A conference room will be set up in the facility, enabling school children to view the recycling process firsthand.

Sheets emphasized the facility would not be used to house any other BFI operation. "I want to make it clear that this is recycling and there will be no transfer of BFI operations from Nightingale Avenue."

Washington St., and Granite City Electric, 19 Quincy Ave., will take part in the promotion.

The offer, which is available through Dec. 31, is designed to encourage residential customers to try energy-efficient lights, which last longer, use less energy, and are available with large rebates through Edison's Efficient Lighting Program.

Over 4,000 customers have already taken advantage of the offer by mail or phone order through the Energy Federation, Inc.

Two local retailers will participate in Boston Edison's Fall Lighting Promotion, which offers customers a free energy-efficient light with purchase through November and December.

FINANCING DECISION

QUESTION: I plan to buy a home in the near future. When should I decide on whether to select a fixed or variable mortgage.

ANSWER: Actually, this should be a last-minute decision. The financing market changes often enough so that the best financing mode one month may not be the best the next month.

If you expect to live in the house for a long time and you feel that interest rates will increase, you may lean toward a fixed rate. An equally sound case can be made for the lower initial interest offered on variable rate mortgages. If you don't expect to live in the home for a very long time, the variable rate mortgage would be the answer.

DECIDING BETWEEN a fixed or variable mortgage should be a last-minute decision depending on the marketplace

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Every wall, every barrier, every bridge has at least two purposes. A wall may be to you a thing of confinement, of limitation, of handicap; and yet to someone else it may be a means of protection, of privacy, or of seclusion.

A barrier may be to you an assurance of shelter or possession and to another a frustration or even a challenge. To one a bridge is a blessing; to another a curse.

The wall can either keep some out of keep some in. It is just there; it does nothing but one's approach, one's outlook, one's desire determines the usefulness or the futility to be endured. Couldn't it be said that most things in life can be broken down in such a way? ... An hour in waiting can be a stressful or grueling experience to the impatient and the nervous, but that same hour can be a pleasant hour of repose, learning or meditation. To one an endurance; to another a delight ...

If things that beset you seem to be insurmountable obstacles, take another look, realize that which is good and go on. Remember an obstacle is often an unrecognized opportunity.

For those times when the darkness lingers

With the loss of a loved one through death, it is helpful to be able to share the feelings and emotions which we all experience.

For most of us, there are family members, clergy, and friends who are ready to listen in a caring way.

Yet, there are those who find it helpful to share their grief with someone outside their immediate circle of support.

Because of our continuing commitment to the families we serve, Keohane Funeral Service is pleased to announce that Dr.

Sherry Johnson has joined our staff as a Grief

Counselor. Her educational background, professional experience and understanding manner can be particularly helpful.

We are the first funeral home in New England to offer the service of a Grief Counselor.
